FINE OLD POSTAGE STAMPS At Right Prices

It will pay you to look over the following list of old collections I am breaking up and let me know which of these you care to see on approval.

The stamps are all mounted in small approval books of about 40 pages each and are all priced net. I do not sell by any catalogue, but go by what my experience of a world's trade in stamps for 35 years has taught me of the real values. Many of my stamps are 25% under catalogue, some are 30% to 40% less than catalogue, others are full catalogue and over. I will pay over catalogue prices for hundreds of stamps if I can get them.

Belgium 1849-1867

A magnificent lot of the early issues pricing to over four thousand dollars. In the 1849 issue there are several hundred perfect copies, with many pairs and strips of 4 and 30 to 40 re-entries. The 1851 to 1863 issues are magnificent with numerous pairs, strips and large blocks, many stamps on letters and lots of rare cancellations.

Hongkong

I have bought the famous G. H. Worthington collection and added many fine unused early issues and rarities from a well known English collection. There are many grand unused blocks of four that can't be matched elsewhere, e.g. 96c bistre, with full gum, 2c perf. 12 (Both these are unique). In used there are the great rarities 5c on 8c inverted (I will pay four times catalogue price for a perfect used copy), 10c on 16c inverted. Two grand books, most of the stamps unused.

Chili

I have now priced up this fine collection, the best ever got together in the United States. The value is over twelve thousand dollars. All perfect copies, of the first type stamps only, Nos. 1 to 14. Including over 60 lithographed, many superb pairs, strips, blocks and lots of stamps on cover, rare cancellations.

Ceylon

Three books of the "pence" issue, including the following imperf. 4d, three used, 8d unused and three used, 9d unused and five used, 1sh 9d about a dozen unused and used. Later issues in all shades unused and used.

Spain

A grand lot of 1850 to 1889 only. Mostly unused and with practically all the rarities in perfect state. The middle and later issues in a grand range of shades, often 5 to 10 copies of each value.

Nevis

Two books of the old type stamps, here I have a grand show of perfect used copies as well as lots of unused and many uncut sheets. Very few of the fine old stamps were printed and they must soon advance materially in price.

Bahamas

Fine books of the No wmk. unused and used and all the later issues to 1885.

St. Christopher

Rare surcharges and errors, all early issues unused and many blocks of 4 and a fine lot of used.

Obock

The early French Colonies to about 1885 are real good stock and I am breaking up a grand collection mostly bought in Paris over 20 years ago from the late Jules Bernichon.

Obock are a fine lot including the very rare Unpaid first 5c.

Reunion

There are three great rarities. The first issue two 15c and one 30c, all unused. Many fine things in later issues and lots of rare errors with a number of uncut panes and sheets.

St. Pierre & Miquelon

Three books of the early issues, one of the finest lots of these stamps ever offered in the United States. Grand lot of panes and sheets of the early provisionals showing the different settings, position of the errors, etc., etc.

Senegal

Includes fine used copies of the rare red surcharge, Nos. 33 and 34.

Tahiti

Fine lot of 1882, 1884 and 1893 provisionals.

Guadeloupe

A superb collection including many uncut panes and sheets with errors. Large number of errors unused and used. In the Postage Dues I have two of the great rarities of French Colonials 40c blue, No. 202, superb used, and an uncut sheet of 20 of the scarce 40c black, No. 203. Only the good old issues up to 1891 inclusive.

I am making up new books every day, let me know what countries you are interested in and I am sure I can find many fine things you want at prices to suit both of us.

Try me once, and I am sure you will come again.

THE SALE OF PRECANCELS.

We have just received the following communication from V. W. Rotnem, editor of the Precancel Gazette:—

"All serious collectors of precancel stamps bemoan the occasional occurrence of the unused 'precancel.' The postal department frowns upon their sale.

The enclosed 'Code of Ethics' and the editorial which will appear in our April issue are being sent to you in hopes that you will see fit to reproduce them, either in whole or in part. There is no argument against the 'Code of Ethics.' All that it requires is publicity.

The precancel hobby requires this code of ethics for its future development. Will you assist me in informing your readers accurately as to its contents?"

A CODE OF ETHICS.

Whereas, a precancelled stamp (one cancelled prior to use to save time in later cancellation) is of philatelic value only, if it has been used in the course of post-office business,

Whereas, it is definitely established, by Post-office rulings that no postmaster, postal clerk or permit holder, is to sell, trade or give away, any unused precancel to any person, collector, dealer or exchanger,

Whereas, this Post-office ruling is to safeguard the proper and intended usage of precancels,

Be it therefore established, as an ethical principle in the precancel hobby, that no collector, dealer, exchanger, or other person, buy, or attempt to buy, any precancel in unused condition, that is, with original gum, from any postal clerk, postmaster or permit holder. And that, from this time hence, collectors consider as collectible precancels which are, from this time hence, used in the ordinary course of post-office business.

Suggested by V. W. ROTNEM, Editor The Precancel Gazette.

Specifically approved by W. Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Post Office Department, by written confirmation of March 4, 1924.

An editorial will appear in the April Gazette which we publish in its entirety, and in connection with the discussion of the matter of the purchase and sale of precancelled stamps in mint condition we shall co-operate to the fullest extent with the code presented:—

"For the past six months our most important pursuit has been to formulate from our own opinions and the opinions of others a 'code of ethics' which would be usable as a guide of conduct for precancel collectors. The problem which the 'code of ethics' attempts to clarify is a peculiar one, due in great measure to the newness of the precancel hobby.

There is considerable Trading, Dealing and Exchanging of unused Precancels. This Practice Must Stop.

An analysis of the problem naturally falls under two heads:—

(I) A precancel stamp has been defined as 'a postage stamp which has been cancelled prior to its use.' This very definition requires that a 'precancel' be used before it shall merit the category of a precancel from the collector's viewpoint. Precancel usage is an important time-saving device. A collector should be able to say of every stamp in his collection, 'This is a precancel because it was cancelled before it was used.' For a collector to have to say 'This is not quite a precancel because, although it was cancelled, yet it was never used,' is lamentable. The stamp is not, as the collector must say, quite a 'precancel.'

Of course it is quite natural that a collector should consider an unused 'precancel' as desirable as an unused postage stamp. But this is not true.

Unused 'precancels' are a deterrent to the establishing of a price standard. They are obtained in a fashion which is not normal. True precancels have value because they have been used. Their use requires that they have been used to prepay postage on some piece of mail. When collectors realize this truth, the hobby of precancels will come into its own.

(II) The post-office department has definite rulings which state that no postmaster, postal clerk or permit holder is to sell unused 'precancels' to any person. The reason for this ruling is to safeguard the proper and intended usage of precancels. It follows, therefore, that any person who buys an unused precancelled stamp may be charged with violating existing postal laws.

This principle should, by itself, be sufficient to cause any collector to refrain from the pernicious habit of requesting favors from postal employees or permit holders. Postal employees are liable to be severely reprimanded for any indiscretions on their part. Permit holders are very apt to lose their permit. Should we, as collectors, be so ambitious in our activities as to place our post-office friends and permit holder acquaintances under penalties?"

COLLECTORS CLUB ACTIVITIES.

(Clipping from A. S. Davenport.)

A steadily increasing interest in postage stamp collecting has been indicated this season at the Collectors Club at 120 West Forty-ninth Street. At practically every meeting one or more well-known out-of-town philatelists have been present and they have usually shown a portion of their specialized collections. The guest of the club last week was L. Gerald Firth of McKeesport, Pa., who for many years has made an intensive study of the Canadian postal issues and he displayed an exceptionally fine number of varieties of the 1868 Canadian issue.

Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, Secretary of the Club, announced that the membership is rapidly approaching 500. More than a score of new members have been elected this year. Alfred F. Lichtenstein, one of New York's leading philatelists and who won several medals at the London International Exhibition last year, has been named as a judge for the Belgian International Postage Stamp Exhibition to be held in Brussels next May. He will take over some of his best stamps. As he is on the bureau of award they will not be entered in the medal competitions. Dr. Chittenden was appointed the American representative. The Collectors Club has offered a gold medal for one of the classes in the Belgian exhibition.

Dudley L. Pickman, one of the prominent Boston philatelists, will be the guest of the club on March 19 and will show some of his rare stamps.—N. Y. Times.

THE FIRM NAME NOW IS "SLOANE."

George B. Sloane has now acquired the entire business interests of the firm of Kelton & Sloane, as will be seen elsewhere in this issue. We congratulate Mr. Sloane upon the business change. He is well equipped to handle auction sales both from a good reputation, long standing and experience. He is a member of the Collectors Club, American Stamp Dealers Association and the American Philatelic Society. Mr. Sloane is well known in the trade and our relations with him in the past have been eminently satisfactory.

CANADA 1868 ISSUE.

"PITTSBURG" NIGHT AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK CITY.

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

Mr. Gerald Firth of Pittsburgh honored the Club by making a special journey to New York to show his highly specialized collection of Canada, issues of 1868-1869.

In the course of his long and interesting address Mr. Firth stated that he had only brought with him specimens selected from his collection to show the different classes and printings. He considered it very difficult to deal with this issue as some of the values were in use for such a long period. If you study the paper, shade, impression, watermark and gum, you can always, by one or more of these, decide to which issue a stamp belongs; you cannot decide this by paper alone or by shade alone, as the thin paper and some early colors were used at late periods. When gum is present it forms a landmark that is mighty useful. The chief periods to which he allotted changes in the gumming are:—

1873-80. Dull streaky gum.

1882. Bright yellow gum.

In the course of his remarks the following are a few of the points that Mr. Firth made:—

1 cent—The impression is more a guide in dividing the printings than the thickness of the paper. The stamps on the watermarked paper are on medium thickness of paper. The 1c laid comes on two different papers, one thick and the other medium, this latter being different to that of the laid paper 3 cents.

2 cents—In addition to the thin paper and texture of the paper of the first printing it should be noted that they have the lines of the background blurred, which is a pretty sure test of the first printing. The stamps on watermarked paper appeared about the middle of 1868 and are always blue-green. A thin soft white paper came in 1872.

3 cents—Mr. Firth showed a copy dated 2 April, 1868, this being the second day of issue. The color of the first printing is red, never any rose shade in it. In showing the laid paper stamps he drew attention to a forgery of the laid lines, which were too close together and made on the wrong shade. The watermarked stamps came in July and August, 1868.

6 cents—The first printing on thin crisp paper with rough blurred impression in a true sepia shade of brown. The watermarked stamps which came about Jan., 1869, are in the same shade. In May, 1869, we find a smooth thicker paper with a more reddish tone of colour in the brown. In 1871 the colour was changed to yellowish-brown. In later printings some of the paper is very similar to that used in the first printing.

12 1/2 cents—The first printing on the thin crisp paper is in deep clear blue, the second printing, including the watermarked stamps, are also in a rather deep blue but on the thicker paper. In 1870 we have the change to dull blue which was in use for many years.

15 cents—Mr. Firth considers this one of the most difficult stamps of Canada to classify, and one in which much more study is necessary before the correct dates and colours of all the issues can be fixed. The first printing is on thin crisp paper, blurred impressions, and was in a purple shade. He has this dated

 3767 Illinois Ave., Fresno, Calif.

May, 1868. The red-lilac stamps which dealers often confuse with this rare first issue are more clearly printed and are on thicker paper. They probably appeared about 1870.

The watermarked 15 cents, he considers a difficult stamp to deal with as it is the only one found in two colors. The dull gray-purple are about 1874 and the gray-violet about 1877. These are all perforated 11 1/2 x 12, a gauge that was only used from June 1873 to 1878.

In June, 1880, the 15c comes in deep clear violet, one of the rare printings of this stamp.

From May, 1881 to 1888, there was a wide range of shades, from pale slate-gray, deep slate to slaty blue. These were printed at Montreal. The Ottawa printings of the 15c were in 1888 in slate purple and in 1890 in slate violet.

Mr. Firth drew special attention to the 15c imperf. These are in a different color to any of the issued perforated stamps and he is of opinion that they were printed to order in a shade that was never issued for postal use.

In 1891-92 remainders of old colors of the 15c were put into use in many shades of blues and violets.

Mr. Firth's article with valuable reference tables of this issue will be printed in the next number of the Collectors Club Philatelist and all Canadian specialists should make a point of getting this number.

Mr. John N. Luff proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Firth for his fine display and talk, this was ably seconded by Dr. J. Brace Chittenden and carried by acclamation.

PERSONAL INTEREST LETTERS.

Whenever we write a letter we always enclose a stamped envelope, if a reply be desired promoting our personal interest. We have no right to ask any person to answer a letter and consume valuable time unless this courtesy be observed. If you are writing any one a letter that calls for a reply, it certainly must be worth a 2c stamp.

If you fail to hear from a person from whom you have asked information just conclude that he is unable to aid you as desired. On the other hand a 2c stamped envelope gives your query a wonderful halo. It is more than a business courtesy—it is a business right.

EDITORIAL.

The concern shown by readers about the proposed Philadelphia stamp for philately does not abate and it is seen that there is a "bloc" of objectors whose opinion should and does carry weight.
Every philatelist has a right to his own views on the desirability of such an issue, be they favorable or otherwise; and the following letter sums up the situation. The writer dispassionately discusses the question: "I am surprised to speak frankly at the opposition to your suggestion and I think that you should rest on your oars and let the current of philatelic opinion carry the boat where it will. The discussion shows that collectors are alert and are not agreed, to phrase it mildly, as to the advantages of a stamp, though I think that the issue would be the best thing for philately ever done." We do not wish to attempt any "forcing" of opinion or institute propaganda in behalf of the stamp. The idea has been presented and philatelic opinion will do the rest. If the verdict is not for the stamp, it would be folly to press the matter at the expense of the good feeling of a large division of collectors. At best, it would not be an easy task to obtain the stamp with the unified support of practically all collectors.
Roughly speaking, there are about as many who oppose an issue of the kind as those who are in accord with it. As has been said before, sentiment in philately plays an important part and if a collector will say that notwithstanding admitted material advantages that would result from the issue, the stamp would have a disturbing influence on his feeling for philately, we should appreciate his view.

It is known that boys as young as seven collect stamps and a parent of a boy of these tender years asks if there is not a stamp primer that would be helpful to the very young collector. The fact that no work of this nature is available is admitted but the omission is one that scarcely is to be supplied. After the boy becomes a bit older, one of the "guides" would fill the bill but about the only way in which a boy of seven could progress is with the help of parents to smooth out the wrinkles. Failing this, instruction is to be gained from the older boy companions who collect. The number of stamps that now requires identification for the very young mind would require a long list for their proper presentation. Let the older collectors look after the little boys who with due encouragement will soon be able to paddle their own canoes, after a fashion.

Mr. Jerome Williams of Kingston,
New York, writes: "The following extract from the Memphis, Tenn., Appeal of January 20, 1862, may be of a little interest to stamp collectors, especially of the Confederate States, as showing the cost of printing the southern stamps." The clipping follows: "The postal system of the Confederate States enjoy this advantage over that of the late United States, that we have gotten rid of the frightful abuse known as the franking privilege. With regard to the stamps, it is indeed a serious reflection upon the industrial energy of our public that while they are furnished gummed and perforated to the Lincoln government at the rate of eighteen cents a thousand, or about fifty-five stamps for one cent, the lowest bid that has been made to the Confederate authorities is one dollar a thousand gummed but not perforated or ten stamps for one cent."
The figures quoted for stamp production that prevailed over sixty years ago are significant and while on a comparative basis, the Confederacy paid a stiff price for its stamps, yet in the light of present-day prices, the cost in both cases was high. According to a recent Associated Press dispatch telling that approximately eighteen billion postage stamps will be prepared for the use of the public during the year the cost of manufacturing a thousand ordinary postage stamps is eight cents a thousand while special deliveries cost double this price.

Sometimes a reader expresses surprise that the circulation of the WEEKLY is not larger than it is. When he is told, in a burst of pride, that we are printing nearly nine thousand copies each week, he lowers our sails by saying that he sees no reason why twice that number of papers should not be distributed. While from his viewpoint, he is justified in his opinion, we know that expectations of reaching this lofty eminence must be deferred for some years to come. However, now that we have almost reached the goal of nine thousand readers, the ambition follows to round out an even ten thousand. The ten thousand mark is one that might be achieved with the co-operation of readers and we ask our friends to help us gain the object of our desires. The success of our five-year club has heartened us to try to strengthen our subscription list, first because it is to our advantage to grow in this wise and secondly because we feel that an impression is made on outsiders by the statement that ten thousand stamp collectors actually pay for their trade paper. There are several ways in which readers can send us on our way rejoicing. The one of least resistance is by handing a copy of the WEEKLY to some one who may evince an interest in stamps and another is by inducing an outside collector to subscribe through the salesmanship of a reader. We estimate that there are about one hundred thousand persons in this country who have an interest in stamps, ranging from barely perceptible to pronounced; and it is within the bounds of reason to say that one out of every ten of them should read the WEEKLY. The stamp year has not yet lost its seasonal aspect and it is found that during summer there is a decline in the volume of subscriptions received, although each year there is an improvement in this regard. During the next four months we must make hay as when the sun shines too warmly, out-of-door diversions are in the ascendant. We confidently say that our readers will aid us in fortifying our lists by inducing others to subscribe and if one out of every five readers will do his bit, we shall have something to boast about when all the returns are in.

the first page of which, Mr. E. Alexander Powell, under the head, "Your May Carpet Waits," pays a most remarkable and graceful tribute to stamp collecting. He begins his article by saying that is often asked what book or book turned his thoughts and his footstep "toward the far places" and that he answers unqualifiedly, "The stamp book." Mr. Powell, author of "By Camel and Car to the Peacock Throne," etc., says in all sincerity that it was the welcomed stamp album with its pages overflowing "with row on row of fascinating pictures" of natural wonders, strange scenes and alluring natures that made them tingle with a desire to travel and adventure in far-away places.
The stamps awakened his curiosity to distant countries and he turned to books to augment the suggestions of the stamps and the result is that he is "a wanderer and a professional looker-on,"—and, to add, a charming one. We admire the candor of Mr. Powell in crediting the stamp album with the moving quality that he describes so well and collectors will receive the tribute that he gives with a lively sense of satisfaction. The stamp book exercises the imagination and by proxy it becomes one of the best books of travels that may be recommended. Mr. Powell adds a fine tribute to the philatelic quiver and we are gratified to him for so loyally citing philately for recognition.

NORTH POLE AIRPLANE FLIGHT.
By ARTHUR O. LITT.

(Elsewhere in this issue will be found an advertisement by Mr. Litt in which the offer is made to send a post card from New York to your address via Spitzbergen, Norway and the North Pole. The price for this service is given at $2, but there are three important words that should be noted in connection with this proposed endeavor to navigate this northern country, "if flight successful." Our subscribers should realize that they are taking a chance in a matter of this kind. Ordinarily we should not consider it wise to allow our columns to be used in this manner and upon the success of this flight will depend our future action. V. O. W.)

In my article in MEKEEL'S of January 4th information was given as to the proposed airplane flight of Capt. Roald Amundsen from Spitzbergen, Norway, over the North Pole to Alaskan United States, and carrying Postcards as a memento.

Since then preparations for the flight have continued actively by Capt. Amundsen and through the efforts of Mr. Hammer, Norwegian Consul at Seattle, Lieutenant Ralph Davison of the United States Air Service, one of our most expert fliers, has been loaned the Polar expedition for the purpose of commanding one of the three airplanes.

Several months ago it appeared as if three-cornered race for polar territory could be on between the United States, England and Norway. Our entrant was to be that queen of the air the "Shenandoah." England intended to use one of her "N" dirigibles, and Norway three airplanes, commanded by Capt. Amundsen. At the present writing the United States is definitely out of the race by reason of the veto of the plan by President Coolidge. The English are still debating whether they shall engage in the st.

CAPES!CAPES!!*TRIANGULAR CAPES!!!

Below we offer an important group of these popular stamps. Our descriptions will be found to underestimate the items rather than to overestimate them. The following terms are agreed between us: SUPERB—Margins must be large on ALL sides, the cancellation must be light, and the color clear and true. VERY FINE—This means just short of superb. The margin may come close on one side (but not touch), the other margins being wide and the cancellation light, or the cancellation may be a bit heavy and the margins wide. If both of these conditions occur on the same stamp, we call it FINE. We call one FINE if the cancellation is light and the margins are average width, but the design of the stamp must not be cut into. A few NICE items are listed. These are lacking as to margins on two sides or may be slightly cut into on one. The colors are exceptionally bright and they are lightly cancelled to be in this class. NO TEARS or THIN SPOTS except as noted.

We expect cash with the order or, in special cases, on receipt of goods. Your money will be promptly returned if we are sold out, or if when the stamps are received, you do not agree with our description and return them within THREE days of receipt. A prompt order is advised, but the offerings remaining unsold will be withdrawn MAY 1st.

A COMPARATIVE EXPLORATION OF THE THREE CENT GREEN

By M. H. HOOVER, Lockport, N. Y.

Blessed is the individual who has a hobby, even if a vocation supplants vocation betimes. What about the man who has two? Is he courting the sad fate of the fellow who essays to ride two horses simultaneously?

The hobby of stamp collecting lured me to mounting (in truth I pasted most of them in then), in the early Seventies, soon after the birth of the noble Three Cent Green. Yet other hobbies also claimed me—fishing, collecting wild flowers. This latter passion developed in later years into a serious effort to further the interests of conservation and led me into the New York State Conservation Department for four years and then into the presidency of the New York Conservation Association.

Should any of my friends feel concern lest I am due for a fall between two hobbies, let me say that I regard conservation activities as a serious yet pleasurable duty, hence work and not a hobby. So as a hobby, stamp collecting reigns supreme. It not only reigns, but it pours, despite the fact that twice I attempted to "break off" by disposing of everything, except the usual "saving nucleus."

For the reassurance of brother collectors who have been "warned" that the close indoor application required by philatelic pursuits "is a dangerous thing for professional men," I want to state that for thirty years I edited a daily newspaper and found the absolute change obtainable in the communion with stamps as refreshing as recreation of the trout stream or bird cover.

My friend Warner Bates has invited me to write something about my most recent "Exploration of the Three Cent Green," after having inspected some of my older assemblies of that notable stamp. I approach the task with fear and trembling. Despite my long acquaintance with the Three Cent Green, I can write only as a layman, not as one of the learned fraternity of expert specialists.

The minnow caught in boyhood days ever weighs more than the prize trout captured by maturer skill. So the one-cent War Department "Weather Report" envelope that Postmaster Kerr used to slip daily into the letter box for me in the Seventies, or the little bunch of Three Cent Greens rescued from his waste-paper basket Saturday afternoons bring more of a real thrill in memory than my find of the Lockport Local in 1898 (certainly not appreciated by the finder, and apparently not greatly appreciated by the buyer then), of a Boston Local on cover, or the two Blocks of Six Three Cent Green mentioned later on.

These lines are prefatory to a story of the 8,000 Selected Copies of the Three Cent Green, picked from two lots aggregating 32,000 especially rich in the senior issues of the Bank Note Companies. It is as given in the memoranda pasted on the fly-leaves of the two volumes containing the assemblies. Fortunately nothing written about the Three Cent Green is "dry reading," no matter how arid the style.

In credit given for educational assistance in the subjoined I mention MEKEEL'S with which I have been favored from its beginning; American Philatelic Monthly; Scott's periodicals, and countless publications from the days of Trifet and E. B. Sterling.

UNITED STATES—WANT LISTS

If you are a Collector, a Specialist or an Investor in the postage stamps of the United States and have been looking for certain items without success—let me have your want list. If your requirements are large or small you will receive the same courteous treatment. Have an unusually nice lot of early items—blocks, covers and singles, used and unused—and from 1890 on practically everything except some of the rarer blocks. No general approvals, but selections made up to your special order.

Recently purchased the finest and largest lot of the 10c 1847 that ever changed hands at one time, bought an important collection containing everything up to $500 in value, two fine 20th century collections strong in blocks, shades and types with all of the line varieties of the imperf. issues. Surely there is something in the lot to interest you.

UNITED STATES WANTED

I am in the market to buy anything fine in United States—early issues, late issues, current part perforates and errors, covers, blocks, singles. My only requirement—it must be fine. I count among my clients many of the foremost collectors of the country, those who are constantly looking for the unusual. Consequently am always ready to buy either single items, collections, duplicates, old correspondence and the like. Substantial prices for substantial things in the way of United States postal or departmental issues.

UNITED STATES.—1923, 5c Blue, Side-wise Rotary Coil.—The new design, portrait of Roosevelt, 5c blue, sidewise coil, perforated 10 vertically, unwatermarked was placed on sale at the Philatelic Agency in Washington, on March 5th. Plates from which this variety was printed were listed in the last lot of plate numbers. Messrs. C. J. West, Benjamin Cadbury and C. E. Nickles kindly send us early information regarding the variety.

1923, Sidewise Coil, Unwatermarked.
 5c blue, Portrait of Roosevelt.

1923, 1c Rotary, Perforated 10, Double Paper.—Another interesting variety has been located, in Philadelphia, namely, the 1c green, new design of 1923, rotary print, perforated 10, printed on double paper. The variety is due to the paper manufacturer who joined his paper on the roll in such a manner that the joint covers the two upper horizontal rows of the sheet in addition to a portion of the third row. But one pane of 100 stamps from sheet 14371 was found containing the twenty copies with the double paper. The stamps were precancelled "Philadelphia, Pa.," the precancelling being done at Washington on the rotary press at the time the stamps were printed.

Stamp Proposed to Honor Nathan Hale Memory.—Mr. R. H. Alcorn kindly submits a clipping from the Yale Daily News, of March 4, 1923, wherein mention is made of the fact that Yale graduates in New England have opened a campaign to honor the memory of Nathan Hale, Yale's first great patriot. An appeal has been made to the President of the United States and to the Postmaster-General to perpetuate the fame of this national hero by placing his likeness on one of the forthcoming issues of postage stamps in recognition of the approaching 150th Anniversary of his death.

The portrait for this purpose would probably be that made by Bela Lyon Pratt, of Connecticut, for Yale University. It is the only authentic picture initial letters stand for "Union of So that exists.

The New York Times also carried a similar article but as yet no definitely announced decision has been made by the Post Office Department. Should they issue such a stamp it would necessitate a special variety, for the new series has been completed.

1890, 1c Blue With Newspaper Stamp Printed On Back.—The Nassau Stamp Company has shown me a pane of the 1c Blue, issue of 1890, wherein we find on the back of about twenty-four stamps a very faint impression of the 3c Newspaper stamp as issued by the American Bank Note Company of 1879, the stamp still being current at the time the 1890 regular issue was printed. The impression on the back is certainly not one that has been made by the sheet going through the press a second time for it is entirely too light to be the case. The sheet may have been laid upon a wet plate or it looks more to me as an offset from an offset.

False Rumor regarding theft of Shanghai Stamps.—An article appearing in one of our contemporaries under the name of "Americus" states that it is rumored 600 sheets of the Shanghai overprinted stamps were stolen from the Philatelic Agency on or about December 1st and that this is the reason it was necessary for them to close a month or two and delay distributing the stamps. The rumor, if there was one, was manufactured out of someone's imagination, and it is surprising that anyone writing for a philatelic publication would give circulation to such a rumor without having taken the trouble to investigate. The Philatelic Agency and its superior officers in the Post Office Department have been of greater service to philately than ever before, and it is certainly a shame that anyone would attempt to besmudge their activities.

I quote in full from a letter received under date of March 6, 1924, from the Third Assistant Postmaster-General:—"My dear Mr. Ward:

The Superintendent, Division of Stamps, has handed me your letter of March 5th, with which you enclose a clipping from the March 1st issue of the Weekly Philatelic Gossip published at Holton, Kansas, which states that the Philatelic Agency was closed for a month or two, thus delaying filling orders from patrons of the Agency, by reason of the fact that 600 sets of United States stamps overprinted "Shanghai, China" were stolen from the Government at that time.

The publication of rumors of this character are manifestly unfair to the honest and loyal employees of the Philatelic Agency, and I will thank you if you will publish through your 'Chronicle' in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS a denial of this unjust false rumor. The Shanghai stamps withdrawn from sale on December 1, 1923, were counted and destroyed by fire in the presence of a special committee of three.

Thanking you for bringing this clipping to my attention, and for such publicity as you may give to the Department's denial of this unfounded rumor, I am,

Sincerely yours,
 (Signed) W. IRVING GLOVER,
 Third Assistant Postmaster-General."

CHAMBA STATE.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent us the 1½a chocolate and 3a blue of India with the surcharge "Chamba State" in two lines in black.

DANZIG.—A fourth value is to hand from Ipswich in the new currency series chronicled a fortnight ago, viz.:—2 (pf) carmine and red.—Stamp Collecting.

FRANCE.—Further details are available as to the forthcoming Olympic Game commemoratives, one of which—the 50c blue, depicting the Arena at Nimes and the inevitably ugly aeroplane flying over it—is reproduced in the January number of the Madrid Filatélico. The 30c will have an emblematic figure of Victorious Athlete, the 25c a composite picture of Paris and the again inevitable "Victory," and the 10c a representation of the capital's welcome, with views of the Arc de Triomphe and the Stadium. A separate series of stamps, ostensibly to commemorate the forthcoming Exhibition of Decorative Art, is now threatened.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the following Air Post stamps of the new Renten Mark currency: 20pf ultramarine, 50pf orange, 100pf purple, 200pf blue green and 300pf grey. There is also a 10pf value in the set but it has not been received up to the present. All chicken wire watermark.

GREECE.—Our Special Correspondent at the Piræus, Dr. St. J. Macrymichalos informs us that the Greek Government intends issuing shortly a commemorative stamp in honor of the centenary of the death of Lord Byron. This stamp will have a face value of 1 drachma and according to our correspondent, will be executed very artistically. We mention that Byron celebrations are held in the Castle of Chillon, near Montreux, Switzerland, at about the same time. Lord Byron's fame as a philhellene is not less than his renown as the author of "The Prisoner of Chillon." It was, of course, his attempt to aid the Greeks in their struggle for independence that brought about his death, and he will ever be held in grateful memory by them.—Stamp Collecting.

MOZAMBIQUE.—A new denomination is being issued by the Mozambique company, viz., 3 centavos orange-brown. It is in the Maize type of the 1c of the current series. Our Umtali friend, Mr. H. Rivers, favours us with our first postally used copy.—Stamp Collecting.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimley writes as follows with regard to our previous reference to this country:—"Mr. Cranwell's remark re the Dutch rarity stamps—not labels (they have been used on both inland and foreign correspondence)—is to a certain extent correct. The stamps were on sale from 8 a.m., on December 14th till 8 p.m. on January 14th. They were not withdrawn suddenly, as notices were posted at every post-office and in all the daily papers that they would be definitely withdrawn on January 14th. They are to be reissued next December, but neither the same designs and colours will be used or not is not yet known. They will be issued every year in the same way as the Swiss 'Pro Juventute.' You may be interested to know that the provisionals there is a 10 on 17½ and 10 on 22½ with rough perforation. But few sheets of them were on sale; the same applies to the 1 gulden on 1½, the latter were only sold five at a time, even to dealers.

The 2c orange, which was to have been withdrawn, is still being sold, and we have now five 2c on sale, namely, the old brown, the orange, the Jubilee, 2 on 1c, and 2 on 1½c, whilst the Charity was withdrawn on January 14th.—Stamp Collecting.

POLAND.—Mr. Edward B. Chamberlain informs us that in addition to the stamps noted in our issue of March 10th he has also received a 300,000m value of the same design in a reddish violet color. Mr. Chamberlain also adds that on the parcel he received, which was dated at Warsaw, Feb. 20th last, there were five 20,000m, five 30,000m, two 50,000m, two 100,000m, two 200,000m and two 300,000m stamps.

Messrs. Bright & Son report that in a mixed lot of used stamps of this country a copy of the 1 mark, Fortress type, has been found in a rose red color, evidently an error in shade. It is on vertically laid paper and perforated 11½.

RUSSIA.—Notwithstanding that the late leader of the Bolsheviks is said to have disapproved of the idea of his portrait being reproduced on a postage stamp, Lenin's face has been adapted to that purpose, in the form of a memorial series, two values of which (both used) were shown to us a few days ago. Lithographed in black on white paper, it has an outer border of the appropriate red. The two values brought to our notice are 6 kop and 20 kop, both imperf.—Stamp Collecting.

TRANSJORDANIA.—Our Cairo Special Correspondent, Mr. Charles Julien Hunt, sends the following news (dated January 31st):—

"A new issue is now out, which will be in use till the definite set appears. The stamps of Hedjaz have been overprinted at bottom with an Arabic inscription meaning 'Hokoma Sharkey El Arabia' (=Government of Eastern Arabia). The Hedjaz stamps seem to be of a new printing—more transparent paper, whiter gum, and colours of an aniline tint.

"Ten thousand sets of the above were overprinted on the 19th in three lines, the values thus surcharged being the ½, 1, 1½ and 2 pi. Five thousand sets are in gold and five thousand in black, printed in honour of King Hussein's visit to Amman. It reads, first lines, 'F. K. G.' I do not understand what those represent. The second line is, 'King of the Arabs,' and the last line gives the date, the Mohammedan year 1342 being seen on the left. It reads, '11 Cramad-el-Thani.' Cramad-el-Tani or Cramad-el-Thani is the second month of the year, coming after Cramad-el-Awal and preceding the 'Sha'aban' and the 'Ramadan,' the latter being the month during which every true believer fasts daily, between the hours of sunset and dawn.

"As the first of the month of the Arabic calendar falls on the seventh of January, it would appear that they were issued on the 18th. But as the 18th falls on a Friday it is more likely that they were first sold on the counter the day after, which is Saturday.

"All the above stamps were sold out in two hours."—Stamp Collecting.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The following is an account of a small find I made in a second hand book shop in New York City. It is interesting not because of the rarities it contains but because the album itself is unique. The album is an old Lallier printed in 1862, by A. Lenegre of Paris. The album is divided by continents and contains all told spaces for 1097 stamps. The United States is represented by forty-two squares, France has 24, Great Britain 26, Mauritius 20, New South Wales 28, and many countries from 1 to 10. The stamps are all on the right side of the pages and on the left side facing them is a description of the stamps intended for the spaces opposite. These are printed or written in what is known in France as "la rond," a cross between type and written letters. I have not been able to decide whether this is written or printed but I am inclined to think that it is printed. The album contains about 325 stamps pasted down flat as was the custom in those days.—AUGUST A. DEBARD, JR.

—G. W. R.—What has mystified you has doubtless mystified other of our readers. The adlet to which you refer containing the words "Rounding the last centuple mark" had reference to the year 1900, when, though leap year, there was no extra day in February. Therefore the writer of the adlet lost seven birth-day anniversaries in succession.

About three years ago I loaned the first two years, in bound volumes, and have never got them back, so the best I can show now is January, 1897, Volume IX. The WEEKLY is almost a life-habit with me, and it is only a question of which will survive the other.—L. R. SOURS.

LENIN MEMORIAL STAMP.

We have been shown specimen copies of the Lenin memorial stamp. It is rather a grotesque affair, printed as it is in red and black and with a very crude picture of the late Premier of the Russian Republic. The inscription upon the stamp in Russian characters reads "Postage S. S. S. R., 6 Kopeks Gold." The official Soviet Republics." 6 kopeks gold is the equivalent of 3c.

NEW KIND OF STAMPS.

The arrival of twins at a flat one evening caused a great sensation and the sister of the young mother was so impressed by the unexpected honor of being aunt to a pair that she lost her wits for the time being.

She rushed to the nearest post-office and asked for stamps so that she might spread the glad tidings.

The clerk said, affably. "How many, miss?"

"Two," she cried joyously.

"What?"

"A boy and a girl," she said, then fled in dismay.

Late GERMAN CHECK LIST

The March number of Linn's Stamp News contains a complete check list of all new German Stamps since the publication of Scott's Catalog. Our list is based on Scott's listing of these from month to month and all are listed with Scott's numbers and descriptions. Nearly every stamp is priced by us at our price so that you can readily fill up what you are short on. In addition we also list and price most of the German stamps of the past several years. Our pricing goes back as far as Scott number 82, pricing all varieties that we have in mint condition for single copies and boxes of four.

A Copy of this List Free on Request. Our Prices are as Low as others on all these issues. We can usually fill 98% of orders received without making refund. When we offer it we have it in stock in quantity.

IF you have not yet started on the Modern Germans, do so now. Our offers of a few choice packets will fill your album cheaper than in any other way and the stamps are all beautiful, well printed and come nicely centered in most all cases. The packets offered below are big bargains for the money and contain German issues from as far back as 1906 and up to and including the late Hundreds of Millions of marks. The largest packet contains nearly everything in the very latest high values.

A GOLDEN ACHIEVEMENT.

The firm of Frank Godden, Ltd., at 359 Strand, London, England, may well plume itself upon a particular honor and responsibility that has come its way. Mr. Godden in writing us concerning future advertising in the WEEKLY expresses his great satisfaction in the fact that his firm has been entrusted by practically all of the British Colonial Governments, with the preparation of exhibits of the old classical and modern issues of their respective Colonies, to be artistically arranged, written up and classified in their chronological order, to be shown in their own Pavilions at the forthcoming World Wide British Empire Exhibition, to be opened in London in April, and which will last for six months. It is estimated that over 30,000,000 visitors will enter the Exhibition and one can appreciate the importance these Colonial Governments have attached to philately as part of their exhibits.

NEW MICH. STAMP CLUB OFFICERS.

The annual election of officers of the Michigan Stamp Club of Detroit, was held Saturday, March 1, at the club rooms. The entire list of officers for 1923 was re-elected:—Pres. E. Preston Hoskins; Vice Pres. F. S. Bott; Sec. H. F. Kaufmann; Treas. Robt. O. Meiers; Trustees John J. Jungwirth, Floyd Quick and L. A. White; Auction Mgr. George Peterson; Sales Supt. Grant Hamilton; Publicity Herman W. Boers.

NOTES AND NEWS.

First British Glider Post.—None of the published accounts of the Motor Glider Trials at Lympne, October 8th to 13th, seem to have referred to the special mail flight which took place on the last day of the meeting. About 100 letters, enclosed in special souvenir envelopes, were carried by Mr. "Jimmy" James in the A. N. and E. machine that put off from Lympne at 3 o'clock on the Saturday afternoon, the mail bag being dropped by parachute at Hastingleigh, the farthest point on the course, a few minutes later. The letters were conveyed by special courier to the Hastingleigh Sub-Post Office, and thence despatched to their destinations. In the right-hand corner of the envelopes is an oblong grey label bearing a 1½d postage stamp and the Hastingleigh postmark, in conjunction with the declaration "Carried by Motor Glider from Lympne to Hastingleigh." Twenty of the letters bore, in addition, the personal autograph of the pilot, and one of these was exhibited with the winning machine at Selfridge's last week. Aero-philatelists will be keen to add this interesting souvenir to their collections of British air post covers. —Flight.

Germany.—On December 1st, without warning, German postage rates were quadrupled, all postage stamps now current being sold over the post-office counter for four times their nominal value. Thus, the new 50 milliards stamp actually costs 200 milliards, and so on. New stamps of 3, 5 and 20 gold pfennigs were brought into use on the same date, and are sold on the basis of the Rentenmark.

Japan.—The emergency 3 sen stamp listed in our new issue Chronicle this month comes as an echo of the Japanese earthquake, having been printed by private contractors, owing to the total destruction of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Tokio, with all its plant and reserve stock of stamps. Meanwhile the Japanese Government has appealed to the United States for assistance in re-equipping its stamp printing department, the machinery of which was similar to that used by the U. S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington.

ested in meters and more than half of them actively collecting them. One of the officers, especially, had a fine showing of them. The interest is bound to increase more in the future than it has in the past, and from my correspondence it has shown a wonderful increase in the last year. Consider early U. S. cancellations and what it would have meant to the present-day collector if some one at that time had kept a record of them while they were current. It is time that we correct mistakes of the past and profit by experiences.

The Postage Meter Co. and the Mailometer Co. are the only two firms so far that have received recognition by our P. O. Dept. and are manufacturing machines with a meter attached. Both of these firms also manufacture machines using ordinary permits. Other manufacturers of ordinary permit printers are the Columbia, International and Standard. Some permits are still printed on the printing press, Multigraph and only a few with a rubber stamp. Most of these machines have been illustrated in our previous articles. We are including with this article a cut of the "Standard" made in Mass., and the latest machine that we know of for doing this work. My records show more than a hundred of these machines already placed.

With this we are showing a cut of the "Standard" Prepayment and Letter Stamping Machine "Made in Germany." So far we have no knowledge of this machine being used outside of Europe. We are submitting sample impression from this machine to the WEEKLY publishers but the specimens are not very distinct and it is possible that they will be unable to make good cuts from them.

Other news items will appear from time to time in the WEEKLY on this subject but check lists of permit and meter users will not be published in any regularly issued philatelic periodical. This is by request of the manufacturers of permit printing machines, users as well as philatelic publishers.

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY HONOR ROLL.

Matson Public Library,	Princeton, Ill.	W. W. Anderson & Co.
Allentown Public Library,	Allentown, Pa.	Allentown Philatelic Soc.

Binghamton Public Lib.	Binghamton, N. Y.	A. H. Pike.

Through the kindness of Mr. A. H. Pike we are placing the Binghamton Public Library upon our mailing list. In this particular instance Mr. Pike was asked to show the value of the WEEKLY as a consulting medium. Any of our subscribers who face this proposition have a good talking point from the educational value of our publication. Without a doubt libraries are compelled to make distinction in periodicals so far as their reading tables are concerned, but the WEEKLY touches the "boy problem."

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

Latvia.—The "Latvijas Kars Invalidu Savieniba" (Latvian Society of Disabled Soldiers), whose insignia—a Maltese cross with a laurel wreath and rising sun—figures on the special postage stamps issued on its behalf, was founded in 1917 and has a membership of over 4,500, its headquarters being in Riga. The Latvian troops suffered heavily, both in the Great War and the subsequent Bolshevik invasion, and the present charity stamps constitute an official effort to provide additional funds for this excellent institution.

Palestine.—The provision of permanent postage stamps for the Palestine State is brought a stage nearer by the publication of an invitation from the Postmaster-General of Palestine for the submission of original photographs, drawings, etc., suitable for reproduction in the form of pictorial postage stamps.

Russia.—The stamps overprinted with the device of an aeroplane in red and bearing a surtax of 20 kopeks, as listed elsewhere in this number, although sold in aid of a national fund to provide an aerial fleet, are not, apparently, exclusively reserved for use on air-born correspondence, but are equally available for ordinary postage. Their presence upon a letter is therefore no guarantee of its having been "flown."

Uruguay.—The subject of the design appearing on the stamp issued on the occasion of the centenary of the Battle of Sarandi, represents the memorial erected at Sarandi in the Uruguayan Department of Florida, on the site of the conflict.—West-End Philatelist.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE "WEEKLY"

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer the for sale at very reasonable prices. The years in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books $2 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel charges on five pounds. This offer for immediate acceptance.

THE CHRONICLES OF FERRARY.
EIGHTH SALE, 1ST DAY.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The eighth Ferrary sale on November 7, 8 and 9 last comprised 622 lots, which realised 1,588,957 francs, or with tax 1,867,024, being about £24,044 at the average rate of exchange for the three days. This brings the grand (taxed) total to 15,747,643 francs, or £280,502.

A number of countries of considerable interest to German and Austrian philatelists brought into the arena strong competition from German and Austrian buyers, including Mr. Kurt Maier of Berlin, and M. Rudolf Friedl of Vienna. The sale started with 112 lots of Austria, and the second lot provided some eager bidding; it was a superb unused copy of the rare type III of the 9kr kreuzer of 1850. This third type of the 9kr was a comparatively late discovery, Mr. W. Hadlow finding the first used copy, which he sold to Mr. C. J. Phillips for £5 a few years ago, when it was inserted in the catalogue. Used copies have turned up, but in no large number, and the stamp is still catalogued at £15 used by Gibbons. Unused it must be of great rarity, this mint copy with four-in-hand margins realising £121. There was also a used copy, much disfigured by the cancellation, in a mixed lot of eleven stamps of this issue.

The 3, 6 and 9 kreuzer are listed but not priced, rouletted, in Gibbons. The French "Official" catalogue of 1904 quoted these used at 100fcs (£4) each. It is supposed by some that the rouletting, which gauges 14, was done by the local postmaster (for his own convenience) at Tokay, or possibly Hamonna Varano, whence all the authentic copies come. Ferrary had the 3k red used on a letter postmarked Tokay, and 3k red+6k brown used together on a letter from the same town, which is the centre of the district famous for the delicious Imperial wine of the Hapsburgs. These two letters with some other fanciful perforation varieties, 18 stamps in all, brought £16.

Blocks of this issue are scarce, and sheets or even panes unknown. They were printed in four groups of 60, arranged 8x8, the odd four spaces being filled with the curious Andreas Kreuzer-St. Andrew's Cross. There is an unused block of twelve of the 1kr orange the Tapling collection (four rows of three), larger than anything in the Ferrary sale. The St. Andrew's Cross labels tenant with the stamps are now rarely met with; they were used for the double purpose of rounding off the sheets to even money (there were only 60kr to the florin), and the four blanks were said to be charged for to the customer to cover the cost of manufacturing the stamps.

A block of seven of the 6k brown, with two St. Andrew's Cross labels brought £24, and a similar block of the blue brought £31. A set of 3k, 6k and 9k unused with cross se tenant in each case fetched £59.

A 12 kreuzer was prepared for this issue but was never put into circulation. A million had been printed, in blue, when the 9 kreuzer was ordered to be substituted for the 12k, and all but 160 pieces were destroyed in June, 1850. Of these some appear to have been used by accident; Tapling had an unused one, Ferrary's copy is cancelled with a pen stroke and was sold in a batch of 16 stamps for £9.

Lot 48 contained some freaks of the 1875 issue, seven stamps of which there were—2k, 10k (2) and 15k (2)—with double impressions on the face, a 5k red printed back and front, and a 3k red "ror," the seven fetching £80. I was hitherto under the impression that it was generally accepted that the supposed 3k error only exists as a chemical fake, but apparently that is not the opinion in Austria. What is described as an "undoubtedly genuine" copy was shown by M. Rudolf Friedl at the Vienna International Philatelic Exhibition last September. It bore the postmark "Detta." The second is in a Budapest collection and is postmarked "Nagy-Becskerek." The Ferrary copy is said to be the only other undoubtedly genuine example now known, and it, like the one in the possession of a Hungarian collector, is postmarked "Nagy-Becskerek." This town and Detta were both in the same postal district of Temesvar, which has since become philatelically memorable from the issues of the Roumanian occupation after the Great War.

Although only these three authentic copies are now known to Austrian students, two others were known to Kropf, the author of the standard history of Austrian stamps. These he described as postmarked Kecskemet, but the whereabouts of these two copies does not appear to be known now, and a writer in "Die Postmarke" (No. 61-62, p. 181) suggests that it is quite possible Kropf misread an indistinct "Becskerek" for "Kecskemet," in which case all five copies would have been used in the same postal area, pointing to the whole edition of the error being sent to the one head post-office at Temesvar.

All five copies bear dates early in "October—," and it is supposed that this can only be in the year of the introduction of this type, issued June 1, 1867.

Was the 3 kreuzer plate printed in error in the colour of the 5 kreuzer, or was this another instance of the intrusion of a wrong cliché in the make up of the plate? This is a problem not easy to solve without bringing the few known copies together for comparison, and it is to be hoped that at least three are now available to Mr. Friedl for such comparison. If there had been a printing of the 3k in red it is strange that it should never have been recorded anywhere, and not less strange that so few copies survive. On the other hand, if a wrong cliché got in the electrotypes plate, it would appear that it was speedily discovered and corrected, and that the sheets containing the error formed a part of an early supply sent to a distant district of Hungary where Austrian (kreuzer) stamps were and continued to be in use until 1871.

It may be possible to detect points of identity or differentiation in the clichés of the three, or, better still, of the five copies believed to be extant.

Of the Austrian "Mercuries," the dinky little first newspaper stamps, Ferrary evidently had a rich store. Amongst over 200 of the blue stamp was a sheet of 100 mint, which brought £30. There were 14 of the yellow stamp unused, and 24 used. The first unused yellow sold was a superb copy with gum, realising £151. Of the rose stamp, 6 unused and 15 used, the best price being £68 (unused). Then of the rarest of all Austrian stamps, the "red" Mercury, there were seven unused, and one not particularly fine used. The red stamp was only in use rather under two years, during which time 30,000 had been printed, but it is excessively rare used, and (unless there are more to come) Ferrary only seems to have come across the one poor copy. The Tapling Collection only has it unused. I give the chief prices obtained for the red stamps:—

Although one of the most notable of Austrian stamp issues, it has never been ascertained with certainty who designed or engraved the little Mercury. Only within the past few years the discovery of six proofs of the design among the papers of Josef Axmann, an engraver of Brünn (b. 1793, d. 1873) offered a hint of his association with the stamp, which was further strengthened, if not confirmed, by the discovery of another similar proof in a volume of engravings labelled "Josef Axmann" in the Austrian State Library.

Among the later newspaper stamps the (1k) pale lilac stamp of 1863, tête-bêche, the inverted cliché being in the centre of a mint block of nine, fetched £287.

There were several copies of the rare 4k red newspaper stamp of Austrian Italy (Lombardy), two fine unused ones fetching £166 and £105.

brought £274 at the sixth sale, and included a supposed 9k black on green error; one other lot of this State, comprising 99 tax and service stamps, realised, at the same sale, £29. At this eighth sale Baden appears again with two single rarities.

The first is a fully authenticated 9 kreuzer green error used on a letter postmarked Ettenheim, August 25, 1851, and is one of the three original copies found in 1894, and, I believe, no other satisfactory copy—there are some fakes—has ever turned up. There was a fourth copy, presumably authentic, in the Duveen collection, with postmark "20" in five concentric circles; this is the postmark of the town of Buchen. Mr. Charles J. Phillips in listing this in his descriptive brochure on the Duveen collection states that only 4 or 5 copies are known. Issued somewhere about 1851, the existence of such an error was quite unknown until forty-three years later. The story of the finding of the three known specimens was disclosed by Mr. Carl Lindenberg in the Deutsche Briefmarken Zeitung. A philatelic dilettante of good social position sent Mr. Lindenberg a Baden stamp of 9kr in the bluish green colour of the 6kr. The collector had shown it to a dealer who declared it to be a fraud, but as he had found it amongst a lot taken direct from some old letters he was not satisfied with that verdict. A small piece of the original letter was still attached to the specimen bearing the circles cancellation "2" of Achern.

The stamp surprised and puzzled Mr. Lindenberg, but by a remarkable coincidence at the next meeting of the Berlin Philatelists' Club, Baron von Turkheim showed a similar 9kr green on entire letter, and mentioned that he had still another like it. The two Turkheim letters established the genuineness of the error. Each letter had been sent from the Turkheim family residence at Alt-

OUR OCCASIONAL PICTORIAL PHILATELIC REBUS.

Here is a contest in which our subscribers will be interested. It is open to everybody who cares to participate. The designs, given may be found on postage stamps and you are urged to send in a list however incomplete it may be. Prizes will be awarded and due announcement will be made in the WEEKLY. We have various books that will be used for second prizes and if any of our dealer friends wish to donate something for this contest we shall be very glad to acknowledge the same. At least five prizes will be given. TAKE NOTICE: Number your answers from 1 to 30 as per the design shown and across the page horizontally instead of vertically. This is important. dorf to the baron's father, then Counsellor of Legation at Karlsruhe. The earlier letter, dated July 27, 1851, bore the Orschweier postmark (No. 106) and the other, dated August 25, 1851, bore the Ettenheim (No. 14) postmark. One had been posted at the nearest post-town to Altdorf, and the other at the nearest railway station, and as the postage to Karlsruhe was only 6 kreuzer, it was clear the green 9 kreuzer stamps had been used as 6 kreuzer ones, which is easily explained, as the "9" upside down is just like a "6."

The whereabouts of these three copies is fortunately known. On Mr. Lindenberg's advice the earlier of the two Turkheim letters was bought by the Berlin Postal Museum, where it still is. The later letter is the one in the eighth Ferrary sale, and which Mr. Kurt Maier secured for £1816. The other copy on piece of original with the Achem postmark was in the Mors collection, and is now in the private collection of M. Theodor Champion of Paris. A year ago, in publishing "Rare stamps: how to recognise them" as a sort of preliminary publicity for the 1923 Exhibition, I set the value of this variety at about £400; the new "Kohl" catalogue gives it at 7,500 gold marks (£375). But of course the fine copy on letter was sure to go to a record price at a Ferrary sale.

The other rare Baden was the 3kr rose (1862) in a dull shade, imperfectorate, of which a very few were used at Stockach in December, and the postmark is of the double circle STOCKACH IV with "24 DEZ" (no year given) in the centre. This copy fetched £55.

Belgium figured in the fifth sale, but recurred in this eighth one to the extent of thirteen lots, the chief items being two blocks of four and two pairs of the first issue, all unused. The 10c brown, block of 4, brought £95, 20c deep blue pair £52, another pair but in the blue shade £42, and block of 4 20c deep blue £78.

A Brunswick 1s rose of 1852, superb unused, brought £124 (cat. by Gibbons, £150). The bulk of the Brunswicks were sold at the sixth sale.

Stamps we rarely have the opportunity of seeing except in the old-fashioned general collections are the early typographed issues of the Dominican Republic. There were fifteen lots in this sale supplementing a dozen lots at the fourth sale. The superb pairs of ½r black on rose, and 1r black on green of 1865 fetched £24 and £57 respectively, while two singles ½ and 1r on laid paper, unused, fetched £39 together. Two fine copies of the "Un" real on pale green with lozenge watermarks, each from the corner of a sheet, brought £46 together.

These three copies of the second issue, the blue on rose, black on yellow and black on lilac, all without inscriptions at top and bottom, fetched together £26.

A second instalment of Spain, covering 35 lots, included a 10r green 1850, unused, £19; a 6c black with the "1850" retouched, used on letter, £15; a 2r red 1851, unused, superb, £92; another fine copy, £77; and, most interesting of all, the "Westoby" copy of the rare error 2r blue, which sold at a price which settles all controversy as to its character, and vindicates the judgment of that distinguished pioneer, the late Mr. W. A. S. Westoby. I have already given its history in these articles (see S.L. XVI. p. 39), and have now only to add that it fetched £1,393 and its buyer was that authority-in-chief on Spanish issues, Mr. Hugo Griebert.

A forgery of the 2r blue error sold for 32s. A 2r pale rose, fine unused, of 1852 brought £57, and a 2r red, 1853, also fine unused, £53; the variety of the last-named, without dot under S of RS. brought £55 (unused) and a 3c bronze Madrid (1853), £74. The 2c green on azure of 1854, unused, catalogued by Gibbons at £40, fetched £57, but the 1r on this paper was withdrawn from the sale.

The 12c blue and rose, inverted frame, unused, brought £204, and another unused in a vertical pair with normal (slight crease), with full gum, realised £273.

The first day's sale concluded with eleven lots of Grenada, the chief item being the 1s deep mauve, error "OS AGE," unused, which brought £6—Stamp Lover.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

By "PHILATELIA"

The New Year sees most philatelists filled with good resolutions for the ensuing twelve months. One determines to remount his collection on the latest scientific plan, another decides to specialize in some particular group, yet another to pay more heed to the literary aspect of the subject, a most worthy object, as it is estimated not 1% of the collectors of this country regularly take any stamp journal, or possess any philatelic handbooks beyond a catalogue.

The past year has seen a marked falling off in the number of new issues, particularly in the Colonial series, and for this most collectors will be thankful, and it seems likely that the number may still further decrease during 1924. This gives a chance to those who collect imperially to bring their albums up to date, as there have been quite a number of recent Colonial issues whose prices will show very big increases during the next few years, but which at the present are somewhat overlooked as regards their possibilities. It is interesting to turn to one of the recently-issued catalogues and glance at some of the latest prices. The Yvert & Tellier catalogue generally gauge the value of such stamps with considerable acumen, particularly in European issues which are always in demand where this catalogue is most used. In Malta, therefore, one notices some of the recent issues have been doubled and trebled in value. Some of the Self-Government issues and later Georgian issues especially, such a stamp as the 2s6d of 1919 priced in Gibbons' at 5sh (lowest) appears at 150 francs or nearly £2. The reason in this case being that the stamp had not been long in use when all the remainders were overprinted Self-Government, so that it is commoner with the surcharge than without. The 2sh Script had a very similar history.

A correspondent recently wrote: "Are War stamps, including Armistice, likely to recover from the depths of unpopularity and become saleable?"

This raises the interesting question as to why certain stamps become unpopular. War and Armistice issues were certainly very popular and some were of historic interest, but also some of them were overdone and the Markets flooded with them. The collector now is more interested on the financial side than formerly, and thus begins to lose interest in stamps offered on every side and decreasing in value, and so decides to clear out of his own collection of them which only makes things worse. Many of these issues, notably from the Continent, were unloaded at prices (when first issued) far above their real worth, so that most people became disgusted, partly by the slump and by the horde of unnecessary varieties. Thousands of pounds of good British money went to the foreigner over these issues during 1919-20. Another cause of the depression is in the unsettled economic condition on the Continent, many of the stamps now being collected and issued, say Germany, are only worth a small fraction of a penny. This has also affected the market of Colonial War issues as the market for them on the continent has never developed as anticipated, and we see now some of them being offered at 10% under "face," which is remarkable as they have not been demonetized or sold under face value by the post-office. These and the scarcer War Tax issues consequently have been obtainable cheaper during the past year than ever before, and it seems likely that the lowest point has been reached, and that we shall see a gradual rise as stocks diminish, although it may be some years before the high prices of 1919 are again reached.

The same remarks apply to the overprinted German Colonial issues. These were only issued in small quantities, but holders of these chose the last two years to unload them on an uncertain market, the result being prices have fallen, and are now lower than when first issued. The great interest of these is undoubtedly and as a useful investment all general Colonial collectors should try to include a representative lot of these if they do not possess them, and if picked up at prices recently ruling, a handsome increment is bound to ensue.

Some large lots of high values of Palestine, particularly the overprinted series have recently come on the market, apparently many of these are telegraphically used, but collectors are advised not to pay too high prices for these, as they are obtainable at a smaller percentage of catalogue than has been the case until recently. Some high prices are also being asked for recent provisional issues of Trans-Jordania, whilst these are undoubtedly scarce, it must be remembered that they can hardly be considered as Colonial issues, and it is possible that their popularity and hence high market value, may be ephemeral, like the issues of Ukraine.

The two Sarawak provisionals of the past year still seem very scarce and about 10sh the pair is being paid for them in England, as but few have arrived here, it appears that most of them were bought up immediately by one or two local speculators.—Philatelic Magazine.

OUR SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST.

The work done in behalf of securing new subscriptions for the WEEKLY during February surpassed any previous month and we take pleasure in referring to some of the details. It will be noted that the Pike's Peak Stamp Co. secured 83 subscriptions during the month, with the Fennell Stamp Co. and W. J. Zink following closely. All three of these firms have given tangible evidence of their friendship for the WEEKLY. We feel that the Mystic Stamp Co., a newcomer with 26 February subscriptions, is also entitled to a special word of praise. Those who have sent in ten or more subscriptions during the month of February are the following:—

N. Y. PHIL. SOC TO CELEBRATE.

The New York Philatelic Society will celebrate its tenth birthday on April 14 with an anniversary dinner that evening at the Harlem Palace, 27 West 115th Street. The headquarters of the society are at 20 East 125th Street, but efforts are being made to obtain funds to purchase a permanent home. A building fund campaign has been started, and about $3,500 has been raised. The club has more than 200 active members. Many well-known postage stamp collectors here and abroad are or have been members of the organization.

John N. Luff and Dr. J. Brace Chittenden, President and Secretary, respectively of the Collectors Club of this city, have been invited to attend the anniversary dinner. John L. Stroub is President of the New York Philatelic Society and among the officers are: Vice Presidents, David Trautman and George Flatow; Secretary, E. M. Wal-

P. H. JOHNSON, MONTREAL, CANADA.

By MAURY SWARTZ.

P. H. Johnson, S. P. A., C. P. S., Rosemount, Montreal, Can., is the editor of the Stamp Herald. He was born in Woolwich, England, educated in the public schools, and then took to seafaring for eleven years, but after becoming a chief mate and having circumnavigated the globe eight times he joined the British Imperial Army. He saw service in India and South Africa and fought in eighty-two engagements during his period of service, leaving the army a non-commissioned officer with an assistant schoolmaster's certificate and two war medals with six clasps.

Coming to Canada Mr. Johnson took up stamp collecting seriously. At one time he owned one of the finest collections of France to be found in North America. He disposed of the same and of late years has devoted much of his time to the literary side of philately.

He has written many authoritative works upon the stamps of various countries and has essayed fiction. He is now working upon the manuscript of a book covering every phase of philately and designed especially to interest the beginner and non-collector.

Immediately over Mr. Johnson's desk one sees his life's motto, "Play cricket." He tells some interesting experiences concerning visitors' inquiries about the motto, but that is another story.

A New Blank Album

made exactly like the famous "Oriel" but without the fancy trimmings. This new album is canvas bound, has fifty leaves of the finest possible quadrille ruled paper and has the same peg attachment as the Oriel. When we say this book is just as fine an Album as anyone needs, we are going pretty strong but we mean it. Oriels may be imitated, which some people say is "the sincerest form of flattery."

Departments Wanted

I am in need of many United States Agriculture, Executive, Interior, Justice, Navy, Post Office, State, Treasury and War Official stamps, which we commonly term Departments.

I need most anything used or unused, provided the condition is fine. Ordinary copies are not desired, so please do not take a chance that I may need yours. Fine copies or none at all is my positive rule. Unused copies must have original gum. Blocks and original covers are particularly desired. One copy or a hundred of a kind will be considered.

Send what you have in the condition required by registered mail. I will make offers, although I prefer you to name your own prices. A check or your stamps back by the next mail. Or 20% additional if you will use your credit in exchange.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

HAWAIIAN PORTRAITS.

By C. F. RICHARDS.

Kamehameha I (1883, 25c).—Born Nov., 1736, a high chief of the Island of Hawaii, taking rank from his mother, as customary. For years before his birth, and after, there were wars between the chiefs and peoples of the several islands. At last in 1795 this chief conquered the Island of Oahu and became king of all the Hawaiian Islands except Kauai and Niihau, which were ceded to him in 1810. He reigned until his death, May 8, 1819. During his reign human sacrifices were common, yet though an uneducated savage, and worshiper of idols, he was a brave and skilful warrior and both morally and mentally stood far above the other chiefs of his day. He prepared the country for civilization and Christianity. During his lifetime Captain Cook discovered the islands Jan. 18, 1778.

Kamehameha III (1853, 5c, 13c).—Son of Kamehameha I. Born March 17, 1812, and succeeded his brother Kamehameha II on June 6, 1825. During the first years of his reign Kaahumanu, one of the wives of Kamehameha I acted as premier, earnestly propagating the Christian religion. The young king came under evil influences after her death, and abrogated most of the good laws but did better as he grew older. A constitution was proclaimed October 8, 1840. Provision was made for dividing all the lands of the islands, which had heretofore belonged to the king, between the king, the chiefs and the common people, one-third to each by act of the first legislature passed Dec. 10, 1845. He died Dec. 15, 1854.

Mataio Kekuanaoa (1864, 18c).—His Highness was born in Jan., 1794, a chief of the second rank of the Island of Oahu, and in his younger days was spittoon bearer to the king, an office of high rank. He married Kinau in October, 1827, and while she acted as premier during the early years of the reign of Kamehameha III, this couple practically governed the islands. He was a man of great ability, noble character, and kind and gentle disposition. Died Nov. 24, 1868.

Kamehameha IV (1861 and 1864, 2c).—Born Feb. 9, 1834, the third son of Kinau, who was a daughter of Kamehameha I. He succeeded Kamehameha III upon his death, and took the oath to maintain the Constitution Jan. 11, 1855. He was a man of brilliant talents and of winning manners. He translated the English prayer book into Hawaiian. Died Nov. 30, 1863.

Emma (1883, $1.).—Queen Emma, born March 4, 1836, was the adopted daughter of Dr. Rooke, and granddaughter of John Young, who was detained by Kamehameha I, as adviser, and allowed to marry into a high chief family.

Emma was a beautiful girl, beloved of the Hawaiian people, and married in great state when a few months over twenty to Kamehameha IV, on June 19, 1856. She was a member of St. Andrew's Cathedral, and with her husband founded and endowed the Queen's Hospital. She survived her husband, twenty-one years, dying April 25, 1885.

Kamehameha V (1864, 5c, 6c).—Brother of Kamehameha IV, and son of Kekuanaoa and Kinau. Born Dec. 11, 1830, and succeeded to the throne upon his younger brother's death. He was a large man, weighing over 350 lbs. Was of strong will and practical shrewdness. On August 20, 1864, he promulgated a new Constitution, which was continued for 23 years. He assisted in the plans for the establishing of the leper settlement on the Island of Molokai. Died Dec. 11, 1872.

Victoria Kamamalu (1864, 1c).—This princess, born Jan. 31, 1838, was a sister of Kamehameha IV and V, and attended the Royal School with her brothers, and children of the chiefs. She was a woman of good personal appearance, and made many friends. For a few years she was premier under Kamehameha IV, and heir apparent under Kamehameha V. She died May 29, 1866.

William C. Lunailo (1883, 50c).—Born Jan. 31, 1832. Son of Kanaina from whom he inherited a large estate, and of Kekauloahi. The latter was a half sister of Kinau, and followed her as adviser of the king. The father was not a chief by blood. On the death of Kamehameha V, Lunailo offered himself as heir to the throne. He was elected by vote of the people, Jan. 1, 1873, and proclaimed king on the 9th. Because of kindness, good sense, and habits of talking to the people personally, he was loved by them, and they used to shout "This is our King," referring to the fact that they had elected him.

He died Feb. 3, 1874, and his fortune was used to found and endow a home for the poor and aged of his race known as the Lunailo Home.

David Kalakaua (1883, 2c, 10c).—Born Nov. 16, 1836, of lower caste than any of the previous kings. Lunailo having failed to name his successor upon his death there was much trouble to decide who should take his place. Kalakaua was finally elected, and took the oath of office, Feb. 13, 1874. He twice visited the United States, and also made a tour around the world. The principal event of his reign was the signing of the reciprocity treaty with the United States in 1876. A great earthquake wave occurred in the Islands May 10, 1877, and about a third of the city of Honolulu was burned, April 18, 1886.

In 1878 the Portuguese began to arrive

The Saxon Stamp Courier
In order to introduce this new philatelic magazine to the readers of THE WEEKLY, I make the following offer: Send us one in coin or 10 one cent stamps and we will mail you the first two issues. Both beautiful illustrated covers, one light green in color and the other an attractive red. Really, it is one of the few stamp publications that you will not be ashamed to leave on the table with the other magazines at home.
The splendid array of reading matter in these two copies will furnish many hours of enjoyment. For instance, there are two articles each by Milton T. Mauck and Harry Bridge, Jr., one each by Hugh C. Argenteight, J. H. Jelliman, Joe Broadbent, Augustus H. Trick, Adam K. Bert, George A. Sammerman, K. N. Woodward and "O. G. nge". Also, report on recent New York Auction Sales, Society Notes, Philatelic Review and other interesting news. In all, 40 feature giving pages. Everything written specially for "The Courier", absolutely nothing reproduced from other papers. These two numbers will be an ornament to any philatelic library and we guarantee them to please or your dime will be refunded.
Particulars in regard to a year's subscription or advertising will be sent on request. Mention MEKEEL'S.

EVER LOOK FOR THESE?

The 6c Indian Red re-engraved, the 8c vermilion of 1887, the 4c carmine of 1888. It is surprising how few general collectors have a decent looking used copy of any one of them. We believe it easier to find a hundred superb copies of the 10c '47 than 2 superb honestly cancelled copies of the 6c re-engraved in the deep brown, claret or Indian Red colors. The 3c vermilion is commoner but really fine copies are as scarce as 1c 1851. Of the 4c carmine there were fewer printed than of the 1c '51 and though it is commoner today we believe cancellation collectors will soon have it "off the market". We have some fine copies of these three stamps at prices way above catalog (for the picked specimens) but still far from representing their relative scarcity. Which do you need?

in numbers, and the Japanese in 1885. In spite of revolutions, and some moral lapses, his reign, on the whole, proved a good one. He died in California Jan. 20, 1891.

Kapiolani (1882, 15c.)—Queen of David Kalakaua, and granddaughter of the last king of Kauai, born Dec. 31, 1834. Married Dec. 19, 1863. With her sister-in-law, and husband, Mr. John O. and Mrs. Lydia Dominis, she represented Hawaii at Queen Victoria's Jubilee in 1887. She died June 24, 1899.

William Pitt Leleiohoku (1875, 12c.)—This prince was born Jan. 10, 1855, the younger brother of David Kalakaua, Liliuokalani and Likelike. He was declared heir to the throne Feb. 14, 1874, and held positions in the government under his brother's reign. He was considered a bright youth, and great expectations were held as to his future, but he died April 10, 1877, placing the entire nation in mourning.

Miriam Kapii Likelike (1882, 1c.)—This princess was a sister of David Kalakaua Liliuokalani and W. P. Leleiohoku, and daughter of chief Kapaakea and chiefess Keohokalohe born Jan. 10, 1853 she was married to Archibald Scott Cleghorn and had one daughter. She died Feb. 2, 1887.

Liliuokalani (1891, 2c Violet.)—Born Sept. 2, 1838. Married John O. Dominis, Sept. 16, 1862. Was proclaimed queen Jan. 30, 1891, upon the death of her brother, Kalakaua. She immediately started out to abolish the restrictions on the powers of the crown, and, after continual disagreements with cabinets and legislature, preparations were finally made to proclaim a new constitution Jan. 14, 1893, which would have removed the principal checks on the crown and disfranchised all but Hawaiian subjects. This led to a revolution and the establishing of a Provisional Government on Jan. 17, 1893. This in turn was followed by the Republic July 4, 1894, and the annexation of the Islands to the United States July 7, 1898. The queen retired and lived till Nov. 11, 1917, beloved by all who knew her.

Sanford Ballard Dole (1894, 25c.)—Born in Honolulu April 23, 1844, son of Daniel and Emily Ballard Dole, American missionaries. Educated at Oahu College (Punahou). Graduated from Williams College, Mass., and studied law in Boston, where he was admitted to the bar. Married Anna P. Cate of Castine, Maine, May 19, 1873. Member of Legislature of Hawaii 1884 to 1886. Judge Supreme Court of Hawaii 1887 to 1893. Head of Provisional Government 1893 and President of the Republic 1894 to 1898. Was a strong advocate of annexation to the United States and came to America in 1898 for that purpose. Governor of Territory of Hawaii 1900 to 1903, and United States District Judge of the Territory 1903 to 1914 when he retired to private life in Honolulu, where this "Grand Old Man of Hawaii" still resides.

Lorrin Andrews Thurston (Official.)—Born in Honolulu July 31, 1858, son of Asa G. and Sara Andrews Thurston of American missionary stock. Educated at Oahu College (Punahou) and Columbia Law School, New York City.

Married Harriet Potter of St. Joseph, Mich., April 5, 1894. Admitted to bar in Honolulu 1878. Elected to House of Representatives 1886. Minister of the Interior 1887-1890. Elected to house of Nobles 1892. Member of Committee of Safety when the Monarchy of Hawaii was overthrown in 1893 and on Advisory Council for the Provisional Government 1893. Minister of Provisional Government to the United States 1893, and for the Republic of Hawaii 1894. Also Minister to Portugal 1894. Special Commissioner to negotiate treaty of annexation to United States 1897. Still living in Honolulu connected with large business interests.

CANADA 3c IMPERFORATE.
By F. C. GRAHAME.

I thought the following might be acceptable, re the present issue three (3) cent Canada imperforate. This stamp was issued imperforate for collection purposes only and although available for postage it is only sold by the Philatelic Branch of the P. O. Dept., at Ottawa, and may be obtained there at face in blocks of four or multiples of four. It is not sold at Post Offices. This stamp was printed from the following plates, namely, Nos. 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131. The date on which the first of these stamps were sold was Jan. 23, 1924. The quantity printed is small, the exact number at present not being available.

THE HARRISON TECH STAMP CLUB.

The Harrison Tech Stamp Club was organized about five years ago at the Harrison Technical High School, Chicago, by Frederic B. Emery, head of the department of chemistry. The club has about 40 active members, about one-half of whom are girls. The size of their collections vary from one thousand to eight or ten thousand varieties.

Meetings are held every first and third Tuesday after school. This shows that there is a lively interest in stamp collecting as students generally want to go home as soon as school is out for the day. At each meeting there are two or three talks by various members of the club, the subject being on the speaker's pet stamp or country.

Mr. Emery has aided a great many young people to get interested in stamps and has shown them how to buy reasonably. His purchases for his own collection, which numbers around 35,000 varieties, enable him to do this for the young folks.

It is a great thing for philately to get the younger generation started while they are still in high school, as habits formed while in school generally stick throughout life. Let's hope that a great many clubs will be formed in the schools this year.

EARLY BRITISH COLONIALS

I am dispersing two large collections, strong in the early types and all stamps in fine condition. Prices average MORE THAN HALF CATALOGUE.
Also in stock a choice lot of EDWARDIAN & GEORGIAN, both MINT and SUPERB USED. These are mostly priced at half catalogue.
Selections on approval. References, please. [H]

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references.

EARLY LOW VALUES SPECIALIZED.

By WARNER BATES.

(This department deals only with U. S. issued before 1890 and mainly postal issues. The editor cannot give valuations on minor varieties, etc. Stamps sent for examination should be of interest because of oddity, scarcity, etc., or to clear up some debated question. Postage should be enclosed with registration fee when desired, also self-addressed envelope. —Ed.)

From William Ralph Hoffa, 1616 N. Willington Street, Philadelphia, comes a very clear and interesting explanation of the differences between cracked and scratched plates, a question which the writer has stirred up on various occasions. Mr. Hoffa says: "I have tried to explain this from a printer's experience with cracked and scratched plates. There really is no difficulty in distinguishing between the two, once you see a copy of each side by side." Many thanks, Mr. Hoffa; the writer is sure that this explanation will clear the matter up for many a befuddled collector and add another pleasure to the altogether pleasurable pastime of specialising in United States stamps.

Mr. Hoffa's exposition follows.

"The cracked plate is a printing variety and very often a scratched plate is also.

A-cracked plate nearly always occurs from one of three things. (1) Being locked too tight. (2) Becomes too loose. (3) Faulty metal. When the cut cracks, if it is on a metal base, the base being stronger than the cut does not crack, so the damage cannot be repaired. Thus the cracked plate. The cut is a thin shell of metal swetted on the metal base.

A scratched plate will very often occur from two things. In cleaning cuts a wire brush is used. If one of the wires becomes bent and protrudes over the brush it will scratch the plate. Dry ink that lodges on the cut is removed by washing or with a pin. If the pin slips it will scratch the plate. The scratch can also occur in the engraving from tools slipping but I believe they are never used.

I have never seen a plate whose crack was straight or nearly so. But scratches are nearly always fairly straight or curved. A scratch does not break away any metal on the sides of it but a crack nearly always does.

The main features of the two varieties are:

Cracked Plates:

1. The crack is crooked or wavy.
2. Is fairly wide with small parts of cut missing.
3. Crack always runs to the end of cut.

Scratched Plates:

1. Scratch nearly straight or curved.
2. Thinness of scratch.
3. Does not always run to end of cut.

W. S. Evans, 235 E. Brown St., E. Stroudsburg, Pa., writes:

"I have been reading with interest your column in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and having uncovered yesterday some interesting papers of my grandfather in an old tin box, he having evidently been Postmaster at a small town called Albrightsville, Carbon County, Pennsylvania, thought you might be interested in them. I will list a few of them by paragraph.

The first is an official letter (one of the old kind not enclosed in an envelope, but merely sealed with wax) of blue paper on the outside at the top right hand corner of which appears in large letters 'Post Office Department, Official Business,' with a signature of the Chief Clerk appearing beneath, this letter being addressed to the Postmaster at Albrightsville, Pa. On the inside is a printed form letter dated Sept. 1, 1852, headed Post Office Dept. and '(No. 8.)' This letter states that a key is enclosed fitting the new iron mail lock recently adopted by the Postmaster-General and which will be put in service about December of that year. It also relates to the safe keeping of this key and that it should be lost would be deemed cause for the removal of the Postmaster. The key was enclosed in this letter.

Another is a letter postmarked 'Washington, D. C. Free,' 'Jun 22,' on the outside of which appears the words 'Official Business, Auditor's Office of the Treasury for the P. O. Dept.' This letter dated 1853 and is number 85, a printed form letter.

Another official letter postmarked 'Washington, D. C. Mar. 23, Free' from the dead letter office enclosing letter with the post mark of the dead letter office, the numeral five written in ink in the top right hand corner and also a large capital H printed in red in this letter being dated Mar. 23, 1855.

Another is an official letter enclosing a printed form of the department's blue paper headed 'New Postage Act Instructions to Postmasters, calling attention to the new act passed at the session of Congress, giving the act and instructions in regard to the observance of this act.' This letter is dated Mar. 12, 1855, and signed by the Postmaster-General.

Among these letters are numerous others mailed between 1850 and '55 with only postmarks of the city from which they are mailed and having no stamp thereon. One of these is dated Philadelphia, Sept. 11, 1850, having the postmark in a circle in the upper right-hand corner and the numeral 5 cents; in the upper left hand corner the words PAID. Several others were found bearing the postmarks of various places in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Among the various covers was found a letter from Montreal, Canada, in the upper right hand corner in red ink a postmark enclosed in a circle and written across this in ink, printed the words PAID. In the upper left hand corner the word CANADA and in the lower left hand corner in red ink a postmark word Montreal C. July 24, 1853."

Such items are always interesting even though the covers do not contain adhesive stamps and it is encouraging to note that, although still limited, the collecting of them is becoming more and more general. I would not be surprised if the time would come when there would be quite a scramble for interesting covers before stamps.

We have received a letter from Stephen Thomas from which we quote the following:—"Note the old price-list enclosed. They are so interesting to me as a stamp collector that I thought perhaps you could use them to advantage. Note the prices this man in Virginia offered for rarities in the 80's. The Exchange that Mr. Stern paid $10,000 for last summer is wanted only on the envelope and in good condition at $5. The 5c black 1845 New York 50c cat. The Brattleboro at $25! And the same is true of the Millbury, Providence, New Haven, St. Louis, etc. Also note the prices paid for the 1847 5c and 1c. The prices used or unused are 5c and 10c respectively. These prices certainly give one a jolt. As a boy I am certainly crazy over old U. S. and I appreciate anything that is written concerning them. I found the articles on the blue shifts very interesting."

JUST Good U. S.

Mr. — wrote that he had been noticing my ads for some time and on several occasions had intended to write me. Now he is one of my regular customers.

If you are one of the "intenders", delay no longer, for some mighty good U. S. are passing through my hands every day.

If you must have very fine copies, I can furnish them at market prices. If just good copies are sufficient, I can offer them at prices which are sure to please you.

My stamps cost me good money, so let's "swap" references. Mine A.S.D.A. No. 200. What's yours?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mr. Bertrand L. Drew of Boston was in Chicago at the Great Northern showing the attractive lots in his auction sale of the Herbert stamps and during the time of his stay, many of the collectors of that city took advantage of the opportunity to inspect the superb line of stamps that is to be sold on March 31st at the rooms of the Boston Philatelic Society.

—Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer has placed himself in the hands of his friends and says as much in a modest announcement of his willingness to run for the presidency of the American Philatelic Society. As will be noticed elsewhere, the Philadelphia Branch of the A. P. S. has nominated him and three vice-presidents from Kansas City, Mo., as well as other directors.

—The post-office department has been notified from the office at Moscow, Russia, that hereafter the city of Petrograd will be called Leningrad.

—The 34th annual banquet of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club was scheduled for March 22, 1924. An exhibition was to precede the banquet and from a description of the stamps, it is easy to believe that some of the best stamps in the city of Cleveland were on display.

—On Tuesday, March 10, four men entered the jewelry store of John Kay, Detroit, bound and gagged the proprietor and looted show-cases of diamonds and other precious stones valued at $7,000. The robbery was apparently the work of professional gunmen and was planned and timed in such a way that nothing interfered with the robbers from the time they entered the building until they escaped among the throngs in the shopping district. Mr. Kay is well known in Detroit philately.

—We are advised of a new stamp club called the Graceland Philatelic Club, organized recently in Chicago. The president, C. Archer, informs us that it has eighty-six members living in Chicago and a considerable number outside.

—J. L. Riedel on a business trip through Italy and Switzerland writes us from Venice and the stamps used upon the envelope include some of the new Italian provisionals. The 7½ cent. on 85c was represented by four copies and the 50 cent. on 40c by two copies.

—A rather bad mistake occurred in the advertising of the Hub Postage Stamp Co. for March 10 and 17. Some 75c parcel post stamps were offered ten for 12c, when the price should have been $1.20. The mistake was upon the part of the firm and not the printer.

—Paul P. Murray of the Fennell Stamp Co. calls our attention to an error in a recent news item. Miss Brown, who has been elected president of the local stamp society in St. Louis is Miss Lillian M. Brown and not as it was incorrectly printed.

—The Mystic Stamp Co., Camden, N. Y., sends us their illustrated price-list No. 15, containing a wide range of stamp offerings and accessories. A special feature of the list consists of dealer outfits for beginners. It is a pretentious list of sixteen pages finely illustrated.

We are crediting the Pinckneyville Library subscription to Mr. Guy, who however, intimates that "a few local collectors" are responsible for this attempt to "cultivate the philatelic glebe of the city and possibly recruit some new fans." Mr. Guy condemns in a no uncertain tone the proposition to issue a special stamp to commemorate the Philadelphia Exposition. We quote from his letter:—

"If Europe desires to prostitute fair Philatelia for every passing whim and caprice, that is its affair, deplorable as it may seem, but let us keep our own issues above reproach."

The WEEKLY was very glad of the opportunity recently of writing up the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sterling of Trenton, N. J. We are breaking no confidence in stating that our longtime friend and philatelist was pleased with our tribute to the event. Mr. Sterling now joins the ranks of those who propose to donate the WEEKLY to local libraries, as will be seen by the entry of the Free Public Library of Trenton upon our list.

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

WILSON D. WOOD—A REAL PROGRESSIVE.

Mr. Wilson D. Wood of Kansas City, Mo., vice-president of the Peoples Trust Company, is a real Kansan, having been born in Miami County in that state in 1885. That he is an ardent philatelist who keeps closely in touch with philatelic affairs is known to his friends and it is to his credit that he is always ready to avow himself as a stamp collector in a public sense. We believe that he has progressive ideas for the advancement of the pursuit and that he has done good service in spreading the gospel among the benighted. As proving the "class" of Mr. Wood, we may say that some months ago he was elected president of the Co-operative Club, whose roster includes the names of about all the big business men of Kansas City; and it was in the Cooperator, the official publication of the Club, that the cut that we now reproduce appeared originally. Mr. Wood as a collector is most at home with good U. S. and it is understood, too, that he has an inclination for British North America; and we are told that his stamp assets are considerable, to put it mildly.

For an account of Mr. Wood's activities, we are indebted to the Cooperator; and we may add that he is a member of our Five-Year Club:—

"On January 1, 1909, he entered the real estate business under the name of Wilson D. Wood & Co., taking an office in the new Finance Building before elevators were operated. This business was absorbed in 1917, by the Peoples Trust Co., which had just been organized. He is now Vice-President of this institution. The deposits of the bank have grown from $790,000 on the opening day, to approximately seven and one-half million dollars.

Mr. Wood is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, Knife and Fork Club, The Automobile Club, The Mission Hills Country Club, The Kansas City Club, has served as a Director and Treasurer of the Real Estate Board for the past two years, and is a member of the Board of Deacons of the Country Club Christian Church. He is one of the early members of the American Philatelic Society, and served as the first president of the Kansas City Stamp Club, having been an active philatelist since his school days."

HE KNOWS WHAT'S WHAT.

Dear Ed:

I've a couple things on my chest that must come off, and they ain't mustard plasters either. One is this idea of Phil Ward's of a Wilson Memorial Stamp, and the other is the little matter of a philatelic exhibition stamp proposed by your esteemed self.

Now I always did think a lot of Wilson, and I'm no dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, either. Wilson will be known as one of our big men some day, you see if he isn't,—but I'm teetotally opposed to any special stamp in his memory. This sort of thing can easily be overdone, and such a stamp would not only detract from the distinctiveness of the Harding stamp, but would only pave the way for more, and we would soon be having memorial stamps for all our ex-presidents and great men when they die.

Woodrow Wilson should be and can be memorialized in a much more fitting and lasting manner. And if we want to commemorate him with a stamp, I say wait until we need a new value or a new series, and then put his portrait on one of the regular stamps, the same as we have some of our other great men. That would be a hundred percent more appropriate thing to do than to get out one of these over-night, temporary, special stamps.

And I wonder if Phil Ward ever looked at the other side of it. Postal clerks hate these special issues, and the postmasters won't requisition them if they can help it, because they are a nuisance. Just the other day I mailed a registered package with a block of sevens on it (you win, it was an A. P. S. circuit) and the clerk was all for stickin' on some more, thinkin' they were Hardings. Uncle Sam got stuck with a lot of Victories, and maybe it'll be the same with the Hardings. And then consider the poor precan fan. Why, I know a feller out in Gopher Prairie's got 777 varieties of precancelled Hardings, and still going strong. I hate to think of him havin' to turn right around and grab off leventy seven varieties of Wilson stamps. It'd bust him.

And now I guess you know how I feel about that philatelic stamp, too. All I gotta say about that is, if it comes off, let's have a reproduction of that G. O. K. (grand old classic) No. 38 on it. Then we can do like that Neuropo bunch does, pay two cents for postage, and 30 cents for indigent philatelickers. And every little Podunk with a Main St. and Precan Hound in it can forever glorify said leading cit. by precancelling this stamp with his name and address, between bars rampant, thusly: "BiLi JonEs, 13 AppLe GrEen Bully ard, PiowatY, IOWay." Make it U-53.

Anyway, when Nov. 4 comes around, I don't vote for no candidate with either stamp on his platform. That's my moratorium, I mean ultimato.

Yours, etc.,

E. J. NEWCOMER.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

Edited by FRED'K W. ALLEN,
312 Walnut St., Minneapolis, Minn.

Today (March 10), I received the first new nine cent from Mr. Wm. Prinzing. This was Waco, Tex., handstamped.

Three cities are, to my knowledge, using the new dollar stamp precancelled. Hamilton, Ohio (U-9 h. s.), was the first to appear. Messrs. Hilbert and Clarkson have shown me copies. Chicago (U-1) reading up, takes second place. Oddly enough my first copy was sent in from Mr. Donald A. King of Halifax, N. S. It is interesting to note that most of the Chicago dollar precancels go out of this country. Mr. Benj. Cadbury has also favored me with mention of this variety. The third city is Stockton, Calif., which is using them in the handstamped type (U-21). They read up and down, and were called to my attention by Mr. S. J. Jones.

New York, Van Nuys, Calif., Long Island City, Philadelphia, and St. Paul have shown up on the 6 cent Garfield and it shall undoubtedly be pretty generally used within a short time.

The 8 and 11 cent values are becoming quite plentiful as well as the 3 cent.

The 12 cent Cleveland has not been precancelled as yet, nor the 30 cent, 50 cent, 2 or 5 dollars. I shall appreciate readers calling the first usage of these to my attention, when they appear.

Why the 14 and 25 cent denominations are so scarce, I am at a loss to say. It was believed that these would become quite common. Mayhaps they will when their newness wears off. Several collectors are hunting "Indians" with a vim. The stamp has its attractions, I'll admit.

I consider the 20 cent Golden Gate the beauty of the whole series. It is well that this should be so because this denomination has such a tremendous usage.

To sum up the new issues it may be said that they are coming slowly and steadily, which is preferable to a sudden deluge. It shall be some time before the superseding process is complete.

The Harding precancels are still mounting in number. Prof. A. F. Gamber informs me that his collection numbers nearly 800 varieties. The peak has not quite been reached in my opinion. I believe the military crest has just been left behind, that the peak will be gained in several months and then the new varieties will gradually subside. Three thousand is not an improbable calculation of the varieties which will be eventually known. There are hundreds which will be unknown for some time to come, but which will gradually come to light after the rush subsides. Minneapolis received a shipment of 15,000,000 Hardings in February and has precancelled a large number.

The Bureau printed precancels have become an important factor. In the March Precancel Gazette there appears a timely article which may justly be termed a "scoop" in precancel journalism. It is so complete and full of interesting information that I take the opportunity to reproduce it in our column this week:—

"Collectors of precancels were very much interested to be informed last summer that the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington, D. C., which has for years been responsible for the printing of our postage stamps, decided that precancelling would also be done at the Bureau. A committee of investigation was especially appointed by Mr. Glover, and as a result a process was discovered in combination with the rotary press so that printing, gumming, perforating and precancelling were all done in one operation.

The following letter from Mr. Glover gives us important precancel news. We reproduce as follows: ' . . . After an exhaustive study of the rotary process by this committee, it was decided to experiment with the rotary presses for the purpose of precancelling postage stamps. As a result of this experiment a printing attachment has been perfected, whereby the precancelling is done at the same time the stamps are printed.

The first experiment run was made the latter part of April, 1923, and New York City was the office selected for that purpose. The first order, consisting of 54,600,000 one-cent stamps, was shipped May 3, 1923. Since that date, one-cent precancelled stamps in sheets have been furnished a total of 53 offices.

The experiment for the precancelling of 1c postage stamps in sheets having proved such a success, it was decided, in view of the heavy demand for precancelled stamps in coils, to experiment with the presses which manufacture them. This experiment has also proven very successful and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is now precancelling 1c and 2c stamps in coils. The first order was shipped to New York City on January 17, 1924, consisting of 11,405,000 1c stamps. Since that date the offices enumerated below have been furnished postage stamps in coils:

Chicago, Ill. 3,000,000—2c

Boston, Mass.50,000,000—1c

Boston, Mass. 4,000,000—2c

Washington, D. C. 2,085,000—1c

Arrangements are now being made to proceed with the precancelling of the 2c denomination in sheets, and it is hoped that within the next few weeks the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will be able to furnish the larger post-offices with this denomination precancelled.

The experiments to date, having proved that this work can be done at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at a big saving to the Government, it is hoped that after the demand for the 1c and 2c denominations has been met that postage stamps of the higher denominations can also be precancelled at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and shipped direct to postmasters in the original packages. Of course this will take considerable time to accomplish, but eventually the precancelling in the field will be confined to the smaller offices which have permission to sell these stamps to patrons having authority of the Department to use them."

have found favor with collectors who enjoy exchanging with other collectors. One of the interesting things of the precancel hobby is the possibility of a collector picking up some nice pieces from his territory which are readily exchanged for similar pickups made by other collectors.

It costs you nothing to investigate the worth of this new branch of United States stamp collecting.

We will give you the following items FREE:

EDITORIAL.

"If they would make capital out of the 'mistake' that the authorities would work by issuing the special stamp for philately, how about the proposed set for the Huguenot celebration?" writes an old subscriber, who continues: "If the government is bent on issuing commemoratives, what worthier subject for recognition by a stamp could be advanced over philately? Stamp lovers can best appreciate the 'sentiment of the postage stamp' while others who foster special stamps may have axes to grind. Anyway, they probably calculate the advertising advantages to be derived much in the way that the press-agent schemes to get publicity for the 'star.' We want to share a good thing with 'non-users' and a stamp for philately is an appropriate way to bring stamps to the doors of all the outsiders. While we argue about ethics, the other fellows purloin the bacon. We do not object to stamps for the other circles but we do not want any for ourselves." We are keeping the discussion about the proposed philatelic stamp within bounds and the various slants, mentally, of our readers, are interesting revelations of philatelic zeal, as it is not to be doubted that both the pros and antis are actuated by a wish to serve the best interests of stamp collecting.

It is seen that there is a marked division of opinion in the philatelic camp and that it is hopeless to predict that the factions can get together on the question of a stamp. In line with the idea of compromise, the following letter from Mr. Michael Miller of Baltimore, in which he brings his legal mind to bear on the subject, is timely: "I read with considerable interest the discussion relative to the proposed issuance of a special stamp for the International Philatelic Exhibition at Philadelphia in 1926. I am of the opinion that some special recognition ought to be given philatelists, yet at the same time I do not believe that our country should get in the class that issue commemorative stamps upon every excuse. We ought to reach a happy medium, so that when we honor our hobby, we do so in a dignified manner. Philadelphia at the same time is going to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Historically, this marks the beginning of our American government and those who are students remember the difficulties of the states under the confederation, until the federal constitution was adopted and George Washington elected president. Now the series that will be issued to commemorate the exhibition in Philadelphia should indicate the growth of the country since then, particularly as to the various departments under executive control, as at no time has such general recognition been given. The post-office department stamp can then have as a distinctive feature, philately to feature the stamp exhibition. A special philatelic stamp under the guise of the department series would then give us a stamp in a dignified way and no one could then register serious or meritorious objection." Mr. Miller assumes that a series of stamps will be issued in 1926 to celebrate the Philadelphia exhibition and under that assumption, his ideas are in order.

Glancing through Alfred M. Hitchcock's "Enlarged Practice-Book in English Composition," published by Henry Holt & Co., 1910, the following sentence catches the eye: "Finally, try to become interested in words; learn to respect them. Studying coins and stamps is not a foolish fad, neither is collecting picture postals; but words are more interesting than coins or stamps or postals and better worth studying." Mr. Hitchcock knows more about words than about postage stamps and it is certain that he has seen the dictionary many times, but it is a question whether he has ever seen a stamp collection of the times. We welcome the use of stamp collecting by writers in almost any connection but it would be advisable for them to have first-hand information about philately, even though it may seem to them to be a somewhat inconsequential pursuit. As for the person who asperses stamp collecting without knowing anything about it, he may be combated by Herbert Spencer's dictum: "There is a principle which is a bar against all information, which is proof against all argument and which cannot fail to keep a man in everlasting ignorance. This principle is contempt prior to examination."

The experience of a collector as related to us shows that condition in stamps is of paramount importance and that it may be cashed in to advantage. This collector says that several years ago he began to keep cheap stamps in an album, as a foil to his specialized collection, and that he added only beautiful copies of the common stamps to the secondary book. He kept at the work until he had about five thousand stamps each one of which was a beauty that cost him very little in the aggregate. He happened to show the album to a dealer who, of his own volition, said that he would give the owner twenty-five dollars for the collection because of the striking condition of the stamps. The dealer admitted that if the stamps were of the usual run of condition he would not have cared for them, except at a "give away" price. It pays to get even the stamps catalogued at a cent each in the best condition possible.

The Kristiania Filatelist-Klub has sent out circulars announcing that the first international stamp exhibition in Norway will be held in Christiania from the 19th to the 28th of September, 1924, under the patronage of King Haakon VII. The prospectus of the exhibition is in preparation and we have no doubt but that it will confirm our belief that the forthcoming occasion will be one to merit all consideration. The philatelic spirit runs high in Norway and it is predicted that the co-operation of philatelists generally will be extended to the Christiania club to make the exhibition a success. King Haakon's recognition of philately is very acceptable and will have its influence in commending stamp collecting to the people. A number of American collectors have been asked to associate themselves with the exhibition as members of the "Committee of Honour."

"Gussie Gurgle" asks us what designs we expect to submit as appropriate for the proposed philatelic stamp and without waiting for an answer says: "A stamp tongs would make a cute design or a typical boy collector, all slicked up in his Sunday clothes or a group picture of the delegates to the convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association or Mr. Wylie addressing the Rotary Club on stamps or a collector telling his puzzled inamorata about the beauties of the stamp or the mortgage that is 'lifted' on the old home by a 'find' in the nick of time in the old hair-trunk in the attic or a 'close-up' of the man who slept and snored during the reading of a paper at the meeting of the stamp society or the auctioneer knocking down a lot to the lucky man in the throng of excited bidders or the 'stamp hunter' plying his argument with the unresponsive custodian of the old court house remote from the railroad or the new officers being installed in the American Philatelic Society or a big dealer personally selecting the stamps included in the want-list of some hundreds of cheap stamps or an old-timer telling the boys of the good old days when collectors exchanged stamp for stamp or"—(The End!)

MARK CLIMAX THAT WONDER PACKET $1.02
 102 VARIETIES.

As soon as we saw the overwhelming response this M. C. brought, we sent a long RADIOGRAM to several large wholesalers in Europe. After a long wait during which we stripped our retail stock to make packets, we got the glad news that enough stock was on the way to keep the MARK CLIMAX running. One man has ordered it in blocks of EIGHT and hundreds have been sold in blocks of four and singles.

Send for THE MARK CLIMAX today and buy the best German packet on the market. By buying thousands of sets at a time, it stands to reason that we can assemble the best packet for your money. Remember, 80 varieties between August and December, 1923. Nothing older than 1922. You will never regret buying THE MARK CLIMAX.

BRITISH STAMPS USED ABROAD.

By EDWARD F. WEED.

I use the term used abroad, rather than the term Colonial Postmarked because all of these stamps were not used in British Colonies.

A great deal has been written about cancellations on United States stamps, but very little, at least in this country, about British Stamps, and few collectors recognize them when they see the stamps. It is for those who do not know, that this article is written, in the hope that greater interest may be awakened, and new varieties might come to light, for it is a most interesting field of Philately.

The British Post Offices, in many cases simply a Consular Office, of Malta, Gibraltar, Constantinople, and the West Indies first used British in the year 1857, followed soon after by Egypt and South America. The British Post Offices in China, Japan, Levant were established some years later, British stamps were in use in most of the West Indian Islands for two or three years, and until 1885 in Malta, Gibraltar, China, and South America, until 1862 in Japan and the Straits Settlements, and are still in use in Constantinople, and the Levant.

The post-marks can be divided into four classes. 1. Circular, with Town name, month, day, year, Type No. 1.
 2. Letter and Number, usually struck in conjunction with number one, Types
 No. 2 and No. 2a. 3. Letter only, Type
 No. 3. 4. Number only as in Type No.
 2a (Type No. 4).

The commonest is type No. 2 and No.
 2a, with type No. 1 next, followed by
 No. 3, while type No. 4 is really quite rare.

In some cases previous to the use of the cancellation die in the British Post Offices Abroad, the same die letter and number was used in English Towns, and subsequently to their discontinuance were used again in English Towns.

To give a complete list of all the stamps used giving their various plate numbers would be beyond the scope of this article, but a very good list, far from complete however, is in the Gibbons Catalog.

UNITED STATES

The Scarce Type I (Scott's Type IV) No. 532

This variety—hastily made after a number of the engraved plates had been ruined through inferior ink, was for a while exceedingly scarce in imperforate condition, for only a few sheets fell into the hands of collectors at Chicago—the balance being cut up by the Schermack Company into private coils. Later more were found at the Pittsburgh Postoffice. The variety is still very desirable and lists in Scott's Specialized Catalog at 75c. I can furnish superb mint singles at 40c, pairs at 80c and blocks at $1.50. Offer a complete set consisting of four plate blocks of six, the four arrow blocks and the center line block, forty stamps in all, at $25.00 per set. These have been selling at between $60.00 to $100.00. I have never seen any of the above offered at less and a fortunate purchase enables me to furnish these at the above figures.

What else do you need in U. S. 20th Century in mint blocks or singles? My stock of these varieties is second to none and I can furnish practically everything with the exception of some of the errors.

UNITED STATES.—Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary Series.—I am officially informed that the new Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary Series of postage stamps will be placed on sale on May 1st, and will consist of three denominations, namely a 1c green, a 2c carmine and a 5c blue. It has now been decided that the stamps will be the size of the former parcel post series and will be printed in sheets of two hundred, which will be distributed in post-office panes of fifty. The stamps will have in the upper corners the year dates, 1624 and 1924, in the center will have a design in a semi-circle, across the top "Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary." The figures of value will be in the corner with "Cents" across the bottom.

The design of the 1c will be the good ship "New Netherlands" which brought the early settlers over. This illustration is similar to the design of the new 50c piece issued to commemorate the same event. The 2c will have the Landing at Fort Orange, which is now Albany, and on the 5c we have a picture of the marker, which is now being located at Mayport, Florida, the landing place of one of the early lot of settlers.

When the stamps go on sale on May 1st they will be obtainable at Mayport, at Albany, at New York, and in several other cities connected with the early settlements of the Huguenots and Walloons.

1847, 5c, Portrait by Longacre.—The Philadelphia Bulletin has been running daily a short paragraph devoted to some prominent Pennsylvanian and in a recent issue this paragraph was devoted to James Barton Longacre, who is of interest to us in view of the fact that he was the artist who engraved the portrait of Franklin, which we find on the 5c 1847. The information which the article furnished seems to be somewhat more interesting than anything I have read heretofore about Longacre. He was born in Delaware County, August 11, 1794, and died in Philadelphia on January 1, 1869. He was descended from one of the early Swedish settlers on the Delaware, the family name originally being Longker. Having attracted the attention of John F. Watson, the author of the "Annals of Philadelphia," he was taken into the latter's family, given employment in his bookstore and later apprenticed to George Murray, the engraver, to develop an apparent talent for art. In 1819 he set up for himself and soon attracted attention for his engraved portrait of General Jackson from Sully's picture. For the next decade some of the best works published in this country were illustrated by him. About 1831 he conceived the idea, in collaboration with James Herring, portrait painter, of New York, of "The National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans," to include portraits done in the best style, with biographical notices written by literary men of established reputation. The first volume appeared in 1834, and after 1839, on Herring's withdrawal, he continued the work alone. Many of the 147 portraits were drawn from life by Longacre himself and he engraved twenty-four of them. From 1844 until his death he was engraver of the United States Mint and designed all the new coins struck during that period, including the double-eagle, the three-dollar piece and the gold dollar. A year or two before his death he remodeled the entire coinage of the Chilean Government.

1861, 1c, Block of 15 Cover.—Mr. E. Tudor Gross has submitted for inspection a very attractive cover found by Colonel Chamberlain some months back addressed to Colonel E. Anson Moore, Quarter Master General's Department, St. Louis, Missouri. On the back of the cover is a block of fifteen of the light shade 1c blue, issue of 1861, in addition to three extra copies, two of the extra copies being in a deep shade, the cover is postmarked Warrensburg, Md., 19 Feb., in black. The block is pinned to the cover by means of a black bar cancellation. As far as I know, this is the largest block on cover in any collection today.

New Die 2c Circular Envelope.—Mr. Frank E. Robbins submits for inspection what seems to be a new die of the 2c circular envelope. On casual glance it looks as if it might be the well known die H, but it differs from this die in that the T's of STATES are long and are not at right angles to the upward strokes. The NTS of CENTS are closer together at the top than in the die H. I have written to Washington to learn as to whether this is something new or if an old die has been recut. The

ELGIUM.—The forthcoming Leopold commemoratives have already been recast in these columns, and the subject extract from L'Etoile Belge, of January 17th (for which we are indebted to Mr. H. Benedictus, of Brussels), is an interesting sidelight thereon.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the 'Leopold Epaulet.' On July 1, 1849, the Belgian postage stamp made its appearance—a portrait of Leopold I, called the 'large epaulet.' This figure, universally known and sought for its artistic beauty, was the work of the sculptor, Wiener. On the occasion of the seventy-fifth anniversary of its issue the 'Amicale philatelique' is organizing an exhibition at the Palais d'Egmont from May 28th to June 4th. On its part, the postal administration, wishing to commemorate the anniversary, has decided on the issue of a Jubilee stamp, which will be sold exclusively at the exhibition. The set will contain values from 10 centimes to 10 francs. The design will represent, to the left and leaning to that side a textual reproduction of the 1849 stamp (Leopold I); to the right, and also leaning to that side, the portrait of King Albert (same size);

in the angle at the centre, laurels surmounted by the Royal Crown; in the two lower angles, also laurels. The whole of the drawing is, we are told, beautiful; the talent of the engraver, M.
Montenez, is, however, known.

We are also told that the postal administration has constituted a committee under the presidency of M. Pirard, entrusted to arrange a programme on this occasion which coincides exactly with the fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Universal Postal Union. This committee is considering the distribution of a distinction to all fonction-naires having completed twenty-five years' good and loyal services on July 1, 1924."—Stamp Collecting.

BRITISH NEW GUINEA.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal reports that the New Guinea series which is to take the place of the present Northwest Pacific is still in preparation but need not be looked for until some time after the new Naurus appear.

CANAL ZONE.—We have received from
Mr. Emil J. Rall specimens of the new 1c stamp. The color is green and the same design as the 2c recently noted.

LATVIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski advises that there has been issued a 2Lat. stamp superseding Scott's No. 112, same design as the other only instead of 100 rubli value it reads 2 Lat.

NAURU.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal states that they have heard that the new pictorial series has been seen although it is not yet issued. The design is simple and reminiscent of the 1904 5c, of Liberia. The central design is taken from a photo of the coast of Ocean Island.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. Emil J. Rall has shown us the 1c purple with the surcharge "R. de C. 1924" in two lines in blue.

PANAMA.—Mr. Emil J. Rall informs us that the new 1c stamp has not as yet been placed on sale at the Panama post-office although the stamp has been issued for use in Canal Zone.

POLAND.—Mr. Lloyd B. Blough calls attention to a 10mk slate blue stamp, type of Scott's A27, which has been overprinted "50,000mk." And further a value of 100,000mk has been surcharged on the 5mk red violet, type A10.

RUSSIA.—We are indebted to Mr.
Stephen Thomas and Mr. L. Grey for copies of the Lenin stamp. The color is black with a border of red on the outside and the stamps are imperforate.
The value is 20r.

Mr. Karl Koslowski also sends in a copy of a 3k of the same design and colors and adds that there is also a 6k value with a gold color border.

Why Has Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News Attained Its Present Pre-eminent Position in the Stamp World?

Because it enables many thousands of the keenest stamp collectors in North America to get in weekly touch with the dealers and thus to know the latest fine things they have to offer.

I am breaking up a marvellous collection of old postage stamps nearly all issued before 1890. I am remounting these stamps in small 40 page books which just fits a small registered envelope. Price is all in dollars and cents, absolutely net, some are 25% under catalogue, some are 35% below catalogue and some cheaper than that, others are full catalogue and a few choice items are over catalogue, but prices are what I consider real market value based on over 35 years experience of the stamp trade of the world.

I have nearly 200 books now priced up. Here are a few of the more recent:—

MEXICO 20TH CENTURY

Following is an almost complete listing of the regular and Civil War issues of this turbulent country as shown in Scott's 1924 catalog. Most Collectors need these stamps and have found them really difficult to obtain. All of the surcharges are guaranteed absolutely genuine, having come from an entirely reliable source, and anything purchased can be returned at any time if not as described. All stamps are in the finest possible condition, with full gum if unused (unless issued without gum), and with actual postal cancellation if used. Special attention is called to the complete sheets of white and green seals of Sonora, also the complete sheets of all printings of the "Oaxaca" issue. Check this list with your collection NOW, and send in your order while the scarce items are in stock.

All stamps are used unless marked * indicating unused. For the benefit of my customers abroad I have indicated in parentheses () the numbers according to Yvert et Tellier's 1924 Catalog.

The above prices are net, but on purchase of $15.00 or over a discount of 5% will be allowed, and purchases of $50.00 or over are subject to 10% discount.

Of course, many scarce items not listed above are in stock, among which are many used singles, also various combinations on cover, varieties of surcharge, double, inverted, etc., also color trials and various un-official issues. These are all priced reasonably, and will be sent on approval to anyone interested.

Mr. Collector: I have been handling issues of South and Central America EXCLUSIVELY since 1916, and have a large and valuable stock. What do you need in these countries?

DOUGLAS P. BALL 108 SOUTH LA SALLE ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

Gimbel Brothers of Philadelphia and contains a number of fine features. There is a message from Amundsen to Gimbel Brothers, also a halftone of the great explorer, pictures of the postcard sold by Gimbel Brothers for $1, a picture of the airplane that will be used, and we note a commendation of the enterprise from Edward Stern of the Economist Stamp Co., "a leading postage stamp expert."

—Speaking of long distance subscribers, I have been a continuous subscriber since 1891—thirty-three years—and would not like to have to do without it.

It is the ideal philatelic paper.—T. RUSSELL HUNGERFORD.

—We are informed that the auction sale that will be held at Detroit this summer during the convention of the American Philatelic Society will be conducted by B. L. Voorhees of Chicago.

—Our attention has been called to the fact that Charles S. Patteson died recently at St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Patteson was a devoted collector and had an exceedingly fine lot of stamps. His duties carried him through the large cities of the country and many dealers and collectors have had the privilege of personal contact with him. His collection will doubtless be held intact by his widow, who is herself very much interested in philately.

—"I have received a pair of postage stamps of each denomination of the present issue from the Philippine Islands, and have noticed two of them not yet mentioned in Scott's catalogue or in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS so far as I am concerned. They are the following:—Unwatermarked, perf. 11; 2 pesos, violet brown; unwatermarked, perf. 10; 1 peso, purple."—W. AUSTIN AMORY.

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER.

By WILLIAM BUTLER.

Ellis Parker Butler wanted to be a blacksmith but instead became America's foremost humorist. Just how he accomplished this Mr. Butler does not say, perhaps the fact that he has been writing and selling fiction and verse since he could wield a pen has something to do with it.

Contrary to the usual trend of opinion Mr. Butler declares it is "easy" to write. Some authors are at their best in the quiet of the country while others prefer the noisy bustling city but the "would-be blacksmith" can write equally as well as a boilersmith or in a tomb.

Regarding this, Mr. Butler says: "I am a people who think it is easy to write right. Anyone with some attention to details of the business can become a writer. But the only fiction worth a hoot is that written by the man or woman who has born in him or her the thing called genius. I don't claim to have more than one per cent. of it in my make-up, but I know mighty well that I have a touch. If I hadn't I'd quit writing and go into business and make a million dollars."

The remark is typical of the man. Mr. Butler was born in Muscatine, Iowa, in December, 1869, which makes him just fifty-three years old. Unlike some men he is not sensitive about age, in fact, he is quite proud about it. So proud, in fact, that he wrote a book about it with the name of "How it feels to be fifty." Leaving high school at the beginning of the second year he filled various mercantile positions in his native city, but evidently life in the middle west proved rather tame for the "Great White Way" made itself felt even in Iowa as succumbing to the lure he made travel for Broadway and the "Lobster Palace."

Arriving in New York in 1897 Mr. Butler engaged in trade journalism some years and served on the staffs of various journals. He was for a year Assistant Editor of The Tailors Review then he acted in the same capacity of Wallpaper News. In partnership with a friend he established The Decorative Furnisher, a monthly published in New York City, and was its capable editor for six years. During this time Mr. Butler had been contributing to many magazines, but finding no scope for humorous railery in trade journals he gave up the editorship and since 1901 has devoted his time exclusively to authorship.

As a humorist Mr. Butler will not make an introduction. His work is known all over and few books have had a larger sale than "Pigs is Pigs," which is his most successful book. In Mr. Butler's opinion "The Jack Knife Man" is his best book. This is a Mississippi tale and has been admirably motivated.

One book per year is Mr. Butler's pace. His method of writing is simple; he merely takes a sheet of paper and means of a typewriter, pen or pencil writes some words on it. Inspiration does the rest. The logical question is: who does he get the inspiration? That's a secret! His next effusions, "Ghosts What Ain't" and "Jibby Jones," are appearing this year. Besides writing books Mr. Butler is a contributor of humor to the better periodicals and his stories appear in many magazines. As might be expected he is the best raconteur in the State of New York, and is also the President of the Authors' League of America. Mr. Butler is a member of the A. P.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly at the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the law of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

GOOD MORNING! Stamp Dealers!

You have done well, and I am really pleased with your many orders that have been received for my partly filled approval books. They have gone like hot cakes, but there are still

PLENTY MORE ON HAND!

But what pleases me is that those that have bought one or more of the books

HAVE BEEN PLEASED, TOO.

I could give you plenty of testimonials from pleased purchasers, but just the following will do:

March 5, 1924. Dear Mr. Handshaw: Enclosed please find $— remittance for our 4 wholesale books. They were indeed splendid value for the money. Please send more. Yours truly,

THE FIRST PROVISIONAL WAR STAMPS OF MAFIA.

In "War Stamps of the Allies, 1914-20," on page 53, reference is made to some German East African postage stamps, which were overprinted "G. R. Mafia" in the early days of the British occupation. At that time information relating to this issue was of the slightest, but subsequent data established the authenticity of the issue beyond all doubt, and accordingly it is now listed (in part) in the latest edition of Field's War Stamp Catalogue.

Quite recently we have ascertained the true and particular history of the first Mafia provisionals on authority of the former Military Governor of the island, the upshot of which is that there were actually three series albeit of a restricted character, sold by the Mafia Post Office prior to that listed by Gibbons as numbers 1 to 5. When a British force took possession of the considerable island of Mafia, situate off the coast of German East Africa, in January, 1915, the stock of ex-German Colonial postage stamps in the Post Office at Kilindoni Harbour was impounded. The native traders soon began to complain that they had no stamps with which to prepay their letters, as the Post Office at Zanzibar refused to accept them with the former German stamps; accordingly the Military Governor himself cut out of soft rubber a crude handstamp, consisting of the words "G. R. Mafia," which was impressed on a few of the Deutsche Ost Afrika stamps by a Goanese clerk. The Zanzibar Post Office, through which all correspondence from Mafia had to pass, agreed to recognise these overprinted stamps, and as the original imprint did not show up clearly enough, forwarded a set of metal type to be used for further impressions. Thus it comes about that varieties of impression may be differentiated between those stamps overprinted from the rubber stamp and the others struck in metal type. All values of German East African postage stamps from 2½ heller to 3 rupees exist with the "G. R. Mafia" overprint, and were undoubtedly used for postal purposes in the latter part of January, 1915. No postmark being available at Mafia, letters were only cancelled and dated on arrival at Zanzibar. Of the values 1 to 3 rupees, not more than twelve to fifteen copies received this overprint, but of the lower denominations, from 2½ to 40 heller, about 40 complete sets were issued.

The same overprint may be found upon certain stamps of Zanzibar and also of British India, the practice being thus to invalidate any Imperial stamps in the hands of the trading community to enable them to communicate with the outer world. Some months later a special die, inscribed "G. R. Post 6 cents Mafia," was obtained from the Postal Administration of East Africa and Uganda at Nairobi, and was used to overprint another small supply of German East African stamps, as well as some Indians and Zanzibars. This type of overprint was in use for a very short time, and is even scarcer than the "G. R. Mafia." Only one complete set of the rupee values is believed to exist, and, at the most, there were ten of the "heller" denominations. They must therefore be accounted amongst the rarest British war stamps.

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer them for sale at very reasonable prices. The years in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books is $2 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds. This offer is for immediate acceptance.

The Trans-Polar Flight Expedition

THE Norwegian Government will issue a special postage stamp for this occasion, which will only be in use on the day of the flight. This stamp will be affixed to a special card (illustrated above), neatly engraved by the American Bank Note Company. On one side is the inscription "Trans-Polar Flight Expedition" in black, on which is to be affixed a 2c United States stamp that will carry the card to Christiania, Norway. It will be retained at the Post Office there until the day of the flight. The opposite side of the card is inscribed "North Pole Mail" in green, showing an airplane approaching the North Pole. A space is provided for your address to which the card will be mailed during the flight. The special airplane stamp will be placed on this side and cancelled "Norwegian Flying Expedition, North Pole Mail". Only a limited number will be issued, just sufficient for the quantity of cards printed. This stamp can only be obtained by purchasing a card to which it will be attached after it reaches Christiania, Norway.

The price charged by the committee is

One Dollar per Card

The funds so obtained are to be used to assist in financing the expedition. After this one printing we are assured that the plate will be destroyed. We cannot state definitely at this time what the color of the stamp will be, but the design is a polar bear looking up at an airplane in flight.

Two planes will be used for this expedition, which will take place in July. One of them will carry Captain Roald Amundsen and Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison of the U. S. Naval Air Service, the other, Captain Haakon H. Hammer and Assistant. They will attempt to reach the North Pole by flight across the arctic wastes from Spitzbergen to Wainwright, Point Barrow, Alaska. This will be the first attempt to carry mail over this route and is absolute pioneering. It will undoubtedly prove to be the most interesting of all air flights as both the United States and Norwegian Governments are interested in its success.

Due to the limited quantity issued, it is expected that the demand will far exceed the supply.

It is worthy of note that the well-known firm of Gimbel Bros. are the American agents for the Amundsen Trans-Polar Flight Expedition. We, however, are the sole distributing agents, of these cards, to stamp collectors and dealers.

These cards will be available in this country for one month only. It is therefore advisable to send your DOLLAR at once, and your card will be mailed to you immediately.

STAMP CLUB ORGANIZED AT NANKING, CHINA.

The city of Nanking, China, is a large Treaty Port, 200 miles west of Shanghai. The Chinese population is given at approximately half a million, while the foreign residents number about 500. There has been organized in this city the Nanking Philatelic Society, with a membership of ten adult foreigners, nine of whom are Americans. How many towns in the U. S. with a total population of 500 have a stamp club as large?

The Society was organized in January of this year, and plans have been made for monthly meetings. The second meeting, in February, was held as per schedule. The members take turns in offering their homes for the gathering of the members. The evening begins with a stag dinner (and a high standard has been set for this.) After dinner a short business meeting is followed by a talk and discussion on some appointed subject of philatelic interest. Then follows an hour of general swapping, or the examination of collections, of which there are some fine ones.

The membership includes the U. S. Consul, business men, teachers, clergymen and an M. D. All of the members specialize particularly in the stamps of their adopted country, and there is at least one collection which is practically complete. One report came from a member, who, while scouting around among the antique shops of the city, found on an old scroll, filled with common stamps, two of the rare Nanking revolutionary surcharges, which Scott lists but does not price. The scroll had been used for decorative purposes, the owner little realizing the value of two stamps in the several hundred he had mounted.

The Nanking Philatelic Society expects to use the small ad column of the WEEKLY from time to time, offering items of interest from China. The President of the Society is the Rev. Lloyd S. Ruland, P. O. Sta. 5, Nanking.

CLASSIFICATION OF BOOKLET VARS.

By SIMPSON YEOMANS.

(Mr. Yeomans has recently published a neat booklet on "Booklet Leaves", and has been reviewed in the WEEKLY. We quote this portion of the book in order that our readers may note the interesting nature of its contents. The book sells for 75c and may be obtained from 101 Morningside Drive, Kansas City, Mo.—W. O. W.)

THE 180 SUBJECT PLATE.

We find the following major plate varieties in the 180 Subject Plate:

A. Plain Leaf. The common leaf with no distinguishing marks of which there are normally fifteen leaves to each sheet.

B. Split Arrow and Guide Line at Right. The Split Arrow occurs on the white margin in the upper right hand corner of the leaf and the Guide Line which is a continuation of the Split Arrow runs the full length of the white margin at the right of the leaf.

D. Plate Number Leaf. The Plate Number is always found on the white margin above the upper right hand stamp. It is often hard to discern even when it exists due to its being concealed by the staples which bind the Booklet together at the top.

E. Guide Line Through Leaf. The horizontal Guide Line runs through the leaf between the two top rows of stamps. There are normally eight of these leaves to each sheet.

F. Guide Line thru Leaf and at Right. In this variety the horizontal Guide Line runs thru the leaf as in variety E and the vertical Guide Line appears on the right margin, provided that in trimming the leaf the margin was left wide enough to show the vertical Guide Line, which, if cut off, would leave this leaf one of the commoner E varieties with the horizontal Guide Line only.

G. Guide Line thru Leaf and at Left. This leaf is the opposite of variety F. The vertical Guide Line appears at the left of the leaf provided it has not been cut off as noted in the case of variety E. As is true the case of varieties B and C, either variety F or variety G can occur in the same sheet, but never the two varieties.

H. Guide Line at Right. The Guide Line here occurs in the margin at the right of the leaf. This variety is similar to variety B except that the Split Arrow does not occur on the white margin at the top of the leaf.

I. Guide Line at Left. This variety is the opposite of variety H with the Guide Line in the left margin. As in the case of varieties B and C and varieties F and G, either variety H or I would exist but never both of them in the same sheet. Whether or not variety H or variety I exists is determined by on which side of the vertical Guide Line the knife cuts the sheet in the process of manufacture of Booklets.

The above varieties comprise those available from the Small or 180 subject plates. It is worth while to note that but one Plate Number Leaf, one leaf of either variety B or C, one leaf of either variety F or G, and one leaf of variety H or I can occur in each sheet of 180 stamps.

The 360 Subject plate which has been in use since 1909 comprises all the varieties that occur on the 180 Subject plate with the exception of varieties E, F and G. This is because the horizontal Guide Line does not run through the two center rows of stamps as in the 180 Subject plate but thru the white margin that exists between the two center rows of stamps in the 360 Subject plate. The 360 Subject plate therefore produces certain varieties not found in the 180 Subject Plate, varieties J, K, L, M, N and O.

The 360 Subject Plate Varieties follow:—

A. Plain Leaf. There are normally 31 plain leaves in each sheet.

B. Split Arrow and Guide Line at Right. This variety is the same as variety B in the 180 Subject plate.

C. Split Arrow and Guide Line at Left. Same as variety C in the 180 Subject plate.

D. Plate Number Leaf. Same as variety D in the 180 Subject plate.

I. Guide Line at Left. Same as variety I in the 180 Subject plate.

J. Guide Line at Bottom. The horizontal Guide Line occurs in the white margin just below bottom row of stamps in the leaf. This horizontal Guide Line runs so close to the top of the white margin that exists between the two center rows of stamps in the full sheet (see Figure II) that variety J occurs much oftener than its opposite, variety M with the Guide Line at the top of leaf.

L. Guide Line at Bottom and Left. This leaf is the opposite of variety K and has guide lines on the bottom and left margins.

M. Guide Line at Top. In this variety the horizontal Guide Line appears at the top of the white margin above the top row of stamps in the leaf. The Guide Line as is true of the Plate Number is hard to discern even when it exists for the reason that it is concealed by the staples which bind the Booklet at the top. If, in the process of manufacture, the knife which cuts the sheets cuts below this horizontal guide line instead of above it, the guide line would occur below the row of stamps just above the center white margin which runs between the two center rows in the original sheet producing variety J instead of variety M. As was stated in the description of variety J the knife more frequently cuts below the horizontal Guide Line than above it, hence the plentifulness of variety J and the scarcity of variety M and its component varieties N and O.

N. Guide Line at Top and Right. In this variety the Guide Line occurs in the white margin at the right of the leaf as well as at the top of the white margin above the leaf. Varieties N and O are the scarcest of all the Plate Varieties because the combination of Guide Lines necessary to produce them rarely occurs. See the description of variety M for more detailed reason for the scarcity of these two varieties.

O. Guide Line at Top and Left. This variety is the opposite of variety N with guide lines at the top of the white margin and in the left hand margin of leaf.

It is worth while noting that each full sheet (360 stamps or 60 leaves six stamps each) can produce but one leaf of either varieties K, L, N or O. Varieties J and L, though scarce, occur much more frequently than varieties N and O because the horizontal Guide Line usually is found on the bottom of the leaf rather than at the top of the white margin. The reason for this is explained more in detail under the description of variety M.

This completes the lists of normal varieties that occur in the 180 Subject and 360 Subject Plates respectively. The fact that these varieties occur and available today has been sufficient to awaken the collector to this interesting sideline of United States stamps. These varieties are found with surprising regularity by specialists who know "how to look" for them. An interesting fact connected with stamps issued in Booklet form is that the watermark is at right angles with the watermark as found in the ordinary sheet of 100 stamps. The early attempt of fakers who tried to trim the stamps issued in Booklets so as to imitate the rare government part-perfor-

ates was to no small extent frustrated by the difference in the position of the watermark.

None of the Booklet Issues have been surcharged except a few of the First Issue for use in the Philippines, and a few handstamped copies of the First Is- sue which bore the word "Specimen" on stamps and cover. These were circulated experimentally and for criticism among Department Officials and other interested men.

Although the First Issue was in use for nearly four times as long a period as the one immediately following, the "Flag" type of 1902 is more easily obtained, although both issues are now extremely scarce. This fact is due to the lack of interest that then existed in Booklets, the absence of "Specialists" and the general ignorance of the true value of the stamps. There was certainly no lack of material as the stamps could have been purchased at any Post Office.
As the number of "Specialists" who have collected Booklets has increased, more and more of the varieties have been saved for Philately. The seemingly unimportant variety which may be purchased at any Post Office today is the same one for which we may pay a substantial premium a few years after it has become obsolete. The right time to collect Booklets is while they are current issues. Aside from the ordinary pleasure derived from the ownership of these stamps, if they are purchased while they are current one has the comfortable feeling that the investment is always worth the amount expended. Unfortunately it has only been during the past few years that Collectors have realized that these Booklet Issues are of special interest as a sideline. Comparatively few were thoughtful enough to purchase them when they were current. The present Booklet market is very active and there are but two or three sources from which the issues prior to 1917 can be obtained in mint condition. The relative market value of the various issues is directly proportional to the amount of interest that existed at the time the different issues were current and is not determined in any great way by the length of time they were current.

COMMEMORATIVES.

As this number is due to be in the hands of our readers on New Year's day our cordial proffer to them of the Compliments of the Season and our best wishes for a Happy New Year fall appropriately on the appointed day. The association of ideas connected with this anniversary suggests to us a few remarks on what has been a much debated subject, viz.: that of Commemorative stamps, but is one which we are inclined to think presents itself in somewhat a different aspect to that of some years ago. At the time when the U.S.S. flourished for its short reign Commemorative stamps were regarded universally by collectors as a menace to Philately, and the prophets foretold dire results if the issue of such stamps continued. Drastic proposals were suggested to deal with the menace. Black lists were to be prepared of countries offending against philatelic proprieties, catalogues were to insert such issues, if at all, with a note indicating their real philatelic value, and compilers of lists of new issues were to cease to chronicle them. Appeals were to be made to governments and authorities issuing needless stamps, and the trade and their clients were to cease buying or selling these postal abortions. However, the efforts made in all these directions ended in failure. Unnecessary issues for purely postal purposes still appeared and continued to do so in ever increasing quantity. They were duly listed in the various catalogues and purchased by the philatelic community; but Philately has continued to flourish. Nowadays collectors are more or less reconciled to the high tide of new issues which seems to be ever on the increase, and a few more seem to make but an inappreciable addition to the existing mass. Collectors simply have to ignore most of them. It is now a case of choosing, voluntarily or involuntarily, an area of collection.

It would be interesting to trace the gradual efflorescence of the Commemorative idea as expressed in postage stamps. Without any pretence of having investigated the subject seriously, we believe that the United States was the first country to produce a Commemorative in the form of the Centennial envelopes of 3c in green and red of 1886. Our own country followed with the Guildhall post card and the South Kensington envelope of 1890. So far the idea was confined to envelopes and post cards. In 1893 the issue in the United States of the beautiful and historically interesting series commemorative of the discovery of America brought out clearly the possibilities of thus commemorating leading incidents in a country's history and providing the public in general with handy souvenirs of historic events. As a side issue, which has, we are afraid, developed into the chief reason, it was soon found that in this way sums of money, by no means negligible, could be extracted from the pockets of stamp collectors. Depleted treasuries could be readily replenished by such souvenirs, which were all the more profitable since most of them would be put to no postal use and thus represent so much clear gain. Hence we find these Commemorative issues of almost daily occurrence, and we suppose there is hardly a country in Europe, or America which has not issued at least one Commemorative set during the past year.

Now Commemorative stamps, if legitimate issues, in most cases come under the category of unnecessary issues, and as such prejudice themselves at once in the eyes of the scientific philatelist. Hence we find that there are collectors, who, if they collect them at all, relegate them to a special section in their albums, apart from what we prefer to style the legitimate issues, and the time is not far distant when they will not be regarded as necessary for a "complete" collection from the exhibition point of view. Although we could thus exclude them from a "philatelic" collection, yet, nevertheless, we think they may legitimately appeal to certain classes of collectors. Not all collectors wish to study stamps, as such, deeply. Many are interested in the pictorial or historical aspects of the subject, and this class is deserving of encouragement. A collection of commemorative stamps alone would form a "portable museum" of historic interest which would entertain any intelligent person who does not know anything about stamps. The collection of picture stamps is by no means a new idea, but while twenty years ago the range was more or less limited, today it would cover a wide field of miscellaneous knowledge of many countries on the face of the earth, and the intellectual appeal should add to the ranks of philatelists and raise the status of Philately as a serious pursuit.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Lieut. Col. E. F. Wurtele, Montreal, Can.
Frank M. Mason, Providence, R. I.

Number one this week is Lieut. Col. Ernest F. Wurtele of Montreal, who renews his subscription for five years, wishing continued success for our publication. Our list of Canadian members is not a large one and we hope that this example will be followed by many other Canadian collectors. Col. Wurtele is prominent in the business, social and military life of Montreal and is also an active member of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club. He has a fine collection of 22,000 varieties and in addition a fine lot of precancels and revenues. He has had a long and honorable career in the Canadian militia, extending over a period of thirty-five years.

A few years ago Frank M. Mason of Providence, R. I., was a regular advertiser in the WEEKLY, making a specialty of new issues, United States in blocks of four and 20th century British Colonials. Other activities have displaced his dealing in stamps, but the fact that he has joined our Honor Club with a remittance for a five-year renewal indicates that our hobby still has a strong hold upon him.

ALLEN LOGAN, KANSAS CITY, MO.

We are pleased to publish the picture of Allen Logan, Kansas City, Mo., who as readers will recall, was elected some months ago to the presidency of the Board of Trade of his city. Mr. Logan disposed of his collection of old United States to Eugene Klein, several years ago, when it was known as one of the best of its kind in the country. Mr. Logan has again pledged his allegiance to philately and he is interested in old United States issues primarily because of their historical interest and relation, as reflected in their exquisite engraving.

Further, he regards old U. S., when superb and purchased discriminately, as an absolutely sound investment. Mr. Logan collects in shades and cancellations, as it is a keen pleasure for him to search for something unusual or hard to find; and pleasing to the eye when once obtained. A clean, fresh collection of old U. S., well mounted, appeals to Mr. Logan as happily as the masterpieces do in the art galleries, say of Florence. Mr. Logan finds that a strong count in favor of philately is that collecting brings a pleasing relaxation from business cares.

Gibbons Stamp Circular

This snappy little publication is mailed free for nothing—not even postage—once a month unless the editor goes fishing or yachting. This season of the year therefore is a good time to write for a copy. This circular is not mailed to substitutes, send-em-back-unregistered fiends and such like. Postcards also go straight into the waste paper basket. Serious and interested collectors would do well to send for a copy and get on the list free before we close the offer with the ten thousandth name. [H2]

Where Are The 7000?

At least this number of the readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY have not applied for my free 48-page price-list entitled

"Stamps of United States and Colonies". It is pocket-sized, neat, accurate and prices both "good" and "fine" copies of most postage, departmental and revenue issues.

There are no strings attached to it. It's mailed to you in a 1 cent envelope, there are no follow-up letters and no unsolicited approvals. I depend on its merits to bring me business and I usually get it.

The service I render is unsurpassed. Orders are filled with care and accuracy the day of receipt.

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

MR. APPELGADE SPEAKS

TO THE EDITOR:—

There are two subjects treated in your editorials of Feb. 4 which make me feel compelled to disagree with your views, and I am going to make bold to tell you just why I view these two matters as I do.

First, I will mention the proposed special stamp to celebrate the International Exhibition in Philadelphia in 1926. While this might appear at first sight to be highly desirable, when all the conditions related thereto and arising therefrom are duly considered the prospect is not so alluring. In my opinion, Mr. Lyman Clark's remarks are timely. Philately doesn't want official recognition of that kind; in fact, we should rather exercise all possible vigilance against anything of the kind.

If no event of strictly philatelic significance has so far been commemorated by a stamp issue, let us congratulate ourselves that such is the case, while we deplore the recognition of stamp collectors or rather stamp collectors' money, in the issuing by so many countries and dependencies of stamps for sale to collectors. I venture to say that no other thing has transpired to so disgust philatelists with philately.

The condition has become notorious. The tendency among impecunious governments is ever toward more unnecessary issues while powerful and prosperous nations are only too prone to follow a similar course upon the least encouragement.

That phase of official recognition in this country which gave us the Philatelic Stamp Agency is a fine thing, but we must by our own attitude make the distinction clear between what we truly want and what we do not want, for government agents looking from their side of the transaction cannot be expected to see the niceties of the distinctions that we as collectors and philatelists draw between stamps issued for legitimate postal needs and those catering to our support.

The imperforate Hardings and the last set of airplane stamps come too close to the latter classification. If collectors had not seemed to want these things and from the point of view of the powers that be seemed to deserve this kind of recognition from their support of the Philatelic Agency they would not have been. We must not be acquiscent, for those who live in glass houses cannot throw stones. If we can head off something further in this line let us step on it with both feet, I say. We don't want such favors; we cannot afford to accept them. They are not for the best interests of Philately.

Let our National Government reserve its honors for the commemoration of truly historical events of interest to all the people. Let us not encourage the issuance of commemorative stamps so often as to cheapen this means of commemoration if you get what I mean.

The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence was an ideal occasion for commemoration; the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of rather less importance, I should say. Other worthy occasions are bound to come up. Let us leave something for the future.

Ere long—perhaps you and I will not live to see it, but others will—in 1947 will come the centennial of postage stamps in this country. What better occasion for a commemorative by a stamp issue, one in which we philatelists can take the acme of satisfaction and justly so, for it will not only be an occasion of philatelic but of nation-wide interest. I like to imagine our government then re-issuing the old 5c and 10c stamps, not identically, of course, but perhaps two denominations in a like design. We can afford to wait and let the future unfold without any undue urging on our part.

The other matter I have in mind is that of the color system mentioned in a recent WEEKLY. Although I feel justified in considering myself somewhat of an authority on color study I am free to confess that I had not previously heard of the Lovibond Scale. It may be of considerable value and I mean to find out more about it but the writer shows such ignorance and disregard of the principles of color as recognized by scientific color students that the disposition would naturally be to discredit the system he is attempting to describe. Perhaps the reader will be inclined to suspect that the ignorance is on my part but if he will take the pains to look up and peruse carefully my article in the WEEKLY of Sept. 24, 1921, and note there the concise principles in the use of color terms and the niceties of color graduations based on the solar spectrum that I have tried to describe, he will note how radically at variance are the definitions attempted in the first part of the article under discussion.

Perhaps my exposition is none too clear but I am attempting to describe a system of color classification based on the solar spectrum as originally used by Sir Isaac Newton and developed by Milton Bradley and others.

When Mr. Warth says "a hue is a color tint," what does he mean? I say, that is, Mr. Bradley says in his Color Primer, Teacher's Edition, published by the Milton Bradley Company of Springfield, Mass., and which I wish every reader of the WEEKLY would send for and study; Mr. Bradley says that a hue is a variation of color in the spectrum scale. There are as many hues as the eye can detect, ranging from red-violet at one end of the spectrum to violet-red at the other, or while the spectrum appears as a colored band when projected on a screen from the passage of a ray of white sunlight through a glass prism we are justified in considering it as a circle or circular band of color, for its variations run from violet around to violet again, each hue graduating into the next, all with equal brilliance. As standard or primary

Colors scientists have selected six and established each by the number of light waves per second so that they remain of fixed value. It has long been a recognized fact that the three primary colors, some writers have contended, are not tough to use in producing other hues hether by mixing pigments or combining colors by other means. These six color hues are violet, blue, green, yellow, orange, and red, but in the full reality they are only limited by the ability of the eye to detect them.
Mr. Warth says then "A hue is a color it." "A tint is a slight coloring distinct from the principal color." Rather ambiguous. A tint is properly a color showing less strength or value than the full spectrum hue; that is, a "light" or "pale" color, a color mixed with white but not th gray.

A shade is a color mixed with black.
Mr. Warth is right when he says we improperly use the word shade in reference to varieties in stamp colors. We do not, but since the great majority of stamp colors are shades we are not as wrong as we might be. A color may be mixed with both white and black when it is no longer a hue, a tint, or a shade,

Do You Specialize?

If you specialize in any single United States stamp or any particular 19th century issue our stock will give you something to dig into.
Our stock of shades, cancellations and plate varieties is sound and fairly exhaustive. In approval books or cards we can send selections of 5c '47s, 1c, 3c, 10c '51s; all types of 1c and 3c '57s, an unusually fine lot of 10c '57s including several strips of No. 49 with full scrolls; a number of beautiful copies of the 12c, 24c and 30c 1857. Of that prime favorite the 3c '61 we have hundreds of fine copies, many scarce shades, rare cancellations, interesting covers, with the other values of the series in proportionately wide variety. For those who are filling sets of numerals, letters, etc. we have dozens of approval books filled with classified cancellations on 3c greens, 2c vermilions, 2c red brown, 4c Jacks, 5c Garfields, and the other standbys. And it is all fresh, clean, attractive stock. A trial is what we ask. If unknown to us please furnish satisfactory trade references in asking for approvals.

but becomes a "broken" color; the more white and black there is in its composition the grayer it becomes until all color value disappears and we have gray only;
hence with graduating amounts of white and black and spectrum hues we can account for an infinite number of colors.

It is a fact well known to colorists that different processes of mixing produce different results from the same apparent standard hues. Light passed through two colors of glass, as seems to be the underlying principal of the Lovibond System, produce results inconsistent with pigments mixed together; and results obtained in this way may differ radically from colors mixed by the color wheel from standard colors printed on paper, which is the principle used in the Bradley System. The causes of these variations are complicated and involved and are not easily explained but the disc system was adopted by Mr. Bradley as offering the most practical and the most definite basis for scientific development.

It is impossible in mixing by the rotary disc the so-called three primary colors to obtain all the spectrum hues, as yellow and blue will not produce green nor red and yellow pure orange, hence the six primary colors from which the other hues can be produced in any degree of graduation, and the results recorded.
Mr. Warth says "Colors may also be more complex, consisting of all three primary colors." This I deny. Of course any color can be mixed with any other or any number of others and some kind of a result be obtained but the same resulting "color" can also be produced by simpler and more direct methods from adjoining color scales or hues.

As I said in my former article and now repeat, it is never necessary to use more than two primary colors; in these will invariably be adjacent hues in the spectrum.
When hues not adjacent are mixed together these hues tend to neutralize each other by virtue of the law of complementary colors as any color directly opposite another in the spectrum band, as red and blue-green or yellow and violet-blue produce gray. In color analysis we would not produce gray in this way. It is indirect and can be produced by an indefinite number of combinations.

Warth says olive consists of yellow and blue with a tinge of red. I say true olive is yellow modified by shade; i. e., black
—a "dark" yellow, the darkness or depth depending on the percentage of black;
yet the olive may be modified by any relative amount of green, becoming greenish olive, green olive, olive green, or yellow-green, with an increasing percentage of green being added, or on the other hand it may be modified by orange becoming olive bistre, etc. If an attempt be made to modify your olive by the addition of both green and orange or even by green and red the green and the orange or red would neutralize the effect and produce an olive gray or a drab.

This would be absurd as I see it. Why involve all these unnecessary elements when yellow and black or yellow black and gray will give the same results? And be so much easier to account for and to record!

By working from the principles outlined above, a perfectly practical color chart is quite possible if followed out consistently and scientifically. One properly made up to contain say between 500 and 1,000 colors would be the greatest boon to accurate stamp color study or any other color study for that matter, that I can imagine.

Scott's catalog names something less than 400 colors and "shades," but many of these duplicate in meaning while the real number of color varieties even in stamps so far issued are infinite.

The Prang Chart, now out of print—at least I have not seen mention of it for a long time—presents 1,800 colors. It is arranged along scientific lines, but the primary colors are different in hue from those used by Bradley and it is so comprehensive as to be cumbersome. At least so I consider it.

Stanley Gibbons' chart is very nicely gotten up and as a list of color designation used in their catalog it may be ever so accurate but as a scientific production its value is NIL. There are one hundred colors arranged in no system of rela-tivity; some are almost identical while scores of pronounced color variations are missing. Furthermore, many of the color names are not the same as would be applied even by the catalog makers in this country.

The primary colors are all way off from scientific standards. The red is particularly bad. A man with this color of blood in his veins—or rather arteries —would indeed be not long for this world. Analysis by the color top show this "red" to be mostly orange. The yellow contains too much orange, the green too much black, etc. The "rose" is as atrocious as the red, which it resembles, while the "dull rose," entirely unrelated to the "rose," is more in appearance to what a rose ought to be, which is a violet-ish red. Some of the arbitrary names applied to mixed colors could advantageously be adopted and adapted for use in our permanent color chart in which popular names should be applied as far as they go to definite colors as well as the more scientific designation which would be largely by symbol arranged perhaps on a percentage basis.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK L. APPELGATE.

A Clearance Sale OF VAST IMPORTANCE.

Desiring to move some of my surplus stock quickly, I have concluded to issue a large wholesale circular, or price list, of some of the important items which I desire to dispose of.

This will be of large interest to the stamp dealers whether large or small, and if you desire to secure REAL GOOD STAMPS as well as common stamps in large or small quantities, at REAL CHEAP PRICES, you should send for this big circular, NOW. It should be of interest to ALL DEALERS, or to those who want to become dealers.

Some of the important items in this sale are sets, particularly those sets in constant demand, such as Nyassa, N. Borneo, Persia, Montenegro, Liberia and many others. Then there are single stamps in great variety by the 10, 100, 1000 or larger quantities.

I Want a Rest
and hope to sojourn in Europe for at least a short time this coming summer, God willing, and I may bring back some very nice things in the stamp line.

SEND FIFTY CENTS

when you order this big wholesale stamp circular and I will send you one of my partly filled old approval books, containing not less than 100 different stamps, good condition, used and unused. The Cat. value is over $2.50. 5 of these books if ordered now, for $2.00.

YOU WILL BE PLEASED.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent!

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A Mrs. Ruth Stewart, 90 Blue Hill Ave., Boston, Mass., is giving "Mr. Wylie of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY" as reference. The Managing Editor does not recall ever having given this person such authority.

—Paul F. Cornish informs us that two Schenectady dailies made use of our Steinmetz write-up and gave credit to the article which appeared in the WEEKLY.

—Louis Mayer of Arvada, Colo., writes us a rather lengthy communication giving some of his experiences in purchasing stamps. His conclusions are that it is a great deal better to do business with U. S. dealers as being the cheapest and quickest way. He mentions several of our advertisers whose dealings have been eminently satisfactory and we are grateful to Mr. Mayer for his words of appreciation of American dealers.

—A shocking piece of vandalism is reported by Mr. E. L. Stuart, who says that his gentle canine, Ursus, upon spying a copy of his last WEEKLY on the floor pounced on it and in a frenzy clawed it to pieces. Now we don't know whether the intelligent animal resented his owner's carelessness in leaving the paper on the floor and wanted to teach him a lesson or whether the dumb brute does not like the paper.

—The Chicago Philatelic Society contributed ten dollars to the fund for the purchase by Chicago of the Stuart portrait of Washington, which has been copied on so many of our stamps.

—The Indianapolis Star of March 17 had a very appropriate article dealing with the 2d Irish Free State stamp, and accompanied by a fine illustration. The article was entitled "The 2-Penny Irish Free Stamp a Symbol." It was written by Victor Richardson and deals very intelligently with Irish problems. George R. Rankin submits the clipping.

—At the last meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society Charles M. Ams of N. Y. City exhibited his collection of Gambia, two volumes. About fifty members were present, the largest attendance that the society has known for many months.

—We have received a subscription from Harry R. Duncan. The letterhead shows residence at 42 High St., Milford, and shop at 73 E. Broadway, Myrtle Beach, but in neither instance is the name of the state given. We find one Myrtle Beach located in South Carolina, but there is no Milford in that state. Who can help us out?

—Chicago had a welcome visit from Mr. Marshall Hancock, the director of the Martauco Company of New York, who once upon a time lived in Chicago but even from his present pinnacle of success, he does not look down disdain-fully upon the old boys who knew him when he was but a lad. Merely to show that Mr. Hancock is a wholesaler of class, we may say that he bought a $60,000 stock in Paris recently, without the change of a pulse-beat.

—"I followed your suggestion to get the editor of the home paper interested in philatelic news and I sent in a short story based on stamps, which appeared in print under the heading, 'Stamp Muts Invited.' The editor meant stamp 'nuts.'
This is a poor beginning. No names, please." The foregoing letter is amusing but for all that, the correspondent has started. The editor wants to be a dashing fellow but he means well.

—The success of Mr. E. B. Power of New York as a radio speaker on stamps is causing a great wagging of tongues and we are told that for lively work and telling points, he is in a class by himself.
Certainly the benefit derived through Mr.
Power's work is considerable and as he is to give his talents greater scope, we understand, our debt to him will become larger.

—Charles W. Dietz sends us a copy of the Chicago Sunday Tribune of Sept. 2, 1894. It contains a lengthy and well written article on United States locals.
It is illustrated with many pictures and

EDITORIAL.

According to the San Diego Union of March 16th, which has come to us through the courtesy of Mr. W. J. Stanton, San Diego enjoys the distinction of sending the first batch of mail around the world in the great flight of the army's earth-encircling squadron. The commander of the air fleet has been sworn in as a mail clerk and a small package of letters enclosed in a special canvas mail sack delivered to his care.
 The letters which are addressed to various cabinet officers and a "number of San Diegos" are postmarked San Diego, but whether a special marking is employed, we cannot say. It would be fitting that the world flight be appropriately recorded in a postal sense; and it is hoped that the postmark is distinctive in some way or other.

The following letter has come from Mr. W. E. Greenaway, post-office inspector: "I believe the numerous readers of the WEEKLY would be pleased to have you publish information concerning the issues of 'Postage Currency' by the Treasury Department, under Act of July 17, 1862, 'Receivable for Postage Stamps at any U. S. post-office, printed by National Bank Note Company.'" Soon after the outbreak of the civil war, specie or "hard money" was at a premium, as it was largely withdrawn from circulation and consequently, the difficulty of obtaining small change was great. On July 17, 1862, a bill was signed by President Lincoln authorizing the issue of postage and other government stamps as currency, and prohibiting banks and other corporations from issuing notes below the denomination of one dollar for circulation. For some time before this, postage stamps were used as circulating medium, notwithstanding that they were unsuited to wear and tear.

 A number of firms enclosed the stamps in little envelopes as a protective means and later the Gault patented metal cases were used to shield the stamps. While the postage currency issues in five, ten, twenty-five and fifty-cent denominations (as we remember) were valid for general use, they were intended to facilitate the business of the post-offices, it has been pointed out, where the necessity for making change was constant. The notes were issued perforated and imperforate and those showing the five-cent stamp were in brown and those picturing the ten cent were green. Much more could be said on the subject of these bills which make a decided impression on stamp collectors when they see the stamp designs on them for the first time.

"It has been ages since I have seen anything in the WEEKLY about U. S. private proprietary stamps. Why are they neglected so?" writes Dr. Albert N.
 Waters, who evidently has a soft spot for the issues named of the civil war period. As Christopher West's articles on the match stamps have been running for many months, it is apparent that the medicine stamps are in the doctor's mind.
 Interest in private proprietaries ebbs and flows, but at no time are the stamps without friends; and there are many collectors who have superior collections of the stamps. They may collect the private proprietaries unobtrusively, but they are keen after them, for all that.
 The difficulty in getting many of the stamps in an acceptable condition in a collecting sense is known as some of the stamps were affixed to the containers in a way to make the stamps suffer. The pricing of the stamps is not as carefully done as in the case of other stamps of a more general appeal and the discriminating collector finds that the knowledge that he gets by experience of comparative values stands him in good stead. It is fair to say that interest in private proprietaries will increase as the years pass by, and as attention is given in greater measure to the earlier days of this country, in all their phases, the medicine stamps will become the more significant. Certainly, they reflected an age in the United States when the patent preparation was in the ascendant and the stamps typify a period when the nostrum was in its hey-day that is fading in distinctness. The patent medicine style of advertising, the old almanacs, the names of the medicines and the proprietors and the general influence of this division of industry bore directly on the people. The patent medicine stamps were more distinctive of their times than other stamp issues were and all this is aside from the solid philatelic claims of these extraordinary creations.
 As the history of these obsolete issues has been written, there is little to be said in the way of aftermath; and only the historian is in a position to augment the story of the stamps which has been ably presented in the book by Messrs.

 Deats, Toppan and Holland.

Recently, the Associated Press sent out from New York a stamp "story" that while not worthy of that important news organization in some particulars gives several views that call for comment. Stress is placed on the statement that stamp collecting has now become one of the favored hobbies of the wealthy class and that it is crowding out "fine paintings and other bulky works of art" as objects of collection. The point is made that with changing living conditions, the question of space is of paramount importance and that possessions requiring much room are a hindrance to easy movement. The advantage of stamps on the score of compactness is mentioned and the displacement of stamp albums is shown to be relatively small.
 It is true that the space restrictions imposed at present have a quickening effect on stamps as affording an outlet for the artistic idea with no inconvenience and while the rich may be the most vitally affected by the demand for curtailment of space, other classes as well, welcome
 the stamp on account of its small size.
 In fact, the "portability" of stamps may be made a strong argument in their catalogue of "reasons" for philately and it should be emphasized more strongly than it is usually, in citing the advantages of stamp collecting. Assuredly, the people of means are great factors in the strength of philately but at the same time, let it be known that stamp collecting may be indulged in by persons of limited purse as with the large number of common stamps that are now available it is easy to obtain a representation of stamps for a modest outlay. No class of persons, based on financial considerations, will ever monopolize the pleasure that may be derived from a well-ordered collection of stamps.

In the New York Times of March 16th, there is an account of the Prosser find that makes one of the best tales of the kind that has ever been told and in speaking of the enterprise of the Times in furnishing the account, we take occasion again to commend the example of this great newspaper in dealing in its columns so liberally and intelligently with philatelic topics. Mr. Herman Toaspern of New York included many items in the Prosser find in his auction sale held at the Collectors Club, which may be said to be the culmination of Mr.
 Toaspern's shrewdness and persistence in running to cover a remarkable lot of early United States stamps. Elsewhere, room must be made for the story of the hunt that ended so successfully as the human interest in a narrative of this kind is admitted and philatelists can enter into the spirit of the stamp chase, if any one can. Authenticated finds are still being made and in the words of the advertiser: "If others can, why not you?"

102 Vars. GERMANY -- THE MARK CLIMAX -- $1.02

It is needless for us to praise this M. C. Its merits are so outstanding that they speak for themselves. When hundreds of collectors have purchased this "M. C." and many of them have taken the trouble to say that they are satisfied far beyond their expectations, we think little more need be said.
 You will find no dealer in the U. S. or in Germany who will sell you the 80 vars. of Germany issued between August and December 1st, 1923—which we put in the "M. C."—at anywhere near our price. We have purchased these stamps in huge quantities at a rock bottom price. The other 22 varieties are mighty desirable stamps. All in all, THE MARK CLIMAX is our "Best Seller" and it has won its position on account of its real worth. ORDER ONE TODAY!
THE MARK CLIMAX IN BLOCKS OF FOUR costs only $3.06.
 You can make many pretty pages showing the various changes in the value of the mark from blocks from 50mks to 50,000,000,000mks.

 COMING—A wonderful lot of complete sets at advantageous prices—WAIT!

THE NINTH FERRARI SALE.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The ninth session of the sale of the wonderful Ferrari collection will take place in Paris on April 9, 10 and 11, 1924, and catalogs have just been received in this country. In this session there are no stamps of the United States, but the sale is devoted almost entirely to the issues of Great Britain, Portugal, the Italian States, including Modena, Parma, Tuscany and Two Sicilies, and the Straits Settlements with native states.

The British lot is truly an important collection and we find a wonderful mint block of four of the 1d black and a very beautiful unused block of the 2d blue. There are numerous single copies and pairs. The 1847 octagon issue is represented by mint singles, pairs and a very nice unused block of the 10d. We find two used copies of the rare 1873 6d buff, both cancelled, and several copies of the 10sh and 1 pound of the 1878 emission, which catalog $200 and $200 respectively. In the case of the 1882 issue we find these two stamps on blue paper in addition to three mint copies of the 5 pound, which list at $500 each. There is a very unusual lot of the official stamps, including practically all of the rarities. There are several singles, as well as a pair, of the 1d black "VR" in corner, including two used copies.

The Portuguese lot, which also includes Portuguese India, contains many specimens to delight the heart of collectors of these issues, and we find literally dozens of each of the first issue in mint condition, as well as several very fine pairs, including one with large margins of the 100 reis. There is also a beautiful mint block of six of the 5 reis. The later issues are well represented and include practically everything.

In Two Sicilies there is a copy of the 20 grana of the issue of 1858 doubly printed and this is a very distinct double impression. There are also several of the 50g, as well as very fine copies of the Savoy Cross. There are many nice pieces in Modena, including a goodly lot of the minor errors. Parma is well represented. There are several copies of the 2 soldi and the 60 crazie Tuscany, as well as a tete bache pair of the 2s newspaper stamp, a variety that I have not heard of heretofore.

There is offered possibly the finest lot of Strait Settlements that have ever come upon the market at one time. Among the first issue we find a manuscript surcharged that I have not seen before. The surcharged issues include some of the rarities and we find two

Superb = All U. S. = Auction

Our May auction sale will be entirely of U. S. stamps. We list below a half dozen of the superb items that are in this sale. You can bid direct from this advertisement or ask for the catalog which is now ready and look over the hundreds of other fine lots. The collection catalogued close to $10,000. Some few items have been sold at private sale, but the greater part of the stamps are offered at auction. The man who made this collection learned the value of condition long ago and the collection as a whole, through every department, can be classed SUPERB. Peelable hinges were discovered by this collector when he started to mount stamps and the mint pieces are therefore as you want them.

The early U. S. are mostly very choice pieces; the issues from 1890 to 1912 are mostly represented in bloc and many in fine plate number bloc.

The envelopes contain many choice items in cut squares and many fine entires. In revenues, the first issue perforated are complete with a couple copies of several of the choicer items. Second issue is complete through the $200 value and following issues are all remarkably well shown, numerous fine pieces and bloc being in the lots.

In match and medicine, the stamps are a superb lot, many being uncanceled, some with full gum and as a whole a lot that could be called SUPERB. These issues are complete except for the rarities. Several of them, however, are in this collection.

Throughout the catalog we have broken items up into small lots so that the individual collector can have an opportunity to bid on items that he wants without buying lots of things he don't want.

U. S. Colonies are also shown, practically complete and many in mint bloc.

We have picked out the following six lots as features:
 Lot No. Description Cat. Value
 1 1847, 10c black (29) cancelled with large "10" in red, partially doubled frame line at Right, superb copy Specialized Cat. $60.00
 2 1901, Pan American, INVERT, 1c (294a) superb, nicely centered, mint 80.00
 3 $200 blue, black and red, second issue Revenue (3982), perfect centering, beautiful color, three minute needle point holes show on face of Washington, from back of stamp, so fine they should not be mentioned, but some bidders kick on anything. A really superb and remarkable copy uncanceled. 250.00
 4 $1.00 blue and black, INVERT (3942), second issue, Revenue, a superb, very lightly script cancelled copy, finely centered, a gem 200.00
 5 1871-5 Proprietary, $1.00 green and black (3978), violet paper, a fine copy of this item, beautifully centered, has handstamp cancellation and a superb copy in every way 125.00
 6 1871-75 Proprietary, $5.00 black and green (3979), violet paper, the gem of the sale, an absolutely superb and perfect copy of this fine stamp, centering could not be better, cancellation is neat pen script initials "J. H. B." with date "Feb. 18/79" in a rich black ink, beautiful penmanship, written evidently by a penman worthy of the stamp. This copy has full gum on it and small edge of sheet margin at top. Probably no finer copy of this item is known 250.00

SAN FRANCISCO AUCTIONS

My 20th Public Auction was a great success, with 75 on the floor and 212 mail bidders, of which about one-half the number were successful.

Another Public Auction is in preparation for May and will be held in the Club Room of the San Francisco Stamp Society, 149 Eddy Street. Date to be announced later. This sale will include a fine general collection and a superb lot of 20th Century British Colonials. Send for Catalogue to copies of the $100 King Edward in mint condition. There is as fine a lot of Bangkok as have been offered for many a day, and this includes not only the 30c and the 96c, which are much rarer than the catalog would indicate, but two copies of the even rarer 32c of which but one pane of sixty were overprinted. I note offhand among the States a mint copy of the first issue Selangor 2c brown with inverted surcharge.

A few other odds and ends are scattered through the sale, such as pairs of the Barbados 1d on 5sh, reading both up and down, some unusual Turks Islands surcharges, a Tonga 1897, 7 1/2d with inverted center; Venezuela, 1871, the two varieties with heads inverted, and the like.

This variety—hastily made after a number of the engraved plates had been ruined through inferior ink, was for a while exceedingly scarce in imperforate condition, for only a few sheets fell into the hands of collectors at Chicago—the balance being cut up by the Schermack Company into private coils. Later more were found at the Pittsburgh Postoffice. The variety is still very desirable and lists in Scott's Specialized Catalog at 75c. I can furnish superb mint singles at 40c, pairs at 80c and blocks at $1.50. Offer a complete set consisting of four plate blocks of six, the four arrow blocks and the center line block, forty stamps in all, at $25.00 per set. These have been selling at between $60.00 to $100.00. I have never seen any of the above offered at less and a fortunate purchase enables me to furnish these at the above figures.

What else do you need in U. S. 20th Century in mint blocks or singles? My stock of these varieties is second to none and I can furnish practically everything with the exception of some of the errors.

UNITED STATES.—North Pole Postal Card.—The New York and Philadelphia papers of Sunday, March 16th, carried full page advertisements of Gimbel Brothers regarding the proposed flight across the North Pole by airplane of the great explorer Roald Amundsen, along with Lieutenant Davison of the United States Navy. They offered to sell the postal card described in this column some weeks back at the same price at which they were then being offered by the Aeronautical Company, namely $1.00. They inform us that they have two hundred thousand cards and these may be purchased by remitting to either their New York or Philadelphia office. The funds are to help to pay for the expenses in connection with the trip, which I understand will start in July. When the cards were formerly offered, the descriptive matter led one to believe that the card would simply be postmarked by the Norwegian Government before being placed upon the airships, but we are now informed that Norwegian stamps of special design issued for this occasion will be attached to the card and that this manner will be the only way in which the stamp will be obtainable.

Gimbel Brothers clearly state in their advertisements that there is a possibility of the cards being lost in transit and not coming back, but they call attention to the fact that in such a case you will have contributed to an historical and daring adventure. The expedition will leave Norway, cross the pole, land somewhere in Alaska, and it is then hoped that the cards in turn will be sent in bulk to Seattle, where they will be distributed throughout the country.

Mr. P. J. Kranz calls my attention to an illustration of this card appearing on page 85 of the Aeronautical Digest for February. The card shows a Harding stamp attached.

Circular Type 2c Envelope, Recut Die.—In my Chronicle of last week mention was made of what was supposed to be a new die of the 2c current design envelope. The matter was referred to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, who informs me that no new die of any denomination has been made since May 31, 1919, on which date the new 1c die for the Kenney presses was ordered.

He further informs me that if there is a slight difference seen, it is probably due to a worn printing die. This new type, which I described in detail in this column of last week, is so similar to in other details that it is my opinion that Die H in many respects and so different the die has been recut.

1920-21 Provisional Surcharged Envelopes.—Mr. W. A. Langdon kindly submits for inspection a copy of the 5c blue circular die envelope, which had been overprinted 2c in the Cleveland Post-office. He writes that he picked up five that were returned to the post-office about three months ago. The envelopes bear the privately printed corner card of H. B. Wick of Cleveland. The envelopes in question are on white paper, size 5, watermarked 20, and have the type III Cleveland overprint.

Mr. F. H. Lord also submits for inspection a new window envelope of the provisional issue, namely a San Francisco 2c on 3c, die E on blue, size 5, watermarked 19. Mr. Lord states that he obtained two of these.

Odd Postal Marking.—I have just received an envelope mailed from Chicago to Philadelphia, N. Y., instead of Pennsylvania. It is surprising to learn that there is a city of this name in New York and they must receive a good amount of mail for Pennsylvania, for the letter contains a circular postal marking in red, reading "Deficiency in address, supplied at Philadelphia, N. Y., P. O." They also had a rubber stamp for changing the address from N. Y. to Pa. It is quite possible that many post-offices have odd markings with which the philatelist is unfamiliar. Fifty years hence when they go in for covers of today the way we are going in for older covers at present, will see such items in demand.

Westwood, Mass., Post Office 100 Years Old.—The Information Service of the Post Office Department recently sent out to the press a circular communication calling attention to the fact that during March the post-office at Westwood, Mass., would celebrate the 100th anniversary of its existence. During this century but three postmasters, all in the same family, have presided over the little office, which is located on its original site of one hundred years ago. The town is located in Norfolk County, fifteen miles from Boston, and was formerly known as West Deadham. The event will be celebrated by the citizens of the town and the Postmaster General has written a letter to the Westwood Grange, which is staging the celebration, declaring that to the best of his knowledge, there is no other instance where three members of the same family have served as postmasters at one place for such a length of time. He congratulates the present incumbent, Mr. Charles H. Ellis, who has occupied the position since 1880, that is forty-four years.

If we permit our memory to go backward, it will be recalled that James Monroe was President of the United States at the time this post-office was established, and we then numbered our post-offices in the hundreds instead of in the thousands, as at present. It was not until twenty-one years later that the New York Post Office issued the famous Postmaster Provisional, and was twenty-three years before the first official government series made its appearance. If these three postmasters had put away a sheet of each variety of stamps that passed through their hands they would possibly bring more today than they received as salary from the department in the entire century.

BEIGIUM.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the following Parcel Post stamps: 5c chocolate, 10c vermilion, 15c violet, 1fr blue, 1 fr 50c emerald green, 1fr 80c pale claret, 2fr 10c green, 40c purple, 3fr vermilion and 10c carmine.

GREAT BRITAIN.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts copies of the 1d and 1½d surface printed by Messrs. Waterlow & Co., multiple watermark Crown over G. V. R. in block capital. They are the same colors as before perforated 15x14.

HUNGARY.—The 300 korona red ordinary adhesive has been promptly followed by the same denomination in the current Official series, viz.:—Official (1921 Type). Wmk. Double Crown. Perf. 15. 300 korona red.—Stamp Collecting.

Have You Access to Incoming Parcel Post Mail?

Precancel stamps have a definite market value in quantities and should be used by every Philatelist and especially by those who have access to mails which include incoming parcel post shipments.

We can offer nice selections of United States and Foreign postage stamps, sorted by countries, from which you can select stamps of the net value of the advance which we will give you for your precancel lots.

Since our last request for precancel lots of this nature we have had replies from shipping clerks, grocers, garage men and traveling salesmen. Many of these Philatelists are sending us precancel lots which entitle them to net purchase credits running all the way from $5.00 to $25.00 net per month.

If you are in a position where you can obtain these items in sufficient quantities, it will be worth your time to save the precancels. It is pure velvet for you because precancels will cost you little or nothing and you get the same grade of United States and Foreign postage stamps for them that you are now paying out real cash for.

Save enough of these items to at least give this matter a fair trial. You may be surprised as many others have been with the results.

IRAQ.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the following "On State Service" stamps of this country with the bilingual overprint: ½a, 1a, 1½a, 2a, 3a, 4a, 6a, 8a, 1R, 10R. The overprint in English is at the left and Arabic at the right. Colors and watermarks are as before.

JAMAICA.—The Jamaica Gleaner reports that "the second issue" of ½d Child Welfare stamps have been on sale for some weeks, and were mostly purchased by stamp collectors. "The given time for the sale of these stamps was drawing to a close unless an extension was granted."

We have received a copy of the Jamaica Post Office Handbook for 1924, in which it is stated that all postage stamps for the colony are now being printed on the Multiple Crown Script CA watermark paper.—Stamp Collecting.

JAPAN.—The quaint stamps of the Osaka emergency series are now commencing to appear in perforated state. Mr. Denton Hepworth shows us the 20 sen, dark blue, perf. 11, the copy submitted having the Osaka postmark of January 17th.—Stamp Collecting.

SIAM.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal prints the following: "The Oriental Stamp Co. writes that a second air mail service between Nong-Khay and Bangkok, via Roi Ed and Korat, has just been established. We beg to send for your inspection a specimen cover of the first day flight which carries the date 11.12.23. The aerocancellation shows an aeroplane in a circle and the town of Nong-Khay and date in native and English characters, the design being the same as the Bangkok, Roi Ed Korat and Ubol air postmarks except that it is much smaller."

TONGA.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the 5d of the 1920-21 series with the surcharge "Two Pence" at the top and "Peni-e-ua" across the base over the figure of value. The overprint is, in blue. Mr. Roberts also reports the 2d on 7½d and the same value surcharged on the 1sh.

TURKEY.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal announce that they have been shown a pair of the 4½pi, new Peace issue, imperforate, and are informed that five sheets of fifty exist thus.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE "WEEKLY".

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer them for sale at very reasonable prices. The years in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books is $2 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds. This offer is for immediate acceptance.

GARFIELD-PERRY CLUB BANQUET.

By Vic.

(The following story and cartoon was published in the "Cleveland Press" and we take pleasure in reproducing the same. It's a "Vic and Ethel" story and bears the title "Vic and Ethel Stamp Away." Wm. W. MacLaren, who was recently "written up" in the WEEKLY, is associated with the "Press."—W. O. W.)

"Say, onion-eye," says Ethie, referring to me, "where in the flatiron is that letter you got the other day from your grandmother in Australia?"

"Why?" I asks, giving a question for a question, and not honeying the occasion of committing myself to anything I'll worry over.

"Well," Ethie begins, "if you gotta know, I get myself introduced to a gent the other day who says he likes my drawings and then, I don't know how, but he gets raving about hobbies, and starts telling me about his."

"Which is?" I sighs, thinking probably it's auction sales, or bum cigars.

"Postage stamps," Ethie exclaims, "and that's why I wanta see that Australian 2-center. Maybe it's worth something. I'll take it down to that gent and ask him. He says some foreign stamps sure sum up."

"Yeh?" I hint, wondering. "Who's stamp is that?"

"Yours, but I—" Ethie encourages.

"But I'll do my own stamp collecting," says I, sticking up for my 2-cent taxer.

"I wouldn't put it past you," Ethie says, sassy-like, "but you don't know any stamp gent."

"Then let's co-operate," says I, figuring we gotta make an agreement somewhere. "You do the talking to the gent and I'll hang on to the stamp."

So today as we're just about forgetting postage excitement, in tip-toes somebody who looks like he wants to see me for he sets down on my desk a pamphlet that says, "Big Banquet Given by the Garfield Perry Stamp Club."

"Wanta come?" he says, not looking at Ethie.

"Sure," says I.

"All right," he grins, and walks out.

"Now ain't he the antelope's eye-wink-er!" says I, after the office door shuts. "You don't sneeze that all male cigaret-puffers who ride stamp hobby-horses are like that, do you?"

"Naw," says Ethie, "they're all dignified fellows. We'll go tonight and you can find out."

Which we do. * * *

We arrive late as usual. There's nothing in the room except men and an eating table, with some consomme at each place. And as I have that country trait of being hungry all the time, I sit down right away in a chair that some fellow wearing glasses points to.

When I come to I find we've got orchestra seats, right next to the toastmaster, who's name is W. H. Barnum, 'n' wink at Ethie who's mincing croutons, whatever they are, but they look like toast squares, while the talking at the other end of the table begins.

"Mine is the most beautiful stamp ever made," says one gent, excited over the argument. "That head is perfect, the paper is not marred. It is dated 1847, 'n' if you can beat that you're going some!"

"I can," says I, choking on a whole tablespoon of sample soup. 'N' I jump up and reach in the pocket of my raincoat, which I'm still wearing, 'n' yank out my little Aus. letter sticker.

A coupla men come rushing with their exhibition books and when I finally shove forth my offering, I hear Ethie giggle:

"Hey, Harvey, better not show that sample! This fellow sitting beside me by the name of Cramer says it isn't even worth the 2 cents your grandmother had to pay for it out on that island!"

But it's too late to draw back my possession and it goes the rounds with a laugh as each pair of orbs optic it.

Course I feel fine about it and squeak: "Why don't you yaps tell me who's who in 2-cent taxes? I dunno."

"The rarest specimens are old stamps," says one gent, "old ones that aren't being made anymore. They have to be really dated and marked with the stamping machine of their day and sets of stamps like these sometimes run up into thousands of dollars."

"Now if you knew that before you dragged me here," I warn Ethie, embarrassed-kind, "I'm going to come over and make your coco-look-loco!"

But she denies it, and my little speech is buried by the voices of a bunch of stamp collectors.

"Those books are all the pig-knuckles," says Ethie, feeling she better say something as one man after another is furiously turning page after page of used stickers, for her to see. The books have what the stamps are written below 'em, and the date they were issued, along with how much they're worth now.

'N' just then we're interrupted by some fellow who gets up and starts talking about how the Garfield Perry Club did this, and they could do the other thing much better if they'd try, and gives a long-winded yarn about the history of these stamp-bugs. Which all goes fine while we're listening, which ain't often, until I hear the name of Garfield Perry and I ask who he is.

This gets me in bad, pretty-near, for when we vacate the banquet kinda-late, I ask Ethie: "Say, fish-bone, why'd you razz me for asking who's Garfield Perry?"

"Because he's some prominent guy outta history," says Ethie, "'n' you shouldn't let 'em know you're so dumb!" Which all fractioned up, means, "You naughty girl, you shouldn't talk about things you don't understand, especially when you're so slack on hobbies."

(In connection with above story have received from W. W. MacLaren who is credit manager of the Press, menu of the event, which was the anniversary banquet of the Garfield Perry Stamp Club, Hotel Cleveland, March 22, 1924. Exhibits were made Messrs. MacLaren, Good, Janssen, Molitor. The program of after-dinner speeches included nine toasts together with short addresses by guests of occasion. W. H. Barnum, president of the club, was toastmaster, and the banquet committee consisted of Dr. Jos. Schneider and Louis Hanford.—W. W.)

Tomorrow's Business Is The Comeback From Today's Satisfaction

"If you are going to resign from the stamp business I am indeed sorry, as I well know all are who have had dealings with you. Not only have you 'Sold for less' but you have seasoned your bargains with prompt service and courteous friendliness. There will be one good dealer missing if you retire. Like yourself, I think there must be profit, honor and pleasure in business. I trust you have had the first, I know you have had the other two. I should have enjoyed meeting you personally, and may do so yet." (Name on request.)

In retiring from the stamp business, I shall "Season my bargains" with a little remembrance to those who assist me by their purchases, in disposing of my stock,—as complete, perhaps as to number of varieties, (except U. S.) as most dealers can boast.

The Smoke-a-dor

A unique and handy case for cigarettes. Lift the cover and the "smokes" automatically come up within easy reach, close it and they disappear. The matches are equally convenient, while the covered ash receiver can be removed and emptied. Finished in triple-plated nickel and bound in genuine Morocco Leather, it is a useful ornament for the desk of the biggest executive or the most exclusive library.

Can be supplied for automobiles if desired, eliminating the usual procedure of searching in one pocket for a wornout cigarette, in another for a match and then have the ashes fall over the driver into the car.

Here's My Offer

Deposit with me only $10.00, with a want list of the stamps you wish, from which I will send all I can up to the amount deposited.

If you prefer approvals, add commercial references and state what countries you want and your limit price, if any for a single stamp.

I will immediately send you prepaid, the SMOKE-A-DOR, (worth $5.00 of any man's money) and credit your account with the full $10.00 to be taken in stamps, You being the Judge of both price and condition.

You will find my prices at least as low as others, so that the Remembrance is

ABSOLUTELY FREE

I am making up just Twenty "Farewell" packets at $10.00 each net, of such value that if you see it you will say: "The man Hook's heart is in the right place," and the SMOKE-A-DOR goes with it, as an additional Remembrance.

RARE STAMPS FOUND IN LOT OF JUNK.

About to Be Converted Into Pulp When Traced by Philatelists.

(Clipping from A. S. Davenport.)

A number of rare United States and foreign postage stamps which were salvaged a year ago from a mass of letters and papers carted away by a junk dealer from one of the oldest firms on Platt Street will be sold at auction at the Collectors' Club, 120 West Forty-ninth Street, by Herman Toasperm. They form part of what is known as the "Prosser Find," which ranks in philatelic annals as one of the most romantic finds ever recorded.

The discovery resulted from alterations made a year ago in the old building at 22 Platt Street, occupied since 1850 by Thomas Prosser & Sons, which is still there. The firm's record of 74 years in the same place is exceptional, in view of the changing conditions in the business life of the city. The present members are Thomas and Richard Prosser, grandsons of the founder. Ever since its organization, prior to 1850, when the firm was in Brooklyn, it has been the New York representative of the Krupp steel works of Germany.

During the alterations, said Thomas Prosser recently, a mass of the old correspondence was carted away without investigation. Some of the musty envelopes had curious stamps on them and a few were abstracted before the junk dealer got them and sold to Nassau Street dealers who recognized their value, for the stamps were of the 5-cent and 10-cent 1847 issue, the first United States stamp issue, now worth many dollars apiece. In a few days several dealers were prospecting energetically for this philatelic mine.

One of these prospectors was Herman Toasperm. With the aid of another dealer, who had obtained some of the stamps, he located the junkman after a long search, only to learn that the stock had been sold to a paper mill in New England.

"We went right up to the mill," said Mr. Toasperm. "The Prosser papers were mixed with a mass of other scrap paper, but we purchased six bales, and when we got them into a New York warehouse we spent several days in sorting them. The results were better than had been looked for.

"There was a splendid lot of the first and second United States issues, and among the rarities were several envelopes with Canadian and United States stamps on the cover. There were all sorts of rare railroad and steamboat cancellations and many letters had designs of early Krupp guns."

One of these rare combination covers has a 3-cent stamp and a 12-cent of the United States 1851 issue with a 4-penny rose of Great Britain, the letter being mailed from the Bahamas on March 26, 1859, and sent via New York to Canada. In the sale are thirteen of the 5-cent 1847 issue on original envelopes, and five of the 10-cent stamps of the same issue also on the original envelopes.

Probably the rarest thing in the sale, but which was not among the Prosser papers, is a Civil War envelope with 1-cent, 10-cent and 24-cent copies of the United States issue of 1857. The letter was sent from New Orleans on Aug. 13, 1861, four months after the war began. It was brought through the Confederate lines by the Adams Express Company to Louisville, and has the cancellation of that city under date of Aug. 20.—N. Y. Times.

COLLECTORS CLUB EXHIBIT.

Memories of old-time shipping days, when some of the fastest sailing vessels ever constructed went out from Boston, were recalled at the Collectors Club 120 West Forty-Ninth Street, last week when a collection of rare stamps from Western Australia and New Zealand, owned by Dudley L. Pickman, were shown. Mr. Pickman is of a family of shipping merchants, his father and grandfather having been silsby in the business. The old firm was Silsby, Pickman & Allen, a century ago.

Mr. Pickman's stamps were brought to New York for exhibition to the club members by Warren H. Colson of Boston. Western Australia always has been one of Mr. Pickman's favorite countries, explained Mr. Colson, from the fact that a great deal of the shipping trade in which the Pickman family was engaged was with that country.

Western Australia began issuing stamps in 1854. Adorned with a gracefully designed figure of a swan, these stamps always have been popular with philatelists, and the swan design, with minor modifications, was retained for many years. Mr. Pickman has all of the fine early issues. Among them are two copies, one used and the other uncanceled, of the two-penny in violet colors which was an error, as the proper color was yellow, the violet being reserved for the six-penny stamp. They are of the 1865 issue. This error variety is now worth about $125 each.

Charles J. Phillips, the former London dealer, related an interesting story about the "error" stamp. Many years ago a batch of them was sent from a Post Office in Western Australia to the Stanley Gibbons Company in London with the statement that they would cost the firm 6 pence apiece, as that was the charge checked up against the Post Office.

"As I recall," said Mr. Phillips, "and as it was impossible to find out then whether they were a regular issue or not, they were offered at 5 shillings each. I remember that one prominent collector took one and soon sent it back as being

CHARLES JAMES PHILLIPS.

We are pleased to announce a serial by this well known philatelist beginning this number. Mr. Phillips is one of the foremost figures in World Philately considered from the standpoint of his varied abilities and distinguished services. Formerly at the head of Stanley Gibbons Ltd. (the celebrated British firm) he is now a resident of the U. S. and giving himself heartily to the promotion of all that is good for American philately. As collector, dealer, club-man, author and editor his philatelic fame is secure.

MR. POWER'S broadcasting talks on stamp collecting have produced wonderful results, the answers received to date being about 10,200 letters. This means 10,000 albums distributed to people most of whom never heard of a stamp dealer or a stamp paper.

Mr. Power continues his Western trip from WDAP Chicago on April 15, WLW Cincinnati April 16, WGR Buffalo April 18 and probable dates from Detroit April 17 and Schenectady April 19th arriving home EASTER SUNDAY to see his wife's new lid.

It seems to us that stamp collectors can do a lot of good by distributing this album amongst grown up friends and they boost the pastime some more. Therefore for liberal minded folk who possess the great talent of being able to see beyond the end of their noses:—

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Young Men's Christian Association of The Hague (4 Prinsegracht), Netherlands, is facing a grave financial crisis. The Stamp Club has sent out an S. O. S. call to all stamp collectors for contributions of stamps and is hoping for a generous response.

—You'll be interested to know that I am sailing for England from Boston, on the "Devonian" on April 12th. Mrs. Clark and I are celebrating our silver wedding in this way, altho the real purpose of the trip is to pursue some zoological investigations at the British Museum for two or three months. I have long wanted to do this and now a kind fortune seems to smile on my plans. While in London I hope to attend the J. P. S. silver anniversary dinner on May 6th and Plumridge's auction on May 8th. I also hope to see the Brussels exhibition for a few hours on May 31st. I have other philatelic plans of which you shall hear if they work-out O. K. I have notified most of my correspondents of this coming hegira but I shall be grateful if you would just insert a note saying that I have gone to England and will be away until Aug. 1. Then I'll be back doing business at the same old stand—M. C. Z., Cambridge 38, Mass.

—HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.
—"I think this proposed stamp for philately is the bunk. It would be an honor to the hobby, I admit, but it would be a disgrace to the Post Office Department. I still maintain that if we are to be consistent we must either drop this agitation or include such despicable trash as the Italian stamps overprinted to commemorate the Ninth Italian Philatelic Congress in our catalogs. Even the Malaya-Borneo had the virtue of advertising a national exhibition and calling attention to the prominence of those Oriental countries, but this proposed stamp would help the government only financially. Why condemn the Italian collectors if we are going to do the same as they did? Mr. Miller's "compromise" suggestion, while it also shows traces of speculation, is far better, but I think we should content ourselves with a special cancellation as at Springfield. The imperforate Harding was shock enough."—K. E. PARKER, M.H.C.

—We have received a circular letter saying that a liberal reward is offered "for return of or information leading to return of all or part of the following rare stamps stolen from J. Lek, Berlin, February 7, 1924." The list of stamps headed by issues of the German states embrace a host of rarities, such as the Baden Landpost, 12 kr. on entire; Saxony, strip of three of the three pf., red, on entire, block of four, pairs and singles; Austria Mercurys on newspapers; Switzerland, all the cantonals, etc., etc. The loss is a severe one and the thief made a rich haul indeed, and it is hoped that he will be apprehended. Persons interested are requested to communicate with Toplis and Harding, Inc., 235 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, Cal.

—The following is the order from Washington regarding the private post cards issued in commemoration of Amundsen's Trans-Polar Flight Expedition next summer:

"Referring to notice of this office appearing on page 13 of the January Supplement to the Postal Guide, attention is invited to the fact that these private post cards bear on the front a printed address: "The Transpolar Flight Expedition, Christiania, Norway," and in the upper right-hand corner there is a space in which should be placed the United States 2-cent stamp. The reverse bears a space for the address of the person for whom the card is ultimately intended in the United States, and care must be taken in distributing the cards to see that they are dispatched in the first instance to Norway.

It has been represented that some of these cards have not been dispatched as

THE PRECANCELL REVIEW.

Edited by FRED'K W. ALLEN,
312 Walnut St., Minneapolis, Minn.

New Issue Notes.—Chicago closely follows Cincinnati in precancelling the 30 cent (Bison). Mr. Julius Kurtz has shown me several in the new type reading down and double down.

Albany, Ga.—The 1917 issue 1 cent comes to hand precancelled in the same style electrolyte as the new Chicago plate. A separate universal type will be in order for this style. Although the letters resemble universal 18 the spacing is quite distinctively different. Newton, Iowa, Holton, Kansas, and Muskegon, Mich., are other cities with plates of this sort.

Anaconda, Mont.—Some time ago I listed a 30 cent from this city. Mr. T. W. Hayes, supt. of the Anaconda Copper Co., writes as follows, "I have recently become interested in the precancel hobby due to the fact that Anaconda has now begun using these stamps. When the handstamp was received only a few of the 1 and 2 cent 1917 series were on hand. These were shortly superseded by the 1923 series and should become rare. Anaconda now uses the following: 1917 series 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 15, 20 and 30; 1923 series 1, 2, 5, 10, 14 and 25 cent values. Not many Hardings were issued and they have been obsolete for some time. A few sheets show the cancellation in the inverted position, something which I have not seen on any of the other stamps. The P. O. clerk explained that they were accidentally cancelled that way during the holiday rush."

Beloit, Kas.—Mr. S. Altman of Atchison, Kas., favors me with the information that this city has recently issued precancelled stamps in small type hand-stamped between bars. Mr. Altman has the 1, 2, 4, 5, 5 inv., 8, 9, 9 inv., 10, 11 and 15 cent values in his collection.

Cottlettsburg, Ky.—Uses the U-16 handstamp. Among some I have seen was a 20 cent double printing, the interesting thing about it being that one overprint was in red and the other in black. It came on a package out of the South.

Crosby, Minn.—Scene of a recent mine disaster which was the worst in the history of the Iron Range. A 1 cent handstamped in large letters between bars is the first precancel this town has issued.

Elkhart, Ind.—Mr. Everett G. Emerson submits Elkhart Harding precancels as follows: U-18 electro, normal and inverted; small type rubber roller normal, inverted, and up. These were in limited use for a short period and are now obsolete.

Lansing, Mich.—The first type was used in 1905 on the 1902 series 1, 3, 4, 5 and 1902, 2 cent stamps. It consists of the representation of nine railroad tracks converging to a center, where an encircled star is located. Lansing is spelled out above the design in capital letters and Mich., below. This design has long been a favorite with the precancel enthusiast. It tells a story. All roads lead to the capital city. On a number of the early issues in our precancel history we find striking and original designs. They are becoming quite hard to secure and when bought at the existing catalogue figures are a very good investment. No better field for pleasure and investment presents itself than U. S. precancelled stamps prior to 1910.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

EDITORIAL.

According to press reports, the coming of the special set of stamps to celebrate the three hundredth anniversary of the settling of the Walloons in "New Netherlands" will soon be recorded by the issue itself; and the Huguenot stamps, as they may be called popularly, are awaited with tranquillity by collectors. While there seems to be no considerable enthusiasm for these commemoratives, yet at the same time they are not being subjected to unkind comment, even though they are not exciting the interest that an issue of the kind ordinarily occasions. The truth is that special issues now do not make a lasting impression on collectors, as they once did and the philatelic appetite is a bit cloyed with them. That the celebratory issues have a quickening effect on philatelists in bringing it to the attention of the public is not to be denied and that they are now accepted as a conventional means for paying tribute to makers of history is evident. Of course, too many issues of the kind will detract from the distinction that any one of them may carry; and as a good business move, it is well not to crowd too many of the extra attractions on philatelists.

Several years ago it was common for outsiders who wished to perform the part of Job's comforter to say that the movies must be knocking stamp collecting into a cocked hat. These persons having no appreciation of stamp collecting or understanding of it, resented seemingly the flourishing condition that it had attained and if their secret wish were revealed, it would have shown that they were not saddened by the "decline" of interest in stamps. As it was seen that philately progressed notwithstanding the popularity of moving pictures, it was necessary to find some other outlet for lugubrious comment and the radio afforded it. The fashion is now to say sighfully that the radio must be terribly crimping to collecting. Here, the croaker has little satisfaction. The radio is helping philately and philatelic broadcasters tell of the interest inspired in stamps by their talks. For instance, Mr. E. B. Power of New York has received to date ten thousand two hundred requests for beginners' albums, which he offers, in his talk, to give away.
Mr. Power's popularity as a radio speaker is remarkable and from every

W on April 16th and from W G R on Power on stamps say that he is master of himself and of his topic and that his discourse is most enlivening. He is a great avant courier of philately.

We have been shown by Mr. Douglas P. Ball an old historical document stamped with the seal of the Guatemalan postal department, directing the movement of mail from Guatemala City to southern Mexico. The instrument is dated in 1846 and directs the various postmasters on the route from Guatemala City to San Christobal (Mexico) to receive and receipt for the mails carried by the messenger, together with an accounting by the carrier for the money advanced to pay for the service.
The dates range from June 3, 1846 to June 20, 1846, and Chiapias was on the itinerary, this state, at the time having been a part of Guatemala.

The death of Charles S. Patteson which was chronicled recently in the WEEKLY brings vividly to mind a remarkable personality. Mr. Patteson was a thorough collector who brought to bear, particularly on the stamps of the war and reconstruction period an enthusiasm that was genuine and compelling. Mr. Patteson, whose vocation was that of advertising adviser, came in contact with the proprietors of not a few of the great newspapers of the country and his trained mind solved many momentous questions of policy in connection with their properties. He travelled from coast to coast accompanied by his wife who shared deeply his philatelic beliefs and he was a caller at many of the stamp shops in different cities. He never hesitated to speak of his stamp faith to the big men with whom he came in contact and was eloquent in his praises of stamps for the comforting effect that they had in restoring quiet to nerves driven at a high pace. Mr. Patteson's experiences were more extensive than those that fell to the common lot of men; and he was in Chicago as a young man before the great fire in that city, in 1871. We shall miss Mr. Patteson whose reminiscences were so interesting that they would hold the listener's rapt attention; and to Mrs. Patteson our sincere sympathy is offered. Mr. Patteson was well in the sixties.

Some time ago reference was made to a "McMillan's Despatch Post" circular, found on a notice in printed form telling of the impending maturity of a note, from the banking institution of

Geo. Smith & Co., Chicago. Unfortunately, there is no year date found and Mr. R. McP. Cabeen, Chicago, to whom was given the task of running down information about the post reports that while Geo. Smith & Co., bankers, are listed in directories from 1849 to 1868, and the addressee of the circular, Charles P. Bissell as a commission merchant from 1855 to 1862, there is no definite reference to a McMillan's post. A William McMillan who was a drug clerk in 1850 had his own drug store later and he seems to be the only possibility as a post proprietor. With the data at hand, the existence of the McMillan post is fixed between 1855 and 1862.

An editorial paragraph in our issue of November 12, 1923, spoke of the veteran Moens of Brussels as having been the first collector of stamps and the year 1855 was given as the earliest date that could be boasted of by any stamp collector. Our friend, Mr. Gustave de La-chasse, Avignon, France, wrote us some time ago in this interesting way: "Without having the thought of robbing Mr.
Moens of his laurels, as being the oldest collector, or rather the first one, I can truly say that I come rather close to him, having begun my first collection in 1858.
This does not make me any younger!
But, anyway, I do intend being with you at Detroit." Mr. de Lachasse is in his 78th year and we shall be glad to do him honor at the Detroit convention. He has been a reader of the WEEKLY for many years and for nearly fifty years was a resident of the United States before he returned to France.

The controversy over the suggestion that a philatelic stamp be issued in connection with the international philatelic exhibition in Philadelphia, 1926, continues and a call for arbitration is in order. Neither faction seems to have any marked advantage in numbers, yet it is probable that if a poll were taken of the votes of all who have written to us, the objectors would win rather comfortably. The plan of Mr. Michael Miller that a special issue for the Philadelphia sesquicentennial portray the workings of government by allotting a stamp for each of the departments, that of the post-office department having a philatelic cast, has been hailed by two correspondents as smoothing the road to accomplishment. All this is very much in the future, of course, and until the special issue impending is well out of the way, the time is not propitious to even whisper anything of later achievements in this direction. We suppose that by this time our readers are rather well out of ammunition on the subject of the philatelic stamp but if not, they may fire when ready.

INFORMATION WANTED.

A. A. Wasserscheid, 32 Platt St., New York City, would like information concerning some Hungarian stamps. If any subscriber can give the desired information the WEEKLY would be glad to use it in its columns. The question follows:—Hungary—Can you give me any information in regard to stamps of the current issues that are perforated with a single made up of three holes? I spoke to a Hungarian friend, who stated that these stamps commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of a postal establishment. I took the matter up with him, but they state that they cannot give any information regarding the stamps, except to say that in the lot of complete sheets they have on hand, the two center vertical rows of each sheet carry these holes. Anything I can tell me will be appreciated.

A CASE OF NEED.

In Ware, Mass., is a poor woman who has about four barrels closely packed with U.S. postage stamps, dating mostly from 1900 to 1915 or 18. About half are loose stamps attached to paper, and half entire envelopes. Is there any dealer who could make use of these stamps and who could give her the best of treatment? The WEEKLY is very glad to publish this advertisement free of charge, and suggests that correspondence be addressed to George A. Hitchcock, Ware, Mass.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE "WEEKLY".

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer them for sale at very reasonable prices. The prices in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books is $1.50 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds. This offer is of immediate acceptance.

EVERY SET MINT - - EVERY SET COMPLETE

A few weeks ago we created a sensation by offering a large number of complete mint sets at remarkably low prices. Many of them were at less than the WHOLESALE quotations in this country. The demand for these sets soon outdistanced the supply and we were forced to hold orders or refund on many of them. We want to publicly thank our customers for their sympathetic, and on the whole, kindly treatment of us. We are now fully aware of which sets are most popular and we can assure you that we will not be caught so far short again.

NOW, we offer a new list of COMPLETE SETS and we have extra supplies of all of them. More sets are coming in every day and these will be first placed on our "HOME NEWS", a little sheet of specials which is issued now and then. These sets are all guaranteed genuine and COMPLETE. Buy them now and be assured that we are offering them as low as they can be offered.

CAPIES! CAPIES!! TRIANGULAR CAPIES!!!

Did you read that ad of ours in March 24th MEKEEL'S? You don't often see offers like these. Many of the finest pieces that have come up for years. Some of the best bargains are still unclaimed today (Apr. 1st) but they are going fast. Better look the ad up and send for a nice square pair or block.

THE MARK CLIMAX 102 GERMAN STAMPS 1922-23 $1.02

Quantity makes little difference, QUALITY makes all the difference in the world. Many dealers can supply 150 German stamps for 50c, in fact, we can ourselves. In offering 102 varieties, we frankly tell you that 80 of them are values from 1000 MARKS to 50,000,000,000 MARKS. Or issues that were emitted between the 1st of August and 1st of December 1923. Many people are willing to believe our statements and we have sold more of the "Mark Climax" than of any other "M.C." we ever put up. Get the "GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING" by ordering the MARK CLIMAX today. There is nothing so good as a FAMOUS "M.C." for the "blues".

ESPECIALLY IN BLOX OF FOUR! The "M. C. Special" $3.06

THE MEMORIAL Pre-CANCELLATION 17 HARDING PRE-CANCELS $1.02

Sorry to be so late with the Harding "M.C.", but you see we didn't think about dealing in PRE-CANS. until a week or so ago when we fell heir to a nice little lot. Since then we have learned a lot about the business. Candidly, there is a lot for us to learn yet. But that's not to the point! YOU WANT HARDING PRE-CANS, and you don't want to PAY 50 TO 100 TIMES FACE for them. WE OFFER YOU SEVENTEEN HARDINGS at 6c each and if you can buy them cheaper elsewhere—you have our blessing. These 17 Hardings don't all come from the big cities, either, there are a number of scarce little towns in the lot. Most of our Hardings are perforated on all four sides and we think that you can read the names of all the towns without your magnifying glass or YOUR IMAGINATION. COME AND GET 'EM, BOYS, 17 different cities and towns, a good investment at $1.02.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP, 510 WEST 113TH ST., NEW YORK CITY

DeepSecret HUSH, Don't tell anybody but your best friends, DON'T PUSH, This isn't the SUBWAY. There is going to be a real old-fashioned M.C. with 300 vars. in it. FURTHER ANNOUNCEMENT LATER. MEANWHILE, What are you going to do with $1.02? THANK YOU! [37]

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mr. Roscoe B. Martin, Cashier of the First National Bank, Forestville, New York, wants to know how to attain a worthy end without damage to his stamps; and we insist that he be told what to do. He writes: "Perhaps you can tell me, one of your original subscribers, about framing some sheets of unused U. S. I wish to have framed some 400 sheets of 2c Hardings for display purposes and to loan nearby libraries. It would seem that something would be necessary to be placed against the gum side of the sheet or the sheet would be ruined but then, the sheet might stick to whatever is back of the stamps. I used to see in some place in Nassau Street, a lot of framed sheets of the 1893 Columbians but I never get into advanced civilization nowadays and so must depend on you for some assistance in this instance." The framing that we have done for "loan exhibits" has been on a small scale and we hope that some ingenious reader will tell Mr. Martin of safety first precautions.

—A correspondent, A. W. Filstrup, informs us that H. L. Wiley is now located at 1801 Taylor St., San Francisco, Cal., and a letter addressed to him there will no doubt reach him. It is also reported that he has recently been in Los Angeles, where he has been engaged in the writing of plays for moving pictures.

—Joseph V. K. Wells, of the Home of the Postage Stamp, has convinced us that the firm's advertisement of Germany No. 206 was a genuine mistake upon their part. The stamp as advertised was listed in the belief that it was actually the stamp referred to, and money is being refunded to all customers with regrets.

The Metropolitan Stamp Co., 7 W. 42, N. Y. City, is circulating a very excellent pricelist of Salvador stamps. The range of offerings is indicated in the statement that the booklet contains no fewer than 28 pages.

UNITED STATES TWENTIETH CENTURY RARITIES

I recently purchased another exceedingly interesting collection of United States postage stamps—especially strong in those investment items—the errors of the twentieth century. Remember, these are just a few of the choice pieces, can furnish most of the others in blocks and singles. Also, a substantial stock of the earlier issues.

May I have your want list of U. S. postal adhesives? Reference, please, if unknown to me.

In order to have on hand at all times a substantial stock, I am always open to purchase anything in the way of scarce United States postage and Department. My only requirement, they must be fine. Especially wanted at present anything unusual in the way of 1847, 5c and 10c, singles, pairs, strips, covers, blocks, cancellations, etc.

UNITED STATES.—Shade Varieties, 1922-1923 Series.—Now that the current series is being distributed throughout the country, minor shade varieties of several of the values have been noted. The 1c is coming in both light and dark green, while the 2c seems to vary but little. The 3c, which was first issued at the Philatelic Agency in a bright violet is now coming in a much deeper color. The 5c, which was at first quite dark, is now to be had in a much lighter shade. Marked differences have been noted in the 10c due no doubt to the intensity of the ink. I have been looking from the first for shade varieties of the 11c, but without apparent success. The 14c can now be had in two very distinct shades. In the higher values I have not as yet seen any differences worthy of notice.

Night Air Mail Service.—Under date of March 29th, the Associated Press advised under a Washington headline that the House of Representatives on that day agreed to appropriate $1,500,000 for operation of the New York-San Francisco air mail service, during the fiscal year beginning July 1st.

It also approved an additional appropriation of $1,250,000 for operation of the air mail service by night flying. It will be recalled that the series of air mail stamps issued during August of 1923, consisting of the 8c, 16c and 24c were for use in connection with this coast to coast service. As the current appropriations were exhausted after a few trips were made, it was necessary to discontinue the service. Since then the department has been after an appropriation, which at first was stricken from the budget, but we now see has received the favorable consideration of the House. It is to be hoped that it will be treated in a like manner in the Senate, so that in the near future the department will be giving us an honest-to-goodness air mail service. European countries at present are far in advance of America in their air mail activities, much to our regret.

Alaskan Air Mail Fairbanks to McGrath.—Under date of March 31st the Information Service of the Post Office Department released to the press an exceedingly interesting story regarding the first trip of the air mail over an experimental route between Fairbanks and McGrath. I can do nothing better than quote from the Post Office circular:—

"Lost in an airplane in the stygian darkness of an Alaskan night without a star above or a light below to guide him, was the harrowing experience of Carl B. Eielson, Air Mail Pilot, on his first trip over an experimental route between Fairbanks and McGrath, Alaska, according to his report just received by Postmaster-General New.

"So interesting was the report of Eielson's adventure that the Postmaster-General read it at Friday's Cabinet meeting and President Coolidge, impressed by the tale, wrote a personal letter to the Air Mail pilot congratulating him upon the successful completion of his flight. Accompanying this letter went one from Mr. New of similar purport.

"I congratulate you on the conspicuous success of your undertaking," the President said, "Your experience provides a unique and interesting chapter in the rapidly developing science of aerial navigation."

"I don't know of a more interesting story," Mr. New wrote Eielson, "than is provided by this very intelligently prepared report, and I have no doubt it will attract public attention, which it so thoroughly deserves."

Eielson made the first leg of his trip from Fairbanks to McGrath without mishap, covering in less than three hours a distance formerly traversed by dog team in 16 to 18 days.

Rather than face a cold motor in the morning and with a full realization of the danger of being caught by the early descending darkness of an Alaskan February night, he began the return trip at 2:35 P. M.

"I expected, Eielson said in his report to get home by 5:10 P. M. That is just at dusk. I flew over Appel Mountain and one hour and fifteen minutes later I reached Lake Minchumina, which is nearly the half-way point. This was a schedule so I thought I was all right. Later I passed over a stream which was not on the map and I thought it must be the Kantishna River. Still later I reached this stream but thought it was the Tanana River.

"To the left I saw a bluff which looked like the Nenana bluff. I checked it further by noticing a river going around the bluff. I was positive that it was Nenana when I saw a river entering the Tanana at the point where the Nenana River enters the Tanana at the town of Nenana.

"I struck for the bluff and everything was all right except that the town of Nenana was not in its place. I knew I must have veered to the left so I started up the Tanana. I followed it for half an hour (that is fifty miles).

"By this time it was pitch dark. I could not believe that I had gotten fifty miles off my course after the same compass course had brought me to Lake Minchumina half way, which is exact on the course. I could not see the light of Nenana so I left the river, going east. I thought I must have gotten on the Kantishna River and that I was following it back to Mt. McKinley as the country looked flat in the pitch darkness. The sky was entirely overcast and not a star showed.

"I wandered around completely lost for most of an hour. Then I knew that the river I had left was the Tanana. About this time I saw a light so I checked my altitude and went down to it. I must have been a trappers' cabin near the Chatanika River. I was tempted to set the ship down there and have a place to sleep, but I knew I would regret it if I did, so I decided to look around some more. I went back to the river I had left and while following it down saw a flare in the distance. I followed it and it turned out to be my hotel field. There was a light in front of the hangar."

Eielson broke off one ski and his propeller in landing but no serious damage was done and he found the entire town waiting at the field. He had been in the air seven hours that day, covering a distance farther than from Fairbanks to Siberia; Fairbanks to Point Barrow, Fairbanks to Juneau. This seems incredible in Alaska for it takes a month of hardship at this time of the year to go from Fairbanks to Nome by the fastest route—dog team.

The flight was made with the thermometer at five degrees below zero by Eielson complained of being "too warm"

APPROVAL BOOKS

for serious and advanced collectors. (I do not carry stock suitable for the beginners.)

The following are a few of my most recent approval books, some are 25% to 40% under catalogue, others are full catalogue and over, but all are quoted at my lowest net cash price.

Peru

Book No. 71—P. S. N. Co. on laid and wove. Fine lot of 1858 to 1880, unused and used, some good pairs, strips and blocks.

Venezuela

Book No. 69—A nice little lot of early issues with blocks of 4, 6 and 9, and several rare tete-beche.

Fiji Islands

Book No. 73—A good general lot from the first issue, with all the perforations classed. Mostly unused and with a number of fine blocks of 4.

British Columbia

A very fine book of unused and used, with many varieties of cancellation. This includes the 2½d imperf., 10c imperf. 4 copies and many fine shades in the early stamps.

Egypt

Book No. 48—A general collection up to 1890 with a good set of first issue, blocks of 4 in second issue. In the scarce 5 pias. brown there are four fine singles and a pair. In the 3rd issue many tete-beche in pairs and blocks.

St. Helena

Book No. 39—Fine lot of 1st type, nearly all unused, number of imperf. 1d, 4d and 6d, and a nearly complete set of later issue, with a number of good blocks.

Gambia

A fine book of early issues, about a dozen imperf., fine lot of Crown and CC including five of the 1sh green.

Cape of Good Hope

Book No. 38—Grand lot of triangular in singles and pairs, unused and used. Woodblock 1d and 4d, later on cover and rare thus, and grand lot of shades in issues 1864-1890, all unused.

STAMP COLLECTING IN TORONTO.

In the Toronto Star Weekly of Saturday, March 29, appeared a very nice feature dealing with stamp collecting in Toronto. It is illustrated with pictures of Major General Robert Rennie and Fred Jarrett, president of the Canadian Philatelic Society. We consider the article of sufficient interest to reprint:—

Stamp collecting on the wane? Maybe in some parts of the country but assuredly not in Toronto. A gathering of the clan at the Hotel Elliott the other night provided ample evidence to the contrary.

The occasion was the first annual dinner of the newly organized Toronto Stamp Collectors Club. More than 50 turned up, varying in age from the grey-haired veteran to the recently inaugurated novice, but the same extraordinary enthusiasm pervaded both the young and old.

How could a grown-up man become enthusiastic over the collecting of little bits of square-inch, colored paper?

William W. Young, of 69 Clinton Street, one of the oldest and most prominent collectors in the city, explained something of the lure of the hobby The Star.

"I started away back in 1881 when I was a 13-year-old clerk in a Sheffield merchant's office," he related. "We had a large foreign correspondence and in all this foreign mail gave me an idea of starting a stamp collection. My imagination soon became fired and I was at it off and on ever since."

Today Mr. Young has assembled more than 26,000 stamps, representing nearly every country in the world and including some of the rarest specimens of the continent. The present value of his unique collection has been placed at $4,500.

The Toronto club includes a lot of other well known collectors. Fred Jarrett, of 354 Albany Avenue, has an exceedingly valuable collection of British North American varieties. That is his specialty. The issues that he has a specimen of are few and far between. So precious are his holdings that he keeps them safely locked up in the safe deposit vault of one of the local banks. "It has taken me years to get Henry B. Phillips sending in the subscription for the Berkeley Public Library calls attention to the claim made by the Rhode Island Philatelic Society of being the oldest organization of its kind in the country. Mr. Phillips contends that the Pacific Philatelic Society organized Nov. 24, 1884, antedates the Rhode Island Society by at least three months, during which time it has functioned continuously. Our attention is called to this as a matter of historical record and the seal of the Society sustains Mr. Phillips' contention.

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

them," he pointed out. Some of them I could never replace. I would be foolish to take any chances with them."

W. H. Crouse, 73 St. George Street, is another British North American specialist who has amassed a highly valuable collection.

Other particularly noteworthy collections in the city are owned by Lieut.-Col. J. B. Miller, George A. Lowe, Alfred E. Venables, and Major-General Robert Rennie, C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O.L., D.S.O. One of the more recent recruits to the ranks is H. J. Brook of Simcoe. He has only been collecting a comparatively short time but already he has brought together one of the finest Canadian collections in the province.

To the unappreciative, a stamp is merely a means of getting a letter from Toronto to some other part of the country one of the older collectors pointed out to The Star.

But to the initiated a stamp means a thousand and one intricate interests—they see the period, the kind of paper it is printed on, the number of perforations, the post mark, the watermark, the color, the cancellation, and countless other little features which to the ordinary person means nothing.

They realize what it is that the stamp stands for—a marvellous system of fast trains, ocean liners and airplanes; a system which commands the daily labor of hundreds of thousands of postal employees throughout the world, and which represents an investment of many hundreds of millions of dollars.

There is a wealth of history and geography wrapped up in these little messengers of paper since the first one was issued in England on the 6th day of May, 1840—a beautifully printed likeness of the youthful Queen of England, in finely shaded black and white that for charm of design and make-up has scarcely been equalled since.

At the present time it would be difficult to find an inhabited portion of the world that does not issue stamps in one form or another. It is estimated that the total number of different issues since 1840 is 40,000, for which the British Empire itself is responsible for fully one-third.

In Toronto, there are supposed to be at least 750 active stamp gatherers with the size of their collections extending all the way from 100 different varieties to 30,000. Many of them are juniors. There are three stamp clubs for boys now flourishing in the city—one is conducted by the boys' work secretary of the Central Y.M.C.A., another at the College St. Public Library, and the third at the Jewish Boys' Home, Simcoe Street.

PHILATELY HOLDS RICH GAINS.

In the opinion of prominent New York stamp collectors and dealers, the stamp hobby bids fair to supplant fine paintings and other bulky works of art among the wealthy who make collections for collecting's sake.

One reason advanced for the change is that modern living conditions do not afford space for bulky collections. Whereas a collection of valuable canvases requires spacious halls and corridors, with proper lighting, a very valuable stamp collection can be carried in the vest pocket. Even the largest and most valuable collections are contained within a few volumes which fit into a bookcase.

Stamp collecting first became a really international hobby, dealers here say, in the early nineties. From 1893 to 1900 it had a great following. Then it died down until 1912, since when the ranks of enthusiasts have been steadily augmented. Today there are in the United States alone fifty or more collections which are worth between $100,000 and $300,000 each, dealers say, while there are a large number of collections valued from $25,000 to $75,000 each.

About five years ago stamp collecting received a great impetus, since when prices have advanced greatly, placing some issues entirely out of reach of any but wealthy buyers. This has driven many collectors into the field of post cards and envelopes, but prices on these, too, it is said, are advancing rapidly.

Lately, there has been a big demand for stamps of the Confederate Government, issued during the War of the Rebellion. Old ramshackle buildings on the lower East Side have produced many rare stamps of the early days of the United States.

Collectors say that the craze has extended to Europe, especially in England, where there is a particular demand for stamps of the United States.

Hardly a day passes in which there is not a stamp auction in New York. The same is true in London, and in Paris there is a regularly established stamp exchange.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

COLLECTORS CLUB EXHIBIT.

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS NIGHT AT A WELL ATTENDED MEETING OF THE CLUB.

Notes by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

A large number of members and visitors to the Collectors Club had a great treat on Wednesday evening, April 2nd when Mr. Ferrars H. Tows exhibited his matchless collection of the Philippine Isles.

Mr. Tows has been a collector since 1885 and about ten years ago decided to specialize in the U. S. Possessions, and was good enough to bring to the Club his eleven volumes of Philippine Islands and give us a first-rate talk on them.

After an inspection of this fine collection it was the general opinion that the catalogue lists of this country required re-writing in toto, and if any responsible cataloger wants to undertake the job I am sure that Mr. Tows would gladly help, as this is an important group of stamps of a great U. S. Possession that should be properly written up while the material is available.

Space at my disposal will only allow of a few brief notes, whereas many pages would be occupied in a proper description of these stamps.

1854—5c orange, with fine and coarse lines, about a dozen unused, including one on thick ribbed paper which is believed to be unique.

5c used several on covers with various cancellations, a block of four and an extraordinary block of 37 used.

10c pale rose. An unused block of four, very rare in this colour in a block, and a number of singles.

10c carmine. Large number of unused and used in singles, pairs and blocks and a reconstructed sheet of the 40 types.

1rl. These are divided into three groups of colors, the slate-blue, blue, and ultramarine, fine lot of shades and reconstructed sheets in what Mr. Tows thinks are the first and last printings. There is also a wonderful uncut sheet of the 40 types, used, an extraordinary item to find thus preserved.

2rls. green. A beautiful page of unused in a perfect gradation of shades, 29 copies in all. Also a reconstructed sheet of the 40 types used.

It should be noted that in this grand lot of the rare 1854 issue every stamp is perfect, no thin spots or tears. Those who have handled many of these stamps well know how difficult it is to form a large collection of perfect copies.

1855—5c broken circle. Nine copies with the four types plated.

5c re-engraved. A fine unused pair believed to be unique.

1856—A number of the Cuba design stamps used in the Philippines in blocks of four and six and many copies on letters with all known cancellations.

1859-1863—Many pages of these in all varieties of color, shade, paper and gum and all in groups of 4 types and some in full sheets. In one setting of the 10c Mr. Tows drew attention to No. 38 on the sheet which is without period after the 10.

In the thin paper group of the 5c he pointed out that one setting has a frame line round each group of 4 stamps, and another one is without this frame line.

In regard to the scarce 1rl violet and 2rls blue it was pointed out that the 2 reales was printed first, then the figures "2" in the groups of 4 were removed and "1's" were inserted in order to print the 1 real.

In the 2rls. blue Mr. Tows has a block of 4.

1864-1879 issues include a large number of essays and also "printer's waste."

1875-1876 and later issues. Mr. Tows drew attention to the fact that all these can be made up in two distinct sets, the one with yellow and the other with white gum.

1877-1879—The provisionals are a grand lot with all varieties and errors. Mr. Tows specially drew attention to the blue surcharges which he has found very rare. The genuine are in bright blue, those usually sold are in a dull color and are forgeries. The originals are very rare.

From 1878 to 1882 most of the stamps come in very clear impressions and in colors markedly different to the reg-

Know all men by these presents: That I, E. B. Power, sole owner, navigator, bottlerwasher and chef of S. G. Inc. of N. Y., do not see why I should try and squeeze 6 feet of humanity in a 5 foot 10 berth broadcasting all over the country about stamps just to have to stay up nights answering some 1500 letters per lecture. It's about time some of you self contained, locked up in the den, secretive collectors did something for the hobby.

The first man you go to lunch with, nail him with a Pathfinder album and 100 stamps. Tell him half his life he's wasted but the other half may count for something if he gets in the game. Give him a few dups—it won't hurt you—and get him going. Someday he may find two Brattleboros and give you one for nothing.

Here's the dose to give him:—

- 1 Pathfinder Album, 50 countries illustrated, 200 spaces
- 1 packet of 100 nasty common everyday stamps
- 1 slap on the back and 1 go to it.

ular and common issues. Mr. Tows believes that these are Special Printings, probably only one or two sheets of each, that were printed off for some Spanish Royalty and some of which have got into circulation.

In the 1879 he drew attention to the error "COREROS" which comes in a pair side by side in the sheet, and he also showed the rarer error CORR-ZOS which was once catalogued but for some reason has now been dropped out.

The provisionals of 1881-88 are a wonderful part of the collection with many large blocks, and almost all of them double and inverted. Here Mr. Tows drew our attention to uncatalogued varieties which he had found on the 2nd and 3rd re-engraving of the 2 4/8c ultramarine. Among many rarities in this issue I can only note:—

Un real in black on 2c carmine, the only copy known without the hole punched in it.

Un real in green on 8c on 2c carmine, not catalogued by Scott.

8c on 10c bistre in a pair, one surcharge inverted.

In the 1889 Recargo provisionals a rare variety is the error 11 4/8 on 5p for 11 2/8.

There is a fine lot of all varieties issued in 1899 by the Republic, unused, used and on covers.

Of stamps issued under American Dominion, there is a most remarkable lot and one that cannot be duplicated in any collection. They include all printings in blocks, shades and plate numbers in strips of three.

In 1900 issue Mr. Tows showed the special surcharges for the Paris Exhibition, also the Postage Dues.

In 1904, at the time of the St. Louis Exhibition, Mr. J. M. Bartels who had been appointed Special Agent to prepare and arrange the exhibit, asked for some stamps to complete it. A special printing was made and a sheet of 100 each of the 2c (Flag), 6c, $1, $2 and $5 was sent, from which five copies had to be selected for the exhibition and the rest returned to the Bureau.

Of the 6c there is a strip of three, the right hand stamp has a broad diagonal bar across it indicating that the plate had been cancelled for destruction prior to use.

The Special Printing of the $5 is the only impression ever made from plate 288, the ordinary number being 85. Mr. Tows showed this rare $5 with the plate number which is unique.

In the 1903 issue he showed two pairs and a block of four of the 10c, one in each with and one without the surcharge and all penstroked. Mr. Tows mentioned that only one vertical row of this error ever existed.

In the 1903-04 set and the Postage Dues there are also Special Printings of the surcharges, only one sheet being printed of each value.

The O. B. stamps are an almost complete series in many sets of different types of the letters. They were shown in pairs with and without O. R. With the O. B. double, also in red and in black on same stamp, handstamped—and with MSS. surcharges.

Mr. Ams moved a most hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Tows for the fine collection he had shown and the interesting description of it that he had given.

PHILATELY IN CLEVELAND.

The Garfield-Perry Stamp Club which formerly held its meetings in the Finance Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio, is now located in its new club room at 324 Caxton Bldg. At the meeting held April 4 the local branch endorsed the Philadelphia ticket with the exception of Directors at Large, and for these two offices the branch names Judge Robert S. Emerson, Providence, R. I., and W. W. MacLaren, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Cleveland Press has established a stamp column in its Saturday paper. At no time in the history of stamp collecting has it been so popular amongst the boys of Cleveland as it is today. Nearly all the schools, branch libraries, branch Y's, etc., have stamp clubs.

On Thursday, April 3, we received two applications in the same mail. One was from Harry F. Allen, Norwood, Mass., a long-time subscriber to the WEEKLY, who wants to be assured of the regular receipt of the paper for another five years. A remittance of $5 was also received from E. L. Davidson of Indianapolis, Ind.

A long-time subscriber to the WEEKLY in the person of Harry L. Jefferys takes his membership in the Honor Club. He became a subscriber in the early nineties and the Managing Editor will vouch for the fact that his collecting proclivities have been steadily promoted by the use of the WEEKLY. He is a member of the Collectors Club of New York and also the Royal Philatelic Society of London.

Alfred F. Lichtenstein sends us a check for $5 for a five-year membership, the paper to be sent to his nephew, Richard Lichtenstein. The letter is accompanied by this sentiment:—"I am hopeful that some day this young man will develop into an ardent collector and I am sending him the WEEKLY to assist in the making."

J. Weer Chew of Merchantville, N. J. has long been a subscriber to our publication and without any formality other than the remittance of a check for $5 he makes his application for membership in the Honor Club. We are very glad to add his name to our list.

POLAND
sued only a few provisionals and the present issue, which runs as high as 2,000,000 marks, will likely be soon superseded by a new permanent issue of some sort of gold irrency basis. Concerning the provision-als, Mr. A. N. Burgess, writing in the "Philatelic Magazine," says, "We can recommend its series (or even the whole country) to the serious collector as being a very interesting one, and one which is well worth studying, and while at present most of the amps can be bought for quite reasonable prices, we think these are likely to rise considerably as stocks become exhausted".
We fully agree with Mr. Burgess and ave, therefore, made Poland available under our system of intensive approval service. Under this system, a very large variety of a particular country—in this case Poland—is assembled and is put up in envelopes marked 1c, 2c, 3c, etc. You take it of each envelope the stamps you need, mitting for same the prices indicated on the envelopes, and return the balance of the amps to us. We admit that under this method the approvals do not look as neat when the stamps are mounted on sheets in books, but aside from this our system has many advantages over the old. Among these we may mention that by not mounting the stamps we save a lot of valuable space, which enables us to sell our stamps at very low prices. Another important advantage is, that you get the unused stamps in unopened condition.

Besides POLAND, which we have both used and unused, the following countries are so far available:

GERMANY, used and mint.
DANZIG, used and mint.
MEMEL, only mint.
JUGO-SLAVIA, mostly mint.
When applying, please indicate whether you desire mint or used stamps or both mils.

Did You Get One?

A few weeks ago we advertised a "starter" packet of 25 attractive copies of Scott's No. 210, the 2c red-brown of 1883, to include at least four extreme shades and a variety of cancellations, such as stars, dated towns, numerals, letters, colored targets, etc., post paid for $1.00. Perhaps you intended to order one and make up an interesting page as a starter in the collection and study of cancellations. It is not too late; we have more of them and want your order on the basis of "satisfaction guaranteed or your money back on request".

Behind the starter packet are a score of approval books filled with classified cancellations on No. 210. These are for the advanced collector as well as the beginner. Other books of cancellations on No. 33, 43, 44, 42f, 49, 50, 52, 53, 63, 65, 68, 71, 73, 76, 78, 113, 114 and practically all of the "Bank Note" issues to 1888. Tell us what you want and your limits; we are sure to have something you need. [H]

J. O. MOORE, Inc., Hammondsport, N. Y.

By M. H. HOOVER, Lockport, N. Y.

This study is based upon an examination of two separate unpicked finds aggregating 32,000 unusually rich in the older issues of the banknote companies comprising approximately 83% National, 10% Continental, 5% American, 2% re-engraved and about 20% of which had original gum.

This research although founded on a limited field of only 32,000 copies may serve as an interesting check-up on prices estimated by specialists and catalogers on major and minor varieties, blocks, strips, pairs and cancellations. The data offered with reference to the frequency or scarcity in the seven divisions and their sub-divisions as assigned in this work to the immortal 3c green will prove of permanent value. My other collection of 30,000 3c greens lent assistance.

This study of the comparative occurrence of the items assigned to the sub-divisions has been aided by a study of standard works of Wiley, Scott and Stevenson, the fraternal instruction of friends like Perry, Ritchie, Bates, Atwater and Fenster, and inspired by my love for the 3c green, whose acquaintance I formed soon after its birth—as a boy collector in 1872.

The comparative data is limited to 8,600 selected copies called 8,000 for convenience, leaving 24,000 common run copies that are important factors in determining the relative values of the more desirable one-fourth.

We must leave to the students of higher mathematics the solution of the problem of the exact values based on relative frequency after furnishing the "known quantities," resigning to them the pleasure of resolving the x, y and z into the known. Given the average catalog value of the 24,000 common run (2½c) the ratio of occurrence of any sub-division class, e. g., one stitch watermark in 3,200, are we justified in multiplying 3,200 by 2½c, which would make the relative value of the stitch watermark $80 instead of the $2 fixed by Scott's?

The economist will remind us of the complex laws of supply and demand and that a limited supply, a scarcity, does not invariably predicate high value, commercially at least. The buyer must be found. Desirability is probably after all the key to the problem of relative values, controlled, however, by the masterkey, the number of people who desire a certain thing. Undoubtedly a stitch watermark or a plate number is a desirable philatelic item, but as yet only a comparatively few collectors desire such items to the extent of a willingness to pay the price that the inexorable law of mathematics applied to relative scarcity would impose.

With this in mind we resign ourselves to modifying the rule of comparative frequency so as to reach figures more nearly approaching the values fixed for rarer items by the dealers and catalogers—a reduction which the average collector will no doubt endorse in a lively recollection of the wide divergence in prices arrogated by a dealer buying and a dealer selling, for the average col-

A welcome letter reaches us from Vahan Mozian enclosing his subscription for the Public Library of Rutherford, N. J. and two subscriptions for Passaic, N. J., one for the Public Library and one for the Y. M. C. A. May we point out that the WEEKLY placed upon the reading tables of the Y. M. C. A., Scout organizations and similar boys' clubs must be productive of excellent results.

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

ing the stamp not only enhances the beauty of the 3c green, especially if the envelope frame be in the dainty tints of the 70's—canary, robin's blue, pink, sea-green, blue, lavender, orange, buff or cream—but it also frequently completes the cancellation design. This division comprises 700 copies, most of the cover margins being small but adding in various ways to the attractiveness and interest of the specimens. They include 2 imprints, 5 arrows, 20 plate and print varieties, 11 grills, 12 olive shades; 30 colored cancellations; 50 ribbed papers and apparently a Continental imperforate vertically. The stamp may have been trimmed on one side before being mailed, but was undoubtedly an imperf. vertically when purchased for postage. An interesting side-line is composed of 5 copies curiously damaged before being affixed to the letters for mailing. They include one cut from a yellow envelope and pasted with its background of old cover on a lavender cover. There are the usual examples of carelessness in affixing stamps in multiple, fours overlapping, triplets awry, etc. The part covers include a number of very interesting cancellations, including a blue eagle, two elephants on one stamp, etc.

Only the part covers are hinged. All copies in the other divisions are inserted in stockbook-like strip pockets, some transparent, so that these unhinged lots arranged by classes as indicated may be readily studied for stitch watermarks, grills, ribbed and other paper varieties, gum varieties, etc.

U. S. NOTABLES AT BRUSSELS.

Without doubt there will be a large attendance of American philatelists at the Brussels Exhibition. Herman Toasperm sails April 26 and will visit the philatelic centers of Great Britain, Holland, Austria and Germany in connection with the Exhibition. Edward Stern of the Economist Stamp Co. sailed April 3 on the "George Washington." Alfred F. Lichtenstein will be the American representative on the jury and is planning to sail May 10.

TEXAS CONVENTION.

The 28th Annual Convention of the Texas Philatelic Association will be held in Houston, Texas, on April 21st, 1924.

It is the desire of the Houston members to make this the most successful convention in the history of the association and in order to make it such, we are especially counting on your attendance, together with your family and collector friends.

By all means, be in Houston on Sunday, the 20th, as arrangements have been made to take all visitors on a boat trip down the Houston Ship Channel to the San Jacinto Battle Grounds, a trip of especial interest to all Texans.

Philatelically yours,
A. H. SCHUMACHER,
A. W. HERR,
L. LENZ,

Committee.

EDITORIAL.

Through the kindness of Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes, we are shown an original document, "Instructions for Postmasters East of the Mississippi River," signed by John H. Reagan, Postmaster General, and dated at the Post-Office Department, Richmond, March 8th, 1864. We quote: "Sir: Under 'An Act to reduce the Currency, and to authorize a new issue of Notes and Bonds,' approved February 17th, 1864, it becomes necessary that you should be governed by the following instructions: 1st. You will receive Confederate Treasury Notes of all denominations not bearing interest, for postages and postage stamps, at par, up to and including the 31st of March 1864; but you are not obliged to make change for these large notes, and will avoid giving smaller notes in exchange for one hundred dollar notes, and the exchange of five dollar notes for those of larger denominations. 2nd. On and after the first of April, you are not to receive, for postages or postage stamps, one hundred dollar notes.  5th. After the 31st of December 1864, you are not to receive, for postages and postage stamps, any Treasury Notes issued prior to the 1st of April 1864, except those below the denomination of five dollars. But you will receive all new notes issued on or after the 1st of April 1864, at par, at any time from that date forward. 6th. All Confederate Treasury Notes, now in circulation, which bear interest, are, by the act above referred to, treated as bonds from the date of the passage of said act, and no longer as currency. You are not to receive them for postages and postage stamps." While the document is more important as a fiscal than a postal pronouncement, it gives an idea that the husbanding of small change was advisable prior to the issue of new notes and bonds.

The reactionaries are still with us and we find an editorial writer in the Chicago Journal who says: "The collection hobbyists include the searchers for rare stamps and coins. It would be difficult to discover any impelling reason for such collections on either educational or artistic grounds. They have slight historic value. Yet they engross the undivided attention of thousands of persons. There are regular exchanges and frequent auctions in such centers as London, New York and Paris. There are publications that cater solely to stamp or coin buyers." We know it; we cater to nine thousand stamp collectors. There is more to the editorial which we suspect is based on the recent Associated Press despatch proclaiming that stamp collecting had become a rich man's game. The lack of intimate touch with his subject does not make the preachment of the editor very forcible and it does not inspire one to "sass" him back. Even the title of the editorial is obsolete: "The Freak Collectors."

The Australian Philatelist does not see how "American stamp collectors can bother themselves over stamps having no postal value, seeing that they have in the postal issues of the United States, a field for indulging a thirst for the collection of variations that is, perhaps, not equalled in the issues of any other country." The characterless stamps, according to our contemporary, are the proprietary, documentary and other revenue stamps which could not be used for postal purposes. That there should be collectors of U. S. revenues as well as postage is natural enough; and if a collector interests himself in both postage and revenue stamps, it follows that both classes appeal to him. The fact that the postage stamps allow a wide range for cultivation does not make it obligatory or advisable, even, for the collector to limit his attention to them alone. There are collectors to whom the revenue stamps appeal strongly and here and there one is found who prefers them to postage stamps. The classes of revenue stamps that have been issued in this country give a variety of interest to the collecting of the stamps and it never enters the mind of the collector of these issues to have to justify them on what may be called ethical grounds. The paper quoted adds: "The United States of America is a wonderful country for fads and fancies." We are willing to admit as much for the sake of argument but the fact that revenues, general and private proprietary are collected here gives us a touch of normality, we should say.

A "war correspondent" as he calls himself says that now that the heavier guns have been fired in the battle of the "philatelic" stamp and that neither side seems to have scored a decisive victory, it is time to make a report on the operations. He thinks that the subject has been threshed out about as definitely as could be done and that it is unlikely that any decision approaching unanimity may be expected. He says that "commems" will come and go and that, if, taking moral grounds, we want nothing of the kind for a celebration of our own, he asks what position we should take on special issues, such as the one now impending. Our correspondent does not commit himself on the subject and we are just as well pleased that he does not, as, in our opinion, it would avail nothing to complain about an issue of the kind; and we doubt whether a theoretical protest would be seemly. It is granted that the post-office department does not instigate or encourage so-called commemorative issues but merely carries out the wishes of others in supplying them. The extra issues mean more work for the department that seems to have enough to keep it busy with the regular duties. If the celebration stamps are to be discouraged, it will be necessary to go over the heads of the post-office department to do so; and a means to go about this campaign should be studied well by the "antis" before they seek to accomplish their purpose.

From Mr. F. G. Floyd we have received the following letter: "In the Philatelic Gazette, Vol. I, No. 1, p. 9, is a short note 'The Boston Tea Party Stamp,' accompanied by cut describing an early Colonial revenue stamp. The stamp referred to would be more appropriately designated as a 'Stamp Act' issue. There were no stamps connected with the Tea Party. The Stamp Act led up to the Tea Party but the Stamp Act applied to all the American colonial possessions and the stamps were used in all the colonies." Mr. Floyd, whose address is 52 Fraquhar Street, Roslindale, Mass., wishes to get in touch with anyone who is especially interested in these stamps "or knows anything about them." He wants, as well, a bibliography of them. We are sending Mr. Floyd a large reproduction of two of the early tax stamps, one of the 1755 issue that was "accepted" and the other of the 1765 issue that was "refused." The explanatory text reads: "Fac-simile of document used as tax on an American Colonist in 1755, which was accepted; also stamp used during taxation of 1765 which was refused. The refusing of this tax led to the American Revolution. These stamps are very scarce now, as nearly all were destroyed at the time, the 'Boston Teaparty' disposing of a great number." The photograph was taken from originals that were in the possession of Lothrop Lee Brown of Evanston, Illinois. In Sterling's catalogue of U. S. revenue stamps of the United States, fifth edition, 1888, he says that the first British Stamp Act having reference to the colonies was passed March 22nd, 1765, but that so much opposition arose in America against the tax that few stamps were actually used here. In his catalogue, Mr. Sterling priced different varieties at fifty dollars each. The revenue stamped paper issue of 1755 and 1756 imposed the tax on the Province of Massachusetts Bay and the Colony of New York, respectively. The first general act of 1765 "was repealed March 18th, 1766."

publicity to the matter. This may have been one of those mistakes that we occur with even those of the very best intentions, and do occur with all people and for which we all have to make allowances.

Had Mr. Kunderd returned the stamp to the Canada Philatelic Agency, notwithstanding his objections, and requested better copies and the Agency not thus obliging him, and assuming they had better copies, he would undoubtedly have had cause for feeling irritated; but to submit to you for publication, and in a paper of such large circulation among stamp collectors as yours, such a criticism does not seem fair nor does it do the Canada Post-Office justice, and certain places the latter in a bad light; especially with those who, not having had dealings with their Agency, will at once be unfavorably impressed.

I have had occasion to purchase various times stamps from the Canada Philatelic Agency, and have ever found them most courteous and careful in the filling of all my orders—whether small or large—and this I most decidedly emphasize; and, further, they have always been very prompt, and I know one or two cases of very small orders they have been particular to meet my requests in certain details and which I am sure gave them additional trouble and took additional time.

Would it not be helpful and good for the fraternity of stamp collectors to look on such matters in a broad way and in this field of endeavor create a feeling and spirit of tolerance toward such happenings.

.20th CENTURY

A large percentage of my next Auction Sale No. 256 to be held Wednesday evening, April 30th, will consist of a very fine lot of 20th Century British Colonials, etc., besides a splendid property of United States. May I have your want list of U. S. postal adhesives? Reference, please, if unknown to me.

In order to have on hand at all times a substantial stock, I am always open to purchase anything in the way of scarce United States postage and Department. My only requirement, they must be fine. Especially wanted at present anything unusual in the way of 1847, 5c and 10c, singles, pairs, strips, covers, blocks, cancellations, etc.

Plate Number List to April 3, 1924.

Through the courtesy of the Acting Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we are enabled to bring our list of plate numbers up to and including April 3, 1924. It will be noted that in this list we have several more of the 2c plates of four hundred subjects for the rotary press, and with those previously made, there should be enough on hand to have these go to press very shortly. Possibly the first ones will appear in New York, precanceled for that city. They will no doubt be perforated 10 the same as the similar 1c, but it is expected that they will both in time be perforated 11 for experiments with that idea in view are being carried on at the Bureau in accordance with information previously given in this column.

Alaskan Air Mail.

In this column for last week I described in detail the experiences of the air mail pilot, who made the initial trip from Fairbanks to McGrath and return. The Information Service of the Post Office Department under date of April 3rd give us a further story regarding this service. I quote verbatim:—

"The Moose Ptarmigan" is the sobriquet given by Alaskan Indians to "Benny" Eielson, intrepid air mail pilot who gave them their first glimpse of a "man bird" and who afterwards lost his course in the night and wandered around for more than an hour before he located his home field, according to information reaching the Post Office Department today. The Yukon Indians want him for a member of their tribe with rank of "Chief."

When official announcement was made in McGrath a month before Eielson's flight that a bird-man would arrive, bringing the mail by air instead of dog team, the Indians of the district were skeptical to say the least. They came into McGrath by the score and, pitching their camps settled down to await developments. By days they watched the skies for the mysterious bird-man which the white men had said would come from the East. By night they held their pow-wows. Their disbelief increased steadily.

After a week of watchful waiting the Indians began preparations to return to their homes. Then Eielson came with a rush and a roar from the mountain peaks on the East, circled the town, and, to the awe of the red men alighted safely on the frozen river. Once more the white man had made good. The Indians crowded around the plane and were among the first to greet the pilot.

The white man no less than the Indians has honored the air mail pilot. Upon arrival after dark in Fairbanks from his first flight, Eielson was presented a gold watch by the business men and recently was made an honorary member of the Fairbanks Igloo of Pioneers. The last to be so named was the late President, "Warren G. Harding."

In the Philatelic Gossip for March 29th, Mr. J. W. Andrews describes in his column a $1.00 "Stock Transfer" Scott's No. 4257a, wherein the surcharge is on the back of the stamp instead of on the front. The variety was located by a Kansas City, Mo., collector.

Metered Mail, Double Print.

Mr. H. S. Dickey submits for my inspection a cover used by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in sending out their bills on February 29th, when the envelope first received an impression of the 1c metered mail permit and I was overprinted in red by means of a 2c permit. We should have thought they would have simply added an extra 1c stamp, for as it is, the letters them 3c each for they pay for every impression of the machine—the machine previously having been set by the Office Department for the exact number of impressions that were paid. Such a variety while odd could, of course, readily be made by any firm using more than one denomination. I received the mail not so long ago a copy of a 2c Harding stamp with the 2c metered mail impression over it. It so that someone sent a stamped envelope an insurance company in Milwaukee a reply and they ran this envelope through their machine along with other letters of the day, thus giving a black stamp a very attractive red cancellation.

CHINA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us copies of the following re-engraved stamps: Junk type; 1/2c, 2c, 5c, Reaper design; 30c and 50c.

HIND.—The following new items have been reported by Mr. R. Roberts: sepia, 1a sepia "Service," 1 1/2as (plural).

ITALY.—A series of charity stamps in preparation in the following denominations and subjects:—

5c green, Crown and Shield of Italy
10c garnet, Crown and Shield of Italy 25c red-violet, Romulus, Remus and Wolf.

30c red-brown Romulus, Remus and Wolf.

50c magenta (? subject).

1 lira turquoise, Crowned female head
3 lire madder, Crowned female head
5 lire brown, Crowned female head

Each stamp has the inscriptions "PIRELLA GÖTTSCHE LOWE" (at top), "ASSOC. NAZ. MULT. INV. GUERRA: ROME" at foot, and "ANNO 1924" towards the centre.

As the lower inscription intimates these stamps are to be sold in aid of disabled soldiers. We shall have much to say on the subject.—Stamp Collector

1a values are a trifle brighter than on the previously issued.

RUSH FOR OLYMPIC STAMPS.

(Clipping from Wm. Shafer.)
PARIS, April 1.—Such demand developed for the special Olympic stamps, issued in circulation by the postal authorities today, that the Paris sub-post offices ran short and sent hurry calls to the main post-office for additional lots.
The stamps were of 10 and 25 centimes denominations, the others not yet being issued. The smaller stamp represents Olympic athlete taking the oath as amateur, and is regarded by philatelists as a work of art.—Traveler.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The 28th annual convention of the Texas Philatelic Society is to be held in Houston, Texas, on April 21st, 1924; and the Winnipeg Philatelic Society announces a second annual convention and Canadian stamp exhibition at Winnipeg, as will be seen by notices elsewhere.

—The Treasury Department, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, is advertising for sealed proposals to furnish the Bureau with "postage stamp paper and internal revenue paper" and among the other items enumerated, "postage stamp and internal revenue paper trimmings" during the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1924.

—The first number of the Stamp Collector's Magazine, "with which is incorporated the Boy's Own Stamp Collector" comes with a special cover, depicting
"The Find." The reading contents cover a good range and all in all the paper will make a name for itself.

—Mr. O. A. Schenck, president of the Market Exchange Bank of Columbus, Ohio, was a recent visitor to Chicago, where he gave local collectors an insight into the many attractions of the issues of Mexico. Mr. Schenck gives particular attention to the stamps of Mexico and his collection of them is one of the most comprehensive imaginable.

—Mr. C. S. Watson has returned from his latest trip abroad and he says that in Europe the tendency is to hold the better things at home with the consequence of strengthening prices in the market.

—T. H. Ames, Montclair, N. J., would like to obtain the address of one Hans Deering.

—In a recent issue we referred to the use of the WEEKLY as a reference by Mrs. Ruth W. Stewart of the Service Stamp Co., Boston, and indicated that our name was used without permission.
In this connection we beg to say that Mrs. Stewart was entirely innocent of any subterfuge. Patrons of the WEEKLY should bear in mind that the name of our publication or any individual member must not be used as a reference unless consent has been secured.

—From Maxwell Krause, Lebanon, Pa., has been received a superb price-list of 20th Century British Colonials. It is hard to conceive of a better lot or variety being offered anywhere in the country. A copy will be sent upon application. Mr. Krause resumes his advertising this week under a 3000 line contract with right of re-rating on a 4000 or 5000 line basis if desired.

—Ralph H. Martin, 64, Route 2, San Jose, Cal., is desirous of organizing a stamp club in San Jose and vicinity.
Will interested parties please communicate with him?

—Bargain Bulletin No. 5 has just been received from J. C. Matthews, Olympia, Wash. In it is an exceptional line of complete sets and a copy of the Bulletin will be sent upon application.

—Harold K. Frederick in a keenly sarcastic letter to the WEEKLY ridicules the idea of the proposed philatelic commemorative stamp. He suggests that Uncle Sam offer some prizes for designs, including the franking privilege as first prize. He thinks that a full set of stamps of irregular shape and odd values might give added interest to the proposed commemorative feature.

—In an ad in the "lost and found" column of a Chicago newspaper mention is made of the loss of a stamp collection at one of the stations on the Illinois Central suburban service.

—Several letters have been received from readers expressing their pleasure that we have attained a circulation of nine thousand. One gentleman in the publishing business says that we have done something worth while as "a trade paper with a real circulation of over five thousand" is the exception.

—The post-office department wants patrons to remember that the fee of twenty cents charged on special delivery letters for Canada must be fully prepaid on letters sent from this country.

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN 24 or More Pages Each Issue --- FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper.
It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

Contents of the March Number (32 Pages)

DALLAS, TEX., ORGANIZES.

Dallas, Texas, has organized a Collectors Club, the first meeting having taken place Saturday, March 29, in the Y. M. C. A. club rooms with twelve present. The following officers were elected:—J. L. O'Bannon president, H.
M. Richardson vice-president, and C.
B. Neumann secretary. Meetings will be held every Saturday evening in the directors room of the Chamber of Commerce. Dallas has some forty active stamp collectors, not to mention the scores who are in a measure interested in the hobby. There are two active dealers and two others who are carrying on a fairly good approval business. Quite recently the Magnolia Stamp Co. has taken out a contract with the WEEKLY and will be found represented regularly in our columns. It is the only concern in Dallas which operates full time and has offices in the Roos Building, at the corner of Elm and Akard. This is one of the downtown business corners and the firm has a very fine stock of stamps, especially U. S., British and British Colonials.

OUR SUBSCRIPTION RECORD.

The month of March was most successful in its subscription results. In fact, it was the most successful month we have ever known. There are certain features that we feel compelled to call attention to. The Pikes Peak Stamp Co. sent in no fewer than 110 subscriptions, a notable achievement, while the Fennell Stamp Co., and the Mystic Stamp Co., each send in 92. The Mystic Stamp Co. is a newcomer in our contest but gives every indication of taking a place right away in the ranks of the leaders. It is impossible for us to mention the good work done by our many friends. In looking at the totals one is struck with the closeness of the three leading competitors, the Pikes Peak Co. with 349, the Fennell Co. with 338 and W. J. Zink with 330. These three firms are in a class by themselves and there is bound to be a pretty contest as the months progress. We make a special listing of the firms who have sent in ten or more during the month and the list follows:—

PIKES PEAK STAMP CO. 110
FENNEL STAMP CO. 92
MYSTIC STAMP CO. 92

THE PHILATELIC PEPYS.

By A. M. WHEELER.

24th November—This day all a bustle with our preparations for our departure to San Diego Town, to spend the Thanksgiving Day with My Lady Mother and Sir William. To the town where we do see the Long Beach stalwarts triumph over the Santa Maria boys by 38 to naught, and after a dinner at the Inn, in our new Buick coach, of which we most inordinate proud to Santa Barbara, 74 leagues away, where we did tarry the night at the Barbara Inn, most marvellous high and most poor service. This do always marvel us that wayside Inns do charge a tariff like their city brethren but do provide no service. We carrying our own bags and so away.

25th November—Lord's Day—Riding to Los Angeles, and to the Clark Inn, which we do much love and where we do ever lie our heads when we do come to the City of Angels. In the eve do entertain at dinner, Masters Ruedy and Porter, two of our agents that we do have here and do discuss philatelic matters with them, and to the Playhouse where we do see "To the Ladies," most laughable and comick, and Master Theodore Roberts, the droll mummer, very good and fine to watch. So back to our Inn and with a prayer and many thoughts of the morrow, we to put out the taper and to sleep.

26th November—Up betimes and do take a Taxi Coach for Master Passmore's home, and as luck do fall out, the coachman do drive us hither and yon, seeking the place we go, he, poor dolt, not knowing the town sufficient well to find what we do seek. The charges do mount up and finally, he do find it, and we out much time and 9 shillings, for what should have been but a brief journey. My wife and I much wroth and do vow, with high words that we will report upon him, but after we do see that he would but lose his situation and it would profit us naught, and when our choler do abate, we do dismiss him and part with our 9 shillings with what good grace we might. We do find Master Passmore at home alone, and he a most excellent pleasant man, and it do pleasure my wife and me to sit a while talking and looking over his wares, and most excellent were they, like unto the man himself, all orderly and pleasant faced. We do buy some from him and do get up and do tell him we go to Master Thompson's and naught must do but he forthwith do call up his Studebaker coach, and insist with much kindness that he carry us hither, which he do and leaves us at Master Thompson's, bidding us bide with him, when next we come to town. All our morning made brighter by our meeting of this most excellent gentleman. Master Charles Sidney Thomason do greet us with a merry quip and as is his wont, do make jest after jest in quick time, so fast following one jest upon another's heels that we had much to-do to keep our laughter from running on apace sans intermission. Sir Charles do in his cryings of his wares, make use of the term "Perfection," and his wares are so, and he do cry the truth, naught appearing in his vast holdings that do belie the word. He takes us in his coach to town apiece, like the good soul he is, and leaves us where first the concourse do multiply and grow to a fast moving stream of vehicles, he being not overfond of driving thru it, in which we both do feel a kindred spirit, my wife, poor wretch, especial being unfond of it. From there on-foot to Master Poole's, where saw Master Bill Bloss and could do naught with him as he had nothing that we wanted. Thence to Master Henry's Shoppe, and do hold long discourse and do straighten out some difficulties with him, he thinking I had been discourteous with him, when I did not mean to be. He doing well and do deserve to, as I have ever found him, a most fine fellow and worthy of success. My wife and I do like him and do hold a kindly spirit for him, for when we did first enter in to the dealing of adhesives, he do give us much excellent advice, which time has shown us to be so, and he did spend upwards of two hours, helping us with no profit to himself. So home to the Inn and to the Playhouse where we do see the Duncan Sisters in a musical play called Topsy and Eva, after Uncle Tom's Cabin, and the Duncan's sprightly and good to look on—that is the white faced one—the other all begrimed with burnt cork, and do portray a blackamoor, so do not know, whether she be comely or no. My wife and I do both laugh and much pleased. So home and all the way my wife do hum the melody she have heard and so to bed.

27th November—To San Diego Town and then to Mexico at Tia Juana, where we do go to the Post-office and I do enquire for some Mexico stamps and when I do come to settle my account, the wily man do ask me U. S. money for Mexico stamps, but when he do see that I do know whereof I speak, he do pretend a mistake and do charge me Mexico money. To the Casino, where we do idle away an hour or two at roulette and vingt-et-un and I do win 2 pounds 8 shillings and my wife, sorry woman, do lose 10 shillings on her adventurings. So home to my Lady Mother's and awaiting the morrow.

Thanksgiving Day—Up betimes and with my wife to Mexico, where we do while away many pleasant hours and so home to dine at seven of the clock at My Lady Mother's and comes to dine Sir Aubrey Davidson, a great man of San Diego, who hath been President when they do hold their fair in 1915 and is most to be held accountable for its success. He do be President of the mighty Southern Trust and Commerce Bank and do build this fine institution by his early efforts when the town was naught and it do stand a monument to his courage and industrie. He very pleasant and always from my first glimpse of him, some two or three years ago, I do like him marvellous and my wife, who is wise and of keen judgment in people, do like him also, so I do know my judgment good, when it do run along with hers. My Lady Mother's house guests, Doctor Benjamin Ide Wheeler and Mistress Amy, his charming wife do make up the Company. Dr. Wheeler has but lately lost his home and effects in the fire that do raze Berkeley Town, where he did live after retiring from many years at the head of our beautiful University of California. He a most learned and worthy scholar, and known throught the Kingdom as a foremost educator. And so to table, where the servitors do bring in soups, fish, joints and all manner of pasties and juicy dishes, and at the last a great turkie, all be-stuffed with walnuts and mushroom and crammed with great good things so he do swell a most unseemly port. And we all fall to and never was there the like of this dinner, Sir Aubrey do tell us many interesting things of commerce and on the other side, Dr. Wheeler do give us anecdote and tale well fashioned and well rounded, and My Lord Father do aid with tales of when he was in the official family of the great and only Theodore of blessed memory, before the first post of our land fell from its high estate, from which it is now happily recovered. And so to the drawing room and more chat and after a time to bed, giving great thanks for this day and praying that my glutony be not rewarded as it do deserve. And so to bed and after chatting with the good soul, my wife, to sleep.

OLYMPIA STAMP CLUB EXHIBIT.

The city of Olympia, Wash., has a thriving stamp club and April 22 and 23 a public exhibition will be held in that city. It is expected that a large attendance will be in evidence. J. M. Hitt, librarian of the Washington State Library and A. P. S. 5728, is greatly interested in the project and we hope to be able to advise our readers of the outcome of the enterprise of this club.

WINNIPEG.

At a recent meeting of the Winnipeg Philatelic Society it was unanimously decided that the Second Annual Canadian Stamp Exhibition and Philatelic Convention be held in Winnipeg on September 17-18-19-20, 1924, at the Marlborough Hotel. Practically the entire seventh floor, including the Lecture Hall and Ball Room, has been reserved, allowing ample room for the displays of the exhibits which the Committee expect to receive from all parts of the Dominion and the United States.

The official program and prospectus is now in preparation, a copy of which you will receive in due course. No time or effort has been spared in order to make this Exhibition the greatest philatelic event ever staged in the Dominion. The various classes open for competition will be announced later, and valuable trophies, cups and medals make up the attractive list of awards.

His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, Baron Byng of Vimy, has graciously granted his distinguished patronage.

We earnestly appeal to all philatelists to aid us in our enterprise by exhibiting what they consider to be the best part of their collections.

Copies of our prospectus and entry form may be obtained from William Van, General Secretary, 284 Main St., Winnipeg, Canada.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE "WEEKLY".

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer them for sale at very reasonable prices. The years in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books is $2 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds. This offer is for immediate acceptance.

THE WOLSIEFFER "ROUND ROBIN."

Above is an illustration of a unique tribute to the candidacy of P. M. Wolsieffer as president of the American Philatelic Society. It was made possible by the gathering of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland, O., where some one conceived the idea of sending P. M. a "Round Robin" of friendship and well wishes. The great heart of Philately will join in the sentiment that it expresses.

When the old boys die off, where are the new boys coming from?

I handle thousands of old U. S. original covers every year, with the more common varieties in predominance, of course. Many of us remember when the 3c 1851 were considered almost worthless even on covers, but all of us now know what specialists have done for that stamp. I hate to think what I would be tempted to offer a man for 1000 unpicked 3c 1851 covers!

I believe other stamps—now common—have good futures, but my safe and storage capacity seems to be taxed to the limit and so I am making an offer you can't lose on.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE FUTURE OF PHILATELY FROM THE VIEW POINT OF THE COLLECTOR AND DEALER.

TWENTIETH CENTURY GENERAL COLLECTORS.

Owing to the vast increase in "new issues" in the past ten to fifteen years, a new class of collector is coming to the fore which we oldsters in the trade never had to consider.

The death of Queen Victoria caused the issue of scores of sets of new stamps with the head of Edward VII and his death caused the issue of another big batch of British Colonials when George V came to the throne. Then we had an enormous number of new stamps from all the Colonial Possessions of France, Portugal, Spain, Italy, Germany, etc., but it remained for the Great War and its after results to cause the greatest creation of new varieties that philately has had since it started.

We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that these twentieth century stamps are being very largely collected and there is very much to be said in their favor.

They are mostly very cheap and easily obtained. They therefore appeal to the collector who likes to fill up his spaces rapidly, but there is much more than this in their favor.

Take the great group of stamps which we call "War Issues" and which became so important that Stanley Gibbons Ltd. had to issue a special catalogue that ran through some dozen editions, and many other firms did the same, notably Champion and Field.

Then after the war we have had an enormous crop of what we call "post-war issues," caused by the remaking and regrouping of a great portion of Europe.

A great rush was made for these groups of stamps in 1915 up to about 1919, and then hundreds of collectors began to get disgusted with many of the issues owing to the continued fall in prices. I saw a lot of this during my last two years as Manager of Stanley Gibbons Ltd. Dealers would sell large quantities of stamps to collectors, and a few months later when the collector wanted to realize he found he could not get more than a small fraction of what he had paid.

For instance, take the numerous issues of South Russia. In January, we might buy a batch when the rouble cost 12 cents each, and sell them at a reasonable percentage above that. A few months later Mr. Collector comes along to sell, but the rouble is then down to one-tenth of a cent and he could only get a fraction of what he paid.

The result very often was that the collector put the blame on the dealer, who had nothing at all to do with the matter. You foolish ones who speculated in German marks or Russian roubles might just as well blame your broker or banker who sold them to you, at your own request and on your judgment, you being the gambler who thought you were going to make a killing.

The old Latin tag "Caveat emptor" is all very well, but "let the purchaser beware" is not the ethics of Fair Trade.

We who are dealers in stamps must, to some extent, try and guide and direct our clients to buy what is likely to be to their advantage in the future. In this respect I think the position taken by my friend, Mr. Hugh Clark of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., is an eminently just one. He says, in effect, to any of his clients who ask his advice about collecting twentieth century stamps: "There are two points of view for you to consider, the one if you are collecting for amusement or to teach you something of modern history, and the other if you only consider value or investment. If you love collecting anything as a hobby, be it picture post-cards or stamps, the matter of value is not the object but the pleasure and interest you get out of making a collection, but if you collect with a view or thought of value, then I say do not buy twentieth century stamps, stick to old timers which have been tested for years and proved sound, but many of these new things have not been proved, and are produced in enormous quantities." Mr. Clark finally said that he advised buyers of modern issues to look on their collection as having fun and amusement but not to look upon them as an investment.

Now these "war-issues" and "post-war issues" are, I think, going to prove of the greatest historical interest in the future. In fact, hardly an other group of stamps, with the exception of the issues of the Confederate States, can possibly compare with the issues I have referred to.

Every boy should collect these, and the older boys and young men would learn a vast amount of modern history and geography if they took the trouble to read up and study the reasons that caused these numerous issues to appear. From just such stamps we should learn the break-up of the German Colonial Empire, the seizure of their colonies by Great Britain, France and Japan, the vast alterations in Russia, Poland, and Central and Southeast Europe, and so on. Some of these temporary issues will turn out to be rarities, as in many cases the issues were very limited. I am convinced that the worst is over in Europe. Austria has already been put in a fair way to recovery, Italy is pulling herself together, France is at last recognizing that taxation is necessary, and another year or two must see things in Europe approaching normality, and this will all be to the advantage of the col-

CANCELLATIONS

After months of work we have at last completed a series of approval books covering all classes of cancellations on the stamps of the bank-note issues from 1871 to 1890. Many of these are at present quite inexpensive and fine attractive copies with cancellations of some interest may be had at from 5c to 25c each. Just ask for the particular stamp you want to work on, 1c blues, 2c brown or vermilion, 3c green, 2c red brown, 4c Jacksons, and see what this stock has to offer.

J. O. Moore, Inc., Hammondsport, N. Y.
Member A.S.D.A.

lector who has formed a good collection of European twentieth century stamps at the low rates of the past few years.

Another great group of stamps of the twentieth century that will, I think turn out trumps are the numerous issues of the British Empire since 1901. The head of Queen Victoria has been on almost all the British and British Colonial stamps since 1840 until her death in January, 1901.

From January 22, 1901 to May 6, 1910
we had the issues of King Edward VII, most colonies having at least two sets,
the C.A. single and C.A. Multiple watermark.

King George V came to the throne on May 6, 1910, and the past thirteen years have seen several changes in watermarks and papers in most of his Colonial stamps.

In this great group of stamps we have had no depreciated currency to deal with and most collectors have bought their stamps through "New Issue Service" at a small percentage over cost and many varieties in this group have turned out to be of a temporary nature and have become rare, and the collection of this group of stamps is one that I strongly advocate and one in which the collector can only be a gainer.

Now let us turn to our own stamps.
Can anyone say that a fine collection of the United States stamps of the twentieth century has not been a sound investment for those who have gathered together all the varieties which have appeared in such profusion during this period? Certainly not, one has only got to study the catalogues of the past ten years and note how the rare varieties have gone higher and higher in price year by year.

Ten years ago the 1901 Pan-American 1c, 2c and 4c, center inverted, might be bought for about $250. Today a set is worth close to $1,000, and this increase in value applies to many other scarce
varieties.

During the war there was a shortage of many German dyes and this resulted in the production of a most extraordinary range of shades, some of which will be found to be great rarities in the near future.

BOOK REVIEW.

The "Pro Juventute" of Switzerland have been written up by Fred J. Melville.
The booklet is No. 10 in the Philatelic Institute papers and the price is 14c postpaid. All nine issues of these interesting childrens' stamps are written up and illustrated in an attractive manner.

Bright & Son, 164 Strand, London, W.
C. 2, England, are sending out a priced catalog of stamps issued by British ex-enemy countries from the outbreak of the war to the present day. The catalog before us is priced at 30c and is a book of 68 pages. Especial attention is called to the fine list of Turkish war stamps, including the Angora Provis-ionals. The book is freely illustrated.

A MORGENTHAU AUCTION.

(N. Y. "Times" clipping from G. W. Gunner.)

Evidences of an increasing interest in the early German stamps, especially those used by the various States and free cities prior to the formation of the German Confederation, were seen last week at the sale of the collection of the late Dr.
Alfred Schirmer of Chicago.

The stamps were sold by J. C. Mor-genthau & Co. at the Collectors Club, 120 West Forty-ninth Street, Walter S. Scott being the auctioneer. The highest price paid for a single stamp was $73, for the first adhesive stamp issued by Saxony, a 3 pfennig, red, 1850. It was an excellent lightly-cancelled copy.

The stamp is one of the most valuable of the early German issues and is valued by the Scott standard catalogue at $350, an advance of $50 having been made within the last year. In view of the marked difference between the public sale price and that of the catalogue, it would seem as though it were overpriced although such striking differences frequently appear in the auction room.

On the other hand, many of the less valuable stamps, when on original envelopes or in good pairs and strips, brought prices higher than the catalogue rate, indicating the increasing demand for old stamps on envelopes. A 1/2 groschen of Hanover, 1859, on the cover, sold for $12.75; a strip of three of the 1-30 denomination, 1856, went for $8.25, and a 1-30, of 1851, on the cover, sold for $4.35, all exceeding the catalogue value for individual copies. A Hanover 10 groschen, 1859, with a 3 groschen stamp, on the envelope, brought $20.50, and a 1/2 groschen, on cover, 1864, sold for $18.

A strip of three of the 4 pfennig, Prussia, 1850, sold for $13. Fair prices were obtained for some of the Oldenburgs, a fine cancelled copy of the 1/2 groschen, red brown, 1861, going for $27.50, while $22 was paid for the same value in the brown shade. A 1-15, of 1852, on the envelope, sold for $13.75, considerably above the standard value for the single stamp. A fine pair of the 2 1/2 Lubeck, brown error, 1859, with a 2 schilling, sold for $22.50 and six German Samoa stamps on four envelopes, used in Samoa, sold for $10.75.

Among the forthcoming sales which will attract the interest of philatelists from the excellent variety of early United States issues which they contain, as well as choice foreign stamps, will be one by George B. Sloane at 116 Nassau Street on April 25 and 26, followed by a large sale by the Scott Stamp and Coin Company, on April 28 and 29, at the Collectors Club.

W. J. Gascoyne of Baltimore will be the guest of the Collectors Club next Wednesday night, when he will show a part of his Cape of Good Hope collection, containing many rarities of the early triangular issues.

Are you on my occasional mail list for approval selections of the above stamps?

I have in stock a superb lot of early British Colonials, and prices average less than half catalogue.

Also on hand a fine lot of EDWARDIAN and GEORGIAN issues, both mint and superb used. These are mostly priced at half catalogue. Usual references. [38c ether, the rest was made easier as on ch one there was a slight difference that it was possible to determine the position of a stamp in the pane from the individual peculiarities of the individual cancellation.

While I am writing at such length, I might add that I do like the section you publish occasionally on Early Low values Specialized. The matter is very interesting to the average collector of moderate means who can not afford to attempt plating the early stamps, like re 1847, 5c and 10c. I read them with ery much interest and am clipping the articles as they appear. It would be good idea to get it out in booklet form when enough material is gotten together to make up a reasonable size booklet.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The reference to the "Graceland Philatelic Club" at Chicago in our news columns recently has caused a number of inquiries to be made relative to the club and its officers. The organization does not seem to be known to the "down-town" stamp folks and pending further investigation, it is advisable for persons interested to exercise vigilance, especially as one of the references given by an officer says that he is not acquainted with him.

—A dealer sent an approval selection and marked over a King George stamp, "Cheap, George." The young man who got the book happened to have the name of George and thought that the dealer had addressed the remark to him, in a burst of hail fellowship.

—A subscriber writes: "You may be interested in hearing that a stamp collection that I made during periods of activity that began in 1910 has given me a profit of nearly fifty per cent. While I had some early U. S., the later issues in blocks that I bought at the post-office at face were the items that showed the best average profit." We may add that the stamps were bought by a dealer.

—We learn from Stamp Collecting that through the instrumentality of Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., London, there will be an exhibit of sets of the current colonials at the British Empire Exhibition which is to open this month, and which has been so well advertised in the cancellations on many of the British colonial stamps for some time past.

—What is thirty years in philatelic life! Mr. P. Jacob Gauff, Cheyenne, Wyoming, writes as follows: "I think that you will remember the writer as we met in Denver at the convention of the P. S. of A. in 1895. The other night when looking over some old stamps, I found a horizontal pair of the 1870-73 issue, 10c brown, Jefferson, the left-hand stamp being a National (without the secret mark) and the right hand one a Continental, with the secret mark. I have never seen such a 'freak' before in my collecting career of nearly fifty years. The pair is well-centered and the cancellation very good." Mr. Gauff has an interesting pair such as comes to the surface only occasionally and while we have seen several pairs of the kind, one of which was unused, he has something to talk about. Who can match his possession?

—From the buying ads that are appearing in the European stamp papers, it is evident that the "philatelic rehabilitation of Europe" is well on its way.

—Mr. Walter W. Anderson of Princeton, Ill., was a recent visitor to Chicago in the interests of his firm.

—The eminent Italian student, Dr. Emilio Diena, has an article in Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal for April, wherein he describes three varieties of the 10 c. de p. October 1st, 1874 of Spain which briefly may be mentioned as: variety I, figures of "10" thin and well apart; II, figures thin, less spaced and a little taller and III, figures thick, with the zero more circular.

—The following notice is taken from the Postal Bulletin: "Air Mail Service Between Barranquilla and Interior Points of Colombia, South America" WASHINGTON, April 8, 1924.

Information has been received by this department that the American Trading Co., 25 Broad Street, New York City, has been designated agent for air mail stamps to be used on articles forwarded via the air mail route between Barranquilla and interior points of Colombia, instead of Mr. Gonzalo Mejia, 82 Broad Street, New York City, as mentioned in notice of this office, dated December 27 last, and published on page 14 of the January, 1924, Postal Guide.

PAUL HENDERSON,
 Second Assistant Postmaster-General.

—John G. Jewett who recently offered to present obsolete copies of Scott's catalog to any shut-ins really feels that with his offer he should have given a definition of the term used, as he has received at least one hundred requests and only two mention the fact that they are in such circumstances as to warrant a gift of the catalog. Mr. Jewett suggests that the phraseology of his offer did not include "anybody."

—At the annual election of the Philadelphia Stamp Club held April 15, W. H. Emmert was elected president, P. M. Wolsieffer vice-president, J. W. Chew secretary, A. F. Henkels treasurer, James Whiteside auction manager and Geo. C. McNabb librarian.

—The Marks Stamp Co. informs us of an error in their April 7 advertisement. The firm advertised Siam Nos. 152-156 inclusive as "ticals" rather than "bahts."

—We are indebted to Louis P. MacCubbin for a newspaper clipping picturing the new French Olympic games stamps. We shall try and reproduce the same in the WEEKLY.

—The Boston Post recently published a nice little boost for stamp collecting in picturing and describing the activities of two Medford, Mass., boys, by the name of Titus. There is no doubt but the father of the two boys is himself a collector, judging from the descriptive matter which accompanies the cut. The boys are shown busily engaged with their stamp albums.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP
 510 West 113th Street, New York City

Dear Sirs:—

The results of the last three months advertising in MEKEEL'S has convinced us of the value of plenty of good printer's ink, spread liberally in one place. We want to concentrate on MEKEEL'S for the rest of the year and do it more effectively even than our present program calls for. As you will note from the size of our March ads and the April ads which are in your hands, we are headed to go away over our 4000 line contract.

The result of this fact and the further fact that we know certain things which are coming our way, leads us to ask that you change our 4000 lines to 5000 lines and, if possible, change our March bill to this effect. You will not want us to curtail our advertising in the months of July and August, and we can promise that this favor being granted, we will keep drilling away week after week at about the same pace. We don't know what your 5000 rate figures but we will append our signature to it.

A lot of dealers are complaining that things are a bit slow just now. We fail to understand their meaning and we hope that we are not asking too much of you in the way of co-operation.

The radio is becoming the hand-maiden of philately and Mr. E. B. Power is swinging around the circle, broadcasting his stamp talk from Chicago, Cincinnati, Buffalo and other cities before filling dates in his home town, New York.
His philatelic sermons are ten minutes in length, as a rule, and are given in a popular style that attracts favorable attention to stamp collecting. The albums that are given away to those who write in for them, accepting the invitation made by Mr. Power, are intended to fix the minds of recipients on collecting. Well over ten thousand albums have been distributed and the end of the procession is not yet in sight.

A statement has been made by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., London, in order to correct misapprehensions that may exist about the marketing of the Rhodesian remainders, which became available for sale through the passing of the administration of Southern Rhodesia into the Government of Southern Rhodesia. The total stock of these stamps is said to be 2,700,000, mostly low values, among which there were no stamps of the current King's head type. It is told that the issuing company had determined to sell the remainders either before or after demonetization; and recognizing the intention of the British South Africa Company, Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., bought the lot after the company had applied a legitimate cancellation to them. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., at once resold the stamps and feels that its action in buying was a protective one and "that nothing has been done which is likely to have any derogatory effect on either the philatelic or market status of the stamps of an extremely interesting and popular country."
The vendors were advised by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., to burn the stock of remainders but needless to say the suggestion was unheeded. It now appears that demonetization of the existing unused stamps is not now necessary.

stamps. But all this was hard work and prised that the illustrious Papini, whose espousal of nationalism was so intense did not see that he could well apply the idea of collecting Italian issues to him-

That the regulations attending the importation of stamps are not wholly satisfactory is known to some whose experience allows them to speak by the book. The confusion that sometimes arises in the minds of the customs officers has its reflection in the conditions imposed on the philatelic importer.
There does not seem to be a unanimity of opinion among the tax leviers as to the character of stamps in a commercial sense and occasionally the rulings are so drastic that they work a hardship on the dealer. The administrative heads of department should specify what course should be taken in the treatment of stamps brought in from abroad, with special attention to the question of re-importation of U. S. stamps on which there is a duty charge, while other stamps are supposed to be untaxed. Mr. Hand-shaw of New York cites a case: Two collections of old U. S. came from the other side, one addressed to Mr. William Handshaw and the second to his father;
and as they were somewhat bulky, William Handshaw was obliged to open them in the customs department of the post-office. "I opened one addressed to my father . . . and when they found out that the value was more than $100, they advised me that a customs entry would have to be made. When they got the packages in the customs house somebody discovered that there was a duty of 25% on cancelled U. S. stamps but that the uncanceled were duty free. Because of the fact that one parcel remained unopened, they wanted to penalize me or fine me 2%.
I think it was for not opening the other package addressed to myself." Evidently,
Mr. Handshaw was a football of circumstance as in the post-office, they told him that it was not necessary to open the package addressed to himself. He continues: "At any rate, I have not been able to get the packages and cannot afford to pay an extra 25% on them, as the stamps do not justify the payment of the excess. A friend of mine very kindly wrote Senator Ackerman who answered saying that this was one ruling that still stood. I believe that everything else in the line of stamps, foreign used or unused, U. S. entire envelopes and unused U. S. are duty free.

Why can't we get together and get this ruling changed?" The American Stamp Dealers' Association has taken up the same question with the Treasury Department and while it has secured no abatement of the department's rule, the chances are that the dealers' organization, in question, will continue its efforts to have the objectionable tax removed, as we understand that it was regarded as a war measure, to some extent. Here is a case where a dealers' association is of value as it is better able than the individual to handle a petition for relief.

We are told that there is a new regulation in force in the customs department of the post-office and that patrons at Chicago are informed that packages from foreign countries must be marked, "May be opened by Customs Officers before delivery to addressee." If packages are not marked as required, they will be returned to the country of origin even though the addressee is willing to pay the charge on any dutiable matter in them. In this way, the work of the customs department is facilitated and when knowledge of the ruling becomes general, it will be found to be of advantage.

The American Stamp Dealers' Association has a scalp hanging from its belt that gives it reason to boast. We happen to know the secretary of the American Stamp Dealers' Association had his suspicions aroused at the first wave of the inundation of the Paraguayan forgeries by the "one man gang," Collins-Hiordan-Mego, not to mention other aliases, and worked up the evidence with some assistance from members that justified the arrest of the culprit in Buenos Aires. The job of gathering details of incrimination and making out the case was no child's play but Mr.
Slusser, once sure of his ground, built up his case; and the international crook was placed in limbo by measures instituted by the A. S. D. A., and members and others were saved a pretty

Hiordan says that his operations ha been carried on exclusively with co-

CANADIAN STAMP EXHIBITION.

At a recent meeting of the Winnipeg Philatelic Society it was unanimously decided that the Second Annual Canadian Stamp Exhibition and Philatelic Convention be held in Winnipeg on September 17-18-19-20, 1924, at the Marlborough Hotel. Practically the entire tenth floor, including the Lecture Hall Ball Room, has been reserved, allowing ample room for the displays of the exhibits which the Committee expect to receive from all parts of the Dominion and the United States. The committee is—

The official program and prospectus now in preparation, a copy of which will receive in due course. No time effort has been spared in order to make this Exhibition the greatest philatelic event ever staged in the Dominion. Various classes open for competition will be announced later, and valuable trophies, cups and medals make up the attractive list of awards.

His Excellency the Governor-General, Canada, Baron Byng of Vimy, has graciously granted his distinguished patronage.

We earnestly appeal to all philatelists and us in our enterprise by exhibiting what they consider to be the best part of their collections. Copies of our prospectus and entry form may be obtained from William Van, 284 Main Street, Winnipeg, Canada."

SUPERB MINT NEWFOUNDLAND SPECIALS

EVERY SET IS SUPERB AND COMPLETE IN EVERY RESPECT. DON'T DELAY THAT ORDER!

WANT LIST We find this the most satisfactory method of selling our Superb Newfoundland. You can see just how fine it is before you buy. If your banker says you are O. K. you may see anything we have and we will vastly improve the appearance of your collection.

THE MEMORIAL Pre-CANCEL

We evidently raised a storm with our Harding "M. C." One fellow suggests that we are putting "T. N. T." into the game. Well, we can deliver the goods! 17 varieties INCLUDING THE MONTCLAIR, N. J., UNIQUE CIRCULAR TYPE! There is one that you haven't and there are 16 chances of finding others. "Condition Cranks", if there are any in the Precancel game, had best keep away. We are selling a fine quality of goods at 6c per stamp. TRY ONE, BOYS, YOU CAN'T LOSE!

MONTCLAIR, N. J. Unique circular type INVERTED! Less than 100 known. We .50

We only have a few, and nobody can get more. "A word to the wise . . ."

PRICE LIST Yes, we issue one and we have a lot of scarce ones at 8c to 12c EACH. Better get in on a good thing, NOW.

THE MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL

This is giving the utmost satisfaction so far as we can find out. Many attractive pages may be made, showing the fall of the German Mark. Even if you have all the single stamps issued during the interesting period August to December 1st, 1923, 80 superb blocks 1000 to 50,000,000,000 mks. including "Tausend" and "Milliarden" PROVISIONALS, roulettes, etc. The other 22 blocks include AIRMAIL, CHARITY, and other 1922-3 issues. No packet has been made up like the MARK CLIMAX and the MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL is a particularly "good buy". BETTER SEND THAT $3.06 TODAY!

THE MARK CLIMAX Yes, we are still selling it, better than ever, $1.02.

THE MARVELOUS Did you think that we had run out of a name? Oh, no, SIR!

CULMINATION As always, this is the best yet—300 varieties, postally used value

$1.02 B. C., pictorials, sets, and lots of nice things.

Send your $1.02 now, and get "the first run".

THE HUGUENOT-WALLOON SET.

By WILLIAM DARIEN.

Why the emission of Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary postage stamps on or about May 1 of this year?

It is to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the initial appearance of these interesting people in America. Some curious facts about them to show the justification for the issue may interest philatelists.

The Huguenots in the 16th century were French Protestants who were persecuted by the French government in the belief that their failure to adhere to the Established Church made them undesirable subjects.

The Walloons were Frenchmen from north France under the same ban but in their case they had left their native country at various periods previously, and had settled in Holland.

The first settlement of either type of colonist in North America was by the Huguenots in 1562 at a point on the St. Johns River in Florida, which after some changes eventually took on the name of Mayport. It never developed beyond a small village community.

The next was at Port Royal, Canada, in 1604, again by Huguenots, which failed.

The first Walloon settlement was in conjunction with the Dutch in their initial founding of New Amsterdam, now New York City. Thirty families left Holland, 18 of them Walloons, in March, 1624, in the good ship New Netherlands. They are reported to have landed at what is now New York City on May 1, 1624. The leader of the Walloon Contingent was Jesse de Forest. It is this landing which is to be celebrated on May 1 of this year by the issue of one, two and five cent Huguenot-Walloon Commemorative stamps.

From among the New Amsterdam settlers, the Walloons contributed a number of families who shortly afterwards sailed up the Hudson and founded Orange, N. Y., in honor of their adopted countryman, the Duke of Orange. This name was afterwards changed to Albany.

Huguenots settled in Nansemond Co., Va., in 1629 but failed to last; then again at Port Royal, S. C., in 1670, where they eventually disappeared. Narraganset, R. I., in 1686 and Oxford, Mass., in 1687, had Huguenot settlers who were swallowed up by the stronger strains of more numerous English stock.

United States.

Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary Series.—I am officially informed that the Huguenot-Walloon tercentenary series will be ready for delivery on May 1st as announced in my Chronicle, and we are advised that the series, which will be similar in size to the former parcel post stamps, will be very handsome, and will rank among the finest stamps ever turned out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

The three denominations, that is, the 1c, 2c and 5c, will be placed on sale simultaneously at eleven offices on May 1st, and other offices generally will not begin to receive their supplies until May 15th. Ten of the eleven offices where they will be on sale at first are cities or towns designated by the Huguenot-Walloon Commission as special centers connected with the settlement or associated with the celebration of the events that the stamps commemorate. On the same day the Daughters of the American Revolution will dedicate the marker illustrated on the 5c stamp, which is located at Mayport, Florida, the landing place of the early settlers. In other words, a sort of Plymouth Rock without the rock. The places where the stamps are available on the first day are, Jacksonville, Florida, Mayport, Fla., Albany, N. Y., New Rochelle, N. Y., New York, N. Y., Philadelphia, Pa., Lancaster, Pa., Allentown, Pa., Reading, Pa., Charlestown, S. C., and at the Philatelic Agency at Washington, D. C.

The supply of the above will not be very large and it is quite likely that many of the post-offices will not even receive a supply. There will, however, be ample for the stamp collecting fraternity, so there need be no special rush to obtain them.

Sheet Stamps from the Rotary Press.—For a number of months the Bureau has been turning out the 1c stamp, first in the former series and now in the current design in sheets of one hundred from the rotary press. These have been on an unwatermarked paper, and have been perforated 10. Your attention was called in a recent Chronicle to the fact that plates were being made for a similar 2c stamp. The Department has now placed an order with the Bureau for three hundred million of the rotary 1c and 2c stamps, so that we may shortly expect the 2c rotary print perforated 10.

These will possibly come with a perforation 11 later on, but the cost for making the change in the perforating wheels is greater than the department at present cares to pay, so that the change will most likely come when the old wheels begin to wear out. There is no doubt but what this denomination will soon be precancelled at the Bureau, and we may look for the 5c as next in line to be produced by this method.

Precancelled Stamps not for General Distribution.—Since the issuing of the Harding stamp in precancelled condition, collectors generally have been writing offices throughout the country requesting these varieties. Dealers also have been doing the same thing. Many postmasters have favored these out of town clients but a great many of them have referred their letters to Washington for approval. As a result, the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover, advised postmasters under date of March 27th, that precancelled stamps were not to be sold to collectors, and that they were to be distributed only in accordance with postal regulations, which permits their sale, to those having special permit. It is, therefore, believed that direct letters to the postmasters in the future with requests of this kind will not be given the favorable attention formerly accorded them. The Philatelic Agency in Canada sells to collectors the current stamps in precancelled condition but if we ever prevailed upon Washington to grant the same privilege here, they would have to hire several times the prevailing force to take care of the great number of cities, which are using precancelled stamps.

Post Office Nomenclature.—If anyone has a spare half hour and desires to be amused, pick up the current Postal Guide and read the names of the towns throughout the country. A communication from the First Assistant Postmaster-General, Mr. John H. Bartlett, under date of April 12th, calls postmasters' attention to the fact that mail for Novinger, Norborne, Novelty and Munger, all in the state of Missouri, are being confused and postal employees are requested to exercise care. All we can say is that we pity the postal clerk and hope he gets his increased pay.

CANAL ZONE—New Series Surcharged on United States.—The arrangement under which the Panama Government has furnished postage stamps to the Canal Zone authorities in the past expires on May 1st next, and it seems that new arrangements have not been concluded. As a result, the Post Office Department at Washington has been called upon to hurriedly prepare a series of stamps to be used in the Canal Zone, beginning May 1st. The Department is therefore overprinting most of the denominations of the current series of United States stamps from 1c to $1.00 inclusive with the words, "CANAL ZONE." They are also overprinting postal cards and envelopes. The order calls for 1,200,000 assorted denominations surcharged and it is expected that they will be in the Zone ready to be placed on sale on May 1st.

CHINA.—From Mr. F. G. Seale learn that it is officially announced that another attempt will be made to resume the Chinese aerial postal service in near future.

FRANCE.—We have to thank Mr. Gurd, of Croydon, and Mr. J. T. of Paris, for a cutting from Le Journal of March 7th, giving details and illustrations of proposed Olympic Games stamps differing considerably from particulars published in Stamp Collector for February 23rd. They are stated to have been authorized for early issue for use on foreign as well as inland mail. These designs are the work of the eminent engraver and sculptor, E. Bech, comprising the following denominations and subjects:— 10c (transverse oblong), Laureated head of an athlete. 25c (transverse oblong), Allegorical figure of Paris and a winged Victory. 30c (upright oblong), Wrestler. 50c (upright oblong), Athlete. —Stamp Collecting

ITALY.—Mr. Denton Hepworth shows us an unexpected quartette of 1 provisional in the shape of the figure of Victory values of 1921 surcharged "LIRE UNA" in small black curved serif capitals at top, the word "CENT" and the numeral in the respective upper corners being obliterated by means of a geometric device in black and white. Surcharged on Victory stamps as above: 1 lire on 5c olive-green, 1 lire on slate-green, 1 lire on 10c red, and 1 lire on 25c ultramarine.—Stamp Collecting PORTUGAL.—Whitfield King & Co. Bulletin informs us that owing to heavy fall in the rate of exchange, the postal rates have been considerably raised which has necessitated the issue of stamps of new values and changes of colors of existing ones, as follows: New colors: 6c, 8, 20, 80, 100, 120 and 150c. New values: 16, 32, 48, 64, 96, 160, 240, 3, 320, 5, 10 and 20 escudos. Postage Dues: 4, 6, 30, 160 and 320c.

ROUMANIA.—Mr. A. Popescu informs us that the 10 bani charity stamp (1921) is now obsolete, as the postage has been increased to 25 bani, while the 10 bani black, which hitherto has been restricted to fiscal use, is now available for postal use. He is good enough to show us a mint example of this stamp, which Mr. D. Hepworth submits a postmark copy; it is in the type illustrated on page 1065 of the current Scott Catalogue (type "C8"). THE JOPLING OFFER.

beginning this week Wm. H. Jopling Minardello, Portugal, begins the regular use of the WEEKLY. He is so much in interest in convincing us of the merit of his wares that he sends for inspection samples of the great Portugal packet he is advertising. We are glad to know that the packet is indeed an excellent one and we have no hesitation in giving Jopling firm this word of introduction to our readers. The manager includes a paragraph in his letter that we are disposed to publish just as it reaches

There is always a difficulty in establishing an approval trade with a country which is at a distance, so I am forwarding you on approval a mounted selection of the stamps which I am advertising in order that you may see them. Up to the present I have chiefly done whole-

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Union County (N. J.) Philatelic Society elected officers April 9. G.
W. Riker was elected president, G. C.
Jorgensen vice-president and H. Rogosin secretary.

—The Mack Stamp Co. would like to know the present address of J. J.
Loaiza, formerly Hermosillo, Sonora, Mexico. Also Frank Lyman, 4850 S.
Morgan St., Chicago, Ill.

—It is not the practice of the WEEKLY to announce in its columns particulars regarding the non-return of approval selections. We have found that in many instances selections have been returned too late to intercept the notice in the hands of the printer. Our publication cannot afford to take chances in matters of this kind.

—The Allentown (Pa.) Philatelic Society held its first annual banquet
Monday evening, April 28, at the Hotel Allen. Harold J. Fister secretary, sends in this notice.

—R. D. MacGuffin, Narberth, Pa., would like to locate one W. J. Murphy, formerly at 25 Nelson Place, Newark, N. J. Who can help him out?

—Walter E. Lord of Sunbury, Pa., sends us a photograph of a very interesting Harding Memorial exhibit, the whole forming a frame surrounding a picture of the White House and photographs of the late President, also one of Mr. and Mrs. Harding. Beneath the picture of the White House is an autograph "Warren G. Harding." The stamps used are from imperforate sheets showing plate numbers, and the letter H is shown in two of the designs. An excellent photograph of Mr. Lord is on the card, and all in all the feature is a very fine

one. We would like to use a cut but are prohibited in view of the use of U. S. stamps.

—John G. Jewett informs us that the Philatelic Society of the Oranges will hold a precancel night on Friday, May 23, when Dr. G. Ward Disbrow will exhibit his collection of 13c precancels.
This collection is without doubt the best of its kind in existence. Frank C.
Brown, C. H. Gallagher and Raymond Geary will also exhibit. The society meets Friday evenings at the Orange Camera Club, Main and Clinton Sts., East Orange, N. J.

—"I have not seen the chronicle of the three new values of Guatemala.
The 50 cts. deep rose has the same design as the 6 cts. of the 1902 issue.
The 1 peso dark green is just like the ½r and 1r issued in 1879; and the 5 pesos orange, with the monument of Garcia Granados, is exactly like that of the same value of the 1921 issue; but reduced in size. I will report as soon as our new series is available. To this a new value has been added: the 3 cts.
with the picture of the Indian chief At-lacatl who ruled in Salvador when the Spanish conqueror Pedro de Alvarado came to subdue this place and one of whose arrows lamed Alvarado for life in the battle of Acajutla."—SAMUEL C.

—The Graceland Philatelic Club of Chicago is now in the lime-light. One C.
Archer using letterheads of this club has solicited approval selections and failed to make returns. The WEEKLY has received a letter from a brother signing himself "A. Bergman" and offering to make good on claims. Address

RANDOM NOTES ON RECENT PORTUGUESE COLONIAL PROVISIONALS.

By G. H. JOPLING.

As collectors are taking a much greater interest in the issues of Portugal and Colonies, no doubt they will appreciate the following random notes taken from the original documents which give the reasons for the appearance of the provisionals in some cases and also the numbers issued. As the issues are small in number in the case of some the present catalogue value hardly gives a true value of their worth.

Cape Verde, Scott 171-181.—In August, 1920, a requisition was made from this colony to the mint for a further supply of stamps but as these had not been received by January, 1921, an order was issued on the 22nd of that month for the overprinting in the Imprensa Nacional of the following values. This was rendered necessary as there were no values in the local Treasury below 10 centavos, while the cost of a letter in the colony was only 4c.

50,000 War Tax 1c surch. 1/4c. Sc. 171.
50,000 War Tax 1c surch. 1/2c. Sc. 172.
50,000 War Tax 1c surcharged so as to serve as an ordinary stamp Sc. 173.

19,000 Vasco da Gama issue 15c. surcharged 2c (Sc. 174.)

10,000 Vasco da Gama issue 10c. surcharged 4c. Sc. 176.

19,600 Carlos issue 100 reis surcharged 6c. Sc. 177

405 of each were forwarded to the Postal Union at Berne.

I have not seen a copy of Scott 176 and this must be an error due to some sheet of the same value of Macao being mixed with those of Africa in printing as it was stated in the official order that the surcharge in the case of each of the Vasco issues should be on the stamps of Africa. It was further stated that all stamps with errors had to be destroyed.

At the beginning of April the stamps had not yet arrived from Lisbon and as it was considered necessary to have a further supply of the 4c, a further order was issued for the overprinting of some of the 1902 issues bearing the REPUBLICA surcharge with $04.

The following list gives the numbers which were ordered to be printed of each:—

46,200 of 130 reis on 75 reis
53,200 of 130 reis on 80 reis
46,200 of 130 reis on 200 reis

These values were still in existence in the Treasury and were considered as useless for the postage rates then in vogue.

Of the 53,200 of the value 130/80 14,000 had the local surcharge "REPUBLICA" (Sc. 137). Later in Boletim Oficial No. 16 it was declared that it was found impossible to overprint the 46,200 of the 130/75 value as the greater number of the sheets were found to be stuck together and were returned to the Treasury. Also of the other values several were destroyed, and finally the numbers issued were as follows:—

52,714 $04 on 130 on 80, of which about 14,000 have the local "REPUBLICA" surcharge.
46,172 $04 on 130 on 200.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

S. B. Ashbrook, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Paul K. Owen, Newark, N. J.
Dr. Lister Tuholske, St. Louis, Mo.
W. J. Gould, Southington, Conn.
Dr. H. C. Updegrave, Easton, Pa.
F. M. Botelho, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.
Wm. F. Warncke, Hoboken, N. J.

Stanley B. Ashbrook of Cincinnati, whose name is quite familiar in the philatelic world, writes Mr. Severn at our Chicago office:—"Would it be asking too much to have you renew my subscription for five years, so that no matter how busy I am I shall be sure to receive the WEEKLY?" We can assure any of our readers who are at all in doubt in regard to the matter that we have no hesitation in requesting all the trouble of this kind that can possibly be placed upon our shoulders. They are broad enough to bear it.

We acknowledge with thanks a remittance of $5 for membership in the Ho Club from Paul K. Owen of Newark, N. J. Mr. Owen is a certified public accountant and is a member of American Institute of Accountants. has offices in New York and also Newark. We are pleased to add him to our list of members.

Dr. Lister Tuholske when making application for membership in the Ho Club describes the WEEKLY as the "backbone of American philately." This without doubt true and we are conscious of the fact that it carries with it a great responsibility of always presenting philately in the best light possible.

Willard J. Gould of Southington, Conn., writes us as follows:—"I have your paper over thirty years ago and have dabbled in stamps off and on for forty years. I guess I am now in for the rest of my life, which means I need the WEEKLY and may as well take membership in your Honor Club." check for $5 accompanied the letter. Gould is connected with the Gould Company, home outfitters, plumbing, heating, etc., in Southington.

We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of $5 from Dr. H. C. Updegrave of Easton, Pa., for membership in Honor Club. Our friend is a long-time subscriber to the WEEKLY.

We shall soon commence in WEEKLY a serial by Dr. Francis Botelho of Wayne, Pa., that will be of practical interest to every collector. will supplement the article by Chas. Phillips that is now running in WEEKLY. Dr. Botelho is a philatelist long experience and we welcome him to membership in our Honor Club.

"Everybody's doing it" greets us in a letter written by Wm. F. Warncke of Hoboken, N. J., when enclosing check for $5 membership in the Ho Club. Mr. Warncke is treasurer of American Cotton Fabric Corporation with rooms at 120 Broadway, N. Y. C. Seven in one week.

STAMP COLLECTING AS A HOBBY.

(Clipping from Albert E. Hay.)

That former well-known Cleveland—that it is quite possible he still calls himself one of us—Charles Lathrop Pack, once president of the Chamber of Commerce, father of war gardens and now, as he has been for many years, at the head of the American Forestry Association, is an industrious collector of postage stamps. He was recently honored by the Collectors Club of New York with the first Award of Merit medal offered in America for research in philately, which the real professors of the fascinating pursuit use in place of stamp collecting.

The recipient of this honor is one of the few men in the country who has made a critical study of the postage stamp, its history, its paper and watermarks, the matter of engraving and printing it, and the reasons for those peculiar variations and errors that are so puzzling, and when discovered create such a high value in dollars.

It is claimed that the Pack collection of early Victoria stamps is one of the finest in the world, having won the championship and gold medal in the international exhibition in London. The high honor attached to this award is enhanced by the fact that the only other collection that compared with it was owned by King George, who is himself a celebrated collector. The king was so much interested in Mr. Pack's work that he sent for him to study his entire collection—the first time an American citizen has been so favored.

A LEGION OF FOLLOWERS.

Stamp collecting is a hobby whose followers are legion. It absorbs the interest of people of all walks in life from schoolboys and modest young clerks to notables of high learning and people prominent in public and professional positions. Indeed philately has become an established business with agencies or exchanges in various cities actively engaged in buying and selling, and many individual collections are said to be worth almost fabulous prices.

Another Cleveland, the late George H. Worthington, was for a long time an ardent collector. It is said that his collection was acquired a few years ago by ex-Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey for something like $250,000. A host of stamp fans can be found in Cleveland.

On March 20, 1890, an organization known as the Garfield-Perry Club was formed here, and today the membership, active, associate and honorary, numbers nearly 100. A few evenings ago the members met in happy company at Hotel Cleveland and celebrated the club's thirty-fourth anniversary. In this charmed circle there is the utmost good feeling and the members cheerfully allude to each other as "bugs" or "nuts."

The officers of the Garfield-Perry Club are: W. H. Barnum, president; Alvin Good, vice president; F. S. Cramer, secretary; Albert S. Hill, treasurer; directors, W. H. Barnum, W. W. McLaren and Otto F. Moses. The three latter are also vice presidents of the American Philatelic Society.

HIDDEN TREASURES.

The local club meets weekly at its rooms in the Finance building and great interest attaches to these sessions; new acquisitions of stamps are reported and exhibited; news of investigations from other places are discussed. One member describes the work as fascinating as well as educational, and confesses to have learned more about world economics, history and geography, than he ever knew before. Then, too, many curious stories are told concerning the discovery of some rare issue by this or that country, or how the cleaning out of an old attic has brought specimens. It is claimed that the value of these specimens is becoming known in many unusual directions. Rag pickers and junk dealers are becoming aware of what may possibly be unearthed in this line if they keep their eyes open. Some wag has suggested that perhaps this fact will account in a measure for the increased wearing of strong lens glasses by so many classes. Of course the danger of counterfeits or misrepresentation is always to be met but every safeguard is diligently employed.

The study or pastime of stamp collecting, or whatever you may call its pursuit, is certainly attracting a lot of attention everywhere, and a yearning to indulge a hobby of some description might find stamp collecting as alluring—and as expensive, perhaps—as anything else.

It is a far call from the modest and finger-stained stamp albums of the schoolboys of the early day to the great collections of kings and commoners, but the schoolboys implanted the love of the game and the schoolboy spirit kept it alive. Honor the seed sown by the soiled little albums as well as the fruitage of the mighty collections.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BOYS' FARM STAMP COLLECTORS.

(We have two reasons for publishing the following clipping from a Montreal paper sent us by E. E. Goodchild. In the first place it demonstrates the splendid work that a man can do in the line of interesting boys in stamp collecting. In the second place these boys are situated where an instructive talk along stamp lines may be very helpful in winning them back to leading clean lives.—W. O. W.)

The first of a series of instructive entertainments for the boys of the Shawbridge Boys' Farm and Training School arranged by the Junior Board took place last week-end when W. R. Allen gave the lads an interesting talk on stamp collecting. The Junior Board comprises a number of Montrealers who particularly interest themselves in the entertainment of the boys throughout the year, and they have arranged that each Friday evening somebody will interest them in a variety of ways, a member of the Junior Board accompanying the entertainer. Mr. Allen took up his own splendid collection of stamps and showed the boys, explaining to them the history of philately and pointing out its value from an educational standpoint. Many of the boys are already stamp collectors and an album is given every collector who accumulates 200 different stamps. Mr. Allen promised a valuable stamp to the boy showing the neatest collection when he returns to the farm.

BOUND VOLUMES OF THE "WEEKLY".

We have on hand a few bound volumes of the WEEKLY, and offer them for sale at very reasonable prices. The years in question are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. The price of these books is $2 each and this price is extremely reasonable in view of the high cost of binding in these days. Just to show you what we can do in the way of a handsome, substantial sample volume of the WEEKLY we will send you the year 1907 for $1.50 plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds. This offer is for immediate acceptance.

GERMAN COLONIALS.

(The following article is reprinted from "Die Post", Leipzig, Germany. It is sent us by Prof. Jas. Lewis Howe of Lexington, Va., who would like to have some reader of the WEEKLY shed light upon the situation. Our columns are open for a further consideration of this matter.—W. O. W.)

German colonial stamps are for the German collector the most desirable and most collected varieties. And they belong to the class of stamps that for pure intrinsic value belong to the best class in their collections. And now the hyena's among the stamp speculators, and probably also the wholesale counterfeiters have taken them up. The swindle, which is probably being supported by parties in Germany, and by which collectors could be cheated out of millions in gold marks, seems to have its origin among people living in Switzerland.

For some time strange rumors, circulating especially in Switzerland, have been going the rounds, evidently destined at first to shake the confidence of collectors in these stamps. First, it was rumored, that the German Government had made reprints of these series. The "Berliner Bismarckzeitung" thereupon enquired from the Reichspostamt, who said these rumors were lies and that since June, 1919, no German colonial stamps had been reprinted. Now comes a new rumor, which this time takes in cancelled German colonials. A German paper, under the heading, "Probable Drop in Price of German Colonials," a report of their Swiss correspondent, who says that on account of reparations, immense quantities of German colonial stamps on envelopes to the total value of five million Lira, were delivered to the Italian Government. A large part of these stamps came through Italian dealers into Switzerland, and so flooded the market that they were being sold at a fifth of their value. This, added the correspondent, would probably cause a big drop in values of genuine used copies, which would have far-reaching effect.

I doubted the genuineness of this suspicious report, and wrote to the Reichspostministerium. The report was then branded as a swindle. The Reichspostministerium brands it as totally imaginative, without a shred of truth. All remainders of these stamps are being sold as before, by public auction and open sales.

The spreading of these reports can only have two motives: either it is a manoeuvre to get certain stamps cheap, or as is far more probable, that large quantities of unused stamps were bought at public auction, which have now been supplied with spurious cancellations and pasted on pieces of envelopes, so as to make huge profits from their sale. Collectors, who have recently been offered large quantities of these stamps on packet addresses and at a cheap price, would do well to see a district attorney.

MISS LILLIAN M. BROWN.

PRESIDENT OF THE ST. LOUIS STAMP COLLECTORS SOCIETY.

By JOHN R. CHAMBERLIN.

Miss L. Brown, an artist and art teacher in a St. Louis High School, was recently elected president of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society. She is the first woman to have been elected president of any philatelic society. Miss Brown was born in St. Louis, Missouri, and was educated in the public schools there. She studied art in the St. Louis Art School, after which she spent two years studying in Paris. Since that time she has visited Europe some fourteen or fifteen times. Miss Brown is a painter of some note and every winter exhibits some of her works in the East.

She became first interested in stamps watching her little brother stick his stamps in one album, and then pull them all out and put them in another. When she was in Europe studying she gathered stamps from her friends to send home to her brother. When he was leaving home, he presented her with his collection, because, as she said, "I was the only one who took any interest in it." The collection lay untouched for some time, until four or five years ago she was induced to attend a meeting of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society. Since that time she has added to the original collection, until she now has a fine general collection, including many countries practically

TO those well minded stamp collectors who fail to exhibit or acquire the "clam" effect we think we can safely make the following statement. Mr. Power, by himself, alone, unaided, has placed 10,200 stamp albums and packets of stamps in 10,200 homes, most of which know not of such vampires as stamp dealers nor of such pests as unsolicited approval sheet pirates.

If one man can do that, what can the sixteen thousand (perhaps) readers of this paper do if they made a concentrated effort to start off new stamp collectors.

Here is the prescription: The first time you go out to lunch with a friend ask him if he collects stamps. If he says "no" tell him that without doubt he has wasted half his life. Tell him to save the other half and without further courtesy on your part hand him:—

1 Pathfinder album, 50 Countries represented, over 200 spaces

1 Packet 100 varieties—all rarities (we don't think)

1 tell him to "go to it."

So close to cost that the butcher must wait for his money but never the less:—

10 albums and 10 packets of stamps - $1.00

U. S. 20TH CENTURY COLLECTION

I am breaking up a fine collection of U. S. stamps, singles and blocks of 4; also many plate numbers are contained therein. My prices are right.

BRITISH COLONIES

complete. She has a comprehensive collection of United States, including several early covers. Miss Brown does not believe in specialized collections, because, as she explains, "Sooner or later a specialized collection has to stop, while a general collection is never completed."

Miss Brown lives in St. Louis County, a few minutes ride from the city. Her home consists, as she expresses it, "Of a studio surrounded by enough rooms to live in." With the aid of one of the instructors at the school where she teaches, she designed the studio, which consists of one large room, two stories high, with large windows, in which she paints; a small kitchen and breakfast room are at one end, while the other part of the house is reached from a balcony half way up one side of the studio. She also has a glassed-in sun porch.

Among other interests, Miss Brown is sponsor for the Soldan Philatelic Society, which numbers some twenty or thirty students as its members. She has also been a member of the A. P. S. for several years.

The brother who really started her collecting is now a successful engineer, married, and has three children, each of whom has a large collection. Miss Brown's niece also has a collection, which grows every time the little girl visits her aunt.

BOOK REVIEW.

A short time ago we referred to the need of what might be termed a philatelic primer, a book that would be even more useful for the beginner than our "Stamp Collector's Guide." G. F. Rapkin, 151 Goswell Road, London, E. C. 1, England, accepts the challenge and sends us a copy of "Guide to Stamp Collecting" by Fred J. Melville, price 25c. While we cannot admit that this book is superior to the book we have published, we do take pleasure in commending it as a very handy volume for the beginner. The book is freely illustrated, has 64 pages, and is written in Mr. Melville's well-known style. It is commended to those of our readers who would like to become acquainted with the fundamentals of stamp collecting.

A new booklet is at hand from the Philatelic Institute, 26 Plumstead High St., London, S. E. 18, England. This book is, "Oil Rivers and Niger Coast Protectorate," also by Fred J. Melville. The book is uniform with the other Melville booklets previously chronicled by us. Price 35c.

A PENNYWORTH OF FINNO-UGRIAN PHILOLOGY FOR THE STAMP COLLECTOR.

By DR. WALDEMAR KLOSS.

Don't be scared by the hieroglyphic headline! This little extravaganza will contain something of use to the stamp collector. The writer, even, indulges the fond hope that it will be found more amusing than difficult.

In fact, the first steps in the study of an unknown language which is very remote from our own, invariably prove entertaining and exhilarating. How funny some of these words look! How strange they sound when we try to pronounce them. This ticklish sensation of strangeness, must, however, wear off before we get anything out of our linguistic "attempts" besides the innocent fun.

The collector of stamps, whatever his linguistic attainments, is often enough at a loss to appreciate the special character of a stamp because he does not know the language of the legend. Very few collectors, I think, know Hungarian.

This language belongs to the Finno-Ugrian group of the Ural-Altaic family of languages. Its nearest relations are the Ostiak and the Vogul in Siberia; together with these it forms the Ugrian branch of the group. The main characteristics of this group are the formative principle of agglutination and the so-called vowel harmony. The first implies that to the root word which remains unchanged any number of suffixes may be appended, i.e., agglutinated. The euphonious principle of the vowel harmony demands that in termination sharp and flat vowels must be followed by vowels of the same class.

The Hungarian language has no diphthongs; therefore, wherever we meet the combinations of ai or ei they are to be considered as two separate syllables. Modern Hungarian displays an extremely puristic tendency which makes the language indeed homogeneous, but also difficult. Let us try to appreciate the following fact: All the international terms derived from Greek ending in ology, onomy, graphy, or beginning with auto, phon, psycho, and thousands of others are almost invariably expressed by genuine Hungarian combinations. Here a few examples to illustrate this point: Geometry in Hungarian is mérés tan; mérés = measuring, tan = doctrine, so Geometry is the doctrine of measuring. Grammar is nyelv-tan nyelvi=tongue. language, tan, as we know: doctrine, theory, Geology is föld-tan, from föld=the earth.

If you specialize in any single United States stamp or any particular 19th century issue our stock will give you something to dig into. Our stock of shades, cancellations and plate varieties is sound and fairly exhaustive. In approval books or cards we can send selections of 5c '47s, 1c, 3c, 10c '51s; all types of 1c and 3c '57s, an unusually fine lot of 10c '57s including several strips of No. 49 with full scrolls; a number of beautiful copies of the 12c, 24c, and 30c 1857. Of that prime favorite the 3c '61 we have hundreds of fine copies, many scarce shades, rare cancellations, interesting covers, with the other values of the series in proportionately wide variety. For those who are filling sets of numerals, letters, etc. we have dozens of approval books filled with classified cancellations on 3c greens, 2c vermilions, 2c red brown, 4c Jacksons, 5c Garfields, and the other standbys. And it is all fresh, clean, attractive stock. A trial is what we ask. If unknown to us please furnish satisfactory trade references in asking for approvals.

the terms for citizen and discharged soldier. They exhibit the process of Magyarization in all its glory. Citizen in Hungarian is polgar. Polgar is really the German Bürger. B is changed to P, the umlaut ü is simplified into o. In order to avoid r in consecutive syllables one r is changed into l; to make the word more sonorous, befitting its new dignity as a fullfledged Hungarian term, for the e of the last syllable is substituted. Now, presto! Bürger=polgar. Amusing is the word obsitos=Discharged soldier. It is derived by the suffix os from the German abschied. Hungarians pronounce the German a=o; for sch they substitute s which in Hungarian is pronounced sh; thus abschied becomes obsit and an obsitos is a soldier who has received his obsit. Very simple!

The Hungarians take pride in calling themselves Magyars, this word and posta=post-office will probably be the only ones grasped immediately by the average stamp collector. Then follow the names of coins: filler corresponds to the Austrian "Heller" and Korona to the Austrian "Krone." The series issued by the monarchy bear the legend: Magyar Kir post. Kir is an abbreviation from Királyi=royal. Király=the King, is indeed a strange loan word. Like Kral or Krol in Slavic languages this title bears testimony to the overwhelming impression Karl the Great (Charlemagne) made upon his contemporary world, for it is really "Karl."

Légi posta=air post; for lég=the air; légi with the adjective suffix i=air. A similar legend is Repülő posta=Flying post; for the verb repül means to fly; repülő, the participle is flying. Special delivery stamps are indicated by the one word: sürgös which means urgent and is derived from the verb sürget=to urge. Newspaper stamps are marked: Hir-lap jegy; hir=news; lap=paper; jegy mark, label, ticket. On war stamps we frequently read: Hadi segély, i.e., War-help. Had=war; hadi=war-, segély derived from the verb segít to help, means assistance.

Other war charity stamps have a legend consisting of the following two sentences:

Segítsük hazavereinket! and Hadifoglyaink javára. in English: Assist the defenders of the fatherland! and, in the interest of our prisoners of war. Now, for the analysis! Segítsük, derived from the verb segít to help is the imperative. Haza which corresponds to the modern German Haus is an old loan word; it means the home country, the fatherland. "Vereinket" is more complicated than it looks. The verb ver=to beat, to fight, the participle veré or verő the fighter, the combatant; the agglu-tinated suffixes "inket" mean "our" as direct object. In the second legend our analysis will have the following result: Hadifoglyaink is our prisoners of war. Javára, derived from jó=good, means for the best of. On some charity stamps we read: özvegyeknek és árváknak i.e. Widows and orphans. This phrase gives a fine example of the principle of vowel harmony. Ak and ek are the plural endings. Ak is euphoniously followed by nak i.e.—aknak ek by nek which gives—eknek. The legend of the Flood charity series reads: Arvizkarosultaknak külön. For the relief of the flood sufferers; ár flood; viz=water; károsít=to damage; külön for the benefit of. On the Szegedin issue we find the surcharge: Magyar nemzeti Kormány Szeged. Hungarian national government, Szegedin.

On postal savings stamps the legend is Magyar postatakarék pénz-tár, i.e. Hungarian postal savings bank. Pénztár is a remarkable word; pénz is an old Slavic loan word for money tár a genuine Hungarian word means the receiver, the receptacle, reservoir.

On the war exposition stamps of 1916, we read: József főherceg vezérégre hadi Kiállítás, i.e. War exposition of Archduke supreme commander Josef. Here it is interesting to observe how in the Ugrian Hungarian language the term Kiállítás is formed according to the same method as the English Exposition and the German Ausstellung, for Ki means exactly the same as the Latin English prefix ex, and állítás position, Stellung.

The postbellum stamps of Hungary confront us with an endless repetition of the surcharges Magyar köztársaság and Magyar tanács köztársaság. Here we are confronted by the same phenomenon köztársaság is exactly the same-formation as Commonwealth. Tanács=Köztársaság was chosen with malice aforethought as an adequate rendition of the Russian Soviet. When the Soviet regime expired the interesting ominous surcharge was covered up by an emblematic design of exorbitant proportions. Hold these stamps against the light and you will clearly perceive the obliterated surcharge.

Official stamps exhibit the line "Hivatalos" which simply is official, derived from hivatal=the office.

A commemorative issue bears the legend: A nemzeti hadsereg bevonulása, XI. 16., i.e. Entry of the national army. Now for the analysis: nemzet=the nation; nemzeti=national; had=war; hadi=sereg army of warriors; be=in; bevonul=to enter; bevonulás(a). Entry thus: Entry of the national army. We have exhausted our topic and explained almost all Hungarian stamp legends.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references.

By WARNER BATES.

(This department deals only with U. S. issued before 1890 and mainly postal issues. The editor cannot give valuations on minor varieties, etc. Stamps sent for examination should be of interest because of oddity, scarcity, etc., or to clear up some debated question. Postage should be enclosed with registration fee when desired, also self-addressed envelope.—Ed.)

The Scott Stamp and Coin Company has submitted one of the most interesting shifted transfers on the one cent 1870-71 (Scott's U. S. No. 145-used) that it has ever been the privilege of the editor to examine. Through the kindness of Major C. W. Bonesteel of West Point, the variety is illustrated herewith. The detail description follows:

One Cent Blue, 1870-71, Ungrilled—Major portion of the entire design shifted to the north and west. Upper lines of the U. L. ornament well doubled showing both above and below the "U. S." of the top label. Top frame line of upper label shifted clearly to the north so as to merge with the vertical lines of the background of stamp at top. These vertical lines are also shifted north so as to show above what would normally be the top margin of the design. Lines of the shift show clearly in all the letters of "U. S. Postage" at the top. Upper and lower lines of ornament at U. R. well shifted, although not so far North as on the left of the stamp. There is little trace of this shift along the left side of the design outside the panel containing portrait but the shift is clear in the ornaments and pearls at the L. R. Horizontal lines of the lower label are well shifted and traces of the shift show in the figure and lettering at the bottom. The strongest part of the shift at the bottom is found in the ornaments and pearls at the L. L. Study will indicate certain doubling of shading lines on the bust of Franklin and in the medallion panel which contains this bust.

As this description indicates, this shift while practically all over the stamp is most clearly defined at the left. In the opinion of the writer, the plate maker did a very poor job of "erasing" a misplaced design of the stamp on the soft plate and then, after this sloppy attempt to eradicate the previous plate, again impressed the transfer roll on the softened plate and made the finished design. This is not a double print, although to one not thoroughly versed in studying these varieties the completeness of the doubling of the design might lead to this conclusion.

Harry C. Flierl, 432 Vermont Street, Buffalo, has turned in some very interesting specimens for description in "Early Low Values Specialized." By far the most interesting one is a double print copy of the two cent vermilion on hard paper, U. S. No. 178, issue of 1875. Double prints on any early U. S. stamp are mighty rare and inasmuch as the two cent vermilion on hard paper is itself not nearly as common as many others of contemporary issues the item in question may be listed as particularly desirable. No attempt will be made to describe all the details of this doubling as practically the whole stamp shows twice and where the doubling is not clear it simply means that extra lines have merged with some of the regular lines of the stamp thus giving evidences of the doubling. Properly speaking, the second printing struck the stamp slightly south and slightly west. The letters of "U. S. POSTAGE" at the top and "TWO 2 CENTS" at the bottom are well doubled, the "T" "CENTS" looking unusually odd and messed up. The horizontal shading lines of the background back of the shield set well over outside of the sign. In various other places on the stamp the doubling of lines is very clear and distinct. All in all, Mr. Flierl's find is a "beaut."

Another one in Mr. Flierl's lot is three cent green, 1873, Scott's No. 178 showing crossed guide lines through the guide dot in Washington's forehead. The editor has a duplicate of this variety in his collection but outside of these two has never seen the variety anywhere. Another is the three cent green, No. 158, showing the dot in Washington's forehead. These dots are occasionally found in various places in Washington's face, but not often by the means.

TWIN CITY PHILATELIC SOCIETY

The regular meeting was held April 12th, at their club rooms in Minneapolis. A special feature of the meeting was an exhibition of O. J. Olson's specialized collection of U. S. stamps. This contained unused singles, blocks, used singles and blocks, cancellation varieties, departments, reverses, etc. Exhibitions are held often, and meetings are well attended. The society was organized in 1913. The officers for 1924 are: President, Geo. M. Brice; vice-president, L. R. Sours; secretary, E. M. Oleson; auctioneer, Gerald H. Burgess.

Mr. O. J. Olson is known well in the stamp collecting fraternity and one of the really fine collections of U. S., as well as other countries. Several large pieces and scarce items are in his collection. He is the head of the firm of Holm & Olson, who have the largest florist establishment between Chicago and the West coast. Mr. Sours was formerly Sales Supt. of the M. P. A., and now treasurer of that society. Mr. Sours is one of the original incorporators of the A. P. S.—E. M. OLESON, Sec.

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN

24 or More Pages Each Issue---FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper. It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

Contents of the March Number (32 Pages)

New Issue Offers, Special Bargain Offers, Collection by Countries Scarce Stamps (6 pages), Pictorial French Colonials, Recent Issues General Foreign, Mexico, Hayti, Approval Dept., Philatelic Supplies, Articles on "20th Stamps as an investment", "Dealers and Conditions", etc.

The April number will not be issued until the latter part of the month, owing to the March number being late.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The following paragraph is copied from the latest circular sent out by the Philatelic Agency at Washington: "The Philatelic Agency has been entirely reorganized since sending out the last circular. However, in view of the fact, the Agency has over 10,000 patrons on the mailing list, it necessarily means that when circulars of this character are issued the Agency is deluged with orders. It shall be the strict policy of the Agency to fill all orders in their regular order of receipt, as it has been in the past. Patrons can therefore co-operate with the Agency by refraining from making inquiries concerning their orders which are not filled within two weeks. In many inquiries received from patrons in the past during the periods of special issues have to a large extent retarded the filling of orders. Every effort will be made by the Agency to fill orders immediately on receipt, if possible do so, in order that patrons may not be inconvenienced."

—Apropos of the article that appeared in the WEEKLY on the Lovibond Tintometer and Mr. Applegate's remarks on the subject in a later number, the following note is taken from Stamp Collecting: "Mr. Vivian G. Pickering, of Leeds, writes: 'I was much interested in the article in Stamp Collecting, of February 9th, entitled 'Colour Analysis of Stage Stamps by Lovibond Scale, by John H. Warth. As it happens I daily use a Lovibond Tintometer for colour analysis in certain scientific work, and have often thought that the instrument might be used in connexion with stamps. I have been at a loss as to how to adapt it. I should be glad to know, therefore, either directly, or through your paper, whether I can get into communication with Mr. Warth on this subject.' We are communicating with the Marylebone Academy of Sciences on Mr. Pickering's behalf."

—At a recent Harmer, Rooke & Company sale in London, a pair of the five-cent New York showing a distinct double line brought 62 pounds.

—The following stamp exhibitions are scheduled in Europe: Brussels International Stamp Exhibition, May 24th to June 1st; Hague International Stamp Exhibition, September 6th to 17th and 18th; Christiania, Norway, International

—The Hon. Secretary of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, recently had a somewhat remarkable experience, which throws a dubious light on journalistic amenities. An article appeared in the Melbourne Sun, in which Mr. Oldfield, the Hon. Secretary, was alleged to have expressed an opinion to the representative of that newspaper "relative to the design of the new Australian stamps." Mr. Oldfield distinctly repudiates the interview and says that an opinion "was never given." A similar article appeared in the Sydney Sun and Mr. Oldfield sought a correction from both papers. The editor of the Sydney Sun replied that from enquiries made of its correspondent in London he has decided that the interview was accurate; and he adds: "In view of that I do not propose to publish a denial which, to be perfectly frank, I do not believe." The editor's frankness is painful, indeed.

—Will you please make mention of the fact that Mr. George A. Baas of Batesville, Ind., long a member of the A. P. S., and the possessor of an unusually fine collection of Match and Medicine stamps, died early in February. I have just received a letter from Mrs. Bates, advising me of this fact.

—PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

—Information has recently come from S. C. Potts from Singapore. Mr. Potts is from Holidaysburg, Pa., and is making a tour of the world. He writes that the climate is hot and humid, and that he found an ardent philatelist in one of the dining room stewards. In fact, he states that he finds stamp collectors everywhere.

—Robert Campbell, 1748 Lee Road, Cleveland Heights, O., would like to know whether there is a stamp club for young collectors in his vicinity.

—A. S. Blanchard, Marshfield, Oregon, has an accumulation of stamp papers issued in 1922-23 which he will donate to some stamp club that will pay for transportation. If interested drop him a line.

—W. O. Staeb, 89 Feronia Way, Rutherford, N. J., sends us a carbon copy of a communication that he will doubtless be willing to send to any interested party. It deals with the organization of what is called a Stamp Lovers' League, which makes it easy for members to dispose of their duplicate stamps by a sales department. Collectors residing in the Oranges, Newark, Passaic, Hoboken and Rutherford are especially invited to communicate with Mr. Staeb.

—Allen H. Wright, San Diego, Cal., sends us an impression of the special postmark which was used on the letters despatched on the Round-the-World Flight from San Diego, Cal., March 17. Mr. Wright will ultimately receive some letters carried by the flyers. The marking shown us bears an appropriate inscription with the date, Mar. 17, 1924, in bold characters in the center of the design.

—We have received a letter from F. S. Cramer, secretary of the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club, in which attention is called to the fact that the club has nominated two new men for directors-at-large at the coming A. P. S. election. The two in question are Judge Robert S. Emerson, Providence, R. I., and W. W. MacLaren of Cleveland. Mr. Cramer pays a warm tribute to the character of these two men and believes that Cleveland is warranted in presenting these two candidates. Geographical location as well as capabilities are strongly urged as potent factors in their candidacies.

—Maury Swartz has been compelled to resign as secretary of the S. P. A. and William Lycett, 399 Lincoln Rd., Brooklyn, N. Y., has been appointed to secretaryship. Mr. Lycett began his work in philately in 1875 and is a member of the A. P. S., M. P. A., J. A. P. S., and Texas state association. He is also secretary of the Brooklyn Stamp Club and vice-president of the United Stamp Societies.

—"Re Roscoe B. Martin's inquiry. I would suggest that Mr. Martin purchase some ordinary waxed paper such as is used by the National Biscuit Co., to line their cracker boxes and which is obtainable at any Woolworth 5 and 10c store in packages of 80 unfolded sheets for 10c, that a sheet of this paper be laid between the gummed side of the sheet of stamps and a piece of cardboard, that the three shall be bound together at the four corners by means of stamp hinges or transparent gummed paper (in rolls) such as Mr. Martin no doubt uses for patching torn $1 and other bills. After this treatment the combination can be handled by the framer with safety."—D. D. BEROLZHEIMER.

WASHINGTON STATE EXHIBIT.
The Washington State Philatelic Society recently held a very successful stamp exhibit in the Seattle Public Library. A clipping from the Seattle Post describes the same, and we have a letter from H. M. Martin which gives us a detailed description of the exhibits. We note that displays were made by E. R. Ashton, C. S. Ernest, F. Haglund, F. Retch, Wm. Schwede, E. T. Frederick, L. Perrot and Messrs. Leners and Haring. The best exhibit was by Henry Hitt of Bremerton, which included a fine showing of Cape of Good Hope triangulars and British Columbia on entires. The new president of the Society is E. T. Frederick and Lucien Perrot, Castle Apts., Seattle, is continued as secretary.

POWER'S RADIO MESSAGE.
By E. B. POWER.

The origin of my broadcasting on tage stamps was an idea that came my head of broadcasting the fact that ould like to buy old postage stamps, l inasmuch as almost every house in Eastern State is decorated with an enna the thought came to my mind t perhaps many people would like to her up stamps and send them to me.
My first talk was from W. J. Y., New rk City, and produced slightly over answers, 90% of which seemed to e from people who were anxious to se stamp collections, and not to sell nps.
his caused me to immediately reverse osition and to conduct my future s along the lines of collecting rather 1 along the lines of buying. With end in view I produced what I was used to call the Radio Album. A y small affair with spaces for about stamps and with this album I of-d to give away a packet of 25 differ-
stamps.
With this theme I proceeded to broad-from the following stations:
ladelphia, Pittsburg, Washington, ton, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati, falo, Schenectady, and other farhing stations. The rebound from talk has produced to date upwards twelve thousand answers, a very large ority of which are from women.

About this time Mr. H. M. Clark of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., decided to join forces with me and produce a much more pretentious album which gave upwards of spaces for 250 stamps, wherein 50 countries were represented and illustrated, and that is the album I am now supplying to my radio friends. I do not attribute this interest to my ability as a speaker; rather would I attribute it to the interest in stamp collecting, but whatever the cause may be it is with great pleasure that I am able to tell you that the answers I have received from each station are the record number for that station, no matter on what subject the talk was given.

Before I discontinue for the summer, when results are not so good on account of "static," I shall probably have received in excess of fifteen thousand answers.

With fifteen thousand co-hearers on Radio circuits I shall have an interested audience to commence talking to again in the fall when climate conditions are favorable.

From one station or another I have received answers from thirty-seven states in the Union. I have had four answers from a distance of four thousand miles from the base of the broadcasting station. I think it is very possible that in the future it may be necessary to talk on postage stamp collecting only without offering to supply any material; and should this contingency arise it will then be necessary to find some other means of financing the heavy expenses involved traveling on these circuits.
These expenses could be raised from philatelic prominent dealers and individual wealthy collectors.

S. O. S.

ALVAH G. CLARK, Trenton, N. J.

A few years ago I recall that you published an editorial relative to a collection that could be made by a boy consisting of one stamp from each country in the world and at that time you also published a letter that I sent you giving my experiences along this line at that time.

This is a most interesting collection to try and amass. My idea has been to obtain one stamp (the cheapest possible) from each stamp issuing country in the world under their various changes of government. As an illustration, Cuba would have three stamps, one under Spanish Dominion, one under United States occupation and one as a Republic.
All colonies of a mother country are represented under their various forms of government. As an illustration Marianna Islands would be represented by two stamps, one issued under Spanish Dominion and one under German Dominion. All occupational issues, whether caused by war or otherwise, I consider varieties. As an example, there would be one stamp for Roumania, one under Austrian Occupation and one under Bulgarian Occupation. As another illustration India would have one under the East India Company, one under India as an English Colony, one of the Chinese Expeditionary Force, one of the Indian Expeditionary Force and one of each of the Native States.

I have worked on this collection incessantly since 1914. There is not a leading stamp dealer in this country or abroad who has not furnished one or more stamps toward my collection and a great number of the smaller dealers have been furnished want lists. I have written close to two hundred letters in my attempts to obtain some specimens and at times it seemed like chasing a rainbow.

To date this collection consists of 593 specimens and catalogues by Scott's 1924 Catalogue, $258.38.

The collection still lacks three specimens to complete it: Cape of Good Hope (under British Occupation, Catalogue No. 60), Trans-Jordania and Turkey in Asia, the issue under Greek Occupation, Scott's Nos. 301 to 304.

Here is where the S. O. S. comes in.
If any reader of this article can supply me with one of the above mentioned stamps I will be pleased to hear from him or her to the end that I may complete this ten years' chase.

A Fallacy

is something not founded on fact and I want to point out some Fallacies that a few of the many thousand readers of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY may yet have.

1st Because I advertise that I specialize in stamps issued before 1880, that I have no others. This is a Fallacy. I have lots of cheap stamps in my approval books up to 1900. I specialize in early issues, but I can supply many of later periods, and occasionally I have odd lots of the 20th Century when I buy a collection more or less up to date.

2nd Because I have been advertising rarities it is a Fallacy to think I confine my business to them. I have many books of low value stamps, and while I do not handle the boy trade, or deal in packets or sets of stamps, I shall be glad to send collections of cheap stamps in the issues before 1900 when I have what is desired in stock.

3rd It is the greatest Fallacy of all to think that my prices are high.
Modesty almost forbids it but I must say I am often astonished at my own moderation when I compare my sale prices with the catalogue. To prove this I take a bunch of books at random and I just quote a few items, showing my net selling prices and catalogue price. As a rule I have only one copy of these bargains but send for a lot of my books and you can pick out scores of others just as good. Any doubting Johnny can call and see any or all of these books.

EDITORIAL.

Under date of April 10th, the Philatelic Agency at Washington sent out a circular saying that the Huguenot-Walloon tercentenary stamps would be on sale,
 May 1, 1924, at Room 216, New City
 Post Office Building, Washington, D. C.
 At the same time, the five cent blue, coil, Roosevelt is mentioned. Incidentally, it is announced that the Philatelic Agency has been re-organized and in consequence is enabled to handle orders without undue delay. The Postal Bulletin gave in its issue of April 17 a full description of the three stamps and named the offices where the stamps will be on sale May 1, 1924. Ten offices in addition to Washington will distribute the stamps on that day and after May 10th, postmasters at central and direct accounting offices are permitted to make requisition for limited quantities of the stamps; and district postmasters will be furnished with small quantities "to meet the local demand, by drawing upon their central-accounting postmaster." The stamps come in sheets of fifty.

* * *

How do philatelists in this country look upon these celebration stamps? We have sought opinions from a score of typical collectors and it is interesting to know that not a single one of them voiced sentiments that were really hostile to the stamps, on philatelic grounds.
 The set awakens an interest that is akin to that aroused by a new story in one of the favorite magazines and it may be described as being stimulating upon collectors, to put it conservatively. The reaction on the non-philatelic public will be worth attending to, as it is possible, in view of the vast volume of publicity
 on stamp topics for the past few years, that outsiders will examine the stamps with some idea of using them as a basis for collecting. It is our opinion that a good many people feel a philatelic impulse in a vague, formless way and the trick that we have to accomplish is to give direction to the feeling.

We are indebted to Stamp Collecting of April 12, 1924, for an important bit of news that is described as "splendid" by our enterprising contemporary. The British Empire Exhibition, opened at Wembley on April 23, 1924, will be signalized by two commemorative stamps, which "are now being printed." The stamps will be on sale only at the ex-

From Mr. Theodore Siddall, Shanghai, China, we have received a number of postal documents that throw a side-light on the history of the Chinese Commemorative of Constitution issue; and the orders show that the Chinese in the provinces do not regard the action of Peking, sacrosanct by all means. The Directorate General of Posts, under date of Peking, 18th of October, 1923, announced that the commemorative stamps would be on sale concurrently with the ordinary postage stamps at all offices and agencies "to mark the occasion of the promulgation of the Constitution of the Chinese Republic." It was said:
 "These stamps in sets of four, respectively of the 1, 3, 4 and 10 cent denominations will be sold by Second and Third Class Offices and Agencies up to 31st March, 1924, and at Head and First Class Offices to 30th June, 1924, unless stocks are previously exhausted. After the latter date, they will not be obtainable at any Postal Establishment, and in no circumstances will a fresh supply be printed." Provision was made for the purchase of the stamps in "obliterated" condition if desired. Further: "As in the case of ordinary postage stamps, the supply sent to Singkiang (Chinese Turkestan) is overprinted" (Chinese characters) "i.e., for use only on mails posted in Singkiang." This is all clear enough but the postal commissioner for Kwangtung, in his Notification, No.
 653, regarding Constitution Commemoration Postage Stamps, throws a monkey-wrench into the machine, saying: "Notice is hereby given that the above postage stamps are not on sale in the Kwang-tung Postal District, and that the posting of mail matter franked with such stamps is declared invalid by the Board of Organization, Canton. To avoid delay and mail matter being taxed, ordinary postage stamps should only be used." This notice was dated at Canton, December 12, 1923. Here two opposing forces meet, one of which rules the stamps invalid in the face of their authorization for use up to June 24, 1924.

The following translation of a reference to the speculative Tunis "croix de guerre" stamps is made by Mr. Lowell J.
 Ragatz from a Bulletin Général des Colonies, Aug. Sept. 1923: "As the result of the issue of Tunis war cross stamps for the benefit of the Bureau of Wounded and Victims of the War, the bureau is to receive more than 200,000 francs from the Tunis postal service, this money arising from the sale of these stamps and thus providing for the sufferers. Such a result, it seems, fully justifies the issuing of the stamps, permitting as it does, philatelists to cooperate in a worthy work, while at the same time, enriching their albums with an official series, deposited with the International Bureau in Berne and whose value can only increase with time. It is, briefly, philanthropy well placed and only philately makes possible the doing of good and receiving in exchange for a charitable gift something whose value is really very superior."

* * *

In the April number of Nature Magazine, there is a stamp cut that confronts the collector so boldly as to make him catch his breath. The picture accompanies an article that is most interesting to the philatelist, "Insects' Sense of Taste," by H. A. Allard, of the United States Department of Agriculture. Mr.
 Allard begins by saying that his son, Howard, who has become an enthusiastic stamp collector, showed him a two cent, 1903, U. S., "mutilated in a most remarkable manner." The stamp has portions of the uninked surfaces removed almost as carefully as if the work had been done with a scalpel. Insects claimed the stamp as their prey and discriminatingly chose their diet by eating the white portions so that the stamp has the suggestion of filagree work. The cannibalistic bugs consumed most of Washington's head; and they made short work of the white margins between the perforations and the inked border of the stamp. The entomological epicures ate only white meat as the heavily inked part of the stamp was given the cold shoulder. The picture showing the normal unused stamp and the mutilated specimen, side by side, is an offense given unwittingly in a good cause as the article proves that under certain condition, bugs are to be numbered among the enemies of stamps. As Mr. Blakey, Chicago, who sent the article says: "It seems that other bugs besides stamp collectors like stamps." Mr. Allard explains the cut with the text: "Probably ants, carefully avoiding the dyed sections of the stamp, ate the white because of the gum on the back of the stamp." We have seen a few stamps on old envelopes that had been bitten by something and rats have sometimes nibbled stamps. Perhaps other collectors have had definite experiences with pests of the kind and if so, their stories would be of interest. Mr.
 Allard is to be credited with having brought the subject so vividly to attention in the high-class publication under notice; and we trust that the magazine will not be given even a hard look by the postal potentates for having made the slip.

DEATH OF W. T. FENTON.

2c Offset Printing Imperforate.

Ward told us at Washington last August that we had been fooled with on the transaction and that he had found the cache of these stamps had come from. We noted Phil to show us but he has refused to do so until the present moment, when he came out with offers on these stamps at prices which we quote in the offers below. We don't know how many Phil has, but we know that our stock is not near big enough to justify the low prices that are offered and not near big enough to supply a tenth of the fellows who need this stamp in their collection.

The stamp has brought a good figure in the past few years and the future will justify this figure, for they are scarce. Probably no other dealers can supply these stamps in the range of pieces here offered. I know that we don't have near enough to go around. If you have not yet picked up this item, get yours now, don't let it slip the other fellow has cleaned up the bunch that are now thrown on the market at sacrifice prices. THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION

A new "M. C." 300 varieties.

Every now and again someone asks us, "Does your advertising pay you?" This is always said in the tone of voice that one might expect to be used in conversation with the manager of a LUNATIC ASYLUM who ran page ads in SUCCESS, or to a COAL OPERATOR who extensively advertised his product in whatever periodical they publish in THE NETHER REGIONS where the printers are all DEVILS! Without going to the trouble of repeating the soothing answers we usually make to these well meaning inquirers, we will simply remark that a glance at the pile of orders which the announcement of an "M. C." always brings within 48 hours after we receive our paper, is ample proof. This is not, however, a talk on advertising.

THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION is really the topic we should like to tell you more about. Briefly—it contains 300 varieties all in the finest condition. Almost all the stamps have been issued since the War, many of them, indeed the larger part of them, have done postal duty. There are some very nice high values of New European States, some particularly nice British Colonials, and a goodly number of the ever popular South and Central Americans all postally used. Many people will ask—"How much does the lot catalog?" Frankly, we don't know, and candidly, we care less! Some of the stamps may not be priced in Scott's 1925 Edition—certainly they are not mentioned in the current one. We could guess at from $12. to $15.

Whether THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION is in reality the last "M. C." of 300 varieties or so, we cannot say. We are sure that it is the greatest and if you have never purchased one of these "M. C." packets, you better get in on this. THOSE WHO HAVE BOUGHT OUR "M. C." PRODUCTIONS WILL NEED NO SECOND INVITATION. "The Famous M. C." is the trademark of a product which has produced countless happy evenings for collectors from The Philippines to South Africa and from Alaska to the Canal Zone. In the "M. C." we offer the greatest possible value for $1.02.

MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL

$3.06

We will let you in on a little secret about the 80 varieties of stamps issued between August and December 1st, 1923, that we include in every running of the MARK CLIMAX. The other day we put our heads together and decided what we ought to put into the NEW RUNNING of the BLOCK SPECIAL. After a big lot came in from "The Other Side" and one of the dealers Down Town made us a few attractive offers by phone, the following orders were placed: 38 vars., "Tausend Provisionals" comp., 20 vars., Thousands and Millions comp., 17 vars., Millard and Millard Prov., 800,000 on 30pf with the scarce LOZENGE WMK. This accounts for 76 of the 80 and we have the contract let for them and also for the other 22 vars. of the older stamps, but it would spoil it to tell you everything. THIS MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL is a "special" in every sense of the word and we beg you to send your order without delay. After 100 sets are sold we cannot guarantee the exact contents quoted above, but we will have something else that is good.

THE MARK CLIMAX

The contents are not just the same as quoted above, but it has some scarce stamps in it and we are still selling hundreds of them. ORDER NOW.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP, 510 WEST 113TH ST., NEW YORK CITY

THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK, BALTIMORE NIGHT.

Notes by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

The Collectors Club was very happy to have Dr. W. J. Gascoyne with them on Wednesday evening, April 16th, when he made a special journey from Baltimore to show his triangular Cape of Good Hope and his Niger Coast collections.

Dr. Gascoyne has been a collector for some 30 years. During the earlier period he collected somewhat generally but for many years he has specialized in the above named countries and showed us what could be done by patient research extending over a long period.

In the course of his very interesting talk the doctor made our mouths water by recalling the prices he paid in days of long ago for fine blocks and scarce items on covers. We noted throughout his collections the neatness of arrangement and the care with which the copies were selected; fine margins and light cancellation seemed to be the rule.

The following are a few of the more interesting items:—

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.

Color Trials. In addition to the ordinary black proofs there were two very rare ones in color, the 6d orange-red and 6d lilac.

In the Perkins Bacon & Co.'s stamps I note the following:—

1d red on blue paper. 2 pairs and 6 singles unused, and 8 pairs and four blocks of 4 used.

4d blue on blue paper. 2 pairs and 4 singles unused and a used block of 6.

In the same printing on white paper:—

1d 6 pairs and 3 blocks of 4 unused.

4d Used strip of ten.

6d gray. 9 singles and a pair unused.

6d lilac. 6 singles, 2 pairs and a grand block of 9 all unused, the latter a very remarkable item; also 6 pairs and a block of 4 used.

1sh dark green. Seven pairs unused, three of them being in old shades; also 4 pairs used.

1sh yellow-green. 4 unused, and 6 pairs used and a fine block of 5 used; also 4 singles used on one cover.

In the 1861 so (mis)-called Wood-blocks.

I noted a pair of 1d carmine and a very curious pair of 4d blue but used in the wrong form not as a regular block of two.

1863-64. PRINTED BY DE LA RUE & Co.

A very interesting and rare set is one of pairs of the 1d, 4d, 6d and 1sh each stamp overprinted SPECIMEN in sans-serif large type. In the 1d, 4d and 6d there were a number of nice unused and used pairs and blocks.

1sh emerald-green. A used pair and used block of 3; also this shade used on a cover with 1d and 4d.

NIGER COAST PROTECTORATE.

This very fine and most interesting collection contains the best lot of cancellations I have ever seen. Dr. Gascoyne has sought for all varieties and has many issues showing all the known obliterations. The first pages are British stamps without any surcharge used in Niger Coast towns with various names, the rarest being Lokaja.

In the provisionals of 1893 he showed us a fine vertical used pair of the 1/2d on half of 1d, the upper pair having the violet surcharge and the lower pair the common red surcharge. Dr. Gascoyne pointed out that one top row of 12 stamps only were surcharged in violet all the others being in red.

In the first issue he showed a very interesting variety, the overprint reversed, "OIL RIVERS" being at top and "BRITISH—PROTECTORATE" in 2 lines below. This is a Gibbons, but not in Scotts. In the numerous provisionals he has most of the varieties unused and used and a number of interesting blocks, showing two different varieties set-tenant.

He drew special attention to two great rarities, the 1sh in black on the 2d with the surcharge vertical and the 1d on half of 2d green, with the small "1" (Scott, No. 50b). Of this he said it was believed only two copies were known.

The collection concluded with a large number of stamps on original covers and with several varieties of bisections on covers used for half the original value.

Mr. Millar of Baltimore also came up and there was a large attendance of the leading collectors, but not so many New York dealers as we should have liked to be present.

On Wednesday, April 30th, Mr. O. A. Schenck is coming up from Columbus, O., to show his marvelous collection of Mexico.

Huguenot-Walloon Series.—By the time these notes appear the Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary stamps will have appeared, and judging from official information they will be exceedingly handsome. As a matter of philatelic history, I desire to record the official information as sent out by the Department describing the series and its issue to the public.

"HUGUENOT-WALLOON TERCENTENARY STAMPS."

THIRD ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL, "WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16, 1924.

Postmasters and other officers and employees of the Postal Service are notified that the department is about to issue a special series of postage stamps in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the settling in New Netherlands, now the State of New York, of the Walloons in 1624. These stamps are issued in three denominations, 1 cent, 2 cent, and 5 cent, and are described as follows:

They are rectangular in shape, about 1 1/2 by 7/8 inches in size. The 1 cent stamp, printed in green, has for its central design a view of the ship New Netherlands, upon which the Walloons sailed. The 2 cent stamp, printed in red, represents the landing of the Walloons at Albany, N. Y., and the 5 cent stamp, printed in blue, represents a marker located at Mayport, Fla., showing the landing place of one colony of Walloons.

The surrounding design of the three denominations is identical, except for the necessary change of numerals representing the denominations. Above the central design in a semi-circular panel appear the words 'Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary' in white Roman letters and above this, at the top of the stamps, in a straight line, are the words 'U. S. Postage.' In both upper corners are ribbon scrolls bearing the years '1624' to the left and '1924' to the right. At the bottom of the stamp, in a straight line, is the word 'Cent' or 'Cents,' and in both lower corners within circles with dark backgrounds appears the white numeral representing the denomination. The entire stamp is enclosed within a single white-line border.

The first issue of the new Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary stamps will be placed on sale May 1, 1924, at the following post-offices: Jacksonville, Fla.,

Mayport, Fla., Albany, N. Y., New Rochelle, N. Y., New York, N. Y., Allentown, Pa., Lancaster, Pa., Philadelphia, Pa., Reading, Pa., Charleston, S. C.

The stamps will also be placed on sale May 1, 1924, at the Philatelic Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers.

This series of stamps will be issued in sheets of 50, and postmasters at central and direct accounting offices may draw requisitions for limited quantities after May 10 on Form 3201, the words "Huguenot-Walloon issue" to be written plainly on the blank. District postmasters may obtain small quantities of these stamps to meet the local demand by requisition on their central-accounting postmaster.

W. IRVING GLOVER,

The above information was not only sent out in the usual circular form but also appeared in the Postal Bulletin, Volume XLV, No. 13447 of Thursday, April 17th, 1924. Under date of April 10th, the Philatelic Agency sent out their circular, No. 9, calling the attention of philatelists to this series. They further state that since sending out the last circular the agency has been entirely reorganized. However, in view of the fact that this circular is going out to over ten thousand patrons on their mailing list, it necessarily follows that they will receive a very substantial number of orders. These they promise to fill in the order of their receipt as has been their custom in the past. Patrons are asked to co-operate with the agency by refraining from making inquiries concerning their orders which are not filled within two weeks. The answering of these many letters in the past at a time when special issues were being placed on sale have to a large extent retarded the filling of orders. Every effort will be made by the agency to fill orders upon receipt, if it is physically possible to do so.

Waterglass Covered Postage Stamps.—At least one of the large mailing houses, who use in the course of a year a considerable number of the higher value postage stamps have been giving them a coating of waterglass previous to passing the packages through the post. As a result, these are almost lost to philately for it is exceedingly difficult to remove this without either damaging the stamp or else leaving traces of the varnish. Having run across a number of these varieties, I submitted samples to Professor James Lewis Howe of the Department of Chemistry, Washington and Lee University for his opinion. As there are large numbers of these stamps around, the information furnished by Professor Howe will be of general interest. He writes:—

"Surely the user of those stamps intended they should never come into philatelic use. He has daubed, why I fail to guess, over them a liberal supply of waterglass (sodium silicate). It is a fine glue and never yields its grip. It is most generally used for gluing the sheets together and making corrugated board, and paper boxes, which shall have the stiffness of wood.

Incidentally waterglass always has an excess of alkali, which therefore takes care of quite a number of pigments. The 1c no inconsiderable amount of the Prussian blue is destroyed, leaving a chrome—yellow, and hence converting the stamp into a greenish yellow; hydrochloric acid, you will recall destroys the yellow and leaves the blue.

I doubt if stamps treated in this way can be saved. The alkali can best be removed by dilute acetic acid, after soaking in water to loosen the stamp from the paper to which it is attached. In most cases a film of silica is left across the stamp. In several cases I have dissolved or loosened this by hydrofluoric acid, but of course, several pigments, notably the ultramarines, are destroyed by this or any other acid. (See Special Delivery.)

We join with Professor Howe in hopes that this practice of using waterglass on stamps will not become general.

CANADA.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent for the chronicle the 3c carmine, perf. 12 and also imperforate. He further adds that these stamps are printed in sheets of 100, 10x10.

FRANCE.—From Mr. R. Roberts we received the 10c and 25c of the Olympic Games issue. The 10c is green and shows an athlete wearing a laurel wreath, the right arm extending to the upper right corner of the stamp. At the top in small letters is the name of the country while just below the arm at the center right is "Paris." The lower right corner shows the figure of a val with "Postes" above. The lower left has the monogram "R. F." with the "Olympiade 1924" between the two corners. The 25c is a rose shade and pictures a man holding a medal and figures of value in the upper left and the usual monogram in the upper right. Between are words describing the event and at the base "Paris—1924."

GWALIOR.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 3a blue of India with the surcharge "Gwalior" and native characters in black.

HUNGARY.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. send us a new provisional Postage Due, consisting of the 5 korona brown postal adhesive (Harvesters type) surcharged in red:—"PORTO—5000—KORONA" in three lines. Provisional Postage Due, 5,000kor on 5kor brown.—Stamp Collecting.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The 8 dinars violet portrait of King Alexander (issued a year ago), has now appeared with the surcharge "ANH. 5 din." in black (on line). Mr. Denton Hepworth shows a used copy, 5din on 8din violet.—Stamp Collecting.

MACAO.—The following new colors and shades are announced in the general Ceres type (inscribed "MACAU" foot):—3c orange, 6c grey-lilac, 10c blue, 24c blue-green, 72c brown.—Stamp Collecting.

MADAGASCAR.—We learn from the Philatelic Magazine that a provision lay. Undoubtedly, this Company has just cause for complaint in view of the fact that their order was not filled promptly, but to imply that this is the general method of furnishing stamps to all patrons is an unfair reflection on the methods employed in the Philatelic Agency.

The records further indicate that the Marks Stamp Company did receive complete sheets of stamps without the straight edges being removed, and it may be possible that some of them were slightly offset. However, this error of the Agency was due to the fact that the employee who filled the order had just been assigned to that work several days previously, and undoubtedly, due to the rush of business at that office when practically 3,500 orders were on hand, overlooked the order of the Marks Stamp Company. The Philatelic Stamp Agency has repeatedly called the attention of stamp clerks to the necessity for furnishing all collectors with perfect specimens and the complaints received by that Agency are so few in number as to indicate that this policy is being carried out very effectively.

In the attached article, the publisher indicates that one reason the Philatelic Agency is inefficient is by reason of the fact that a non-philatelist is in charge. For the benefit of those desiring to know of the qualifications of the present Philatelic Agent, I desire to invite your attention to the fact that Mr. Mount, the present Philatelic Agent, is an employee under the Civil Service, and has had years of experience in the sale of stamps and stamped paper, having been engaged in the Washington City Post Office for 19 years. During his connection with the Washington post-office, he was employed in the capacity of stamp clerk for 14 years, the position he held at the time of his transfer to the Post Office Department and appointment as Philatelic Agent. By reason of the fact that a number of years ago, the Washington City Post Office furnished stamps for collection purposes, and Mr. Mount was in charge of that particular work, when the Department established the Philatelic Agency he was considered by officials of the Postal Service to be the most competent man that could be obtained and the Department feels that he is performing excellent service. In fact, the numerous letters of commendation received from patrons of the Agency concerning his activities justify this confidence in his work. Furthermore, letters have been received from patrons of the Agency calling Mr. Mount's attention to the injustice of the Marks Stamp Company's article, as well as expressing complete confidence and appreciation of the work he is performing.

Possibly, the writer of this article is not aware of the fact that the work of the Philatelic Agency is of a highly fluctuating character, so much so, that orders cannot be filled with the usual promptness, by reason of the fact that the Department has only a limited number of employees trained to perform those duties and cannot add to the personnel of the Agency to advantage when these rush periods occur. It was because of this reason that the reorganization of the Agency was undertaken, with a view of placing competent employees as retail stamp clerks to meet the ever increasing demand for stamped paper desired for philatelic purposes.

The Department does not encourage the appointment of a philatelist in the Philatelic Agency. Mr. Mount is not a collector of stamps, but through his continual contact with collectors for many years in his capacity as stamp clerk in the Washington City Post Office, he has become a competent judge of desirable stamped paper for collection purposes. Were the Department to appoint a philatelist or a collector to the position of Stamp Agent or to a minor position in the Philatelic Agency, it would be subjected to a great deal of criticism by stamp collectors who would be of the opinion that the philatelist in charge or any other philatelist connected with the Agency would absorb all desirable stamped paper having a large philatelic value for their own use.

The popularity of the Philatelic Agency is evidenced by the fact that the demand for stamped paper at this time is the greatest since the establishment of the Agency; in fact, indications point that the sales of the Agency for the present fiscal year will be largely in excess of the amount received during the last fiscal year. The Department has expended during the past two months over $2,000 for new equipment for the Agency, in order that every facility can be extended to the prompt filling of orders.

In a business of this character, where hundreds of different varieties of stamps are carried on hand, this Department feels that the work of the Agency is being performed in a most commendatory manner. The Agency at all times stands ready to rectify errors which are inadvertently made and if any defective stamps are sent to any patron at any time, they will gladly be exchanged upon application.

The Philatelic Agency will be glad to receive constructive criticism from collectors, as it is my wish that every effort of the Department shall be directed towards making this newly established bureau a highly efficient organization.

I have gone at length in this letter to explain to you the methods employed by the Philatelic Agency, by reason of the fact that you are a member of the American Philatelic Society and can offer legitimate criticism or commendation of the actions of the Government Philatelic Agency at any time you may desire.

Sincerely yours,
W. IRVING GLOVER,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

L. B. Mason, Cranford, N. J.
Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell, Boston, Mass.
E. S. Robinson, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Harry E. Gray, Oakland, Cal.
F. J. Pope, Covina, Cal.

An old friend of the WEEKLY in the person of Laurence B. Mason of Cranford, N. J., is our first applicant for membership in the Honor Club this week. He has been a subscriber to WEEKLY for many years and assures that he takes a keen interest as it appears. Thanks, Mr. Mason.

"Some men are ambitious to retire sixty and go on farm to raise hens, my hope is to become a stamp dealer and write some of the tempting advertisements that compel me to read every column of your paper. Necessity limits me to United States and Confederate covers. Otherwise there would be hope of anything to retire on, and indeed there is very little hope as I have this little preachment Dr. J. Harper Blaisdell sends in his check for membership in the Honor Club. The Managing Editor confesses that the time when he too had the same ambition to become a dealer, but it was ordered otherwise. Anyway, the next best thing to being a stamp dealer is to read dealers' advertisements week by week."

We acknowledge with thanks receipt of $5 from Elliott S. Robinson, 76 Halifax St., Jamaica Plain, Mass. for membership in our Honor Club. We thank Mr. Robinson for his co-operation.

After taking a vacation of two years in stamp collecting, Harry E. Gray, in 1921, began again and he suggests that someone should "write of the joys of stamp collecting once again after collecting when a kid." Mr. Gray believes that it surpasses the thrills furnished one who reads "Alice in Wonderland." His original subscription began in 1895. Mr. Gray is a member of the firm of Gray & Gray, real estate investments and insurance loans, Bacon Block, Oakland, Cal., and his membership in the Honor Club is made possible by renewal for five years.

Frank J. Pope, formerly of Charlotte, Vt., is now located in California, "the land of sunshine," and may be found in Covina. He advises us that after five years of stamp collecting he can reasonably hope for at least five more years of pleasure, and he therefore encloses membership fee of $5 in the Honor Club. THE MANAGING EDITOR

I Want To Thank

Many Customers for their liberal support, and their many answers to my ads, which have appeared in these columns during the last few months. On this page in the present issue appears my last Auction Sale for the season. In this sale there are many items of interest, both for collectors and dealers. There are some good U. S. Stamps, including some interesting covers, etc. There are also good Foreign items. It seems to me that something of interest may be found for all.

Kindly send your best bids and send bids early. All bids should be in by May 22.

In connection with this sale we are also offering the following stamps for collectors, at the low prices quoted.

J. E. HANDSHAW'S

37th AUCTION SALE

OF U. S. AND FOREIGN STAMPS,

BIDS MUST BE IN BY MAY 22

Consisting of many desirable lots for Collectors as well as dealers. All stamps are guaranteed genuine and in average or fine condition unless otherwise mentioned. This, however, does not apply to wholesale lots, in all cases, as, particularly in large lots of cheap used stamps, there are apt to be some more or less damaged. The count, however, will overrun, and largely offset this.

The descriptions refer to Scott's 1924 Catalogue.

Bids should be sent in by MAY 22.

Bid on any or all lots, and send best bids, as the highest bids are the successful bids. If there should be only one bid on a lot, and that bid extremely low, I do not agree to sell that lot. If two bids are sent, the highest bid takes the lot.

Successful bidders will be notified after the Sale, and on receipt of amounts bid, and postage, lots will be mailed. If you are one of our customers, or can send proper references, stamps can be sent in advance.

* Means unused. Others are used or cancelled.

Just because I only use small space is no reason I have a small stock. I carry a very elegant stock in my line, the line that don't get out of style, good old U. S. and other N. A. stamps, as staple as sugar, and a safe and sound investment. If I am any judge, and I ought to know stamps, having started in the game in 1881, I have 14 shilling values of N. B., N. S. and N. F. and if someone really wants a 12d Canada, I have one tucked away, which came out of the Far-rari collection. I like to hear from life buyers, and glad to send approval lists against want list. Always state how particular you are regarding the condition of stamps wanted, big difference in price be-

THE AUSTRALIAN 6d AND 9d KANGAROOS.

By A. H. DAVIS.

Having several points in common,
these two denominations may well be taken together—the blue and the purple Kangaroos. Both have been fairly constant in colour, though there have been variations in shade; both have lived through the three phases of watermark that Kangaroos in stampdom are liable to; both have been, and are, printed from the vertically-double plate of 240 designs commonly used for values of medium occurrence.

PAPER.

The paper used for these stamps has been normal, with a couple of exceptions to be noted presently. The 1913 6d and 9d are on the thinnish white wove usual with the first wmk. The provisionals of 1914-15, printed on paper used for king's head stamps of that period, is comparatively thick and creamish in colour. The third watermark stamp used to be on coarse white wove distinctly thicker than that of 1913, but recently the tendency in all A. C. stamps, including at least the 6d., has been the use of a thinner and whiter paper than of yore.

The exceptions spoken of were a single sheet of 6d and 9d on thin paper that I handled at the G. P. O., Melbourne, in 1919 (similar to the thin paper 2½d issued in 1918). They had been printed on undoubted thin paper, the test of which is: turn a sheet upside down, when the design appears on the reverse side through the translucent texture of the paper. These sheets were to have been reserved for me, but by some mistake got mislaid or sold. I managed to obtain a few copies of the 9d thin later, but never saw another such 6d sheet, though I handled many hundreds between that year and my departure towards the end of 1921.

WATERMARK.

The 6d value is known with inverted wmk., in all three kinds, but none are common. As a matter of fact, the writer has only seen used examples of each.
Strange to say, the only mint copies he has had were overprinted "North West Pacific Islands," and so belong to another part of the album. They were first
wmk. stamps, which are apparently better known overprinted in this fashion than plain in this upside-down position.
He once saw the 6d with third wmk. inverted advertised by a Sydney firm, and at once applied for some, but all he received was a regret "that the 6d inverted wmk. is completely out of stock, and we are unable to obtain further supplies." Without in the least doubting that the advertisers actually had the stamp advertised, the number probably was very small; and their inability to procure further supplies may be taken as gospel.
Neither 6d nor 9d is known with wmk.
sideways.

The first wmk., 9d is not known with inverted wmk. Until recently only the third wmk., of this denomination, a few sheets of which appeared so in 1919, had been discovered thus. Though not actually found by the writer, a search at his instigation led a London firm to find a second wmk. 9d with this error of wmk.—a superb copy of probably unique variety he now has in his possession.
Until this, the only value of the 1914-15 provisionals known with upside-down wmk., except the top value (5s), had been the 6d. This is a striking illustration that research in this country has not reached finality even in the 1914-15 provisional issue, which by now has been so much studied it had not been thought would yield further results. It is strange that by far the commonest value in this series—the 2d—has never yet been seen with error of wmk.

PERFORATION.

The 9d has been seen by the writer with double perforations at foot (third wmk.). He does not remember seeing any freak perfs. in the 6d value, though,
of course, such may exist.

The perforation is usually nearly 12.
clean cut, but it can be found pretty rough in both values. Indeed, the writer

SHADES OF THE 6D.

Quite the commonest shade of this stamp is that kind of blue called ultramarine. Indeed, the first wmk. is not known to the writer in any other colour, though Mr. Rosenblum in the A. C. handbook describes the colour as from "dull blue to ultramarine." All the writer knows of is slight differences of the latter colour from light to deep.

The second wmk. 6d is ultramarine, and nothing else. This seems unanimously agreed. Indeed, the constancy of shade in this variety is remarkable for an Australian stamp, and seems to prove a single printing only.

When we come to the third wmk. 6d, we get variety at last. Yet it continued in an ultramarine shade, little varying from the 1913 stamps for quite a while.
And it may be worth mentioning that the last lot of these stamps received by the writer, despatched from Melbourne G. P. O., in August, 1923, are almost identical in shade with this stamp as it first appeared in 1913, only the ultramarine is rather brighter so as to make the older stamp appear by comparison a trifle dull. Nevertheless, it is true that considerable variation in hue has intervened, especially in the years 1919 to 1921, while the shade of the 2½d denomination was also greatly fluctuating. About May, 1920, the colour seems to have changed from deep ultramarine to dull blue, and it changed again at the end of that year to a colour described on Gibbons' colour chart as "violet-blue;" and it continued in shades of this violet-blue colour most of 1921. In his handbook, Mr. Rosen-blum calls this colour "greyish-blue," and I have seen it described as "a warm ultramarine" in an English chronicle of this stamp in this shade; but it is quite a different colour from that of the 6d of 1913, which was a true ultramarine.

SHADES OF THE 9D.

When we spoke of a "purple Kangaroo," we were quite aware that most catalogues attribute to this stamp the colour of "violet," and no other. We apply to its hue a generic name denoting mixture of red and blue, because, as matter of fact, this stamp has appeared in almost every shade that comes from that mixture, although it is granted violet has been the prevailing shade date. Even the first wmk. 9d, which nearly always appears in the orthodox shade, may yet be found in heterodox shades, such as deep mauve, pale lilac, etc. When we come to the second

wmk. 6d, the exceptions are almost as numerous as the rule, and we deem it a sign of conscientious compiling that Messrs. Bright, in their "British Empire," connote this stamp
"mauve," though we hardly see w-both colours could not have been giv-But it is the third wmk. that the great range of shade occurs. Here Messrs. Bright give both colours, "violet" and "mauve," whilst Messrs. Gibbons a-give two, but only "violet" and "br-violet." That both these shades exist certain, but why give variations of the same shade when entirely different shades are available? One very distin-

A very interesting letter has been received from C. W. Merriman in connection with the Roosevelt Junior Stamp Club, organized by scholars in the Beloit, Wis., Roosevelt Junior High School. Mr. Merriman believes that the WEEKLY will perform a distinct service to the young people of today by introducing stamp collecting as an educational factor in the lives of the young people of the coming generation. It will be noticed that he has entered this stamp club for the weekly receipt of our publication, and he expresses the hope that the idea he has suggested may be worked out by other interested parties. The only question is how best to accomplish the desired object. For the present we shall allow the libraries of stamp clubs to be listed under the above heading.

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

are not numerous. Most of those seen have really been not plate flaws at all, but due to excess of colour, like those spoken of in the 4d Kangaroo.

In the first wmk. stamps of 1913 there is a conspicuous plate flaw. The last stamp of the upper, or North Plate, has the final "E" in "PENCE" broken and chopped up until it hardly looks like a letter at all. This is the largest flaw seen by us, but it does not occur in later printings.

The most noteworthy flaws in later printings seem to be where "white lines" stand out above and below words of value. In some stamps of this value this is quite conspicuous.

Plate flaws are more numerous in this value. For years the first stamp of sheets printed from the lower or South

Blank Approv. Sheets to hold 25 stps.: 100 for 30c; 500, $1.40. Burton Press, Madison, N. Y. [40]

Plate has had a "ruffled sea" under the word "POSTAGE," the appearance being due to white specks. In some specimens it is more marked than in others. In the right-hand pane of the same sheet, in the first stamp of the second row, there is a white oval underneath the final "A" of "AUSTRALIA." In the second stamp of the third row, there is a white tail shooting out of the bend in the back of the letter "R" in "AUSTRALIA." In the upper plate, I find in the last stamp of the left pane a white islet between Tasmania and the mainland. In some stamps there is also a tendency for "white lines" to develop over words of value, but generally this does not show before the letters "NCE," and there is no trace of it under the words (unlike in the 6d value).

The above mentioned flaws occur in the last plate used for Harrison printings, but I have a few flaws that belong to former plates, which I am unable to locate, not having entire sheets printed from these. Prominent among these are a couple of examples of a white hair line dropping from the letter "G" in "POSTAGE" to the north of the map. This is the best defined and most important plate flaw I know of in this denomination. I also have a mint pair, in which the first stamp has the word misspelt "POSTAGE." This seems to have been due to damage to a plate that was speedily corrected, for I never saw but one example of it. I also have a block of four in the pale mauve shade that identifies it as a Cooke print of 1918, in which the second stamp, a side marginal one, has what looks like an elongated island under the letter "U."

The most curious flaw in this value seen by the writer is a pair of stamps off the foot of a sheet with a thick coloured hair line extending and bending through both stamps. This was obviously due to a hair, or some other fibre, adhering to plate, and getting printed. But probably only a single sheet would be affected, and the flaw not being in the plate, but on it, and non-recurring is not so important.

PRINTINGS OF THE 6D.

Cooke printings, with AC: JBC monograms at foot, were used in Melbourne up to 1919, and, therefore, as in the 9d value, included all three wmk. In that year the 6d appeared in Harrison's first printing, having the AC monogram under both panes of the sheet. But this was a brief issue, and was followed by Harrison's third printing, with two-line imprint, "T. S. Harrison, Australian Note and Stamp Printer."

It is strange, but there is no trace of his second print, with his one line imprint at foot, though in not appearing in this printing this value is in the same boat as the 3d value. But, we should add, this two-line imprint was attached to plates having full borders, a line of colour around each sheet, with two dropping down in the gutter dividing the panes. In 1921 all these lines of colour were done away with in what was evidently a new plate, which is still in use.

By the way, it may be asked how, in sheets printed, can the upper plate be distinguished from those coming from the lower half in printings like this (and so many other Harrison prints) without border lines. It will be remembered that in the first wmk. stamps, upper are distinct from lower sheets in the absence of the monograms. Later, in the third wmk. regime, these were inserted in the upper plate also, but the line of colour above had to be whittled down to get them in. And in Harrison printings, even when the monograms had gone, the upper plate could still be pointed out by this thinning of the border line. But when border lines also vanish, how is one to determine whether a sheet comes from an upper or lower plate?

The answer is by the marginal watermark. All coming from the lower plate have, as marginal inscription, the words "Commonwealth of Australia" on the left side with the word "Postage," whilst in upper plates this arrangement is reversed.

PRINTINGS OF THE 9D.

These are fewer than in the former value, only two being known to the author. Firstly, that of Cooke up to about the year 1919, and Harrison's one-line imprint with full border lines, which is still current, or, at least was in August, 1923. Evidently a large printing of this value was made that has lasted a long time, as these last sheets are still on paper similar to that used in 1920 and 1921, and not the thin very white paper that has been used in printing the new colours. But it is fully expected that a new printing of this value may appear any time now without border lines of colour and bearing the two-line modern imprint.

It is just possible this value may have been included in that brief issue—Harrison's first print, having AC monograms on either side. This is an elusive issue, and the only values in it, as far as known to the writer, are the ½d, 1d and 6d ones.—Stamp Collecting.

H. C. NEEDHAM ON U. S. LOCALS.

(N. Y. "Times" clipping from G. W. Gunner.)

Seventy-five years ago, among the many privately printed postage stamps for the delivery of local mail, there was issued in St. Louis a small oblong stamp bearing the words, in three lines, "Clark & Hall's Penny Post, One Cent." One of these stamps was used to prepay an envelope addressed to Miss Eliza Pettus of St. Charles, Mo., in 1849. It evidently contained a valentine, for the envelope is of the fancy lace bordered type so common more than a generation ago, when the sending of valentines was a more popular custom than is the case today. The color of the stamp is pink.

The young woman who received the valentine was a relative of Morrison Pettus, a St. Louis lawyer, and he discovered it a short time ago among a mass of old family letters, several of which contain rare stamps of the early United States issues. Mr. Pettus sent a photograph of the envelope to a New York philatelist, and when it was shown to Henry C. Needham, a lawyer, of 93 Nassau Street, who is acknowledged to be the leading authority on United States locals, the latter pronounced it a unique copy.

"The study of United States local stamps has been carried on with such thoroughness in recent years," said Mr. Needham, yesterday, "that only at rare intervals does anything new come to light. The discovery of a hitherto unknown issue is an event in the local philatelic world and the St. Louis 'Penny Post' found by Mr. Pettus is very interesting. Of many of our rarest locals only a few copies are known. Their scarcity is due to the fact that the envelopes were invariably thrown away. The local postage stamps played an important part in the postal history and development of our country. They have never attracted a large number of collectors, perhaps from the difficulty of getting anything like a complete collection."

Mr. Needham has not only been collecting United States locals for several years but he has also made a scientific and historical study of the subject. He has in his office a two-volume typewritten book in which all the various issues and their postal uses are explained. The book will probably be printed in the near future and it will be a valuable contribution to a little known philatelic phase of United States stamps issued outside of Government regulations.

While it is difficult to place a financial value upon the local discovered by Mr. Pettus, Mr. Needham predicted that one or two collectors in this city would be glad to pay a few hundred dollars for it.

The grandfather of Mr. Pettus was William G. Pettus and he was Secretary of State of Missouri in 1822 when the seal of the State was adopted. Missouri became a State in 1820 and Governor McNair in 1822 authorized Mr. Pettus to prepare the official seal giving him the option of using the figure of a grizzly or a white bear. Mr. Pettus chose the Missouri grizzly bear. The seal with a well engraved figure of the bear appeared on the postmasters' St. Louis stamps issued in 1845 and 1846, the first adhesive stamps in that State, which preceded the first Government issue in 1847. They were issued in three denominations, 5, 10 and 20 cents. They are all worth several hundred dollars apiece and Mr. Pettus has among his letters ten envelopes addressed to his grandfather and father bearing the St. Louis provisionals, nine being of the 5 cent variety and one of the 10 cent value.

Besides these philatelic gems, which Mr. Pettus values more for their sentimental associations than for the $1,000 to $2,000 for which he might sell them, he discovered among his old letters several postmarked envelopes with copies of the 5 and 10 cent stamps of the first United States issue, 1847, a beautiful copy of the 1 cent 1851 issue with the unusual "Steam" postmark and several of the 1, 3 and 10 cent copies of the 1851 to 1862 issue with town postmarks, one of the 10 cent stamps having a Portland, Ore., postmark of April 22, 1862.

His find also disclosed half a dozen envelopes sent from the War Department, two envelopes being in the handwriting of General William T. Sherman, addressed to Mrs. Eunhrasia Mackay at Rome, Italy. One of these has a pair of the special War Department 12 cent stamps, one 6 cent stamp in addition to the 3 cent envelope stamp. Still another has a pair of 12's and one sent to London has three 6 cent department stamps. These special department stamps were discontinued many years ago and they are very scarce on the original envelopes.

THE LISTING OF DOUBLE TRANSFERS.

By J. C. HARRIGAN, Colville, Wash.

For many years the close students of philately have noted and saved those engraved stamps which bore evidence of the engraver's carelessness or inaccuracy.
These stamps have at different times been designated as showing shifted die, misplaced die, shifted transfer, or double transfer. In recent years the term double transfer has come to be generally accepted as an appellation which covers the subject.

Due undoubtedly to lack of knowledge of how these double transfers are produced, some stamps are now being shown as double transfers which are far removed from the real article. For be it known that a smudge or a smear or a slight doubling of the impression is not a double transfer. The transfer deals only with the plate. The printing comes afterward. A double transfer may be covered up by too much ink or a slight doubling of impression. On the other hand, too much ink or carelessness in removing the sheet from the plate may produce a suspicion of a double transfer, but the magnifying glass will uncover the truth.

A double transfer is produced when the engraver impresses the die in the wrong place and then reimpreses it in the right place. It is presumed that all evidence of the first wrong impression will be removed by the engraver's tools before the plate goes to press, but as his is a slow and difficult and exceedingly fine operation, a tell-tale story of the first wrong impression is generally left somewhere on the stamp.

There are two definite factors entering into the proof of a double transfer:
(1) There are lines shown on the stamp where there should be no lines. (2)
These lines result from line depressions in the plate, and not from any pulling of the sheet or doubling of the impression or smearing of the ink following the impression.

Some collectors have expressed surprise at the collecting of double transfers, claiming that as they are evidences of poor work instead of the perfection of the engraver's art, they are not worthy of being associated with the really nice stamps which show in all their wealth of detail a fine appreciation of one of the arts preservative.

This contention is a valid one so far as it goes, but philately today is an expression not only of what is, but of what has been. In other words, philately comprises the history of stamp engraving, and sordid facts as well as pleasing productions have their places in history.

The early examples of stamp engraving bear mute evidences of the difficulties encountered in producing engraved postage stamps, in quantity, at a profit. In recent years the difficulty has been largely in producing the quantity. Plates will ordinarily stand but 50,000 to 60,000 impressions, although the quality of ink and the kind of press will cause a considerable difference in the life of the plate. The history of postage stamp engraving is completely shown in a comprehensive stamp collection, and from this standpoint any exhibit is worthy of inclusion which bears its quota of historic explanation.

The collector who looks for and studies double transfers also learns something else about his collection. He learns the wisdom of selecting the clear-cut samples of good engraving work, the stamps that are not over-inked, the stamps that do not show smears or offsets, the stamps that are from new plates and properly inked. Such stamps are a lasting joy, but such stamps are seldom found in quantity except in the collections of those whose close study of their stamps has taught them the value of having good specimens. The constant seeker for double transfers knows the futility of finding nice doubles in poorly printed stamps.

Double transfers are found wherever one finds them. To a certain extent they are like fly specks, in that when one appears, another is likely to be near. Excellent examples of this are seen in the 12c, No. 6902 plate, and in other plates, where numerous doubles are found close together. In many other plates, doubles are found one below the other, and in some the doubles are side by side. Some are so plain as to be immediately observed, the doubling almost spoiling the appearance of the stamp, as in the 2c Hudson-Fulton. Others are seen only with the glass, as in the case of many doubles in recent issues where the bottom of the circle inclosing the picture is

A New Blank Album

made exactly like the famous "Oriel" but without the fancy trimmings. This new album is canvas bound, has fifty leaves of the finest possible quadrille ruled paper and has the same peg attachment as the Oriel. When we say this book is just as fine an Album as anyone needs, we are going pretty strong but we mean it. Oriels may be imitated, which some people say is "the sincerest form of flattery."

the only doubled line which has not been erased by the engraver.

Some day there will be a complete list of doubles, with the plate and the number of the stamp listed to aid the collector. Such a list, if complete, would probably do away with a number of stamps which are now being retained as doubles. At this time the list of doubles is far from being known. The Scott catalogue has started the movement, by listing such as have been proved to the firm but it is far from complete, and location is not attempted except in a few early issues. Mr. Clark has stated that he will be glad to list all others shown him, hence those whose fancy includes the elusive doubles might do well for themselves and prove a boon to philately by submitting their unlisted doubles, together with location if known, and paying the postage both ways in the interest of their hobby. In the end it will prove financially profitable to holders of rare doubles.

As an example of the double which is not a double, I have 30 or more of the 1c 1917, in a block which appear to be mostly doubles. But I also have the plate number, and it is double. In other words, I have a slight double impression, but no double transfer. Any one trying to sell me a double from this plate would have to show me how the plate number also became doubled.

There are five major classifications by which doubles may be listed, and it is advisable to letter these classifications so that the double may be easily described. The result of thus classifying is so clear and pleasing that it is here given:

(A) Frame line. (B) Oval. (C) Medallion. (D) Lettering or numerals. (E) Ornaments. For easy memorization, these letters may be used with more definite descriptions: (A) All Around. (B) Between. (C) Center. (D) Description. (E) Everything Else.

The details of this method of classification make plain the purpose and scope of the idea to classify doubles:

(B) Doubles which show on the white oval. All stamps do not have ovals, but most of them do, and others have designs which separate the central design or medallion from the rest of the stamp. Call them all ovals, and make class C include any double which shows in this white space separation. This class is probably the most prolific of the double family, including such stamps as the 1c 1857, 10c 1857, 5c 1890, 5c 1895, 1c 1908, 1c 1910, 1c 1917, and the 1c Columbian where the vertical line back of the Indian mother shows in the white.

(C) Doubles shown within the central design or inside of the oval, including doubles of head, hair, coat, short, or toga button. Examples are 1c 1851 where the coat lines are doubled, 1c 1851 inverted which shows so plainly on the coat, 1c 1910 where the background impinges on the forehead, 1c 1917 where the bottom is doubled in a number of stamps, 2c Harding where the shirt and coat lines are doubled.

(D) Doubling of the lettering or numerals, or lines which show in them. Here are included such doubles as the 10c 1847, 1c 1851, 3c 1851, 3c Columbian, 1c 1910, 4c 1914, 1c 1917, 1c Jamestown, 2c Hudson Fulton, 3c 1917, 2c Harding. This is perhaps the most interesting class of doubles, for if anything on the stamp is supposed to be clear and plain it is the lettering and the denomination.

(E) Doubles which show in the ornaments or elsewhere on the stamp between the oval white space and the frame white space or line. Here are included a number of the 1c 1870-79. These are most interesting, and are located without much trouble. The doubles which are found only in the ornaments, especially those of recent years, are at the best hard to distinguish, and generally are not noticeable. I consider them the least important of the doubles. They are never really plain except on a new plate.

By these five classes, A to E, one can list almost every double of importance, and such as cannot be thus listed are worthy either of a well written description or of forgetting.

By combining the letters of classification, one can accurately describe his specimens. Thus a 1c 1851 may be listed as BCD, a 2c Hudson-Fulton as ACD, a good many of the famous 12c plate 6900 come under BCD, the triple of the Hudson-Fulton is ABCD. A double of the right frame line can be listed as A-R (R for right) and a double at the lower left ornament would be E-BL (bottom left). All the abbreviations and the classification can be neatly made in an album above, below or alongside the stamp, they are quite plainly understood, and are a quick and effective method of description. Whenever possible the double should be included in a block sufficiently large to include the plate number and to indicate which position the number comes from.

Most of the doubles in the last 20 years show the doubling somewhere in the white oval inclosing the picture, and the usual shift is downward. In not many stamps is any part of the head or face doubled, the engravers having taken pains to clear the medallion of the original wrong lines. Yet in the 1c 1910 the forehead in several cases is ten into by the background on a right-and shift, and there are several excellent examples of double lines on the hat, shirt or neck.

The most pleasing doubles are those which show all five classifications. And he does not have to go back to early series to find these. One of the most striking examples of ABCDE is No. 32 the BR 13303 1c 1917, and some of these are possible to locate without much trouble. There must have been some rush when this plate was made, for there are 6 stamps in the plate showing doubles. And the 1c plate 13306 has 16 doubles, perhaps being made and injected the same day. Some of the doubled frame lines are over 1 mm.
out of position.
In the B, C, D, E classes, more stamps are found with the lower part showing doubles than with the upper part showing them. There are a number of amps which show fine scratches which could not be confused with doubling. scratch is not a double. And there are plates from which the position lines have not been erased. These position lines have no connection with doubling, and in a plate showing position lines
there is less likelihood of finding doubles.
Another point should be remembered those who are just starting their search for doubles. Plates become worn and sometimes damaged in the printing process, and at times there are lines ap-

Did You Get One?

A few weeks ago we advertised a "starter" packet of 25 attractive copies of Scott's No. 210, the 2c red-brown of 1883, to include at least four extreme shades and a variety of cancellations, such as stars, dated towns, numerals, letters, colored targets, etc., post paid for $1.00. Perhaps you intended to order one and make up an interesting page as a starter in the collection and study of cancellations. It is not too late; we have more of them and want your order on the basis of "satisfaction guaranteed or your money back on request".

Behind the starter packet are a score of approval books filled with classified cancellations on No. 210. These are for the advanced collector as well as the beginner. Other books of cancellations on No. 33, 43, 44, 42f, 49, 50, 52, 53, 63, 65, 68, 71, 73, 76, 78, 113, 114 and practically all of the "Bank Note" issues to 1888. Tell us what you want and your limits; we are sure to have something you need.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., Hammondsport, N. Y.

pearing in the white spaces caused by the deepening, widening or elongation of some of the finer lines of the design. This is particularly true in the shading above and below the lettering of the regular issues of 20th century stamps, causing an appearance somewhat like doubling. A most careful examination with a glass is necessary to show the difference in some cases, but I have never yet found a case wherein a careful study would not disclose the truth to a high degree of certainty.

One should keep constantly in mind that the double is produced by failure of the engraver to erase the previous wrong impression, and that an engraved plate consists of lines cut INTO the plate, and not superimposed as on a printing plate. When an engraving plate wears, the wear is on the printing edges of the line that is cut into the plate, and seldom in the line itself. The edges may become battered and hang over the line for a time until they wear away, but while in the hanging position they are liable to leave a printed mark where none is intended. Many stamps are found which show a hang-over damaging of the top and bottom of the lettering.

It would not be surprising if the cat-aloguing of double and triple transfers will some day indicate the kind of double and the location on the plate, somewhat as follows:

498, 1c green,	.03	.01
Dbl. Tr. ABD, plate 13303
TL 33,	1.00	.75
Dbl. Tr. ABCDE, plate
13303 BR 32,	2.50	1.50

TIME IS MONEY.

There are some people who unintentionally are guilty of imposing upon the time and patience of their fellow-men. In a recent number appeared an article upon the 3c green by M. H. Hoover of Lockport, N. Y., and he writes that if classification of stamps is wanted correspondents must enclose return postage with remittance of 25c per stamp. Mr. Hoover says that if he could manufacture hours of one hundred minutes each and had twice his strength he might possibly be able to meet the demands that are made upon him. He writes an inquirer:—

"Frankly I must say that when I undertook to give my philatelic brethren a report on my exploration of the 32,000 three cent greens, I did not know what I was getting into. Letters similar to yours come to me almost every day, ever since the appearance of the first article about my U. S. I am happy to say however, that in your case a two-cent stamp for return postage was enclosed, something that has occurred in only one other instance.

I would be delighted to lend any assistance my humble ability could afford my stamp collecting brethren, but truth is I am a somewhat busy man, what with my editorial work, looking after a fruit farm near my city home, etc.

I think I shall have to make it plain that I am not connected with the staff of the MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, received no compensation for my article, and therefore should not be expected to perform services for which Scott and am doing my best to assist you.

You will note my observations under each of your stamps, herewith returned.
The first one is even better than you thought, it has a silk fibre in addition to the straws. Your two Continentals marked "ribbed" are not ribbed, but printed from clean new plates, showing fine horizontal lines. I am appending underneath the two 'false ribs' a Cont.
ribbed from my collection, with my compliments. You will readily note the difference in color, texture and ribbed lines which are wider and distinct. The other comments on your specimens I think I have made clear on the card."

NEW STAMP ISSUE NEEDED.

LONDON, April 8.—The fact that stamp collectors apparently are overstocked, for the moment, with the issues of Somaliland, has brought about a financial crisis in the affairs of the post-office department of that country. In explaining that the department was insolvent the official in charge said the revenue for 1923 was $6,100, a decrease of $9,310 over the previous year "due to the demands of philatelists being satisfied." The government expects to bring out a new issue of stamps this year.—Newspaper.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

THE DETROIT CONVENTION.

(E. J. Vandervert and H. W. Boers send us a clipping from the Detroit "Free Press" of Sunday, April 27. The article is written by Wm. C. Richards, who is regarded as one of the strong men on the "Free Press" staff. He is also known as a philatelist, having a collection of Netherlands and Colonies. We do not reprint all of Mr. Richards' article, as part of it would not be of sufficient news value to our readers. It is very evident that Detroit proposes to capitalize to its fullest extent the publicity that the A.P.S. is able to give the city. In that Detroit is wise.—W. O. W.)

When a postage stamp that sold originally for two cents brings $32,000 in a later sale, that seems to us to surpass for increasing value any of Henry Ford's legitimate or Rufus Wallingford's nefarious enterprises.

But it did and it is coming to Detroit—this stamp that cost one pence in 1856 and brought $32,000 a few years ago when an American outbid the King of England for it in a European auction room. It is due here, it is promised, as part of the convention of the American Philatelic society in August.

MOST VALUABLE EXTANT.

The stamp, considered the most valuable in existence, was issued by British Guiana. It is known as the famous British Guiana error.

A green apprentice boy must have been on the presses. He put the wrong colored ink on the roller, perhaps. Anyhow, the one penny stamp turned up in the color intended for the 4 pence.

"You ain't color-blind, are you," the foreman probably fumed when he saw it. "Wash that roller off. I told you twice to use green ink. Now you pull this again and you can put on your hat and coat or I'll knock you for a couple of British Guiana loops."

Possibly he didn't say that, but the error made stamp history.

If you want to come closer home, the stamp connoisseurs will tell you of a 4 cent imperforate stamp issued by the United States post-office especially for the Schermack Mailing machine company of Detroit, in 1907.

10,000 WERE ISSUED.

They were exactly like the 4 cent stamps in general use except that they didn't have the perforated edges. The government printed 10,000 of them, and the mailing machine company turned 6,000 over to the Burroughs Adding Machine Company and 4,000 to the Hamilton-Carhartt Company for some mail job they were doing and for which the two Detroit firms were using machines to stick the stamps on.

Then along came Karl Koslowski, who owns one of the most complete collections of Polish stamps in Detroit. He dropped into a printing shop to see a friend. That particular printer was doing the printing for the Carhartt company and taking care of the mailing, so the imperforated 4 cent stamps had been turned over to him.

"Say, Joe, sell me 50 of those will you?" suggested Koslowski.

Koslowski paid face value for them, or $2.00. Then he put them away and—didn't forget them.

When he looked at a stamp catalog some time later, he found that his small purchase had multiplied enormously in value. He was besieged with offers, as the story of his chance find was bruited about. Finally he sold a strip of five copies to Frederick R. Schmalzriedt, an attorney in the Majestic building.

PAYS $50 EACH.

Schmalzriedt paid $50 apiece for them, or $250 for the strip of five that cost Koslowski 20 cents. Mr. Schmalzriedt was crazy, too. After making his investment and lying back on his oars for a few years he re-sold the strip of five in 1920, for $1,500. In the 13 years 20 cents had become $1,500.

Some bug on monographs perhaps will write some day the life of an especially rare postage stamp. Naturally, most of them are born to perish. They go into the waste-basket without a glance. However happy may have been the artist's design, it doesn't even get a look. If

Experts have tried to explain the stamp hobby. It is inexplicable. It is just a fancy certain groups of men have like certain other groups see fun in following a small white ball around a golf course and other men have their hair cut round at the neck.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—A reader asks us what we think of the idea of collecting the autographs of the various postmasters general as a commentary to the specialized collection of U. S. The idea is a taking one and fits in very well with the collection. We remember that a Confederate collection started off with an autograph letter of Reagan, the Confederate postmaster-general.

—The Orange Philatelic Club were the guests of Edward C. Worden, at his library, at Milburn, N. J., on the evening of April 10th, when Mr. Worden exhibited his collection of United States.

—According to the newspapers, the Senate has restored the stamp tax on drafts and checks.

—For some time past we have been made aware that the government was frowning upon the enterprise of stamp folks in their earnest quest for precancelled stamps: and our columns have reflected the growing displeasure of the authorities. The third assistant postmaster-general has now issued under date of April 26, 1924, instructions to postmasters, headed "Improper sale of precancelled stamps." The notice which we subjoin is certainly within the rights of the department, and our suggestion is that enthusiasts co-operate with the department in properly restricting the sale of the precancelled stamps without due authorization.

"IMPROPER SALE OF PRECANCELED STAMPS."

It appears that a number of stamp collectors throughout the country are making requests upon postmasters for precancelled stamps, especially Harding memorial stamps, and also that some postmasters comply with such requests, notwithstanding the conditions governing the use of precancelled stamps specifically provide that such stamps may be sold to and used only by persons and concerns to whom they have been furnished by a postmaster after special authority in each instance has been obtained from this office.

These conditions, moreover, contemplate that precancelled stamps will be furnished only to such persons and concerns as desire to use them for the payment of postage on matter of the second, third, or fourth class mailed at the office where precancelled. Precancelled stamps may not be furnished to persons and concerns desiring to use them otherwise than for the payment of postage.

Postmasters are therefore enjoined from selling or otherwise furnishing pre-cancelled stamps to persons or concerns not authorized to use such stamps.

Postmasters are also requested to invite the attention of their patrons authorized to use precancelled stamps to paragraph 4 of the conditions governing their use, which provides that persons and concerns authorized to use precancelled stamps are prohibited from selling them.

W. IRVING GLOVER,
Third Assistant Postmaster-General.—Madrid Filatelico for March contains an interesting article, translated from Deutsche Philatelist, by the way, on the utensils of the stamp collector, a subject that has not received the attention in text that it is deserving of. The writer tells of various accessories in a way that is helpful and he gives a number of ideas that, while not new are an improvement on some of the methods of use of the scales, glass, gauge, etc. The article is illustrated and it is of the kind that should attract attention to a somewhat neglected field so far as the reading pages of our papers are concerned.

—According to an Associated Press despatch, the used stamps of the Irish Republic that were employed on telegrams to pay the tax, consisting of all values and to the number of some millions of stamps are to be offered for sale by the Irish Government and as the despatch says, only those persons whose outlets for stamps were of no ordinary kind would feel justified in entering into the competition for the purchase of the stamps.

CANADIAN PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

It is the belief of the present Executive that the C. P. S. has something to offer every collector, and their full co-operation and support is invited. The Sales Department is now conducted on a rational and sound basis and offers a ready market for your duplicates. A reference library is being indexed and will soon be available for use. All members receive the official organ and the use of the information bureau conducted by the publicity manager. The counterfeit detector will examine your doubtful stamps for a nominal fee.

Any philatelist resident in Canada or Newfoundland may be eligible for membership. The annual dues are $1.50 plus an entrance fee of 25 cents, but applicants admitted after January of each year pay only a proportional amount of the annual dues. In April the dues with entrance fee amount to $1.38. Communicate with the Secretary, William Given, 543 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Canada, who will cheerfully provide application blanks or any other desired information.

EDITORIAL.

The engrossing topic just now is provided by the Huguenot-Walloon commemorative issue which is receiving the attention of the collecting and the general public. A good volume of publicity in the newspapers is resulting from the appearance of the three stamps and the first clipping that comes is from Mr.
George Kump of Xenia, Ohio, and it says that the issue will be placed on sale at designated points on May 1 and that the sale will become general on May 10.
Other clippings on the subject show that the new stamps are regarded as a development of some importance in the postal history of the day and worthy of news notice. Without trying to delve into the psychological benefit of this advertising, it is a foregone conclusion that the publicity that the stamps are receiving will bear fruit; and any elaboration of the theme would be repetition of what has been said heretofore, on occasion. As one realizes that the growth of our pursuit is bound up in great degree with the notice that it receives in print, outside of our own circle, it becomes more necessary than ever before to know that the best procedure in trying to popularize collecting is through public press report. Astute leaders who have the welfare of philat-elately at heart and who may be said to project themselves into the future think that this general publicity, which they wish to encourage in every legitimate way, is the one course to pursue that gives assurance of real results. In pressing this advantage to be gained by publicity, one need not lose sight of the benefit to be derived from individual effort but the general advertising that is spoken of paves the way for easier cultivation of non-philatelic ground by the proselytor.

We wonder if all collectors are aware of the value that cancellations and other postal markings may give some of the older U. S. stamps. For instance, we noticed in a recent lot of stamps, an envelope on which the two-cent brown, Jackson, U. S., was cancelled by a beautiful skull and cross-bones marking. We assume that any collector who might find a specimen of the kind would know that it was worth more than the stamp with ordinary obliteration but the owner of this striking cancellation feels that it is cheap at ten dollars. The idea is that some collectors are appealed to more keenly by cancellations than others but it is well that all collectors know that in view of the intensive attention given to U. S. that any peculiarity may be given financial advantage which they are justified in reaping, as well as the next man. Pictorial envelopes used during the Civil War period are coming into their own; and Confederate pictorials, in particular, are becoming more valuable in the market.

* * *

We have had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. E. B. Cooper, until recently of New York but now of Chicago, who has had a long and varied experience as a stamp hunter, particularly in the south, not to mention other sections likely to yield stamp treasure, where it happens, for several reasons, business and personal, his enterprise has greatest reward. Mr. Cooper who has served important clients in this capacity can recount stories by the score of stamp hunts, attended with success, and we hope that he will share them with readers, when his leisure allows him to put pen to paper. Mr. Cooper has just received from a correspondent whom he has trained in a philatelic sense, a used copy of the Livingston, Alabama, five cent blue local, which, while not on cover bears a light postmark of Livingston.
To all appearances the copy is a genuine one and is a desirable addition to the visible supply of these interesting stamps. We remember that over thirty years ago, Mr. W. F. E. Gurley circularized the postmasters of the south, saying that he wanted to buy the Confederate stamps that he showed on the sheet, by cut, in approximate color of the originals; and the one really good stamp that he got was a Livingston on the envelope.

* * *

In the possession of Mr. Cooper is a letter on which he places great store, he having obtained it when the private documents of his father's estate were distributed. The letter bears his father's address at Shelbyville, Tennessee, and has in the upper right hand corner, a "Paid 3" in circle, on a round piece of paper that is attached to the envelope by a wafer. The letter was mailed at Dyersburg, Tennessee, as the postmark shows, on May 31, 1852, and the written contents are headed by the same date.
Judging by the surface indications, the stamp affixed to the cover has the appearance of provisionalship and so far as Mr. Cooper is concerned, he believes that the stamp is what it appears to be, a provisional postmaster stamp of the rarest kind, as he knows that the letter was retained in the family since the time of its receipt.

* * *

To pass the April number of the Collectors Club Philatelist, even in these busy days, without a bow of recognition would be unmannerly and so again we take occasion to say that the editor,
Mr. H. L. Lindquist and his co-workers are producing a quarterly periodical that most fittingly represents the best traditions of philately in the United States.

The captious commentator who has been known to institute comparisons between our periodical literature and that published abroad to the detriment of our own now finds his occupation gone, after considering the Collectors Club Philatelist. Mr. Elliott Perry clears the decks for action by contributing eight or nine pages of preliminary notes on "Plating the 10c, 1847;" and judging by this foretaste of studious pleasures to come, the article will mark an important development in American philately. The next instalment will treat of plates; lines, dots and recuts and will be fully illustrated.
Readers of the WEEKLY know of Mr.
Perry's ability as a student of early U.
S.; and they may be interested to know that Mr. Perry has been working for some years on the 10c of 1847. A picture of Mr. Charles Lathrop Pack accompanies a short article, "Hobbies and Health," by Mr. Pack, in which he says, incidentally, that he collected stamps first as a boy at school in Canada and that he became a specialist about twenty years ago, when he was trying to divert the mind of an invalid in whom he was interested. Dr. Chittenden, in his delightful biography of J. W. Scott, speaks of him in his society relations and furnishes a fund of information that is entertaining reading. Beginning with the Scott-Trifet verbal feud, Dr. Chittenden follows Scott down the years, through his presidency of the American Philatelic Society, 1908-1910; and later. Mr. Scott did not hold himself aloof from society contact and he was known to have entered into the politics of such organizations wholeheartedly, although he was wont to be guided in his conduct by a shade of exclusiveness. Dr. Chittenden's biography of J. W. Scott is not alone an interesting exposition of the father of philately but it is a tentative history of collecting in this country; and it is fortunate that Dr. Chittenden is available as Scott's Boswell. Mr. E. S. Knapp illustrates a piece that deserves the "unique" description; it is a strip of ten of the first issue, green, Confederate and Mr.
Knapp well says that it would be worth while to compile a list of large used pieces of the Confederate stamps. Mr.
L. Gerald Firth contributes a study of the large cents issue of Canada; and Mr.
Firth, whose collection of Canada is a superb one is well qualified for the task.
A check list of the first stamp of Norway is helpful and among the other writers are Messrs. Sloane, Toasperm and Lindquist.

who is well-known in the stamp trade and to collectors generally was operated on for the third time April 4. He is at the Columbia Hospital, Milwaukee, Wis., and will no doubt welcome a cheering word from anyone who reads this notice.

will be unveiled with appropriate and elaborate ceremonies on May 1. It expected many prominent people will present to participate in the program the unveiling, which will be the first

NEWS GLEANINGS.

We are pained to announce the death of Thomas W. Southward, Willimantic, Me. He has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY for the past ten years and we and sympathy to the bereaved family. Miss Amy L. Swift, of Whitman, Me., who has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY for over thirty years, suggests we publish an honor roll for our subscribers who have been with us for a quarter century. Were not for the various departments that are now conducting we should take advantage of her suggestion and it is probable that we shall do this some time in the future.

We have received from Major C. Elliott a description of a cancellation being used from Dublin, Ireland. Advertises what are called "Tailteann" to be held in Dublin in August. Curious part of the cancellation is fact that the inscriptions are part in and part English.

Elmer F. Bodurtha wishes to go on record as opposed to the proposed stamp of the philatelic exhibition, but is in favor of a fine set for the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. He mentions that he has had a favorable experience with the Canadian stamp agency.

The New York Junior Philatelic Society has re-organized under the name of the Young Men's Philatelic Society, N. Y. City, and meetings are held every Saturday evening, at the Y. M. H., 92nd St. and Lexington Avenue.

The Lafayette Stamp Co., formerly located in St. Louis, Mo., is now in Salt Lake City, Utah, as will be noted by advertisement elsewhere in this issue. Bespeak for the firm a continuance of the patronage that it received from previous use of the WEEKLY.

A. Madine of Pittsburgh, Pa., writes a strong letter in defense of the dingy imperforate stamps and urges they are just as good for postage as any other U. S. stamps. We do not regret Mr. Madine's opinion other than query why the perforated 2c stamps did not perform the same service as accomplished with the imperforate.

THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION 300 Vars. $1.02

Why, MAN! If we told you all there is to tell about this packet, you would grab your check-book out and write $1.02 in the right space and sign your name and send us the check by airmail! The fact is that we try not to tell the whole story and let you find a lot of things that are better than you expected! That's the reason we sell more "M. C.'s" in a day than most folks sell of the ordinary run of packets in a MONTH. Most fellows feel that they have to tell all the good points and leave nothing to your imagination. This isn't knocking other packets, we know how hard it is to make packets! We have had many and various experiences with all kinds of packets. If you think that it is an easy job, JUST BUY AN "M. C.", collect wholesale lists and offers, and decide how much cold, hard cash it takes to DUPLICATE THE M. C. For just 10 stamps, a complete set, by the way, one big wholesaler wants $8.00 per 100! No, of course we got them cheaper, a lot cheaper, but we have been holding them for months, waiting for this M. C. You can take it from us that YOU WILL NEVER BE SATISFIED—UNTIL you buy the Marvelous Culmination.

THE MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL 102 Blocks GERMANY $3.06

You can bet your life we are selling these. One dealer told us three months ago that "German stamps don't sell any more." Well, maybe he is right about the ones HE HAS. We will say that there is nothing so popular as the MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL. Folks like to make a big show in their albums, fill up a lot of pages, and show the rest of the gang that blocks of four pages are the best looking pages. No one can beat our packet and the best proof of that is that while we have been advertising these stamps for weeks, WITH 80 VARS. of stamps issued BETWEEN AUG. AND DEC. 1st, 1923, and the rest of the varieties made up of Airmails and other nice, nice stamps, THERE ARE ONLY A FEW LEFT—ORDER NOW!

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP, 510 WEST 113TH ST., NEW YORK CITY

week and we call attention to his advertisement elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Pohlmann has taken the trouble to send us a specimen copy of the Globe Stock Book for our inspection and we have no hesitation in commending it. It is published in two styles, in sizes 8 1/4 x 9 1/4 and 10 1/4 x 11 1/4. The book is strongly constructed and the metal parts are heavily nickel plated. Post style binders are used instead of spring binders and all the pages are linen hinged. Interested parties will do well to correspond with Mr. Pohlmann.

—Mr. A. B. Cassell, proprietor of the Minneapolis Stamp Shoppe, paid Chicago one of his periodical visits where his acquaintances were glad to see him.

—We have received a copy of a Cincinnati paper from a correspondent in which an interview appears with Mr. E. B. Power who was in that city to give one of his radio talks. The article is headed "Columbus raised full beard in a few minutes—stamp pictures prove it," with the sub-head: "One issue showed clean-faced explorer in sight land—other has him wearing long whisker when he debarked."—The stamps that show this startling transformation are the one and two cent Columbians, as collectors know. Mr. Power also gave a number of "human interest" philatelic incidents to the receptive reporter.

—Canadian readers wishing to be listed in a directory of Canadian collectors are requested to send their names to William Butler, 137 Gillard Ave., Toronto, Can., forthwith. This also applies to dealers and local clubs. This service is free and there is no obligation.

—Aviation of April 14, 1924, contains an article that is very interesting, entitled, "Blazing the Airmail Path in Alaska." Much of this article's information has already been copied in various publications, but we quote the following as showing some of the incidental details in connection with the service:

"On the Nenana—Iditarod route the dog teams for years have made weekly trips, a team leaving each terminus every seven days, carrying 800 lb. of mail each way with 100 lb. additional in food, equipment, and feed for the hungry huskies. The pay is $1,022 a round trip, which consumes about thirty-five days."

—Hearst's International Magazine shows a number of postal cards that were sent by Bergdoll while he was flitting around on this side as a fugitive from justice. The editor of the monthly takes no chance of running afoul of the postal authorities, and in the case of the U. S. stamps that are shown, the label is blotted out in black.

—Mr. F. G. Browne, Chicago, has shown us a cancellation on a recent two cent U. S. that happens to have the word "Liberty" of the cancellation placed directly on the stamp, making it appear as if it were an over-print.

—Mr. C. A. Burner, Normal, Ill., was a recent visitor in Chicago, and in conversation he says that he is still interested in his auction index proposition and intends to revive it in due course of time.

—Amos Zook Myers, D.D., Philadelphia, Pa., is doing much to interest the boys, among whom he does helpful work, in stamp collecting; and he has put into practical use a number of plans that are calculated to engage the attention of the young. We are always alive to the necessity of planning to stimulate interest in collecting among the youths, and we trust that Mr. Myers will receive any co-operation that he may ask for.

—Mr. George Kump, of Xenia, Ohio, has been applying himself to find a practical solution of the color problem as referring to stamps. It is known that a number of collectors are giving study to a plan that will tend to simplify the confusion that now exists in philatelic color nomenclature. A number of attempts have been made to make clear color designations in the past, but it is difficult to present a plan that is accepted with any unanimity of opinion by the collecting mass; and the consequence is that today there is no really standard of colors of stamps.

New 1922, 2c Perforated 10, Rotary Print.

The 2c rotary print which we mentioned in this column on April 28th, has been placed on sale in Philadelphia, precancelled, the precancelling having been the work of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Heretofore, we have had the 1c current design from plates of four hundred, printed on the rotary press and distributed in panes of one hundred, perforated 10, but we saw the first of the 2c during the week of April 14th.

These stamps of course may be readily distinguished because of their perforation, which differs from the flat plate variety, and then too, the design is slightly larger, due to the curving of the plate, although both stamps are from the same die. The stamps seen are printed in a deep carmine color and as yet the variety is not available in an unused condition, although it no doubt will be at an early date, as the Department has been requested to make these available to collectors through the Philatelic Agency.

1923 Harding Memorial Stamp.

There has possibly never been issued a United States variety, that has commanded such attention as the Harding Memorial stamp issued on September 1, 1923. PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN

24 or More Pages Each Issue---FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper. It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

Contents of the March Number (32 Pages)

New Issue Offers, Special Bargain Offers, Collection by Countries Scarce Stamps (6 pages), Pictorial French Colonials, Recent Issues General Foreign, Mexico, Hayti, Approval Dept., Philatelic Supplies, Articles on "20th Stamps as an investment", "Dealers and Conditions", etc.

The April number will not be issued until the latter part of the month, owing to the March number being late.

Perforated Varieties.

have recently been shown singles, and blocks coming from a far eastern auction sale of rare United States late issues which have been made in the imperforated variety. I especially noted a block of the 1914 1c, No. A, perforated 12x10. There was a block of four of the 1917 "TWO" cents perforated 11, Scott's No. 519, there was a copy of the 2c perf. 10x11, No. 461, a pair of the 1c, surface print im- between, No. 525c. The same sale produced a strip of four of the 1c, horizontal coil with paste-up. The work would possibly fool an amateur, they would be readily recognized by one who has made a study of late issues and were acquainted with Bureau's method of perforating. Have also recently seen two of the compound perforated varieties that faked evidently from the coil p, and these bore the guarantee of our most reputable dealers, who no doubt bought them on faith, did not take the opportunity to examine them carefully. These varieties are readily told for it is impossible forgeries to escape detection, when are submitted to one who is posted. collectors are warned in buying these varieties and they should insist upon their guarantees. In the case of early where it is possible to trim the perforated stamp, there are often cases where no one can say a thing is good unless they know its source. I, ever, have never seen a faked perforation that could duplicate the work of the Bureau.

C. S. WATSON CO., Inc., 120 Boylston St., BOSTON, MASS.

head an advertisement, "122 Billion Stamps in Ten Years." They state that in the hundred years from 1800 to 1900, the people of the United States used 50 billion postage stamps, while from 1911 to 1921, 122 billion were used, or as they state two and one-half times as many stamps in one-tenth of the time. Evidently there is no philatelist connected with this firm, for there were no stamps used by the Government at large until 1847, making their calculations just forty-seven years out of the way.

In my Chronicle for April 28th, mention was made of a new series of Canal Zone stamps surcharged on the 1922 to 1923 U. S. stamps. I am now officially informed that the denominations are:—

PHILA. STAMP CLUB BANQUET.

The Philadelphia Stamp Club celebrated its fifteenth anniversary on the evening of April 24 with a banquet held at Mosebach's Casino. Founded in 1909, the Philadelphia Stamp Club is living up to all traditions as being one of the foremost local philatelic clubs in the country, and as each year of its existence passes, it fittingly brings its members together for a feast and good old-fashioned stamp talk. Each year since organization, with the exception of the great war years, there has been a banquet, and it is said that the one just enjoyed proved to be one of the best.

The chairman of the committee, Percy McG. Mann, spoke with regard to two New York stamp clubs that are raising funds for a permanent club headquarters and drew attention to the refurnishing fund for our own permanent club room and called upon A. F. Henkels, chairman of the furnishing fund committee. Mr. Henkels' speech was supplemented by an equally timely one by Maurice Apfelbaum. As a result, the members pledged a very pleasing addition to the fund.

The Chairman then called for a few words from the nominee for the presidency of the American Philatelic Society, P. M. Wolsieffer, who, in his usual modest and unassuming manner, told not of what he was going to do when he arrives in office but of his absolute willingness to help for the betterment of philately. With the conclusion of these two short speeches, the members drew up close to view the wonderful collection of stamps shown by James E. Hughes, who disclosed and discoursed upon one of the finest essemblings of single stamps and pairs and strips and original covers of the "classics" ever seen. The eye-opening display was a revelation to everybody present and there ensued many and worthy discussions.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB

Fred J. DeWitt, Chicago, Ill.

E. F. Beller, Jersey City, N. J.

Geo. L. Bradbury, Tucson, Ariz.

Harold D. Watson, N. Y. City.

C. S. Field, Scotch Plains, N. J.

J. D. Schmidt, New Orleans, La.

In one of Mr. Severn's regular letters from the Chicago office received week came a remittance of $5 for a year's renewal of subscription from J. DeWitt of that city. We acknowledge the same with thanks.

When a subscriber writes us that WEEKLY is the best stamp paper we feel pleased and quite naturally corroborate the words of approval when same is accompanied by a letter for $5 we are fully convinced that subscriber is really sincere in his words of praise. This has happened in case of Edward F. Beller of Jersey N. J., who sends us his application for membership in the Honor Club.

During the past four years George Bradbury has been in Tucson, Arizona, and is even now practically a shut-in. During this time paper has been invaluable to him and takes his place as a member of the Honor Club with a remittance of $5 for a year's renewal of subscription.

We are pleased to enter the name of Harold D. Watson, of N. Y. City, member of our Honor Club. Mr. Watson is the senior member of the firm of Watson, Kristeller and Swift, 68 William St. We have occasionally used Mr. Watson's services and been well pleased with the same. He writes us that he is anxiously awaiting the time when the Christopher serial on match stamps will be issued in booklet form. We are glad to say the time is not far distant.

"I have been taking your paper twenty years and could not get without it now. It's the best in the world." Thus writes Charles S. Field of Scotch Plains, N. J., when making his remittance for membership in the Honor Club. We are satisfied that there are no idle words upon Mr. Field's part. They are substantiated in deed as well as in words.

J. D. Schmidt of New Orleans, sending in his membership fee in the Honor Club, encloses a souvenir of an unpleasant experience that he suffered in the loss of his 19th century collection by fire, in 1898. Notwithstanding loss he has continued his interest in philately. He writes "Stamp collecting has afforded me recreation and a change of thought outside the ordinary routine of life and the duties of office. I do not know whether I shall live to the end of the five-year subscription, but I have the satisfaction of having paid in full."

Six in all this week!

C. M. Young, the proprietor of the Lafayette Stamp Co., sends us a subscription for the Salt Lake City Public Library. This firm has just transferred its business to that city from St. Louis, Mo., and immediately performs this public-spirited act. Thanks, Mr. Young.

At the regular meeting of the Collectors Club of Southern California held Monday evening, April 21, it was unanimously voted to subscribe to our publication for one year for each of the public libraries in Los Angeles, Pasadena and Glendale. This is the most striking tribute to the public library plan that we have yet met with, and we thank the Collectors Club for its co-operation.

You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

TEXAS PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

By T. E. FLICK.

On Monday, April 21, at a little after 10 o'clock, the business meeting of the Texas Philatelic Society was held, Mr. Grafton T. Austin, presiding. The status of the by-laws being somewhat in doubt, a by-laws committee was appointed to prepare and present new by-laws immediately after the public exhibition of stamps. After receiving the reports of the President, the Secretary, the Sales and Exchange Superintendent, the meeting was adjourned to reconvene at 5 o'clock the same day.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the auction, under the able management of Fred Green, was held. Immediately after the auction, the exhibit took place and here is where we really enjoyed a feast. For instance, the specialized collection of U. S. 1847 issue of D. C. Hammatt, which contained about 75 of the 5c and 40 of the 10c. We noticed strips of three and pairs of the 5c; 2 pairs of the 10c, one on cover; and many minor varieties, such as shifts, stitch watermark and many varieties of cancellation. Thirty-three of the 5c and sixteen of the 10c were on cover. It was not possible for us to make notation of all the interesting items in this collection. It was interesting throughout, and a feast for all.

The Confederate Locals exhibited by Fred Green contained a Goliad on cover, a Gonzalez on cover, also one of his recent finds being a Thorn Lake, Mississippi, 10c on cover. Other items in the frame were a block of four of the 12c 1869 on cover; vertical and horizontal strip of three of the 5c 1851; a 1c Pan-American invert and other valuable and interesting items such as pairs of Memphis and New Orleans on cover.

The collection by Louis Lenz of U. S. Locals contained as center piece a Frank cover of Mrs. Florence Harding, which she prepared specially for the Houston Convention. There were a great number of Bloods, Metropolitans, Boyds, Hale, American Letter Mail, etc., on original covers.

Mr. Schumacher had amongst his exhibition a $1.00 revenue with center inverted; several 90c of 1869; two pairs and two strips of three of the 5c 1857, some on cover; a $1000.00 revenue 1898 issue; strip of four unused of the 5c blue Confederate and many other interesting items.

C. H. Brunner exhibited his collection of Newfoundland, which contained most of the major varieties of the stamps of this country and Louis Samuels exhibited his collection of Bosnia.

Amongst the pre-cancelled stamps we noticed several collections, especially the collections of Oscar Jannasch and C. A. Huntington.

Immediately after the exhibition, the meeting was again called to order by President Austin. The by-laws committee offered a new set of by-laws, which had its main object of eliminating the enormous amount of detail and vesting the authority of handling unusual cases in the executive committee, to consist of the President or Vice-President, the Secretary-Treasurer and the three Directors. These by-laws were, with a slight modification, accepted. The election of officers with the following results:

Grafton T. Austin, Galveston, Pres. (re-elected); W. W. Miller, Waco, Vice-Pres.; H. S. Parson, San Antonio, Sec'y-Treas. (re-elected); A. H. Schumacher, L. Lenz and A. W. Herr, Directors.

A donation was voted to the Collectors Club of New York to assist them to finance a worthy cause. The invitation of the Dallas Society through Max Cas-per to hold the 1925 Convention there was accepted. A rising vote of thanks was extended the arrangement committee, the officers of the Society and Mr. Cheek for his generosity in providing the launch "Magnolia," for a trip down the ship channel to the battle ground of San Jacinto.

At 7 o'clock the final entertainment of the Convention took place at the Elk's Club, where the banquet was held with thirty-one participating. Permanent record in the form of a photo was taken. It was rather late when a halt was called to the eating and speech-making and the members took their final departure.

WATERBURY, CONN., EXHIBIT.

The second exhibition of the Waterbury Stamp Club was held in the museum of the Mattatuck Historical Society, Waterbury, Conn., May 5th to May 10th. The success of the club's last exhibition made it necessary for the exhibition committee to face a serious problem of making the present event of interest even greater than the former one. As an example of how successfully this has been brought about it is interesting to note that there were a number of exhibits from the honorary members of the club. Mr. Charles J. Phillips, exhibited his collection of specialized Prince Edward Island; some unusually fine items were contributed by Dr. J. Brace Chittenden. There was a practically complete collection of Canadian revenues, Mr. Alfred C. Bates of Hartford exhibited some fine early U. S. on cover. A collection of U. S. revenues and British colonies was of outstanding interest and importance. Of equal importance was Mr. Charles M. Ames's collection of Gambia.

On May 10th, the last day of the exhibition, was held the second annual inter-city meet of Southern New England clubs. At the close of the afternoon session a dinner was served at the Hotel Elton at which men high in philately were present. Mr. Olin H. Clark of the Hartford club was toastmaster.

MEXICO NIGHT AT THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK CITY.

Notes by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

We had a great treat on Wednesday evening, April 30th, when Mr. O. A.
Schenck came all the way from Columbus, O., to show us a portion of his collection of Mexican early issues.

Mr. Schenck in the course of his long and interesting remarks stated that he started collecting early Mexico issues about ten years ago, after being a general collector for many years. He had found the greatest pleasure and fascination in studying these stamps, especially in regard to their cancellations and to the use of split stamps for a fraction of their nominal value. In regard to these splits he said that their use was not by the public but was by the post-office clerk who used them when he ran short of the regular values. He was able to show us this by a fine series of covers franked by these splits. For some weeks, as shown by dated cancellations or endorsements one sees these splits in use in a certain district, then a supply of the regular values come from headquarters and the use of splits is discontinued, some months later on the splits come in again when the regular issue gave out.

Mr. Schenck pointed out that many varieties of Mexican stamps were quite out of line as regards price and rarity.
Some of the rare district names, rare bi-sections, and rare cancellations were known in only two, three or four examples and yet hardly any of these commanded over $50.00 in the market.

The splits were known used in about forty districts and there are many forgeries of them but Mr. Schenck had not found these dangerous or difficult to detect.

Mr. Schenck only brought up his issues of 1856 and 1861 and these filled nine large volumes. The two issues were arranged together under the District names.

In the space allowed me by the kind owners of this, the most widely read philatelic journal in the world, I can only give a few brief notes on the many interesting items and facts brought to our notice.

Re-Entries—Attention was drawn to these and a large number of really important varieties are shown in this collection. In some values, notably the two reales, the whole of the upper or of the lower portion of the stamps is shown clearly double printed. Mr. Schenck was of the opinion that the "subjects" were laid vertically on the plates, this being shown by the marked differences in the horizontal alignments.

Apam—It was proved by a number of stamps on covers that the stamps were overprinted APAM, in many cases, after the stamps were affixed to the covers for the letters of the word APAM are often shown impressed right through the paper of the cover.

Campeche—A record stamp shown here was the 1856, 2rls sea-green plate 1 with the District name in red and in black, and used.

Mexico—Mr. Schenck drew our attention to the three types of overprints that are usually accepted. He has been searching for these on dated covers to see when each was in use and has the following:—"MEXICO—" in thin single lined letters with a dash on either side of the word. Used October 3 and 16, 1856. "MEXICO" single lined letters without the dash. 16 Aug., 1856.
"MEXICO" in double lined letters.
Earliest date 2 Feb., 1857. In unlisted varieties here he showed the 1856, ½rl all doubled printed, and the 1856 1rl with the 4 rls printed across the upper portion.

Orizava—Mr. Schenck drew attention to a very interesting fact that I do not think has been recorded. He has the 1861 issue 2 reales, with ORIZAVA in large letters, used as a temporary reissue in April to June, 1867, just as the Mexico with the Gothic letters were used at this period.

S. L. Potosi—A very unusual split was shown made up of a quarter of 8rls of 1856 and half of 8rls of 1861, used together for the 6rls rate, on full cover.

Tulancingo—Mr. Schenck pointed out that all these stamps of 1856 and 1861, always had the Eagle cancellation when genuine, any other cancellation found on a Tulancingo overprint proved that such was bogus.

Vera Cruz—In 1861 a new record was a pair of 1 real double printed all over.

A COVER BARGAIN

I handle thousands of old U. S. original covers every year, with the more common varieties in predominance, of course. Many of us remember when the 3c 1851 were considered almost worthless even on covers, but all of us now know what specialists have done for that stamp. I hate to think what I would be tempted to offer a man for 1000 unpicked 3c 1851 covers!

I believe other stamps—now common—have good futures, but my safe and storage capacity seems to be taxed to the limit and so I am making an offer you can't lose
on.

U. S. 20TH CENTURY COLLECTION

I am breaking up a fine collection of U. S. stamps, singles and blocks of 4; also many plate numbers are contained therein. My prices are right.

BRITISH COLONIES

I have some fine things in British Colonies, both 19th and 20th centuries. Let's get acquainted. Want List, please!

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Zacatecas—The well-known overprint in M.S.S. was only in use in the sub-district of Agnascalientes and was shown used on covers extending from 28 Dec., 1858, to end of January, 1859. The "A" cancellation in a diamond is a cancellation used in this district.

In the discussion that took place Mr. J. M. Bartels mentioned an interesting fact that he had come across. That there was a law in Mexico, at the time that stamps were issued, compelling all letters used in the mails to be kept for ten years, and he thought that this accounted for so many of these stamps still being found on covers.

BRITISH EXHIBITION ISSUE.

We are indebted to W. T. Wilson and Frank Godden, two of our British advertisers, for specimens of the new British Empire Exhibition set, mailed from Wembley Park, April 23, the date upon which the Exhibition was opened. Two values, 1d and 1½d, have been issued, the former in carmine and the latter in brown. The design is illustrated herewith.

The postmark bears the inscription "Empire Exhibition, 1924," while the date and hour of mailing appear in the center of the cancellation. The stamps are beautiful specimens of engraving and we quote from Mr. Wilson's letter as follows:

"I have much pleasure in enclosing for your kind acceptance a block of each of the two Commemorative postage stamps, 1d and 1½d, which have just been issued in connection with the British Empire Exhibition, at Wembley, London. This is a unique event in British Philately, as it is the first time since the introduction of postage stamps in Great Britain, nearly 84 years ago, that we have issued commemorative postage stamps. They have full franking power and are available in payment for postage on letters, etc., posted anywhere in Great Britain. As at present arranged, these stamps are only on sale at the Exhibition, but I hope this may be altered, and that they will be sold at every post-office in Great Britain, as they certainly should be. I think you will agree that this event is of considerable interest to our little world of Philately."

FOUR BOUND VOLUMES LEFT.

We now have left on our hands four bound volumes: one of 1902, two of 1906, and one of 1907. They are offered at the very low price of $2 each, plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds per volume. The books are handsomely bound and if you have had any recent dealings with a bindery firm you will realize the bargain we offer you.

Did You Get One?

A few weeks ago we advertised a "starter" packet of 25 attractive copies of Scott's No. 210, the 2c red-brown of 1883, to include at least four extreme shades and a variety of cancellations, such as stars, dated towns, numerals, letters, colored targets, etc., post paid for $1.00. Perhaps you intended to order one and make up an interesting page as a starter in the collection and study of cancellations. It is not too late; we have more of them and want your order on the basis of "satisfaction guaranteed or your money back on request".

Behind the starter packet are a score of approval books filled with classified cancellations on No. 210. These are for the advanced collector as well as the beginner. Other books of cancellations on No. 33, 43, 44, 42f, 49, 50, 52, 53, 63, 65, 68, 71, 73, 76, 78, 113, 114 and practically all of the "Bank Note" issues to 1888. Tell us what you want and your limits; we are sure to have something you need. [H] a thickness to be a cracked plate and yet, if it is a scratched plate, it must have been rather carefully scratched, for it is uniform and regular throughout. It is too heavy for a guide line. I have seen one other copy, and that in an approval book of a western dealer. Unfortunately, I have no copy for my own collection, but would like to buy one.

Mr. Andres submits a very beautiful double transfer on the five cent Inland Exchange, first issue of U. S. revenue stamps, perforated. All of the letters of "Inland Exchange" at the bottom are well doubled. The lower part of the oval frame line around the head of Washington is doubled. Some of the shading lines on Washington's collar and elsewhere on the face and hair show signs of doubling. There are traces of the shift elsewhere.

Mr. Andres says he has seen a copy of the three cent green with a line running horizontally from the right perforations to the figure "3." I have such a copy in my collection and in the future, when I have more leisure I will describe it exactly in order to set the three cent green fans looking for it. If I am not mistaken, the line through "Cents" has been described in MEKEEL'S at some time in the past, but not in this department.

CORNISH OF SCHENECTADY.

(In the Schenectady Evening "Star" of April 29 appeared a long story dealing with Paul F. Cornish, the well known stamp dealer of that city. We cannot find room to publish the article in its entirety, but we make a quotation which will be read with interest by the many subscribers of the WEEKLY who have had business dealings with our Schenectady dealer friend.—W. O. W.)

It was 15 years ago that Mr. Cornish began his business. With an advertising appropriation of 35 cents he established an undertaking which has made him known the world over, which has brought him many friends, and which has paid him well, not in dollars and cents, but in the experience gained, and the pleasant hours devoted to it. Mr. Cornish is employed in the motor department, building 41, of the General Electric Company, with which he has been 22 years. He is well known among the workers, to whom he is an unusually pleasant fellow to work with, but no more. Very few know that when he has come home at 5 o'clock and eaten his supper, that he and Mrs. Cornish and his three girls go into the little office built on the back of the house, and busy themselves with opening correspondence, writing letters, filling orders, and making up packages of circulars and price lists to send out.

System is the paramount feature of the arrangement of the office. In the back, above the bench where most of the work is done are several rows of pigeon holes containing a number of different sorts of price lists. Above them are boxes, arranged systematically, which contain some of the novelties in which Mr. Cornish deals as a side line. At one side is a work bench where, by an ingenious method, little boxes in which to ship the orders are made from scrap cardboard, and where paper is cut. At the other side are stored more circulars and price lists, and boxes with stamps and novelties. All outgoing mail is thrown into a chute which carries it to a mailbox.

The front of the office comprises the "store." Here are several glass cases the height of the wall, which are filled with arrowheads, coins, medals and novelties. Then several shelves contain books, fiction, travel and science making up the contents for the most part. The walls of the little corridor, which connects the house with the office, and in which is the door through which the customers enter, are lined with old guns, swords and cases of stamps, arrowheads and coins.

The office was built by Mr. Cornish himself in his spare time, and is a tribute to his "handiness" and ingenuity. The electric wiring, by which any part of the office, or any single showcase can be lighted up at will, is also Mr. Cornish's work.

The business has never done more than pay for itself, but it is the hope of the founder that it will develop into something more than the hobby it is now. Nevertheless, it is an admirable example of what can be accomplished by consistent work and unflagging devotion to an ambition, and it is, in its small way, a bigger success than some of the largest corporations. For it is made entirely up of, not many sales or big orders, but the goodwill of the customers. It would be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to a large concern in any kind of business to possess the goodwill that Mr. Cornish does. He claims the enviable reputation of having never displeased a customer.

TEN YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Chas. R. Morse, Knoxville, Tenn.
Donald A. Cook, Simcoe, Ont.
L. A. K. Solostie, Grand Rapids, Mich.
E. B. Lefean, Pittsburg, Pa.

A very remarkable tribute to the WEEKLY reaches us from Earle B. Lefean, who is associated with the American Publishing Co., Pittsburg, Pa. He remits $10 for a ten years renewal to the WEEKLY and we have no alternative, but to establish a Ten-Year Honor Club. Mr. Lefean writes:—"After reading week after week of the large number entering the Five-Year Honor Club, I have decided to seek a seat in the Club myself and in order to go the five-year seats one better I'll put myself in good standing for ten years." Is it any wonder that a tribute such as this impels us to the highest and best service that we can possibly render philately?

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"Penny Black Day" May 6, was celebrated by a banquet in London on this date which we may believe was well attended. It is fitting that ceremonies mark the day each year that saw the coming of the postage stamp; and the festival this year also signalized the "silver jubilee" of the Junior Philatelic Society.

—The ninth Ferrari sale was duly held at the Hotel Drouot, Paris, and it is reported that the bidding was so strong that high prices prevailed on the most desirable lots. A 2% addition to the 17½% levied by the government did not check the bidders who were in full cry after the lots. Catalogue value was exceeded in many instances, and there was every evidence of appreciation of the lots of unordinary character. Mr. Hind was represented by Mr. Griebert of London, and M. Champion, our Parisian advertiser, was a successful competitor in many instances. A contemporary says that at the sale, German and Austrian dealers "also had plenty of money to spend."

—Glasgow is the latest city to qualify as the seat of a philatelic exhibition, and the announcement has been made that a stamp display will be held there from May 10 to June 7, 1924. Inasmuch as the eleventh British Philatelic Congress will be held in Glasgow, from June 3-6, 1924, there is every assurance that the exhibition will be seen by many interested visitors and underlying any entertainment feature for the delegates to the congress, the desire is to give the general public a comprehensive idea of the merits of stamp collecting.

—The Rebus contest has been particularly well patronized and the judge hopes to have a report fully covering the results of the competition in the next issue.

—In a recent number of the Postal Bulletin, there is an illustrated article from the office of the postmaster-general telling of the "conditions upon which mailings of certain matter will be accepted under permit without stamps affixed as provided by Section 459, postal laws and regulations." Permit collectors will find much of interest in the order, and the pictures of the indicia are of value. Four forms are shown for devices to be applied on mail matter. We shall make room perhaps for this article in a coming number of the paper.

—According to the newspapers, a despatch from Tiflis to Moscow says that by the decree of the Soviets, the Georgian language becomes the state language, although Russian, Armenian and Turkish are not prohibited in state institutions.

—We are informed by Bela Sekula that he has acquired the entire stock of remainders of the Seebeck issues of the South and Central American countries.

—At the meeting of the Brooklyn Stamp Club, May 14, Charles M. Ams exhibited his specialized collection of Gambia. The meeting was well attended.

—The April-May number of W. T. Wilson's Bi-Monthly List is at hand. It contains many unusual and interesting offers, especially in stamps upon the original cover. Offerings from the famous Tyas collection are given prominence. Address 18 Livingstone Road, Birmingham, England.

—At the meeting of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, held some months ago, a display of the stamps of Victoria's reign of the Straits Settlements, from the collection of King George was a feature, accompanied by a paper prepared by Mr. E. D. Bacon. Quoting from the Society minutes as given in the London Philatelist: "The collection comprised a beautiful selection of all issues, the surcharged stamps being fully represented, in many instances by blocks and panes, particularly one pane of the ten and a block of forty-nine of the 10c on 30c, from the Ferrari collection not previously described. All the rare surcharges and varieties were shown as well as dye-proof and colour trials." The vote of the Society tendered the Roll patron the dutiful thanks all of the Fellows and Members of the Society.

DESIGNS OF THE NEW FRENCH OLYMPIA PIC GAMES SET.

—J. M. Hitt, librarian of the Washington State Library, Olympia, Wash., sends us a photograph of the exhibit held in that city on April 21 and 22. It shows only about one-third of the exhibit, which was a very successful one, a large number of visitors availing themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the stamps shown. The government exhibit attracted much attention. Floor space was obtained at the office of Olympia Light & Power Co., on the most conspicuous street corner of the city.

—In a letter sent from Bolton, England, October 27, 1840, to an address in Birmingham, franked with a penny black Great Britain, we find the following postscript: "Here's a conundrum for White if he has not seen it. Why is the new postage stamp like a naughty boy? Because it's licked and put in a corner." With every feeling of coincidence we tender this joke as being an original stamp jest. We defy anyone to adduce proof of an earlier bon mot. The joke evidently was current five months or so after the appearance of a first adhesive stamp.

—Our attention has been called to a somewhat unusual account that appeared in the Nashville Banner, of April 1, 1924, that is headed: "A rare old stamp is sold for $18,000," dated Dayton, Florida. The despatch by International News Service, describes M. de Beauvoir who as a visitor from Windham, Greenwich County, New York, made an impression at the winter resort when he sold to a man from Palm Beach a stamp evidently of the Hawaiian Missionary variety in this figure. It is reported that two years ago the present seller of the stamp "bought it at the Ferrari sale in Paris."

that comes to us, and while its general tone is such as to meet the approval of the more serious collector, it is only just to say that its contents in the aggregate are acceptable to all classes of philatelists.
For many years the Journal has maintained its high standard, and it is one of the landmarks of our literature.

—I stepped into the New York City post-office, April 30th, and asked the clerk if he had any of the new commemorative stamps for sale. He looked at me for a moment, and then said: "Oh, you mean the 'Hottentots'; no, they go on sale May 1st." I left the building in a daze, struggling to restore the poor old Huguenots to their proper niche in history, from which they had been so rudely torn!—HENRY M. HALL.

—The newspapers have been illustrating the French Olympian Memorial stamps with various captions, most of which are to the effect that the stamps are not regarded as artistic triumphs by any means.

—We had a letter from Mr. Alexander Holland, one time president of the American Philatelic Society, in which he speaks of the pleasure it gives him to see the name of P. M. Wolsieffer mentioned as candidate for president of the American Philatelic Society. Some years ago Mr. Holland was a foremost figure in collecting circles, and fruits of his authorship are to be found in the United States revenue book published by the Boston Society, and if we are not mistaken, a treatise on the stamps of Siam. Mr. Holland spent a number of years in England where, as he says, he had the "privilege of going with the army." We hope that Mr. Holland will again resume his place in philately in a public sense.

—Recently we received the "Mitglied-er-Liste des Oesterreichischen Brief-markenhandler-Vereines in Wien 1924." This nicely bound little volume lists the members of the Vienna Association of stamp dealers and members residing elsewhere. We find the names of six American dealers in the list while four pages are necessary to accommodate the names of the Vienna members of the Oester-reichische Briefmarkenhandler-Verein. A directory of this kind gives testimony to the ascendancy of the stamp business, particularly in Europe.

POSTMASTER OF AKLAVIK.

(No doubt our readers are asking "Where is Aklavik?" Wm. M. McFarland sends us the following letter from the Postmaster who is located at that place in Northwest Territory, Canada. Mail is despatched via Edmonton, Alberta and we take the liberty of quoting from the letter received by Mr. McFarland from Edward Hester, Postmaster.—W. O. W.)

You ask for information respecting this place. I am the Postmaster here, and Aklavik is the most northerly official appointed Post Office in the British Dominions. It is situated about 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle in the delta of the Mackenzie River. Our winter lasts eight months, and we have only two mails a year, one in the summer by river boats and the other in winter overland by dog team.

Aklavik is but a hamlet of some 300 people which includes the surrounding territory but is central for the Arctic Coast and Herschel Is. to the west is served by it and Sallie Is. along the Coast to the East. Stationed here is a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, four strong, one Sergeant and three constables. The Herschel Is. Trading Co. and the Northern Trading Co. are trading here with white men as traders.

Traders and trappers are in evidence, mostly half breeds and Indians. But the majority of the people scattered about the delta are Eskimos among whom I work chiefly as I am a Priest of the Church of England in Canada. We have a fine house, a church, and a Mission Hospital is being erected. A small day school is held in which English is mostly taught. But the scholars are also helped by the letters to read and write their own languages respectively.

It is often 50 degrees below zero and it reaches 90 degrees above in summer, when we have the nights and the sun does not set for five weeks. All the natives, Indians and Eskimos are partly civilized, and do not live in snow huts as I have seen them in the East towards Coronation Gulf. They do a lot of trapping, mostly for foxes, mink, lynx, beavers and martins.

A book written by Fullerton Walds of Philadelphia Ledger called "Down the Mackenzie" published by Maxmillian Co., of New York, will give you more interesting details. It was only published last fall.

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN 24 or More Pages Each Issue --- FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper.
It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome
every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

Contents of the March Number (32 Pages)

HOW MANY? HOW MUCH?

II.

By CLARENCE J. WEST.

The first installment of this series appeared in MEKEEL'S for Oct. 29, 1923, and contained a statistical study of the regular postal issues of the United States. Since this created some little interest, the Editor of MEKEEL'S has kindly consented to a continuation of the series to include the remaining adhesives of the United States, together with the envelopes and the revenues. Semi-official issues have not been included nor have the private revenue issues of 1862-1883 been listed. In this second section minor varieties have not been studied, partly because it would make the presentation more confusing and partly because it is felt that there is not, at the present time, sufficient interest in these to warrant the extra space required. The information given includes the number of major varieties and the catalogue price, according to Scott's Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue for 1924, for the unused and used varieties. In case all the varieties are not priced, the number actually priced is indicated by the figure in parentheses.

EDITORIAL.

Without fear of successful contradiction, we say that never before has interest in stamp collecting been so pronounced and so general as at present;
 and in making this boast, we are not taking into consideration in any way
 the readings of the trade barometer.
 What ordinarily is the fag-end of the season has been transformed into a period of activity such as never before has been known. The demand for albums and rudimentary literature on the subject of philately shows that the boys and girls are turning to stamps with an ardor that has been lacking for some time past. To what development may be attributed this happy condition? Briefly, it has been publicity, in manifold forms,
 for stamps that has given them a place in the sun; and we say that those who have for so many years promoted public notice of philately may now say in all sincerity that their stand has been vindicated.

* * *

The new commemorative stamps made their appearance on time and we received first day sets from Mr. Klein, Philadelphia; Mr. West, Washington, and Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr. The stamps make a decided impression and they will assert themselves wherever they may be seen. The one cent while somewhat reminiscent of the one cent Pilgrim is sturdily attractive and the two cent is a good example of ensemble treatment.
 The five cent is an unusual production and there will be many opinions of it but we will agree that the design is distinctive, although we will admit that it is not particularly appropriate for a postage stamp. The five cent will be something of a mystery stamp in the estimation of the public who will want to know what the symbolism of the stamp is; and it would have been well if the "marker" had been labeled as such. The stamps certainly are definite and up-standing contributions to philately and it is safe to say that they will make the public
 "sit up and take notice."

* * *

Great Britain, too, favors us with a commemorative issue of two stamps, which will create something of a furor,
 as the fervent reporter would have it, in the country of issue, particularly. We have received blocks of the new stamps which have just been issued in celebration of the British Empire Exhibition, at Wembley, London, from Mr. W. T. Wilson, Birmingham, England, who writes:

 "The event is one unique in British Philately, as it is the first time since the introduction of Postage Stamps in Great Britain, nearly eighty-four years ago, that we have issued a Commemorative Postage Stamp. The stamps have full franking power and are available in payment for postage on letters, etc., posted anywhere in Great Britain. As at present arranged, these stamps are on sale only at the Exhibition, but I hope this may be altered and that they will be sold at every post-office in Great Britain, as they certainly should be. I think that you will agree that this event is of considerable interest to our little World of Philately." It is our opinion that Mr.
 Wilson certainly does not exaggerate the importance of the stamps in a philatelic or public sense and it is our prediction that the attention that will be received by the newcomers, which truly are novelties as emanating from Great Britain, will accentuate philately in a way that will be welcomed by all collectors. The design of the stamps is one that loans itself well to the circumscribed surface of a postal label and the colors, red for the one penny and brown for the one and one-half penny, are strong. The lion on the stamp is very well handled and the designer may be felicitated on the result, as we remember that Ruskin said that the face of a lion was difficult to reproduce in petto in a way not to libel Leo. The stamps are steel-engraved; and bear, further, the picture of the King and the inscription,
 "British Empire Exhibition, 1924." Too, a special postmark is used at the Exhibition: "Empire Exhibition," month, date and hour, "1924".

Recently, the personal effects of Leo Koretz, the financial wizard without a peer, who juggled millions with the sang froid of a man looking over a batch of three cent greens for cancellations, were disposed of at auction, and among the items listed in the catalogue of the sale was a collection of stamps. While it was known generally that Koretz possessed a number of odd lots of stamps, the knowledge that he had a real collection was limited to very few people.
 Several local philatelists attended the sale in Chicago to await a chance to snap up the offering for a bagatelle, in the manner of speaking. In due course, the auctioneer came to the nine albums comprising the collection and the lot was started at six dollars. Another bidder jumped the price to $25 and then the bids advanced in jig-time to $152.50; and at this price the books were knocked down to the philatelic buyer, which got his money's worth, to put it mildly, in the stamps. Mr. Voorhees was the runner-up in the bidding which at first enlisted the competition of three philatelists but soon the contest narrowed down to Mr.
 Voorhees and the successful buyer. The bidding for the collection was a dramatic episode and made one think of the auction room scene described by Stevenson in, "The Wrecker." Plainly, the auctioneer was puzzled and every now and then he warned the bidders that there were not many stamps in the collection; and it was apparent that he was not aware of the value of the books. Koretz seems to have had a sneaking regard for stamps but it is probable that his activities were such that he could not content himself with orderly collecting; under tranquil conditions, he may have developed into the real thing. However, it may be to the gain of the stamp dealers that Koretz did not enter the stamp market with the spectacular effect that attended his incursions in the financial field.

* * *

The Congressional Record recently contained some of the best philatelic pabulum that has ever appeared on its pages and indeed, it is too good not to pass along to philatelists. We refer to the remarks made by the Hon. Ernest R.
 Ackerman of New Jersey, in arguing on the House of Representatives on April 3, 1924, for the appropriation of "the modest sum allowed whereby may be continued the adding of new specimens of stamps to the historic and interesting collection of stamps now available for inspection and splendidly mounted that are on view at the Smithsonian Museum." Then, logically and with eloquence, he dwelled upon stamps from the time of the Stamp Act to the present day when stamp collecting is recognized as a super-attraction. We cannot do justice to the remarks of Congressman Ackerman in a single paragraph and we have copied what are substantially his words for publication as opportunity allows. We are indebted to Congressman Ackerman for "making" the Congressional Record in a way that is so acceptable to philatelists.

Mr. W. H. Thurston, Flesherton, Ontario, writes: "I cannot understand the instructions from your post-office department as published in a recent issue.
 Canada has a special delivery twenty cent stamp and only that can be used for special delivery. Letters from your side prepaid by U. S. stamps do not command special delivery, as I understand it, or even if prepaid by ordinary Canadian stamps to the amount of twenty cents, extra postage. An envelope mailed at Philadelphia, with ten of the two cent Canadian stamps and a Harding, marked Special Delivery was not specially delivered and the Canadian stamps were not even cancelled, while the Harding was, showing that the ten of the two cent Canadians were valueless for the purpose. This certainly does not agree with the instructions as given by your department." The instructions were issued to correct the mis-treatment of mail by clerks on this side and as a guide to the proper handling of the mail when it conformed to the regulations stipulated by the authorities at Washington.

COAST TO COAST AIR MAIL JULY 1.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Daily air mail service between New York and San Francisco, with deliveries within 35 ours, or from one morning to the following evening, will begin July 1, it was announced today by Postmaster-General
New. The time of transit will be cut to 24 ours probably in a few months, the ostmaster-general believes.

Not only will people of the two coasts benefit by the rapid deliveries, but those of the country generally will be enabled to transit their letters more swiftly, as special air mail stamps will carry them from any city for transmission from oast to coast or to intermediate cities or further dispatch by train. Letters between New York and San Francisco ow require 87 hours by train. The new ervice will cut that time down by three-fths.

Special air mail postage has been aranged and special stamps in three deominations, 8 cent, 16 cent and 24 cent, ill be distributed to all the principal ities of the country for use in specially esignating letters to go by plane. Three ones have been designated for postage urposes, one between New York and hicago, another between Chicago and hennepine, and the third between Cheyenne and San Francisco. An 8 cent air ail stamp will carry an ounce letter nywhere within one zone, a 16 cent amp anywhere within two adjoining ones, and a 24 cent stamp anywhere ithin the three zones.

Letters from points not on the air ail route, if bearing proper air mail amps, will be transmitted to the nearest tional postage. Any class of mail, including parcel post packages, may be sent by air mail, but only at regular air mail rates. Special air mail letter boxes are being installed in the larger cities along the route to expedite handling such mail.

Regular landing fields, where changes of planes will be made on both eastbound and westbound trips are at New York, Belfonte, Pa.; Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, North Platte, Neb.; Cheyenne,
Rock Springs, Wyo.; Salt Lake City,
Elko, Nev.; Reno and San Francisco.
Eleven planes will be required for the single trip each way. New planes, with slower landing speeds, deemed necessary for night flying, have been advertised for,
and bids will be opened June 10.

The mail planes will fly by night over a thousand miles of lighted air way between Chicago and Cheyenne, the pilots being guided by automatic acetylene lights placed every three miles. Every 25 miles of the night air lane has an emergency landing held provided with powerful searchlights, and at about every 250 miles there is a regular landing field with searchlights visible for from 100 to 150 miles when flashed in the air.

When a newspaper man sends $5 for a five-year subscription to a newspaper you may take it for granted that he knows full well what he is doing. Cas A. Carr, who is on the editorial staff of the Saguoyah County Democrat, Sallisaw, Okla., is the newspaper man to whom we refer. He has been collecting for the past twelve years and writes us a most interesting letter from which we take the liberty of quoting:—
"I do not specialize in any issue, but am seriously considering the early issues of U. S. I have lately added a few of the U. S. 5c browns, 1862-66, to my collection. The 1860 series has appealed to me for years, but being in the newspaper business and it taking nearly all of my time, I have not been able to give my hobby the attention that I really wanted to.

I think lots of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, I have been a reader quite a while, the ads alone are worth the subscription price; the bargains and opportunities that are offered the philatelist should make every collector realize the value of the paper as an organ of the hobby. I sold my Indian relic collection in order to devote more of my time to philately. I had accumulated quite a collection of Indian curios, the relics were mostly from this section of the State of Oklahoma, where the Cherokee Indian tribe was located.

Having been connected with the newspaper and printing business for several years I realize the value of clean undamaged stamps, like good printed matter. All during my time as a collector I have never been a member of any stamp society—I have been one of the "hermit collectors"—but still I believe the societies a great benefit to the hobby.
My motto is, "Clean Journalism; Good Printing; Good Stamps."

It is a very frequent occurrence for a father to place upon the son the responsibility for the stamp collecting interest in the family, but here is a father who is bold enough to admit that he is really the victim. A. F. Harkness, of Walpole, Mass., writes us as follows:—"Please extend my subscription to MEKEEL'S for five years. My eleven-year-old son enjoys it—after I get through with it." On the same day that Mr. Harkness' renewal was received, May 3, two other applications for membership in the Honor Club also came in. One is from Dr.
Gustave M. Meyer, of Flushing, N. Y., who was formerly connected with the Haskell Stamp Co., and the other from H. S. Williams, of Elgin, Ill., the well-known dealer in precancelled stamps.

Through Mr. Severn's office, at Chicago, we have received an application for membership in our Honor Club from
L. Josephson, proprietor of the Chicago Stamp & Coin Co. Mr. Josephson is an occasional advertiser in the WEEKLY and has built up a considerable business by his painstaking attention to the local trade. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Chicago Philatelic Society and is popular with the philatelists of that city.

Quite recently a new advertiser has been noted in the WEEKLY in the person of Mrs. F. W. Hackett of Washington, D. C. There certainly must be some association between our advertiser and Chauncey Hackett who has just remitted $5 for membership in the Honor Club,
"with many thanks for the pleasure and interest derived from the WEEKLY for many years."

HARDING ERRORS
IMPERFORATED VERTICALLY

A block of forty (10x4) of the 2c black, Harding Memorial Stamp, imperforated vertically and perforated 11 horizontally, was found in Newark, N. J., by Dr. Samuel Konwiser. I have been fortunate in being able to purchase this wonderful piece from the finder and it will make exactly ten blocks of four, which are not enough to go around. At present one block of four is available, which may be broken into two horizontal pairs, if they are so desired. The Harding stamp is possibly the most popular variety ever turned out by this country and a specialized collection of the emission will not be complete without this error. Price gladly quoted to interested purchasers.

If there are any other 20th Century varieties of United States postage stamps that you desire, especially blocks, I would be pleased to receive your want list. My stock of these issues is second to none, and includes many of the important rarities.

I am always in the market to buy anything fine in U. S., especially such varieties as the newly discovered Harding error. The fact that the block comes to me when in competition with other dealers shows that I pay real prices. What have you to offer?

2c Harding, Imperforated Vertically.

Dr. Samuel Konwiser informs me that while at the Newark, N. J., post-office during the latter part of April, he purchased from the stamp clerk a part pane of forty of the 2c black Harding memorial stamp printed from the flat plate, imperforated vertically and perforated 11 horizontally. I have had the pleasure of inspecting this block which consists of the last four horizontal rows of ten stamps from the upper left pane. The block was a little muddled and as the clerk informed him that the upper part of the sheet was perforated and had been sold leads me to believe that this sheet became tangled in the perforating machine when it was partly perforated, and that it was blue penciled for removal as a defective pane, but that in the rush of producing this variety in large numbers that it escaped the vigilant attention of the counting clerks. Dr. Konwiser makes affidavit to the fact that he purchased these in the Newark post-office, and that this block of forty was the entire lot, and that he knows of no others.

1923-2c BLACK, Harding Memorial Stamp Imperforated Vertically, Perforated 11 Horizontally.

Huguenot-Walloon Commemorative Series.

The 1c green, 2c red and 5c blue Huguenot-Walloon Centenary Commemorative Stamps were placed on sale as previously announced on May 1st, at the eleven post-offices designated in a recent Chronicle. These stamps have already been described and I can only further add that while they are striking in general appearance, they are not up to the former standard of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the point of engraving. They look like large colored labels, but there is an attractiveness to their vivid color, and there is no doubt that they like other commemoratives will tend to bring new recruits into the fold. Because of their odd size, the Bureau did not have on hand the right size paper, and as they did not have the opportunity of ordering new stock, it was necessary to cut up some of the coil stock for the purpose of turning out this series in prompt order. The Bureau was instructed to manufacture fifty million of the 1c, seventy-five million of the 2c and five million of the 5c. It is doubtful if more will be printed, and it will be further appreciated that there will be an ample number to go around.

The die proofs were approved by Postmaster-General, Harry S. New, in the case of the 1c, on April 14th, the 2c on April 8th, and the 5c on April 14th. By May 1st, the Philatelic Agency at Washington had received mail orders in excess of four thousand, and there was a steady line of local collectors all day. Every order was numbered, and are being filled in rotation. As there are only six clerks in addition to Mr. Mount, it will be realized that some of the orders will naturally be delayed.

I wish to thank Messrs. C. J. West, Emil Yost, D. K. Dunbar and J. V. Neilson for sending me first day covers. The stamps on sale at the Agency on May 1st, were printed from the following plates: 1c, 15756, 757, 758 and 779; 2c, 15744, 745, 746 and 760; 5c, 15752, 753, 754 and 755.

Rotary Press Varieties.

Mr. Benjamin Stickney, the mechanical expert, who designed the rotary press being used by the Bureau, and who was removed by executive order along with other employees early last year, has been reinstated. The Secretary of Treasury has announced that all of the employees were wrongly dismissed, for it has been proven that the former charges were absolutely groundless, and all of those dismissed from the former Director down, have been offered their old positions and fortunately a number of them have accepted. Since Mr. Stickney's return, he has made a slight change in the rotary press, which it is claimed, will break the gum and prevent these sheets from curling as heretofore. The Department has so much confidence in his statement that they have ordered as mentioned in a recent Chronicle a very substantial number of stamps of the 1 and 2c denomination from these presses to be delivered in panes of one hundred. Heretofore these stamps have been turned out in a precancelled condition only with the exception of those sold through the Agency. I am informed that since the Bureau has been doing the precanceling in the case of the 1c, and now the 2c, that the Department has saved in the neighborhood of $40,000. In fact, the precanceling is so successful that we may look for the 5c in the near future, and this will be followed by a 10c.

New 3c Coil.

The new sideways 3c coil, printed in violet, with portrait of Lincoln, perforated 10 vertically, and imperforate horizontally, will be issued in coils of five hundred, possibly before the end of May. Plates for these varieties were mentioned in my list some weeks back. With this denomination on sale, we will require the 10c sidewise coil and the 1c vertical coil to complete our series.

Coast to Coast Air Mail Service.

Under date of Monday, May the 5th, the Information Service of the Post Office Department sends out a three page circular letter announcing the inauguration of a daily, regular, and permanent air mail service between New York and San Francisco, on July 1, 1924,—the moment the recent appropriation made by Congress becomes available. It will be recalled that experiments were conducted along these lines last August when mail planes crossed the continent eight times, the test covering a period of four days. The Postmaster-General announces that the new schedule will not attempt to set speed records, but that the safety of the pilots and the safe handling of the mails will be the prime requisites. Instead of twenty-six hour eastbound, the new schedule calls for thirty-two hours and five minutes, a westbound the time will be thirty-four hours and forty-five minutes instead of twenty-nine hours. He states that it requires no prophetic vision to predict that within a few years, or perhaps months, the coast to coast flying time will be cut to twenty-four hours.

With a view to protecting the flier and safeguarding against mishap, bids for new planes with slower landing speeds deemed necessary for night landings have been advertised for, and will be open June 10th.

As previously arranged, the route has been divided into three zones, one between New York and Chicago, another between Chicago and Cheyenne and the third between Cheyenne and San Francisco. The rate will be 8c for the first zone, 16c for the second, and 24c for the third. The prevailing air mail stamp will be used for the purpose, but postage does not necessarily be prepaid by those special stamps—any current postage stamp may be used. Letters originating at, or destined to, points off the air mail route will not require extra postage. For instance, a letter mailed in New York addressed to St. Paul, Minnesota, with 8c postage will travel by plane to Chicago, where it will be taken by train to destination. Such a letter leaving New York at 10.30 in the morning should reach St. Paul, by 7.30, the following morning. Any class of mail including Parcel Post packages may be sent by

The World's Market For Postage Stamps

By reason of its position, London is the best centre for the disposal of postage stamps, for it is in the closest possible touch with buyers all over Europe. We are buyers of specialised collections. rarities and, in fact, anything fine in stamps, and WE PAY CASH TO ANY AMOUNT FOR WHAT WE WANT.

During one week recently, our purchases of important lots and collections totalled over $30,000,—a figure we are quite prepared to improve upon if you have anything of interest to offer.

91 STRAND, LONDON, ENGLAND

They must be paid for at the regular air mail postage rates. We are told that experience only will show them if the fixed rate of postage will pay for the service. If not, we will possibly have more air mail stamps.

Special air mail letter boxes are being installed in the larger cities along the route with a view to expediting the handling of mail designed for transportation by air. It must be remembered that the existing daylight transcontinental air mail service, which has been functioning for the past six years is only an advancing service; that is, it advances from the terminal point to another, mail deposited after the departure of planes, and operates as an auxiliary to the regular schedules of the established railway mail routes.

I see that the Washington papers of May 1st carry a clipping stating that a Massachusetts Congressman has introduced a bill in Congress authorizing the postmaster-general to make Boston the eastern terminus of this service instead of New York. Whether the bill passes the Senate and is finally approved by the President will be announced later.

While speaking of the air mail service and of the special stamps issued for the purpose, I note that in the last edition of the Collectors Club Philatelist that Mr. Lindquist in a most interesting article on the subject states that the 24c was placed on sale in Washington on August 1, 1923, but that a special concession was made to Mr. E. C. Worden, who received a supply late in the evening of August 21st. This is an error, for the variety was placed on sale to everyone on the afternoon of August 21st. This is one point on which we certainly offer our most sincere congratulations to the Third Assistant Postmaster-General and his late Superintendent, Division of Stamps, for they play no favorites, and no one is given any stamps previous to the time when they are on sale to everyone.

BRITISH SOLOMON ISLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise of the 3d mariner on script watermarked paper.

EGYPT.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that the 200m purple, in the King Fuad type, has been placed on sale.

ECUADOR.—We are indebted to Br. R. Ridgway for the sight of the 10c issue overprinted with an aeroplane black or red. This overprint was applied in connection with a flight between Ito and Itbara, but it is not yet known whether it was of a fully official character.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular.

FIUME.—It appears there were two separate sets of commemoratives to mark the recent annexation of Fiume to Italy, one being as chronicled in our issue for March 15th and the other comprising the same values (5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, 30c, 50c, 60c, 1l, 2l, 3l and 5l) overprinted with an ornamental rectangular device surmounted by the Arms of Savoy and containing the words "AN-NESSIONE ALL' ITALIA," with the date, "22 Febb. 1924," below.

The 60c red and bistre and 2l blue and bistre Express Delivery stamps have also each appeared with the two different overprints.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALY.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the 60c blue in the type of the 1920 issue.

LIBERIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the following new types of stamps evidently of a new series: 1c yellow green, 2c rose red and brown, 3c lilac and 15c yellow and blue. The 1c pictures a monument surrounded by native trees while the next value shows a native house in the centre. The 3c has the usual star while the last value shows a likeness of a hippo. Our correspondent also sends three values with the surcharge "O" and "S," one on the left side of the stamp and the other on the right. The values thus overprinted are the 1c, 2c and 10c.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.—The following new items have been issued for use in this British colony: 9d sage green of Great Britain surcharged "75 Centimes" at the base with the name of the colony at the top; the 2s6d, of the Bradbury Wilkinson printing for use as "3 Francs" and the same name at the top as the 9d. All overprints are in black. Mr. R. Roberts submits the two values for chronicle.

MOZAMBIQUE.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. send us the following new values in seven of the pictorial types Perf. 14, of 1919, viz.:—3 centavos yellow-brown and black (Maize), 4 1/2 centavos grey and black (Labour), 7 centavos ultramarine and black (Beira Railway), 12 centavos brown and black (Cotton), 60 centavos carmine and brown (Cattle), 80 centavos ultramarine and brown (Sisal), 2 escudos rose and purple (Port of Beira).—Stamp Collecting.

RHODESIA.—From a cutting kindly sent by a reader, we learn that the new issue for Southern Rhodesia is to appear on April 1st. The colours will be as for the current issue of Rhodesia, except that the 3d will be deep blue. A 1s 6d stamp in buff will be added to the series, chiefly for use on telegrams. A more ample description, sent by Mr. J. M. Greenfield, states that the design will not be altered, except as regards the wording.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular.

PORTUGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 20c in green and the 40c in violet brown color.

SAN MARINO.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the new 25c special delivery stamp with the surcharge "Cent. 60" in black.

SPAIN.—Br.-Gen. Ridgway informs us that the 30c green, with overprint "CORREO AEREO," has been prepared for use, but was not issued.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular.

—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of the 2c olive green in the design of the 1922-23 issue.

TANGIER.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 2fr orange and pale blue and the 5fr blue and buff stamps of French Morocco with the surcharge "Tanger" in black across the centre of the stamp.

PAPUA

The cannibal and the head-hunter still roam the interior of this fascinating country. Much of it is unexplored.

Its stamps are as picturesque as its natives. No other page in your album will attract as much attention as a well filled page of Papua stamps gay in their colors and unique in design.

Scott's prices have advanced moderately during the past few years. Higher figures are in order. Buy now before the advances.

WEBER LOSES STAMP COLLECTION IN FIRE

Stamp collections representing the work of 40 years and with an estimate value of $100,000 were lost by Adolph Weber when his home at 1515 Euclid avenue, burned to the ground. The Webers had less than five minutes in which to leave the place and saved only a few clothes. Besides the stamp collections Mr. Weber lost genealogical records which he had collected on a recent trip to Europe.

Upon his return to Berkeley he brought 500 certified copies of family records as well as the data to augment the records. A valuable library was also consumed at the Weber home.

The stamp collections of Mr. Weber was the finest in the west.

Suppose Your Collection Should Burn?

Your stamp collection represents years of patient work and a great deal of money. You probably have specimens in it that you could not replace.

Would it be destroyed if your home burned tonight?

Where are your keepsakes, mementos, photographs and many other valuables that money could not replace? If you do not know they are safe send for the folder "SAFE-CABINET protection for Home Valuables."

B. GOULD'S NOTABLE BIRTHDAY.

On Feb. 29, Walter B. Gould, Bangor, celebrated his eighteenth birthday anniversary and on that date he was 76 years old. Yes, these figures are correct. 1900, had just 365 days. Mr. Gould was born on Feb. 29, 1848, and has been a collector since early youth. For the thirty years he has been a collector and dealer of coins and stamps with a large number of acquaintances. Celebrating this anniversary, he received scores of birthday congratulatory letters from all parts of this country: from British North America, the West Indies and Hawaii; postmark date, February 29, 1924. Among the birthday letters thus received, are several of much interest, and one that is particularly notable. This cover was made up on an 8c, 10c Columbian envelope, large size, this was affixed 24 United States stamps: each one the lowest denomination of each and every regular issue in the 5c "Franklin Head" of 1847, to the 1c "Franklin Head" of 1923:—the cent issue;—the commemoratives.

The years of stamp lore thus represented, are almost exactly coincident with the span of Mr. Gould's life from mint-date—1847-1924. Is it possible among our members or readers Mr. Gould may have a twin or a near twin? This cover also shows the displacement of the "Franklin Head" by the Washington Profile" on our 1c stamp in 1912 to 1922. And the sender of the cover asks, how this lapse occurred—a return to the "Franklin Head" on 1c, of 1922. Did the department forget our history and custom? Why ten's oblivion for "Benjamin"?

A friend of Mr. Gould's tried to obtain permission to photo and publish the cover envelopes, the Dept. ruled it could not be permitted, but the printing of facsimile foreign stamps would, so send a photo of a few of these, some which were not received until the 1st of April, but all postmarked Feb. 29, 1924. Mr. Gould is very proud of his remarkable anniversary collection, comprising hundreds of letters and postcards, many of them from foreign lands, all bearing the postmark, Feb. 29, and considers the senders of these some messages as his dear friends. cannot find words strong enough to thank them all and to express his grateful appreciation of these, his most valued keepsakes. If there is another collector who was born Feb. 29, 1848, Mr. Gould would be pleased to know it.

NOTE.—A large photo of the covers referred to, was sent us for inspection, as a fine feature but so large as to render it inadvisable to reproduce in WEEKLY.—W. O. W.)

STAMP QUESTIONNAIRE.

A stamp exhibition was held in the Pease Memorial Library Ridgewood, N. J., on April 24-26. In connection with the exhibition a prize contest was held. Seventy-five questions concerning stamps were printed in the Ridgewood Herald of March 27, and we reproduce the list below for the benefit of our readers. Two Ridgewood boys, Charles Allen and Ruland Anderson, made respectively 100% and 95% in answering thirty of the questions. Both of these boys were awarded yearly subscriptions to the WEEKLY as prizes. If our subscribers are sufficiently interested to warrant it we shall be willing to supplement this article with a list of the correct answers.

1. What United States stamp shows the flags of the Allies?
2. On the stamps of what two countries is a Sower of Grain shown?
3. How are perforations measured?
4. What country shows a set of stamps with four generations of the same family?
5. What are water marks and how made in stamps?
6. What do the watermarks C. C. and C. A. mean?
7. Describe four kinds of paper on which stamps are printed?
8. Name three countries showing stamps with soldiers in the World War in action?
9. What country shows a set of stamps with heads of musicians?
10. On what stamp is a train shown coming out of a tunnel?
11. What country shows a stamp with three kings of the country on one stamp?
12. What countries other than the United States have issued precancelled stamps?
13. Why are the stamps of the United State not illustrated in the catalogue?

A MORGENTHAU SALE.

(N. Y. "Times" clipping from B. B. Hyde.)
Interest in the early issues of British Colonial stamps was shown last week by the spirited bidding at the auction sale of the collection formed by the late Webb Floyd of this city. The sale was held at the Collectors Club, 120 West Forty-ninth Street, by J. C. Morgenthau & Co., with Walter S. Scott as the auctioneer. For two of the first issues of Nova Scotia $205 apiece was paid. The stamps were of the 1-shilling value, unused, issued in 1851. One was red violet and the other of the slightly scarce dull violet color. The 6-penny stamp of the same issue, also unused, brought $51.50, close to the standard catalogue valuation.

There were some early Mauritius stamps of the 1848 issue which seldom appear in the auction room. They were in average condition and $71 was paid for the 1-penny copy on bluish paper, an early impression. An intermediate impression of the same value sold for $69 and the 2-penny stamp of the same year brought $65. All were lightly cancelled. For a good 2-penny copy of the 1859 issue, $31 was paid.

Good prices were paid for all of the early St. Vincent, New Brunswick, New South Wales and New Zealand stamps. For the 5 shilling, St. Vincent, 1880, unused, $77 was paid, and a fine unused pair of the half-penny on half of the 6-penny, 1880 issue, sold for $27.

The feature of the New Brunswick stamps was an unused copy of the famous 5-cent O'Connell stamp issued in 1860. It was never put into circulation, as orders were issued to destroy all the copies when it was ascertained by the authorities that the postmaster, O'Connell, had placed his portrait instead of royalty on the stamp. Despite the fact that this rarity was slightly defective, it brought $70. For a good copy of the regular first New Brunswick issue, 1 shilling, 1851, $60 was paid, and a lightly cancelled copy of the 6-penny stamp of the same issue sold for $36.

Fair prices were obtained for several of the first New South Wales issues, with the interesting Sydney views. For the 1-penny, 1850, on bluish paper, $36.50 was paid and $23.50 for a 2-penny copy in which the pick and shovel of the main design were omitted. Of the New Zealand, 1855 issue, the 2-penny, blue on bluish paper, sold for $31 and $41 was paid for the 1-shilling, lightly canceled, of the same issue. A good copy of the 2-penny, 1862, on pelure paper, sold for $26 and the same price was paid for the 3-penny in the brilliant violet shade.

A fine unused pair of the first stamp issued for St. Helena, 6-penny, blue sold for $38.50, slightly over the catalogue value for two individual stamps, and for the first Queensland stamp, 1-penny, 1860, used, $33 was paid. A fine

ASSAU STAMP CO.
16 Nassau St. New York, N. Y.

THE PHILATELIC INSTRUCTOR.

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph. D., Wayne, Pa.

(This is the first of a series of brief "talks," expressed in simple language but comprehensively dealing with all the angles of the universal hobby. The purpose of these articles is to provide material for both formal and informal discussion of Philately in clubs, social-gathering centres, lectures halls, educational circles, etc. Readers are invited to send in constructive criticisms. We are pleased to introduce Dr. Botelho to our readers.—W. O. W.)

CHAPTER I.

By Way of Introduction.

The average woman cannot understand why any sane man should pay such fabulous prices for single specimens of postage stamps. To her stamp collecting is classifiable as a sort of more or less expensive pastime suitable for peopless children and elderly shut-ins. She may even think it a desirable vehicle for keeping youngsters indoors on inclement days or for holding friend husband home at night.

But the ignorant person is often also a trousered specimen of the human race. There are many men who cannot, for the life of them, see why the Prince of Wales, subsequently Edward VII, should have parted with a veritable fortune for a tiny bit of paper catalogued as the rare Mauritius. When told about the valuable Hawaiian issues, they are apt to open their eyes in real wonder that such things could be mentioned by normal adults with intelligent-looking faces. Recently the news cables reported the large sums brought down by the auctioneer's hammer in the sale in Paris of Ferrary's collection of postage stamps. It is more than likely that many a good wife and mother threw up her hands and bewailed the folly and extravagance of the "idle rich."

Yet the same lady will eagerly shop at the stores and calmly give up a couple of hundred dollars for a strand of synthetic (to avoid using a less euphonious adjective) pearls, worth intrinsically perhaps only a fraction of the price. And, what is worse, her strand (let us call it, necklace) probably looked pretty, in her fancy, but in the course of time becomes less attractive, and presently worth nothing—either intrinsically or sentimentally.

But with stamps, the situation is just the contrary. Every stamp that is a genuine postal issue has an intrinsic value, however small. The price of a stamp is based on sound commercial bases. The par value is the price of issue, namely the actual value of the stamp for postal uses at the time of its currency. Then follows the divisions of "commons," "obsoletes," "errors," "specials," "scarce," "rares," etc.

No doubt there have been, and will always be, questionable methods used among postal departments, postmasters, stamp-dealers, and others interested, towards putting out unnecessary issues, or manipulating circulation, or faking catalogue (i.e., sales list) value. But those are tricks—and it is chiefly to guide the unwary or uninformed that the present series of "talks" is being published. Therefore, concerning those phases of the hobby, more anon.

Briefly, it may be stated without fear of contradiction that because stamp collecting is a universal hobby—engaged in by all peoples in every country of the world—and thousands of new enthusiasts are converted monthly, every existing collection cannot help being more valuable with the passing of each year. Stamps that were common in our parents' youthful days are today rarities worth considerable money. Stamps that are now easily assembled will automatically grow rarer as the years roll by. A collection that can be, at present, gotten together for, say $100, can be guaranteed as never likely to be exactly duplicated at the same price a few years hence.

The preceding emphasizes the investment end of the hobby. But there are many other factors that are, to many people, much more important. In their proper sequence, they will be dealt with fully. Therefore, suffice it here to say that those factors include education, inspiration, cultivation of orderliness and continuity, means for agreeable surcease from routine mental effort, healthful and clean indoor recreation, opportunities for making friendships and for arousing congenial sociability.

CANCELLATIONS

Collectors are fast becoming convinced that no more interesting a collection can be formed than one of odd and colored cancellations. United States issues up to 1890 abound in them and hundreds can still be obtained at a few cents each.

I am making up a fine little starter. Each lot contains varieties from 1861 to 1890, including a "Paid", targets, odd designs, colored cancellations, numerals, letters, etc. All stamps are selected for distinct cancellations and they are carefully arranged on approval cards with the year of issue and the catalogue number under each stamp.

Independent Executive Bureau.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS OF HON. ERNEST R. ACKERMAN OF NEW JERSEY.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, THURSDAY, APRIL 3, 1924.

Mr. ACKERMAN. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, under the permission graciously given to extend my remarks on the independent executive bureau appropriation bill, I desire to call attention to the wisdom of the fact of appropriating the modest sum allowed whereby may be continued the adding of new specimens of stamps to the historic and interesting collection of stamps now available for inspection and splendidly mounted that are on view at the Smithsonian Museum.

The stamp act was one of the outstanding events in the early history of this great Republic. There were no adhesive stamps then, but the impression was placed on the parchment or paper by means of a hand hydraulic press in the same manner that seals are now affixed.
 The very thing that brought Congress together in 1765 was to remonstrate against the imposition of these new taxes, but there were no collectors then, so few of these stamped or impressed documents were then saved. However, commencing in 1840, when Great Britain, through the suggestion of Sir Rowland Hill, began the issuance of adhesive stamps, followed by Brazil, in 1843, and the United States in 1847, stamp collecting has grown by leaps and bounds in every country in the wide world.

The Post Office Department, under Will Hays, Doctor Work, and Senator New as Postmaster-Generals, have recognized the utility of stamp collecting and also the possibility, yea, the probability of that hobby bringing in additional revenue to swell the post-office receipts by the sale of stamps for use by collectors as additions to their collections and for which no carrying service is rendered by the Government. That their expectations are in a fair way of realization may be inferred by a perusal of the following letter from the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Hon. W. Irving Glover, who writes as follows:

Post Office Department
 Third Assistant Postmaster-General
 WASHINGTON, April 5, 1924.

Hon. ERNEST R. ACKERMAN, House of Representatives.
 My Dear Congressman:

I am in receipt of your favor of the 4th instant and inclose to you on a separate sheet the itinerary of the two trips of the United States philatelic exhibit and would give you the further information that the philatelic agency was established on December 6, 1921. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922 (seven months), the sales were $20,706.50, and for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1923, they amounted to $105,317.03, while for the nine-month period ended March 31, 1924, the sales were $104,316.93, and we figure that in the remaining three months we will do nearly $40,000 worth of business, bringing the sum total for this fiscal year to almost the $150,000

 mark.

If this is not all the information you were desirous of obtaining, please do not fail to call on me for that which you may have in mind.

Very sincerely yours,

W. IRVING GLOVER,

Third Assistant Postmaster General.

Last year in the city of London a great international stamp exhibition was held and at my suggestion our Post Office Department was asked to participate therein. A fine exhibit was prepared of current issues at practically no expense to the taxpayers, and Mr. Glover took it over to the exhibition, where it obtained a special medal and a ribbon of honor.
 After the exhibit was returned to this country so great had the interest in it been manifested that it was sent by registered post to the various postoffices of the country in order that many citizens could avail themselves of an opportunity of seeing the exhibit. The first trip was such a great success that the exhibit was sent on a second trip, which has not as yet been concluded.
 The itineraries were as follows:

Itinerary of the United States Philatelic Stamp Exhibit.

First Trip, 1923.

(Omitted.)

Second Trip, 1924.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 17-20.
 St. Paul, Minn., May 21-24.
 Sioux Falls, S. Dak., May 26-29.
 Madison, Wis., June 2-5.
 Milwaukee, Wis., June 6-10.
 Chicago, Ill., June 11-18.
 Washington, D. C., June 20.

So great has been the demand for Government stamped paper for use by collectors that the department has had to secure additional quarters and clerks in order to take care of the great volume of business as the current circulars will show.

(Here follows the circular sent "to patrons of the philatelic agency" from Washington, under date of April 10th, telling of the issue of the Huguenot-Walloon special issue, etc.)

Last year Congress recognized the historical, esthetical, and far-reaching educational value of the science of philately, of stamp collecting as it is called,
 by passing an act permitting the printing of illustrations of stamps, when cancelled, in regular publications, the same to be printed in black only when the subject was a foreign stamp, and when a stamp of our own country was to be illustrated only the frame thereof could be shown, and then only when made

CANCELLATIONS

After months of work we have at last completed a series of approval books covering all classes of cancellations on the stamps of the bank-note issues from 1871 to 1890. Many of these are at present quite inexpensive and fine attractive copies with cancellations of some interest may be had at from 5c to 25c each. Just ask for the particular stamp you want to work on, 1c-blues, 2c brown or vermillion, 3c green, 2c red brown, 4c Jacksions, and see what this stock has to offer.

four times the size of the original in order that there could be no possibility of counterfeiting. These concessions greatly increased the interest in the hobby as is shown by the greatly increased sales at the philatelic agency of the Post Office Department, as there are nearly a million collectors in the United States and Canada; the annual increased revenue to the government from this source alone will undoubtedly exceed a quarter of a million dollars in the near future. Such an amount would pay for all our commercial attachés in the field for the promotion of export trade or many times the amount now allowed for the promotion of domestic commerce.

Thus it can be seen that the financial and educational effect of encouraging this clean, upbuilding, instructive hobby has a worth far greater than is perceptible at first.

All classes and ages, from the lowliest and youngest to the most influential and the oldest, and also both sexes become devotees of this fascinating pursuit, which has no deleterious effects and which if pursued along proper lines is not only a source of pleasure but may become of substantial profit in the event that the hobby for any reason is abandoned. Governments could not do better than to assist in such a meritorious pursuit as this one.

An article in Evens Weekly Stamp News, which has published over 1,000 numbers gives the number of collectors on the globe at 2,930,000, and the number of collectors annually buying one or more catalogues at 250,000.

Another authority gives the number of collectors in the respective countries as follows:

Germany,	440,000
Austria-Hungary,	110,000
Great Britain,	363,000
Russia, Scandinavia, Spain,
Portugal, Italy, Balkan States,	60,000
France, Belgium, Netherlands,
Switzerland, Luxemburg,	300,000
United States and Canada,	1,000,000
Mexico, Central and South America,	20,000
Africa and Australia,	10,000
Asia,	20,000

Total for the globe, 2,323,000

These figures are believed to be substantially accurate. In any event they indicate the growing popularity of philately, which has far outstripped that of numismatics, or coin collecting, which for centuries has been looked upon as well worthy of high consideration, not only by all civilized governments, but by the most distinguished savants and literati. Our own Government at the Smithsonian Institution maintains a curator and publishes a list of the stamps of the United States issued up to 1920, and by reason of this legislation the pages of the catalogue may in the future be embellished with illustrations, thus increasing its usefulness to the average collector.

The long line of literature which has been issued touching upon philately in later years has been added to by the issuance of a "Who's Who," wherein may be found the names of celebrities from the rulers of the greatest nations, princes of royal blood to statesmen, admirals, generals, actors, foresters, singers and philosophers in all parts of the globe. Even schools are advocating classes in the science. All these classes have recognized the intellectual value of this hobby. Its far reaching educational value is accompanied by a charm of persistence which grips the enthusiast by a devotion that never can be totally eliminated.

—From the Congressional Record—Appendix of April 21, 1924, pages 7093 to 7096.

DIPLOMA OF MERIT FOR STAMP MAP.

C. Lat. Wilhelm, chairman of the Philatelic Section, Maryland Academy of Sciences, Baltimore, Md., sends us the following information concerning the spring exhibit held April 26:—

For an exhibit that was characterized as "a unique application of philately in the study of geography, especially applicable to education of the young children," J. W. Saybolt, a member of The Philatelic Section of The Maryland Academy of Sciences, Baltimore, Md., was given The Diploma of Merit of The Academy, at the spring exhibit of The Academy, held April 26, at The Academy Building.

The exhibit that won the Diploma for Mr. Saybolt, was a stamp-map, eight by ten feet. It was made of 16 panels, each 19 by 24 inches, and can be taken down and put together. Around the map is a 6 inch gold frame. The stamps are placed against a black background, the material used being something like that of blackboards. Each country (the map being that of South America) was outlined in stamps of the respective country; the Amazon River was outlined in the stamps of each country through which it passes. In the upper right hand corner is the Panama Canal Zone in enlarged scale. About 1,300 stamps were used; the amount of time required may be known when it is stated that outlining Brazil alone occupied 4 hours and 20 minutes. The map was made on a scale from a large wall-map of South America. It is expected to show the exhibit in a number of public places and afternoons will be set for school children to see it.

At the same exhibit, F. R. Vernon Williams, who showed inverts of 1869, and the Bank Note issues of the United States, 1870-1882, was given a Certificate of Merit of The Academy for the most Meritorious Exhibit; Charles Dudley Wiegand also a Certificate for the exhibit giving the most information, plating of the 1d red, 1864, of Great Britain; and J. E. McCarter, an award by the Philatelic Section for the best arranged exhibit, that of British Colonials.

EARLY BRITISH COLONIALS

I am dispersing two large collections, strong in the early types and all stamps in fine condition. Prices average MORE THAN HALF CATALOGUE.

Also in stock a choice lot of EDWARDIAN & GEORGIAN, both MINT and SUPERB USED. These are mostly priced at half catalogue.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

A SCHOOL STAMP CONTEST.

By STEPHEN G. RICH,
Union Hill High School, Weehawken,
N. J.

During the fall term of school in 1923,
as principal at that time, I encouraged by various means the pupils in the Essex Fells Public School, Essex Fells, N. J., in their interest in stamp collecting. Just after Thanksgiving, in order to make a genuine sport of stamp collecting during the winter, I announced that I would give a prize of a complete set of all the stamps of the Union of South Africa for which there are spaces in the International Junior Album, and a few odd Africans in addition, as first prize for the best collection of any one country that any pupil in the school would show me by Christmas. A second prize in the form of ten Transvaal stamps was also offered. I went to each classroom and explained the contest. I explained that the competitors might take any country they wished, except United States; that the collections would be judged by me on the morning before we broke up for Christmas; showed the prizes and announced that they would be given out at the Christmas closing exercises; and explained that the care with which the collection was arranged, the completeness compared to the number of stamps of the country, and the good looks of the mounting, would all count in deciding who won the prize.

Within the next few days a number of pupils, who wanted to try for the prize, came to me to ask what country to take.
I would not tell them what country; but showed them, with the catalogue, how various countries were comparatively easy to collect, and others difficult. I did, however, guide them away from countries that had large numbers of stamps, so that the difficulty of getting many different sets of stamps and odd stamps should not discourage the competitors. I also guided them towards the countries which required little expenditure of money to make a good showing. But in every case I mentioned to the competitor four to six possibilities.

During the contest, I reminded the classes in which there were any competitors, and the whole school in assembly, of the competition—several times. The interest grew; and towards the end I was asked dozens of questions as to how they should mount their collections.
These questions I refused to answer beyond telling the askers to make the collection as good-looking and as interesting to look at as they could.

The day before the judging, the collections began to come in. In all, out of the 144 pupils of the school, ranging

Huize Vondel, Bus 599, Amsterdam (Holland)

from Grades 1 to 8, 9 submitted collections. All save one of these were in the 5th grade and above; as there were only 47 pupils in these upper grades all, this is a very good showing.

In judging the collections, I purposely and openly ignored any knowledge I had or inference I made as to pupils being helped by parents, brothers or friends. This worked exceedingly well for the two prizes were carried off by pupils who had, as I later found out, inquiry, done all the arranging themselves. Curiously enough, this ability win the prizes unaided went with intelligence and ability in school work.
The first-prize winner and second-prize winner had the two highest mental in intelligence testing done in September of any pupils in the school. In the winner of the second prize, it was to have been skipped two grades in second year of high school, to a school work anywhere nearly up to ability; but his parents were afraid "might strain his mind" and a reading school board opposed any rapid advancement of bright pupils.

In judging the collections, I devised a point-system of scoring. I gave points to each of the following qualities of the collection: completeness (proportion of the total number of stamps issued by a country that were present range (extent to which the whole atelic history of the country was represented); arrangement (that is, classification into issues, good grouping) and mounting (care in mounting and arrangement of the issues to form a pleasant-appearing and neat page) went through the collections four times once for each of the qualities, arranging the collections in order, giving points to the best one, one or two to the worst, and apportioning points to the others as I decided they deserved.
The total number of points determined the rank of the collection. When this was done, I found that I had two collections tied for first place; accordingly I re-judged them for mounting, on a point scale. One collection, handsomely only partly mounted, and with the remaining stamps in envelopes, I gave zero score on this grading.

The table of scoring, as I worked it

The winning collection, that of H. A., is almost ideal as a boy's collection of one country. It had all the stamps that could reasonably be expected without spending a large amount of money; the mounting was neatly lettered, space neatly given, and arranged without crowding. In the opinion of a fond father who spent some twenty-five dollars on stamps and bought Ne Plus Ultra sheets for mounting them, the boy D. R. was not able to carry off the prize against either H. or A. S. Only one girl submitted a collection.

The prizes were given out in the district assembly, in the presence of a number of admiring parents. The names of the winners had been kept a secret, even from the winners themselves, until they were called up to get their prizes. A consolation prize, of five African stamps, each from a different country, was given to each of the competitors. The consolation prizes were exactly the same.

NOT CORROBORATED AS YET.

We clip this from a Cleveland daily paper to await further developments. Note especially that Beaujeu opened "the first stamp store on Broadway."—W. O. W.)

(By Plain Dealer Wire.)

DAYTONA, FLA.—M. De Beaujeu, a visitor here from Windham, Greene County, New York, attracted considerable attention the other day when he showed a rare postage stamp to a Palm Beach man for the sum of $18,000. Beaujeu is a dealer in rare postage stamps of a generally ancient vintage. The one which he said brought him $18,000 was known as a Hawaiian "missionary," of 1851, which, he said, he purchased two years ago at a sale of the Ferrary collection conducted by the French government. He bought the stamp for $14,510, he said. This deal brought him little profit, however, Beaujeu said, because of the insurance necessary against fire and theft and also because of the rare stamp.

Among the more costly stamps which he now has in his possession are two of the "de la Reunion," French possession in Africa, which are said to be valued at $1,200 each. He also has a banking insurance stamp of the United States, which he termed as "inexpensive," value being only $150.

Beaujeu said he has just received a letter from France for an old print of a stamp of great value.

Beaujeu is a member of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Montreal. He said he was the first philatelist to establish an office on Broadway, New York, which he closed when he retired from active business.

COUNTERFEITS.

By EUGENE KLEIN.

It was to be expected that some of the more difficult to obtain stamps of Russia would be forged. Our expectations have not been in vain. The latest is the rare 1917 issue 10k dark blue, imperforate. This is a poorly lithographed stamp on thin, hard wove paper without varnish lozenges. The design is not nearly as clear as that in the original. This forgery emanates from Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Forgeries have also arrived of the Volga Charity stamps of the 1921 issue, Scott's Nos. 315 and 316, on very thin paper. These are poorly lithographed and can easily be told by comparison with the originals which are nicely printed. In the originals the left gable of the roof in the lower right corner of the stamp has a thin outline which is missing in the forgeries. These forgeries have been offered from Italy.

It will be well to note that the bogus Odessa hunger stamps which flooded this country about two years ago also came from Italy.

Attention is also called to dangerous forgeries of Belgium, 1915, Parcel Post which are being offered. The surcharges of the forgeries consist of letters 1.4 millimeters high against 1 millimeter in the originals. The rim of the wheel is narrower than in the original, also the spokes are differently arranged. In the originals the spokes appear level with the wheel, whereas in the forgeries the spokes seem to curve outward.

There are four feathers in each wing at the side of the wheel and several curves denoting down. In the forgeries the down is completely missing, but there are six well defined feathers on each side.

N. Y. STAMP SOCIETY CELEBRATES.

The New York Stamp Society celebrated its 20th anniversary, May 1st, by a dinner, at the Café Boulevard. Sixty-one were present, among those prominent in Philately were the following: C. J. Phillips, J. C. Morgenthau, E. Klein, J. M. Bartels, Dr. J. B. Chittendon, J. A. Klemann, T. Steinway, J. B. Powers, P. J. McG. Mann, B. Schlesinger, Dr. L. Hartley, Jos. Hoffman and N. R. Hoover. John Klemann made an efficient Toastmaster.

Addresses were made by the following: C. J. Phillips, J. C. Morgenthau, J. M. Bartels, Dr. J. B. Chittendon, Dr. L. Hartley (Pres.), J. B. Powers (Radio) and M. Healey. Prof. M. Lowy entertained with some wonderful card tricks and Dr. L. Hartley with magic.

Eugene, the first secretary of the society, gave an interesting address. He said in part:—

"Twenty years ago a half dozen stamp collectors met in the back room of a restaurant on Lexington Ave., near 59th street, and founded the New York Stamp Society. Meetings were held regularly twice a month and new members added steadily. These met to exchange their duplicates and their various stamp experiences. Soon auctions and competitive exhibitions were introduced which became very popular and brought more members. There were with us many through whose enthusiasm our society

Wholesale Approval Department"A Business Builder Service"

No dealer can develop his business to the utmost unless continually adding new stamps to his stock. Failure to be constantly alert in this respect will mean stagnation, loss of sales, and ultimate failure.

Our WHOLESALE APPROVAL DEPARTMENT, recently reorganized and now in charge of a philatelist with over twenty years actual experience in the stamp business, is solving for scores of dealers the perplexing problem of "What to Buy" and "Where to Buy It."

Through this Department goes the cream of our wholesale stock—the most attractive and popular sets, the best of medium grade, single stamps (cataloguing from 5c to $1 each), all of the novelties and new issues, special collections and accumulations, etc., etc.

Our files are filled with testimonials from scores of pleased dealers—all unanimous in the opinion that our Wholesale Approval Service has contributed mightily towards their progress and success.

A trial selection may be inspected, without obligation to you, by simply filling in the attached form. If for no other reason than to satisfy your curiosity send in your request TODAY!

Gentlemen:—You may send me, with no obligation on my part to make purchases, a selection of stamps at wholesale, on ten days' approval. I have put a check mark (v) opposite the classes of stamps in which I am interested:

- (1) General selections of the popular, medium-priced sets and single stamps in quantities of 5 or 10 of a kind. This includes new issues, novelties, etc., as they appear.
- (2) General selections of the cheaper picture sets and single stamps in quantities of 50 or 100 of a kind.
- (3) General selections of the higher priced sets in smaller quantities.
- (4) Special collections, accumulations, job lots, etc. (value $25 to $100), which you consider of unusual value and are willing to turn, for quick sale, on a small margin of profit.
- (5) I am interested in the following:

I agree to make returns promptly within the specified time, and am submitting the usual commercial references.

Yours very truly,

grew. With pleasure do I recall those early meetings attended by our first and, shall I say, permanent treasurer, Baldwin Schlesinger; Dr. H. B. Heath who conducted the auctions; our first secretary, myself; Miss E. L. Cook, who was a constant attendant; Wm. E. Haack, the specialist in German Colonies, whom I met in Germany last Summer; Theo. E. Steinway, and P. F. Bruner the classic collectors; the inimitable professor M. Lowy who many times entertained and puzzled us with his card tricks; Vahan Mozian, F. A. Raymond, F. Engel, E. Penschow, G. Schroeder, Dr. Lowitt and others.

When many were made homeless by the San Francisco disaster needy stamp collectors were helped by the New York Stamp Society from the proceeds of an auction sale to which collectors and dealers made their contributions.

The New York Stamp Society took the most prominent part in entertaining some 500 visitors to the International Philatelic Exhibition in 1913, by a supper.

We have cause to be proud of the past of the New York Stamp Society. Seeing you assembled here tonight with good will and enthusiasm in your faces, we may confidently look forward to a glorious future.

Before closing, I want to mention those of our members who are no longer among the living. Let us rise in silent tribute to our sadly missed friends while I read their names:—Julius Levy our first President, G. Antonichs, C. B. Bostwick, H. Grossman, L. Harris, Charles Jankovich, Charles Lehman, H. Lutz, C. J. Morris, L. Phillip, Paul Stypman, F. M. Thomas, A. M. Trujillo, George B. Tuttle, F. J. Wilford and Bruno Wolfram."

EDITORIAL.

From an officer in the War Department we have received the following information pertinent to the design of the five cent of the new commemorative stamps, which is interesting and authoritative. Congress passed an act directing the War Department to sell all surplus real estate. Among other pieces that came under this category was a 140 acre tract on what is known as St. John's Bluff, a high point on the St. John's River, about twenty-five miles below Jacksonville, Florida. The Florida Historical Society, in investigating the early history of Florida discovered that this point of land was the site of the settlement, by Ribaut, of the first protestant community (Huguenots) to arrive in America. The members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, appreciating the historical significance of the spot besought permission that was granted to erect a marker on the ground, the design of which is the same as that of the original marker. An old Spanish history contained a wood-cut of the first memorial and the monument shown on the five cent stamp is copied from the picture in the early Spanish work. The nearest town to the site is Mayport, named after the May River, as St. John's River was called at first. We are told that a souvenir in the shape of a book telling of the history of the spot has been prepared by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In the issue of May 12th, we referred to a Livingston, Alabama, local that had come into the hands of Mr. E. B.
Cooper, from a correspondent; and the story of the stamp was such as to give it a clean bill of health. Alas, that imagination should gallop and judgment go at a foot-pace, but the truth is that the stamp which had the appearance of modest virtue has now been branded as a deceiver. The collector to whom Mr.
Cooper sent the stamp says that it is a counterfeit, but he cheerfully adds that Mr. Cooper will have better luck next time, no doubt. There must be a flaw in the abstract of title to the stamp that time will not cure.

the appropriation made for the expenses of the maintenance of the national collection at the Smithsonian Institution, Mr. Ackerman did not neglect the opportunity, we are glad to say, of praising philately. After speaking of the inception of philately and following it down to its present flourishing condition, Mr.
Ackerman attempts to give a philatelic census based on figures supplied by Ewen's Weekly Stamp News and the flattering total of 2,323,000 is arrived at, the world over. While it is said that these figures are "substantially accurate," we shall not comment upon them except to say that they do not err on the side of under-statement. However, to have so interesting an article spread upon the pages of the Congressional Record is what gives us a little catch of the breath, and the thought that it is well to have philatelists of spirit in high places who are proud to acknowledge the thrill of stamp collecting is a comforting one. It is through addresses of this kind by leaders in the political, business and scholastic worlds, to make the list a short one, that what may be called the morale of stamp collecting is strengthened in public estimation. It is good that there is so keen a philatelist in congress as Mr.
Ackerman who works for the preferment of philately, when a legitimate opportunity offers. We know that his friends are gratified that he so pertinently and plausibly presents philately in its true and proper guise.

Some weeks ago, we cooed a bit about how thrilling it would be if, say about one out of every ten of our present nine thousand subscribers would send in a new subscription, thereby giving us the unbelievable record of ten thousand paid-up patrons. We did so, without prejudice, as it were and with about as much hope of inspiring readers to action as we have of finding a ninety cent, '69, on cover in a back-country attic somewhere. Things went wrong again and perversity triumphs. A sufficient number of subscribers to make up the "large number" quota, of the newspapers, actually heeded our call and sent in subscriptions. It looks as though we shall get within reach of a hundredth of a million circulation by the time of the summer solstice; and when the ne plus ultra of ten thousand readers is attained, we shall take a day off and go to the circus. Speaking of circuses, we are reminded of peanuts; and not so long ago, one of the old boys wrote to ask if we knew that one of the big-wigs of philately today once ran a peanut stand.

We certainly did and we know that as chauffeur of the whistling goober chariot, he was in a class by himself; and consequently, he has something to boast about in telling the story of his life.

* * *

One of the editors of the American Mercury tells in the April number of numerous letters that he has received in condemnation of allegedly unfair statements made by him concerning osteopathy in a recent number. We are not involving ourselves in the controversy, but we are interested in hearing the editor say that the osteopaths, and he mentions the Christian Scientists in this connection, as well, have one of the most impressive press agencies that could be imagined. He says that claims in rebuttal are so cleverly presented and so much pressure is brought to bear in apparent and devious ways, as well, that the episode ends usually by a recantation, actual or tacit.
We steer clear of the question itself but attention is called to the methods employed that could well be copied by philatelists. There is no question but that collecting has now attained a plane of respectability that is such as to justify philatelists to speak out in meeting.
They could bring arguments to bear to contradict what are unwarranted aggres-sions on stamp collecting by persons who have no understanding of the subject in any way. Good judgment is necessary in defending our pursuit and we must discriminate between what may be called legitimate humor that is poked at philatelists and malicious intention as if there is an element that will appeal to those to whom we wish to present our case properly, it is a sense of humor. Every written attack on stamp collecting should be repelled by a well-mannered counter charge; and all collectors should make it their business to be a member of the committee on defense.

lated interest in a public sense in stamp and collectors are being made by th-attention that is being given the stamps.
The comment in the newspapers is such as to draw the attention of the man othe street to the stamps and when the are mentioned in connection with philately, the association of ideas in hi-mind may result in the making of a new collector. Many a man sees stamps and is somewhat taken with them, but th-idea of becoming a collector does not seem to enter his thoughts. When the impression is conveyed to him that he shoulcollect, it sometimes follows that he becomes impressed by the suggestion and begins to collect. We have no illusion-that every new collector will continu-one for a great length of time and thamany of them will get over the probationary period yet a law of average wil-prevail and out of every so many peopl-who start, there is one that becomes a permanent collector. We have received a number of interesting communications on the subject of creating a wider general interest in stamps and while we may have already covered their suggestions in the past, it is just as well to keep everlastingly at the subject, if collecting is to expand as it deserves to.

There seems to be a large number of collectors who feel that it costs lots of money to collect these popular stamps MINT. In order to show you what can be done for $1.02, we have selected 18 fine varieties from our large stock. These 18 vars. catalog about $3.00. Truly, we don't know of any dealer who dares offer NEWFOUNDLAND at ONE-THIRD Catalog! The offer is even more astounding when we add that these 18 vars. IN BLOCKS OF FOUR COST ONLY $4.08!

The wholesale price of these stamps is very close to $1.00 and our retail price—stamp by stamp—$1.60. Don't confuse these with packets of unused stamps. Every stamp in this lot has full original gum. 18 vars., $1.02.

To give this a "M. C." name, we might call it THE MINT COD! We can't guarantee the portraits of any codfish, but we can guarantee the right flavor.

NINTH FERRARI SALE IN PARIS.

The ninth auction sale at the Hotel Drouot of the famous collection of M. Ferrari de la Renotiére, which took place on the 9th, 10th and 11th April, attracted considerable public attention, and a large number of French and foreign dealers and amateurs were present each day. This celebrated collection was, it may be recalled, sequestered by order of the Government. An admirably illustrated catalogue had been prepared under the supervision of M. Gilbert; and, as was generally expected, some big prices were realised.

FIRST DAY.

A lot of 78 stamped Baden envelopes, 1st issue, large size, 6, 9, 12 and 18k; small size, 3, 6, 9, 12 and 18k; 2nd and 3rd issues, large size, 3, 6 and 9k; small size, 3, 6 and 9k; and Reprints, large size, 12 and 18k; small size, 3, 6, 9, 12 and 18k, fell to M. Friedland for 7,400 frs.; and a somewhat similar lot of 73 pieces fell to M. Siegel for 7,000 frs. The bidding for these two lots started at 1,500 and 2,000 frs. respectively.

Two Barbados, 1870, unused surcharged 1d on the Five Shillings pink, a pair, with two different types used for the surcharge, started at 3,000 frs., and after spirited bidding fell to M. Champion for 10,500 frs.

A Sicily, 1858, 1g red-brown, a very fine specimen, the head entirely re-touched, mint and excessively rare, was run up from 10,000 to 20,000 frs., at which latter figure it was bought by Mr. Griebert.

The same price (20,000 frs) was secured for a Niger Coast (unused) surcharged 20sh on 15h green, the surcharge in vermilion, for which the bidding opened at 7,000 frs.

These were the outstanding prices on the 9th; but among other interesting items of that afternoon were the following:—Great Britain, 1867, One Pound, violet, unused, a very fine specimen, 4,900 frs. (M. Champion). Another specimen of the same 3,000 frs. (M. Burrus). Great Britain, 1867-82, One Pound, violet, unused, 5,400 frs. (Mr. Johnson).

Another specimen of the same, 6,500 frs. (M. Burrus). Great Britain, 1867-82, Ten Shillings, grey, Anchor watermark, unused, 5,300 frs. (M. Burrus). Great Britain, 1867-82, One Pound, azure paper, denomination in violet, a very fine specimen, 5,300 frs. (Mr. Griebert). Great Britain, 1867-82, azure paper, £5 orange, 8,800 frs. (M. Champion). Great Britain, white paper, 9d bistre, hair lines in corners, extremely rare, a fine specimen, unused, 8,600 frs. (Mr. Griebert). Great Britain, 1867-82, Ten Shillings, grey, on azure paper, unused, 5,300 frs. (M. Burrus). Barbados, 1870, surcharged 1d on 5sh pink, a pair, unused, 6,800 frs. (Mr. Nissen). Sicily, 1858, 20g carmine, double impression, 3,300 frs. (M. Friedland). The first day's sale, comprising 218 lots, produced a total of 486,480 frs.

SECOND DAY.

When the sale was resumed on the 10th April, the attendance was not quite so good as on the first day, though a larger total was realised—493,205 frs. The best price of the day was 15,000 frs., paid by M. Champion for a Great Britain (1901-2) One Shilling green and carmine "Board of Education." This specimen (unused) gave rise to some spirited bidding, starting at 7,000 frs.

A Great Britain 1d black cancelled in red, on a letter officially passed through the post on 10th June, 1840, was run up to 13,100 frs. at which price it fell to M. Walser. A Great Britain, 1885, One Pound "I.R. OFFICIAL," violet, watermarked three crowns, unused, went to M. Friedl for 10,500 frs. Three other stamps of the same series fetched respectively 9,500, 7,500 and 7,000 frs.; and a 1901-2 Five Shillings carmine "I.R. OFFICIAL" fetched 5,500 frs.

A Great Britain (1870-81) Five Pounds, orange, for which the bidding started at 800 frs. aroused great interest and was eventually sold to M. Champion for 9,200 frs.

A Honduras, 1888, perforated 12½, 3 cents on 3d brown, started at 1,500 frs., and was run up to 6,100 frs., at which price it fell to M. Burrus.

Siegel for 4,600 frs.

THIRD DAY.

On Friday the third day of the sale, there was again a rather smaller attendance, the proceedings being clearly of more interest to dealers than to the amateur. The first day was undoubtedly the big day of the sale. Friday's proceedings were concerned mainly with stamps from Portugal and the Portuguese Colonies, some lots of Prussian envelopes, and stamps from Italy and the African Colonies.

The best price of the day was 14,100 frs., secured for a Tuscany (1860) 3 lire, yellow ochre, used, a fine specimen and very rare in this state. The bidding for this started at 9,000 frs., and it eventually fell to M. Peleeheld.—Philatelic Magazine.

BOOK REVIEW.

A. H. Pike, the indefatigable worker along "Permit" lines, has sent us a review copy of "First Class Mail Permits of the World." It is a book of 160 pps. and a most up-to-date check list of varieties. The various types, including foreign as well as U. S., are all illustrated and they are accompanied by notes giving full historical data. This is a distinct contribution to philatelic literature and coming generations will praise Mr. Pike's elementary work in this direction. Price $1.00. Address 21 Moeller St., Binghamton, N. Y.

A LONG ESTABLISHED STAMP BUSINESS that has been going over 25 years and which has consistently turned over between fifty and sixty thousand dollars per annum is for sale, for cash, because the owner wishes to retire. This is an unusual chance for some of the rising generation of dealers who wish to get into big business in stamps. The amount required exceeds $50,000 and is below $60,000 which is practically one year's turnover. The price includes the enormous stock, fixtures, lease, good will, mailing indexes and connections of all kinds. Unless you can produce this sum it will be useless to try and do business on notes or promises as the seller wishes to go to Europe. Interested parties can be communicated with by addressing:—

1924, 3c Purple, Lincoln, SIDEWISE COIL.

The new 1924 3c purple, portrait of Lincoln, sidewise coil, was placed on sale in Washington on Saturday, May 10, 1924. I arranged for a few mailed on the day of issue, and while these last may be had at 50c each. Each cover shows the dated postmark very clearly. As far as I can learn, this stamp came in almost unheralded and when this lot is gone, no more are to be had.

Can also furnish the coil in unused mint strips of four at 25c for a normal strip and 40c for a line strip.

What else do you require in first day covers or coils? Have a very fine stock and want lists are solicited.

New 3c Lincoln, Sidewise—Coil.

On Saturday, May 10, 1924, there was placed on sale at the Philatelic Stamp Agency, at Washington, the new 3c coil with portrait of Lincoln perforated 10 vertically and imperforated horizontally. This is printed in a light purple on unwatermarked paper and is available in coils of five hundred. In my Chronicle of some weeks back, there were listed two plates from which these stamps were made. As there is not a great deal of demand for this denomination in coil form, it is not likely to be on sale generally for some months to come, as most of the large offices still have some few of the old variety on hand.

Precancelled Stamps.

I called to your attention several weeks past a communication sent out by the Third Assistant Postmaster-General under date of March 27th, bringing the attention of postmasters to the fact that precancelled stamps should not be sold to collectors and should only be distributed to those having permits in accordance with prevailing postal laws and regulations.

In the Postal Bulletin for April 28th, Mr. Glover brings up this subject and again calls the attention of postmasters to the fact that a great many inquiries are still coming from collectors, especially for the Harding precancelled and that some postmasters are complying with the request. He emphatically states that these stamps are not to be sold in this manner and are to be distributed in accordance with previous instructions.

20c "Future Delivery." Double Surcharge.

Mr. Fred Klingenstein kindly sends me a vertical pair of the current 20c Documentary overprinted FUTURE DELIVERY with a distinct double overprint fully two millimeters apart, both overprints being particularly sharp. Mr. Klingenstein states that he found these among a lot of scrap paper that he purchased from a junk dealer. They are still upon the original document along with several other stamps, the document being dated June, 1920. I have seen quite a few double prints of other denominations in the past but none in which the extra surcharge appeared so clearly as in this case.

Permit and Metered Mail.

Those interested in metered mail impressions as well as permits should secure a copy of the Postal Bulletin for April 26th, wherein we find a detailed communication from the Postmaster-General regarding conditions upon which mailings will be accepted under permit without stamps affixed, as provided by Section 459 of the Postal Laws and Regulations. In this communication we are informed as to the general types and sizes accepted and a detailed report as to what types of mails are permissible. The instructions cover three long and broad columns and go into too much detail to be of interest in this Chronicle.

NORTH BORNEO.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of the 3c in green and black in the same design as before. This is a new color for this value.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—We note a new value in the Air Post stamps. Mr. Emil J. Rall submits a copy for chronicle. The color is grey and in the centre is pictured a large building with the peaks of two mountains in the distance. The usual inscription is across the top in a curved frame.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—Mr. Emil H. Swenson advises that there has appeared a 2c red and black in a trifle different design than the issue of 1911-13 redrawn one.

FEDERATED MALAY STATES.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 50c orange and black on script watermarked paper.

SALVADOR.—Mr. Alex A. Cohen sends us the following information from a Salvador paper regarding a new series of stamps that will soon be issued:

"It is known that the Minister of Government will send, by the next foreign mail, to a German house, the design which will be engraved on the stamps of the new emission which probably will be placed in circulation the middle of next year. The designs which are being sent to Germany can be classified into three classes: 1st. Patriotic Salvadorean designs, for those stamps which merely circulate in the interior of the Republic. 2nd. Sights of the country for the stamps which circulate less within the Republic. 3rd. Propaganda of national production and the geographic position of El Salvador, for those stamps which are used on foreign correspondence.

1 Centavo, violet, will show the national Gymnasium. On the horizon of the picture there will be the words "Citius-Fortius-Justius" which synthesize the final supremacy of physical culture. 2 Centavos, dark red. Showing the monument to the pedagogue Daniel Hernandez in the park of Santa Ana. This is the first time that one of the apostles of education will be shown on our stamps.

5 Centavos, light green. Will show the famous painting by Beltrana; "the conspiracy of 1811" which is a masterpiece.

Under that in foreign countries people may learn our geographic position, and that we are not taken for the island discovered by Columbus.

20 Centavos, coffee branches forming a island, taken as they are actually growing, with the following descriptions: at the bottom "Salvadorean Coffee" and in the center "Correos Nacionales" encircling the shield of the Salvadorean postal service. These stamps will be reproduced in the natural colors of branches of coffee trees with the ripe fruits.

25 Centavos, gray. Reproduction of a painting of the ruins of Izalco with the volcano in eruption in the back after a painting of the Salvadorean artist Juan José Lainez.

60 Centavos, rose. Reproduction of a marvelous painting of the artist also, in which Christopher Columbus explains his plans and theories to the Dominican friars.

1 Colon, the National shield of Salvador with its various colors, shown complete as required by the decree by which it was established.

A new stamp is to be issued to commemorate the centenary of the abolition of slavery. Mr. J. Gottfried translates the decree which states that 150,000 stamps have been printed, 100,000 of which are being put on sale. Of the remainder 50,000 will be put up to auction on December 31st, 1923, and a similar quantity on the same date in 1943. The plates have been destroyed. — Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular.

QUAKE ADDS TO VALUE OF STAMPS.

TOKIO, April 8.—The great earthquake of last September has set stamp collectors to seeking specimens of certain postage stamps which were choice even before issued. The stamps were prepared to commemorate the wedding of the Prince Regent and Princess Nagako unit, originally scheduled to take place last October.

When the quake and fire visited Tokyo, September 1, nearly all the issue, then held by the postal authorities in Tokyo, was destroyed. By accident a few stamps were saved. These had been allotted for sale in the Caroline and Marshall Islands in the equatorial Pacific, held by Japan under mandate, and had been shipped to the islands just before the quake, so they might be placed on sale the date of the wedding.

The disaster caused a postponement of the wedding and the stamps were ordered returned to Tokyo. When the imperial nuptials finally were celebrated January 26, the few remaining stamps were issued, in denominations of 1½, 3, and 20 sen. Philatelists all over the world are trying to secure them for their collections. — Yakima, Wash., Republic.

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

Edited by FRED'K W. ALLEN,
312 Walnut St., Minneapolis, Minn.

Corkville, Ill.—Wonder if that's where they make corks? The first precancels from here are handstamped in small letters between bars. The 10 cent inverted and 20 cent up are all I have been able to garner.

Fremont, Nebr.—One finds an odd situation when delving into the precancel history of this city. According to Mr. John L. Parker, a prominent collector of Nebraska, the upper right hand corner of the Fremont plate was so badly damaged by a fall that the corner subject had to be cut out. When the stamps are precancelled, the printer fills in the gap with whatever type he has resembling the style on the plate (which is U-1). Three different shops have precancelled for the Fremont office and each one has supplied different lettering. Blocks of four from this corner are in great demand by Nebraska collectors and well worth possessing on account of the story they tell.

Hamilton, Ohio.—The U-1 electrotype plate precancels are of recent emission. Mr. Ben Hilbert sends in copies of the following: 1917 series 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 15, 20 and 3 cent surface printing; 1923 series 1, 2, 4, 5, 10, 14, 25 (reads up), and 10 cent Special Delivery. A handstamp is possessed as well as a plate but so far has precancelled only the new issue one dollar, and old perf. 10 rotary press issue.

Gardner, Mass.—Mr. Wm. Hill states that this office is using precancels from one to fifty cents. The type is handstamped. He also encloses in his communication several Baldwinville, Mass., handstamped in red, which show a type of capitals and lower case letters in two lines, without bars.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The U-3 type is printed from two distinct plates showing minor differences. The type on the new plate is slightly thinner, cross bar on the "A" is higher, bottom strokes of the "E" are shorter and the "S" has slightly pointed corners. A handstamp resembling the plate printings is employed as well, so we have three current types coming from Milwaukee. The two described here are a great deal scarcer than the common variety that we see every day.

Rolling Fork, Miss.—The recent production, which is its initial type, is a beauty—ROLLING FORK, MISS., in three lines of thick serif capitals of small size between bars is a precancel which is hard to beat. It is not handstamped but press printed. The 6 and 8 cent have been seen by the writer.

Wenatchee, Wash.—That's where we get the finest apples grown—maybe they use precancels to mail out sample apple. If so I can use both. All fun aside Wenatchee has had a U-3 handstamp for nearly 6 months and has precancelled all values up to 20 cents.

Two Rivers, Wis.—The former handstamped makeshifts are now superseded by regular printed precancels of the U-18 type. From now on, packages from this city may bear some heart gladders. Up to this time the blurry and untidy cancellations have been sort of discouraging.

Naperville, Ill.—Also has been furnished a U-18 plate. The one cent rotary perf. 10, brought the good news to my attention.

Miami, Fla.—For a considerable period all precancelled stamps of this office were a result of the mimeograph.

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN 24 or More Pages Each Issue---FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper. It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

IN MY PREVIOUS AD

WHEREIN I OFFERED U. S. OLD, SAYING I HAD MOST OF THEM AT 50% OFF CATALOG, I took it for granted that everyone knew that this did not include superb copies, or any with fancy cancellations. I made a number of new customers thru the ad, collectors who wanted fair, average copies, at ½ Scott's prices, but I did get several inquiries that amused me, which read in substance, "Please send me perfectly centred, superb copies of old U. S. at ½ cat., per your offer."

I did not answer those requests, for I would like to buy such copies at ½ Scott, so we were both working the same side of the street; but any reasonable collector who wants average copies, I have them, in nearly all U. S. cat. up to $25 each, at half cat. Send want list and let me show you a selection.

Then they were supplemented by the one line office stamp reading in tall capitals diagonally up and down MIAMI, FLA. These are quite scarce. The U-18 electro will be Type III as it has just been put into play.

Miscellaneous.—Newburgh, N. Y., and Johnstown, Pa., are very pretty in their U-18 dresses. Passaic, N. J., is yet another city with this style overprint. In this set the 13 cent is a distinctive item.

The precancelling habit is catching. A number of cities new to the precancel collector have been noted lately. Among them are: Orlando, Fla., Carlton, Ga., Poseyville, Ind., Hanover, Kans., Russellville, Ky., Rumford, Me., Owatonna, Minn., Chillicothe, Mo., Marshall, Mo., Poplar Bluff, Mo., Wharton, N. J., Fairport and Northport, N. Y., Oberlin, O., Massillon, O., Swanton, O., Tivoli, O., Elk City, Okla., Oilton, Okla., Wayne, Pa., Woolrich, Pa., Postelle, Tenn., Rockwood, Tenn., and Prairie du Chien, Wis. They have all been furnished regular handstamps by the department for the express purpose of precancelling. The various sizes and styles cannot be described here for lack of space.

Conclusion.—Your comments and questions are welcomed at all times so if you have anything to pass along which will be of interest to the precancel fraternity, or desire information about the hobby, drop me a line. I am at your service.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Wishing to be chatty with an advertiser, we asked him how his pile of pelf was increasing. Our smiling expectancy was met in this wise by E. L. Stuart the "Truthful James" of our tale: "My mail today brought in $1.26 and I sent back $1.25 to a buyer for stamps that he returned."

—Mr. H. K. Schoch shows us a letter sent from California to a point in west Canada prepaid by a 3 cent and a 12 cent of the 1861 issue U. S. On the face of the envelope is "Advertised" in blue with the endorsement in manuscript "30c." Concerning these markings the following explanation is given: letters such as this are sometimes advertised in the local papers and we understand that when the addressee was unknown the postmasters in Canada were authorized to advertise them in the local press, and in this case it is evident that a fee of 30c was charged for this service.

—A number of our readers have called attention to the fact that in one of our contemporaries, the intelligent compositor made it "airmale stamps," and "airmail covers."

—Mr. B. L. Drew of Boston, was in Chicago last week showing the excellent line of stamps, Australians exclusively, in his next auction sale to be held May 29. His stay of several days was devoted to seeing local enthusiasts many of whom took advantage of the opportunity to view the lots.

—We have received Wallace Brothers', London, wholesale price-list which is offered to the public for six pence. This list of 70 pages is replete with offers that will attract the attention of dealers generally. We notice that the firm claims to "hold the largest stock of stamps in the world of cheap stamps."

—We still receive letters from interested readers telling of their opinion in regard to the proposed philatelic stamp to be issued at the time of the Philadelphia exhibition. We are interested in hearing from readers on this score, but as we have so thoroughly covered the subject in our columns we now forbear to comment at length on the question. It looks as though there would be no concerted action on the part of philatelists generally in favor of the issue of a stamp.

—We have been shown a large photo of the Olympia Stamp Club exhibit held in Olympia, April 21-22. It makes a fine feature and we regret that we cannot reproduce it. Thanks to Mr. J. W. Hitt.

—F. F. Wills sends us two values of the new Newfoundland set, 20c brown, Placentia and 24c slate, Topsail Falls. Both are pretty stamps.

—Henry Trenka of Jersey City, N. J., has an advertisement elsewhere in this issue that should interest any dealer who desires some assistance in the making up of approval selections and the arrangement of stock. Mr. Trenka has had considerable experience.

—"Greetings from San Marino, the oldest republic and smallest independent country in the world; 1,300 inhabitants; 38 miles in circumference. Stamp supply low and the following sold out—Scott's Nos. 55, 56, 57, 59, 60 and 101. Some others almost gone. Came up here by auto from Rimini on the coast. The capital of San Marino lies on a high rocky mountain, 2,300 feet above sea level, commands a magnificent view of the Wallachian mountain range, the Adriatic Sea and Dalmatian Mts. The auto actually climbs up the mountain side, over many serpentine and at very steep grades."—A. O. TITTMANN.

—"I take much pleasure in sending you the two new issued stamps commemorating the death of Lord Byron. Of these stamps it is said that there were 5,000,000 of each value ordered to be printed, but only 250,000 were ready and sent to Athens. So these stamps of 250,000 were distributed to the Offices of Athens, Patras, Messoloughi, Corfu and Salonica, I believe, and are sold to the public by one of each value to the person. So we are obliged to wait in ranks our turn to buy a set and repeat. I catch the opportunity to inform you that

Ellis Russell of East Orange, N. J., adds the name of his local library to our rapidly growing list. You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

I have seen offered a stamp of Cavalle Y-T-C, No. 2, Scott's 752, with inverted surcharge. As I am the printer of these surcharges and I am sure that not any of this value was printed inverted, I wrote the dealer (who knows that I am the printer of these surcharges) that the stamp he offers is a fake and explained to him how the inverted were printed. I explained the matter in my article on these stamps published in several papers and in the American Philatelist, October, 1920."—MICHEL D. TOCCOS.

—The Milwaukee Philatelic Society was entertained Saturday evening, May tenth, by Louis Burmeister at his home, where he exhibited his fine collections of stamps, coins, shells and minerals. Eleven volumes of stamps: U. S. unused, Newfoundland, Bosnia and old German States were enjoyed by sixty ardent philatelists. Mr. Burmeister's hospital was sounded by Dr. F. A. Kraft who spoke of the spirit of stamp collecting in which the gates to philately were opened by exhibitions rather than collections guardedly hidden away. Mr. Burmeister responded in speaking of a collector must keep to avoid blank spaces with the intention never to hope. Refreshments were served a stamp conversation continued long in the night. Mr. Burmeister called upon Wisconsin's philatelists to join him in vading Detroit next summer, and preparations were made to form an expedition.—A. W. DRAVES.

A NOTE ON U. S. STAMPS.

By SIR NICHOLAS WATERHOUSE.

In these days of super-specialisation of the stamps of the United States it is somewhat difficult to attempt to find anything to say about a particular stamp or issue of that country that has not already been the subject of handbooks and long articles in philatelic journals, both in America and Europe, and since the advent of the specialists' catalogue, published by the Scott Stamp and Coin Co., there are but few minor varieties of the general issues that are not fully described and classified.

Perhaps, however, I may say a few words on a branch of philatelic study that has always interested me, but which has not up till recently, as far as I am aware, been the subject of very close research. I refer to the classification of a stamp according to the varieties of ink, paper, gum, etc., utilised in its preparation during the period of its currency. Take, for instance, the very popular and artistic issue of September, 1861. I notice that on page 20 of Scott's Catalogue referred to above, an additional variety of the 10c green has crept in. The ordinary variety is listed at $5 unused and 60 cents used, but the next item reads, "deep yellow-green, August shade, $25 unused and $5 used."

Now, though only this variety of one denomination of the 1861 issue is given a place in the catalogue, specimens of all the other values may be found with the distinctive characteristics peculiar to the very scarce "premières gravures" or "August" issue, and, judging by their extreme scarcity, I think the relative value of this variety of the 10c quoted above is very much understated. I have in my collection a complete set, in mint and unhinged condition, which I imagine to be one of the complimentary sets sent out to certain foreign postmasters at the time that the issue was first put into circulation. Each stamp is printed on the very thin, brittle and transparent paper of the "premières," and the whole design is plainly visible at the back of the stamps. The gum is also of the same deep brown description, and in the case of the 10c and the 24c, the shades of colour are also similar to those attributed to the August issue. The colours of the other values vary considerably from those of the "premières," but are distinctive in themselves, and I have always found that if I come across a stamp of this issue on the thin transparent paper it proves to be in exactly the same shade of colour as the corresponding specimen in the set mentioned above.

Copies of this description are all scarce, but I find that next to the 10c, the denomination most frequently met with is the 90c in unused condition. I do not know why this should be so, unless owing to the comparatively small demand for this value a considerable number of the earliest printings were still in the hands of the public when the issue became obsolete. In this connection it is interesting to note that, according to reports of the Postmaster-General, only about 230,000 of the 90c were distributed to postmasters between 30th June, 1861, and the 30th June, 1867, as against some millions of each of the other values, and as many as 1,619,668,700 of the 3c, thus accounting for the vast number of shades in which the last mentioned value is found.

As regards the premières gravures, the 10c is fairly plentiful in used condition, and in my experience is met with quite as often as the September type on the thin transparent paper with brown gum. The 24c "première shade" is also not very rare in used condition, but I doubt if any used copies have been found in the really deep bright violet shade of the undoubted August issue. There are, of course, no details in the design of the 24c to differentiate between the August and September issues, and one has to rely entirely on colour and paper. I may say, however, that among the few used dated copies which I have seen I have never come across so early a date as August, and the colour has always been more nearly that of the earliest printings of the September issue. —Philatelic Journal of Great Britain.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

"MY TWELVE MOST INTERESTING PIECES"

The winners of this competition at the London Stamp Club on March 20th were Messrs. Blow and Crippa for the first position, Messrs. Wells and Lowe "dead heating" also for the third position. The majority of the exhibits were very interesting, but the tendency was to show items that were of personal rather than general interest. One of the most interesting and amusing was that of Mr. Lowe, and below are enumerated the twelve items and abbreviated notes of his exhibit.

1. Uncatalogued Varieties.—Many collectors (during sleepless nights) wonder if their latest find is worth thousands or nothing. Here is shown a postal fiscal of Ecuador, bisected on entire. The whole stamp, although listed in Gibbons' catalogue, is not priced. This naturally raises hopes. Unfortunately, Yvert's catalogue, in a mercileless fashion, quotes the stamp at 1 franc.

2. Re-entry.—That curse of the beginner who decides to collect line-engraved G. B. Here is shown a pair of 1d brown, wmk large Crown, perf. 14, lettering "AD" and "BD." Under the "D" of "AD" the N. E. star of the first impression of "BD" distinctly shows.

3. Local.—A beautiful stamp issued at Christmas Island, south of Java. For fuller details see "Phantom Philately." The stamp has a large "5" in each corner and is issued by the Central Pacific Coco-nut Plantations, Ltd. Apparently the fee is five coco-nuts, although Mr. Melville says it is meant for American cents.

4. Errors.—A most peculiar error of wmk. in the 15c blue Peace and Commerce type of France, where the wmk., instead of being the bars of the quadrille, is of its squares.

5. Postmark Error.—Used at Bramhall, Stockport, on August 14th to 20th, 1912, the word "STOCKPORT" having an inverted "r" and an "i" at the end of the word, thus "SLOCKPORT."

6. Postmarks.—The Labour Government has not had the designs of our stamps changed, but has caused some curious postmarks, including one bearing the legend "RAILWAY BOURNE," used during the recent dock strike.

7. Stamped Envelopes.—A very rough impression of the Tower of London stamped in black on the envelope and cancelled with the red official postmark, "OFFICIAL PAID," in circle. The copy shown was used in 1908.

8. Bisected on Entire.—Half a 1d lilac, sixteen dots, used on a rectangular envelope and torn in half (not cut).

9. Pot Pourri.—A curious entire (registered) showing 1d red, Plate 201; 1d venetian-red; 1d lilac, sixteen dots; 1d lilac on blue (fiscal); 1/2d red, and 1/2d green, all used on the same piece.

10. The End of our Troubles.—A beer duty stamp from Victoria (2d a gallon), to be used for malt and hops exclusively. This rare item, measuring 3 in. by 2 in. (approx.), has inverted watermark. Probably this was caused by the printer raising his elbow while at work!

11. Matrimonial Cause Stamp.—This stamp, bearing the head of the late Queen Victoria, was printed in a beautiful shade of blue on a pale blue paper. It is about the size of the 6d fiscal stamps, and wmkd. R. M. Script. It was used on Divorce Deeds, &c., and is scarce in mint condition.

12. Romance.—An old letter with the 1d red imperf. on envelope attached. This letter was used as evidence in a divorce case in 1858. The stamp is very heavily cancelled, possibly so that the Queen's face should not blush when this missive was read.—Stamp Collecting.

S. 1895, Newspaper Stamps

Some twenty-five years ago, when the use of newspaper stamps was discontinued, the Gov't sold, for the benefit of stamp collectors, 50,000 complete sets from the 1c to the $100.00 values incls. This beautiful set, with a former face value of nearly $100, was thus made available for collectors, when under ordinary conditions it would have been beyond the reach of most.
I offer a few of these sets in fine mint condition (never hinged) at $3.50 per set.
List prices the set at $6.36.—Enough said!

THE U. S. POSTAL AGENCY IN SHANGHAI.

By E. G. YOUNG

Professor of Railway Mechanical Engineering, Nanyang University.

I. THE CITY.

Who has read the list of places to which domestic postal rates and conditions formerly applied as published in the "Postal Guide," the covers of the stamp booklets, the money order application blanks and elsewhere, and not been interested in the phrase "and to the U. S. Postal Agency, Shanghai, China"?
Certainly no lover of stamps at least could pass this by without a thought. In the past few years the history of this agency has been so interesting from a philatelic standpoint, and the comments on its closing have been so fragmentary that it seems a worthy task to give a connected account of the institution and its work—and its stamps.

The word "Shanghai" in the middle of the last century made an unsavory philological impress on the English language—look it up in the "Unabridged." Up to 1843 the city of Shanghai ("above the sea"—though it certainly is not many inches above it at high tide) consisted of a cluster of villages surrounding a small walled city—a place of no great importance commercially, nor politically either as it was not even a "fu" city, that is, the seat of a district administration. In the year mentioned, the Treaty of Nanking (wrested from China as a result of the first forcible contact of the latter with western military power) granted to the British the island of Hongkong, and opened five ports in Central and South China to foreign trade. Shortly afterward a definite tract of land was marked out as a British residential concession; this tract lay to the north of the extra-mural suburbs of the walled city and south of the muddy, tidal Soochow Creek; it had about three-fourths of a mile frontage on the Whangpoo River, on the east, and extended at first about the same distance westward, giving a total area a little over a half of a square mile. The Whangpoo is Shanghai's outlet to the sea, and at the present time has been so improved that practically any vessel on the Pacific can anchor off of the Bund.
Soochow Creek is navigable by light craft, and is important in that it connects directly with the Grand Canal. The land was at the time of the grant a practically uninhabited morass. In 1849 and 1850, two more grants were made:
the French taking up the territory between the north wall of the city and the Yang-king-pang (a creek—the southern boundary of the British grant) and securing a river frontage of about 3,000 feet; the territory along the river and north of Soochow Creek was granted to Americans. The latter grant, however, was never officially governed as a concession, and was finally in 1862 merged with the British concession into an International Municipality. The French were invited to join forces but refused, thereby making a mistake perfectly apparent to anyone, who has ever had the opportunity of comparing the business districts of the two municipalities. By later grants the area of the "Settlement" as the International Municipality was known for years (and the name sticks) has been extended until the present area is about eight square miles, while "Frenchtown" has attained an area of about five square miles. The Settlement police have in addition jurisdiction over a considerable mileage of roads in Chinese territory. The population of the International Settlement is 25,000 foreigners and nearly 900,000 Chinese; that of the French Municipality about half of the above figures. In the Chinese cities are between 500,000 and 600,000 people according to recent estimates, making the city of Shanghai as a whole rank as eleventh or twelfth in the world and the largest in Asia except Tokyo.

(NOTE: written before the recent disaster).

The International Settlement has long since become a highly cosmopolitan city, and many nations have representation on its governing body, the Municipal Council. (Shanghai was the first republic in Asia!) The present Chairman of the Council is Mr. Sterling Fessenden, an American Lawyer. The French City is also governed by a council of international aspect—two of the five members at present being Americans. The American population is rapidly shifting its center of gravity from the old "American Concession" north of the creek to the western end of Frenchtown. The two municipalities co-operate in many ways to make the city one of the most efficient and effective political organizations in existence. It is noteworthy that the overwhelming majority of the population—that is, the Chinese residents—has no voice whatever in the government, but the constantly increasing number who live within the boundary stones of the concession territory is eloquent testimony to their appreciation of the blessings of an island of stable government in a sea of chaos. The only connection between the foreign municipalities and the Chinese government is the postal service and the customs service.
By the Treaty of Nanking, the foreign

BUYING COVERS

I suppose I am one of the heaviest buyers of United States stamps on original covers in the country. I get thousands of covers some months, as I do not hesitate to take any quantity whatever of any varieties issued prior to 1890.

I am, of course, particularly interested in rare items and I am told that I pay wonderful prices for fine Carriers, Locals and Confederates.

What have you to offer?

Dig up your accumulations, your duplicates and the rare item or two that you have been saving and turn them into cash.
My offer of 20% over my cash price, if stamps are taken in exchange, attracts many.

residents in "treaty ports" are subject to the same customs dues as the natives. Of the postal system, more in its place.

II. THE OFFICE.

The formation of the foreign settlements immediately brought postal needs, but these for many years were met by local mail boxes in the consulates (plus the omnipresent "chit" system—whereby you write a note to your neighbor to tell him that it is a fine day, and send it by your coolie, with a receipt book which must be signed before the note is delivered!) and by the casual facilities for exchange with other ports furnished by the coasting boats. In 1865, the Local Post-office was organized, functioning in co-operation with the Hongkong post-office, and antedating by nearly ten years the establishment of the Customs Post. The local post-office was continued as a public utility until 1897, when it was voluntarily surrendered in its entirety to the newly organized Imperial Chinese Post Office. The various foreign post-offices had their beginnings in the handling of the local "drop" mail, consular and warship mail; as a result of the increasing foreign population, the questionable efficiency of the government service (and the lack of membership in the Postal Union) these consular postal agencies became full-fledged post-offices. At the time of their closing on January 1, 1923, there remained in operation the American, British, French and Japanese offices. The German office had closed in 1917 at the time of China's entering the war; the Russian office seems to have died a natural death after it could no longer perform any service, in 1919. (Italian stamps overprinted similarly to those in use at the time in Tientsin and Peking are extant in very small numbers—one or two copies of some values (!)—it seems that one "experimental" mail was carried from Shanghai to Rome.)

In 1900 during the Boxer uprising a chain of military post-offices was established in North China to facilitate the handling of American army mail, and when the need for these disappeared, the machinery thus started was moved to Shanghai to meet the need of the rapidly growing American colony. (The largest group of Americans outside of continental United States and the Hawaiian Islands lives in Shanghai; the number approaches four thousand at present.) Mr. John Darrah was the first Postal Agent and served in this capacity for sixteen years. He was followed by Mr. E. H. Everett, who served five years, and through the last year of its life the agency was in charge of Col. Clyde S. Ford. Through the last and busiest years, Mr. E. H. Murray was Deputy Agent, and Mr. L. T. Kenake was Superintendent of Mails. To the latter gentleman the writer is indebted for much information given herein. The native staff at the time of closing consisted of about thirty, including clerks, sorters, carriers and coolies.

Up to the time of the war ships of all nations alike were used in the mail service, and the average number of sacks per ship was close to three hundred. During the war the service given by American lines was so much improved that it became possible to transfer the mail largely to American bottoms, and with fewer and faster ships a single mail sometimes reached 2,200 sacks, with 2,000 sacks as the average number. During the last two years of its life the postal receipts passed $100,000 per year, while the money order business ran into the millions. Mail matter was accepted for all parts of the world except China, though in the natural course of events very little would have been handled for Japan or Hongkong, as the Chinese Post Office gave cheaper service to these countries. While the office provided carrier service to its patrons as far as possible, no local or drop letters were accepted at other than the usual 2c or 3c prepayment—four or six times as much as was charged for delivery by the Chinese Post. The domestic letter rate to most western hemisphere countries and to England was not in effect: the postage to Canada was five cents gold.

The Agency was housed in one corner of the ground floor of the Consulate-General building, and the quarters became extremely inadequate before the end of its history. It is worth noting that even after the decision had been reached to abolish the office extensive rearrangements and improvements were carried out. If the telegraph business of the Japanese office was not considered, the American post-office was the busiest in Shanghai. On mail days, the uniform weight-limit cloth covered packages of the export firms dealing in lace, hairnets, embroidery, and similar commodities poured over the parcel counter in endless succession, much to the distress of the casual user of the service.

The closing of the foreign offices as is well known was determined upon by the Washington conference, and was carried out in good faith. As soon as it became known that the foreign offices were to close, the "C. P. O." began to make preparations for expansion of its service. A splendid new head post-office building was commenced, and it is the consensus of opinion that the change should have awaited the completion of this building,—about the beginning of 1925. At present the C. P. O., is failing lamentably to give as good service as that previously enjoyed: letters received in Shanghai on a given day are not infrequently delivered four days later; the posting of a parcel may be a matter of hours and exposure to half a dozen infectious diseases. Foreign parcels are only accepted at the head office, where the space available on the public side of the counter is about 500 square feet. The writer has counted 180 people in this space when he was so unfortunate as to be one of them. The closing of the foreign offices was a more or less gradual process. The British office suspended its functions one at a time over a period of three months ending about December 15th. The American office sent its last mail on the afternoon of December 31st, but remained open to cash money orders and to sell savings stamps for about three months. The Japanese building remains open on account of the telegraph service. The British office at Weihaiwei remains open, using the "CHINA" on Hongkong stamps. The French office at Kwantow remains open, to the joy of new-issue collectors, and the Japanese offices in the Laotung Peninsula (including Dairen and Port Arthur)—all these are in "leased territory."

CANCELLATIONS

After months of work we have at last completed a series of approval books covering all classes of cancellations on the stamps of the bank-note issues from 1871 to 1890. Many of these are at present quite inexpensive and fine attractive copies with cancellations of some interest may be had at from 5c to 25c each. Just ask for the particular stamp you want to work on, 1c blues, 2c brown or vermilion, 3c green, 2c red brown, 4c Jacksons, and see what this stock has to offer.

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

THE SPECIALIST.

A Specialist is "one who devotes himself especially to some particular branch of study or pursuit," and in stamps the term is generally used to indicate a man who collects a country or a group of countries in the most thorough manner. He will often try and obtain Essays and Proofs of color submitted to the authorities before the issue of the actual stamp. Then he will seek for unused stamps in all shades and printings, and in many cases try and reconstruct the sheets of stamps to show all the "types" that were used. In used stamps he has a great field and is keen to obtain stamps on the original cover as these are of the utmost importance for study and research work. All kinds of postmarks and cancellations are searched for, showing the use of stamps in "foreign parts" on railway trains, on mail boats, in airplanes, etc.

To the man fond of study, of original research work, of reading, and to the great business man who seeks a palliative from the worries and cares of business, I know nothing better and more enjoyable than to become a specialist postage stamp collector.

It is to the specialist that we owe nearly all our knowledge of modern philately. Take our own stamps and consider what the specialist has done for us in the past few years. When I first commenced travelling for business, in the United States some thirty years ago, there was no interest in the stamps of this great country. Most collectors got a spaced album and just tried to fill up page after page, without any study of or interest in these beautiful old issues.

Then a star came from the West to the East—John N. Luff wrote his monumental work on "The Postage Stamps of the United States" in 1902 and with the official data and statistics he published, he built the foundation upon which others have worked with such wonderful results.

In my opinion the palm for being the greatest specialist in United States stamps must be given to Dr. Carroll Chase to whom all of us students owe a deep debt of gratitude. Dr. Chase, in the past ten years, has done the most marvellous research work in showing us how it is possible to take a common stamp, such as the one cent of 1851 and 1857 and work out the number of plates used, the position of each stamp on every plate and then the history and use of these early stamps on the railroads, waterways, and roads of this country. He has also done a vast amount of research work in many other stamps besides these "one cents," but I mention those especially as showing what can be made of a common stamp when it is intelligently studied.

I think I can claim to speak as one having some knowledge of "Specialism" as I claim to have been a Specialist for some 35 years.

About 1889, in Birmingham, England, I began writing on special groups of stamps, and later on, after I purchased the business of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., I wrote several works on stamps, such as "Fiji," "Paraguay," etc., and published innumerable articles on the different countries I studied from time to time.

It is to this willingness to publish the result of his studies, that the present day stamp collector has so much for which to thank the specialist, for without the benefit of his work, the catalogues of today would be far less useful than they are at present.

I think I can say with truth that during the 32 years I was Chairman of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., there was not a single important article published by a stamp specialist which was not studied with a view to adding new data and varieties to our catalogue when such could be found, and it is to these men that the present superiority of those catalogues is due.

The field open to the "Specialist" is endless. One can take up and study a single stamp, like the 3c green of 1870-1882, and gather an important collection of all the varieties, printings, proofs, trials and cancellations, or one can take a country or a group of countries according to one's means and time.

Specialism has much to recommend it. It has almost always turned out a good investment, and that is more than can be said of almost any other hobby.

It can be limited in money and in time much more than general collecting can. It is the field of work for the student and for the man who wishes to combine study and information with his hobby.

Benjamin Franklin, in one of his charming letters from Paris, gave ten reasons for preferring an old woman to a young one, and I might give as many in favor of "specialism" of which I am a great advocate, but I think the above will suffice.

It is natural for the Americans to specialise in the stamps of the United States, and outside the popular "General Issues" there are some groups that seem to me to be worthy of more attention than they receive at the present time.

OFFICIAL STAMPS (DEPARTMENTALS).

When I settled here a year and a half ago I decided to try and get together a really good collection of these stamps as they seemed to be so neglected that I thought they would prove a good investment. I have now five large albums packed full and want very many more varieties and cancellations before I can consider I have a first class lot. I find this group full of interest, and later on I hope to publish something on these issues.

CARRIERS AND SEMI-OFFICIAL ISSUES.

I find these most interesting, full of historical associations and many of the cheaper kinds ridiculously underpriced. Take for instance the very interesting and beautiful New York, 1842-46, 3c blue and 3c green. These are priced about the same as the 1847 10c, but they must be more than ten times as scarce. The same applies to many other items in this group.

U. S. LOCALS.

This is a fine group of stamps, and one that is much neglected since they were dropped from the albums and general catalogue, but in spite of that I think that genuine cancelled locals, especially those on the original covers, are of considerable interest and worth while collecting.

Mr. H. C. Needham has published some most valuable articles upon many of these issues, chiefly in the Philatelic Gazette and American Philatelist and I should much like to see his articles continued in one of our present stamp papers.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

BERMUDA SCRIPTS.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

On November 11, 1920, the first British Colonial stamps printed on script CA watermarked paper, were issued at Hamilton, Bermuda, being the 1d and 2 1/2d of the first Tercentenary series, commemorating the 300th anniversary of the meeting of the first assembly in that island on August 1, 1620. The other values of the series, which comprised 9 values (1/4d to 1s) did not appear until January 10, 1921, and with the single exception of the 6d were on paper with the Roman CA watermark. This first series was in the design approved by the Governor, double medallion type (Sea Venture and King George), typographically printed in sheets of 60.

This design was considered by the House of Assembly as not sufficiently suggestive or in keeping with the event, and they appointed a Committee to secure an appropriate design. On June 28th the Committee reported with a design prepared by Mr. J. H. Dale of St. George's, which was approved with minor modifications. The stamps of this second series, were issued May 12, 1921, being printed from line engraved plates, in sheets of 60. In the design the King's head appears in a central medallion, with a miniature Sea Venture in the upper left corner; the modern coat of arms in the upper right; and in the lower corners, the Sword of State of 1620, and the Speaker's gavel of today, respectively. Only the 1/4d, 1/2d and 1d were printed on script CA paper.

These two series were used so extensively that the Sea Venture type stamps on script paper have been very slow in making appearance. In September, 1921, when the writer visited Bermuda, the second Tercentenary series was being sold almost exclusively at the Post Offices, and the first series, and the Sea Venture type, only on request. By March, 1923, the 1/4d, 1/2d and 2 1/2d of the first series, and the 1/2d, 1d and 2 1/2d of the second series had exhausted.

The 1/2d, 1d, 2d and 2 1/2d Sea Venture type, on script paper (and the 10s on old CAM paper, large Nyasaland type) were advised by the Crown Agents in March, 1922, as being in preparation, and in June as having been printed and dispatched. The 1/2d green was issued in November, 1922, the 1d and 2 1/2d olive green in the following month, and the 2d gray not until October, 1923. The 1/2d, 1d and 2 1/2d are in sheets of 120, undivided, and the 2d in sheets of 60; comb perforated 14. The 2 1/2d olive green also exists with single line perforation.

The change of color of the 2 1/2d was due to increased postal rates, foreign letters now being charged at 3d; those to the States 2 1/2d, to the British Empire, 2d; and post cards to all places abroad 1 1/2d. Effective March 1, 1922, the letter rate from the United States to Bermuda was reduced to 2c but Bermuda has not reciprocated. With the thousands of view cards sent from the island during the summer and winter seasons, it is surprising that the postal authorities have not found it desirable to issue a 1 1/2d stamp. When further 3d stamps are needed, they will in all probability be printed in blue.

Ofttimes letters from the British Colonies appear to bear more postage than is absolutely necessary; the following notices taken from The Royal Gazette and Colonist Daily, of Friday, September 23, 1921, will explain the reason for any excess on letters from Bermuda.

U. S. and So. & Cent. Americans

I am breaking up a nice collection of 19th century U. S. in better than the average condition, that I will sell at less than usual prices.

Also the finest collection of 19th and 20th century S. & C. A. I have ever seen in my 25 years' experience with stamps.

Nearly 4800 Different Varieties, Cataloguing over $4000.00

Many specimens seldom offered, even at big auction sales, and the condition, especially the early issues and imperforates, is very fine.

No Colombian Rep., but a nice lot of Br. Guiana, Falklands and Surinam.

ALL PRICED SENSIBLY, and sent on approval against want list. NO BLIND APPROVALS. [43]

There are 19 Post Offices, and 19 Post Offices throughout the Island, with two deliveries a day of local mail. The amount of business transacted by all Departments of the Post Office in 1921 was considerably in excess of that of former years. The total revenue was £24,262.11.8, and the expenditure £9,164.2.10, an excess of receipts of expenditure of £15,098.8.10. This is an increase in revenue of £5,761.4.5 of 1920, expenditure increase of £647.1.1, and an excess of receipts over expenditure of £5,113.7.2. The increase was principally to the sale of stamps, which amounted to £6,125.15.8, in excess of figures for 1920, and was largely realised from the sale of 5s stamps required for the Stamp Tax placed on passenger tickets. (This tax has since been raised to 10s.)

The work in the Parcel Post Branch has greatly increased; the number of parcels received exceeded the number received in 1920, by 9,928, and the number dispatched by 1800. The greatest increase is in the traffic with the U. S., parcels received being 6,797 and those dispatched 1,111 over the figures for the previous year. In view of the great cess of parcels received over those dispatched, and the consequent labor and expense involved in dealing with them, negotiations were opened with the U. S.
Postmaster-General with a view to the ratification of an agreement whereby 1 old franc should be paid in respect of each parcel received from the U. S. in cess, of those dispatched to that country.

Bermuda is not a single island, as the name would indicate, but rather a group of over 300 small coral islands, whose average length is 25 miles, varying from 1 to 3 miles in width. They extend from northeast to southwest in the shape of a fish hook, St. George's and St.
David's being the easternmost, and then
St. Peter's, Main, Somerset and Ireland.
Only 20 of the islands are inhabited, and so closely do they lie, that the larger ones are connected by bridges. The group is 580 miles east of Hatteras, and 100 miles southeast of New York. The total area is 19 square miles, and the population is 22,505 (1921 census), of which 7,006 are white. Lying to the south of the Gulf stream, which protects them from the cold winds of the north, the climate is very equable, and many thousands of tourists resort to the islands annually. The main island, or St. David's, as it is called, is 14 miles long, and on it is the capital and chief town, Hamilton, with 2,500 inhabitants.

APOLOGY TO MR. KONWISER
In the issue of May 12, Mr. Severn in his editorial department made reference to the contributors to the April number of the Collectors Club Philatelist, but inadvertently he omitted the name of H.
Konwiser. There was no intentional omission by Mr. Severn, but as Mr. Kon-wiser has called our attention to this matter we should in justice to him make an explanation and apology.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The London Philatelist says that the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley
"is marred by the unwelcome issue by the British Post Office of the Commemorative stamps and envelopes." The editorial says that it deplores the shattering of the vase that heretofore has been unsmirched, if the special post card and stamped envelope of 1890 be excepted, by unnecessary issues. While we can understand how the overthrowing of a tradition may cause a deep regret, yet we cannot subscribe to any claim that the two adhesives in question constitute a philatelic fons malorum. The extraordinary development of advertising alone would account for the use of the postage stamp as a herald, in some countries, and it is not unlikely that we should have celebration stamps even if there were no stamp collectors. The following paragraph suggests fairly enough that commemorative and unnecessary issues be classified as a thing apart from the regulation stamps: "We expect the day is coming when all this class of label will be relegated to a special category apart from the proper postal issues of a country, and the sooner this happens, the better."

—Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer says that he has bought and given away a number of the little Path-Finder Albums and packets of stamps and in his opinion Mr.
Power deserves a lot of credit for his philatelic publicity by radio message.

—Stamp Collecting aligns itself on the side of the partisans of the new Empire Exhibition stamps and comes out flatly in favor of them. We quote: "In the past we have from time to time poured scorn and withering sarcasm on various attempts to exploit the noble army of stamp lovers—and we have been called stamp haters for our pains. For the present we own to a keen sense of satisfaction and delight that the Old Country has at last broken the conservatism of eighty-four years and that we have something at home which our dealers can sell—and are selling by thousands daily—to those very countries which have been thriving tolerably well on money extracted from English pockets through the sale of stamps far less necessary than those of the British Empire Exhibition." All this is fair enough but the dominating thought in connection with the stamps is that they will guide the way to stamp collecting to many an outsider.

—We have an industrious reader who takes good care that we miss no uncomplimentary reference to stamp collecting that appears in print, if he can help it.
He signs himself as "Old-Timer" but we have his number as a former stamp dealer who found the pace too swift for him.

—A German collector sends us a little lot of United States for quick sale through our efforts as he greatly needs the money. We are asked to use our judgment as to price as the sender
"knows that our sobriety is unquestioned."

—We have been shown by Henry A.
Kiehl some marked varieties of colorings in the 2c and 3c stamped envelopes of Canada. The 2c particularly is in fine shades of carmine and orange red.
Also a 2c adhesive in a very dark red.

—Cecil F. Blogg, secretary of the Tacoma Philatelic Society, sends us a clipping from the Tacoma Sunday Ledger, of April 20, which exploits the local stamp exhibit held April 23-26.
Mr. Blogg speaks in glowing terms of the success of the exhibition and affirms that it has made many converts to philately.

—A. H. Gustafson, 766 East St., New Britain, Conn., would like to obtain the address of Wm. Viers, formerly located at 560 E. Washington St., Indianapolis, Ind.

—The Brooklyn Stamp Club held an exhibition in its Club Rooms at No. 123 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, on the evening, of May 14th, at which time L. Miss-bach showed his wonderful collection of United States, all being unused. The rare 24c aeroplane invert attracted considerable attention and the fine condition of the stamps elicited favorable comment. The Club intends to hold further exhibitions and next month expects to have Mr. Chas. M. Ams show his magnificent collection of Gambia. Brooklyn collectors are cordially invited to come to the meetings which are held the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month.—H. C. MEYER, President.

of his check list of First Class Mail

markable volume in more ways than one.
The book, which consists of over one hundred and fifty pages made by a stencil process is of an edition limited to two hundred copies and Mr. Pike sends us No. 2; and when we ponder over the fact that Mr. Pike sells the compilation for one dollar, we must say that he cannot hope at this modest price to be recompensed for his labor. However, Mr.
Pike is an enthusiast and he never wearies of well-doing, when he adopts a cause worthy of championing. In our opinion he has performed a constructive piece of work in placing on record a list of these markings; and the fact that for-value of the list. A full page of illus-

PHILLIPS' MONTHLY BULLETIN

24 or More Pages Each Issue --- FREE

We make no misleading claims that this is a journal, magazine or paper.
It is a house organ issued to sell our goods, but it will contain occasional articles on subjects vital to every collector, and every LIVE collector should have it. Each issue offers more first class stamps, etc., than any other house organ or paper that we have seen, and a host of American collectors welcome
every issue and order from it.

This "BULLETIN" has been issued in various forms for over 15 years and is the oldest house organ in America, we believe. Though it costs us several thousand dollars a year to send it out, it is FREE and WILL BE FREE AS LONG AS WE ISSUE IT.

New "Cleveland List" now out.

W. J. ZINK
323-24 Caxton Bldg. Cleveland, Ohio

not, Mr. Pike by his catalogue of the varieties from the earliest to the present day has stamped his book with an historical cast. We understand that the first edition is about exhausted but we suppose that Mr. Pike could be persuaded to reprint the list if a demand is made. Publisher: Arche H. Pike, 21 Moeller Street, Binghamton, New York.

—We thank those who have sent us the editorial on stamp collecting that appeared in the Shaffer string of newspapers and we shall have an observation or two to make on it next week.

—The following paragraph meets the eye in "Through Hidden Shensi" (China) by Francis H. Nichols, published by Charles Scribner's Sons, N. Y.:

"In addition to their other duties, the Shansi police carry the mail across the mountains from the newly established post-office in Tai Yuan. Swinging across the pommels of their saddles are the raw-hide mail-sacks of the Imperial postal-service. From what I saw of their system of handling the mail I am inclined to believe that the average Shansi policeman has only a very indefinite idea of what a letter is. He often holds the sealed mail-bag up to the light and tries to look through it. He uses it as a blanket at night and as a cushion in the day; but he knows that if one of the mysterious pouches should be lost or stolen, he would 'lose his face' forever, and the result is that the Shansi mail now reaches Pekin twice a week with unfailing regularity."

—In answer to an inquiry made by a reader and referred to Mr. K. A. Wallquist, he writes:

"In regard to the stamps of SWEDEN, since the first issue in 1855 they have been made by private individuals and firms, but since Jan., 1920, they are made completely by the Swedish Government.

In 1919 the Swedish P. M. General, Mr. J. Juhlin, visited this country, where he purchased all the machinery and rights for making the plates, printing, gumming and perforating of Coil Stamps, which stamps are today in general use in Sweden, in four different designs exclusive of two designs now obsolete:

Type 1—Coat of Arms.

Type 2—Lion.

Type 3—Gustaf V.

Type 5—Gustaf V.

Gustaf II Adolf, Jubilee, obsolete, only 1 value. Gustaf Wasa, Jubilee, 3 values, obsolete.

The four types now in use in values of: 3, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, 45, 50, 60, 70, 80, 100, 110, 140 öre.

Since 1920, the colors on several values has changed as well as new wmk. lines and letters (the last named not listed by Scott) and some values about six different are to be found perf. 10, all around.

I have so far been unable to obtain a complete checklist of these stamps but expect one this fall or next spring, at which time I will be glad to write you more about these stamps.

I forgot to mention: the first "Tete-Beche" Stamps in Sweden came out in 1921—Type 2—10 öre green issue: 15,000."

—"Wholesale offers in German stamps have dropped about 50% in the last month due to the fact that sales in wholesale lots were not as big as anticipated, and also for want of foreign currency in Germany. However the prices are not likely to drop any more, and some items no doubt will be due to an advance in the near future."—ERWIN STRASSER.

—The annual convention of the American Philatelic Society will be held at Detroit, August 12-14. Dr. W. L. Babcock is chairman of the committee on arrangements and the details of the convention will be looked after as follows:—Dr. W. L. Babcock, auction and bourse; Herman W. Boers, publicity; C. F. Heyerman, ex-officio; Dr. H. Preston Hoskins, secretary; A. C. Hutchinson, entertainment; J. A. Jungwirth, H. J. Kaufmann, printing and program; John

Contains 50 twenty-pound bond round corner leaves, faintly printed in green quadrille. Neat border which provides space for name of country or other information as desired. For specialized collections, cancellations, plate numbers, blocks and precancels, this ruling is without question the only practical method one can use. The cover or binder is made from heavy red artcraft, which has long taken the place of leather. In fact, the artcraft is used in leading loose-leaf book manufacturers for the better grade of books. The post binding system has been found by experience out-wear the old time rings.

This album could be easily sold for twice the price asked and the buyer would feel well satisfied with his purchase. The workmanship is far above the average. Work cannot begin to tell of the beauty of the book. So positive are we that you will be pleased that we guarantee to refund your money without question if upon receipt of book you feel you have been misled in any way. Pages measure 8 1/4 x 9 3/4. Ask for my books of Fiji, New Zealand, Samoa and other Pacific Islands. I appear again at my regular summer address:

FORREST SHREVE, CARMEL, CALIF.

Kay, W. T. Livingstone, Henry M. Loch and banquet; Fred Schmalzriedt exhibition; J. E. Scott, finance; L. White, registration.

—Two recent additions to our list pamphlets are numbers 45 and 46 respectively, "Belgium" by Mr. Poole and "British Central Africa" by Mr. Melville. These little books are very well presented typographically while the information that they contain is such as to cover their interesting subjects exhaustively. We are near the fifty mark in our book issues and by keeping at the task popularizing them, we have in the aggregate distributed many thousands, thereby anchoring the attention of buyers a way that the transient literature of the day could not hope to accomplish.

—"In the New York Antiquarian recently appeared a discussion of star collecting. A review of this article, Gardner Teall is found in the Batavia Daily News issue of May 8, 1924. The Daily News devotes an entire column to this subject. Mr. Teall defends the hobby, saying that it is no longer simply a pursuit for the boys and that it is fast becoming a recognized recreation. He states that it is an inexpensive hobby, covers history and tells stories. MONTGOMERY MULFORD.

CALL FOR CONVENTION.

The Sixth Annual Convention of the United Stamp Societies, for the election of officers and for the transaction of such other business as may legally be brought before it, will be called to order at Boston, Massachusetts, on Saturday the thirty-first of May, 1924, at 10 o'clock (daylight saving time) and continue until all such business shall have been disposed of.

I hereby appoint the following members to serve as a Committee on Credentials: Wm. F. Van Malder, Suburban Stamp and Curio Club, Chairman; A. Rice, Worcester Stamp Club; G. Ryder, Boston Philatelic Society.

Before you leave for your summer vacation, send us your address that we may send our Summer Selections on to you. Join the host of WACO clients NOW!

Our BRITISH COLONIAL DEPARTMENT carries mainly the 19th century stamps of the better class. Ask for a selection.

You'll Enjoy Waco's "Distinctive Service".

Special Collections At Investment Prices

Representing recent purchases of excellent value and offered to our customers at close-to-cost prices; highly recommended as the finest investment, and will net large profits to the retail dealer if resold.

BRITISH WEST INDIES

(Including Br. Guiana and Honduras)

A remarkable collection of more than 500 stamps of the West Indies. In the cheaper varieties there are a small number of duplications, but these will prove quite interesting in shades, cancellations, etc.

Included among other nice items are the following:

Antigua—Nos. 2 (used and unused), 3, 4, 4a, 7 (several singles and pairs), 8 (strips).

Bahamas—Nos. 2, 8, 9, etc.

Barbados—Nice copy of No. 4 on original cover; singles of Nos. 2, 4, 6 (3 copies), 9 (5 copies), 13a, 14, 18, 26, 27, 37, 38, etc., etc.

British Guiana—Nos. 9a, 11, 38, 40, 17, 19 (used and unused), 21, 22, 24, 26, 27 (shades), 33, 44 (used and unused), 60 (2 unused), 61, 64, 65, 66, 67, 69, 81, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88a, 91, 92 (strip 3), 96, 99, 100, 102, 103 (block of six showing both types), etc., etc.

British Honduras—Nos. 1, 3, 4, 5, 7, 8, 11, 12, 27, etc.

Nevis—Nos. 1 (unused), 5 (3 copies), 6, 7 (used and unused), 8 (2 unused), 12, 18, etc.

St. Lucia—Nos. 1, 4, 7 (6 copies), 8, 9, 9a, 10, 10a (pair on cover), 12 (6 fine copies), 14, 14a, 20, 21, 24, 25, 40, etc.

St. Vincent—Nos. 1b, 2, 4, 7, 8, 9, 12, 13, 21, 27, 28, 32, 36, etc.

Trinidad—Nos. 2, 3, 8, 10, 16, 22, 31, 35, 36, 39, 40, 42, 43, 45, 46, etc., etc.

Turks Islands—Nos. 1, 7a, 8, 15, 19, etc.

The popularity and value of all West Indian stamps is well known and convincingly proved by the rapid price advances. We therefore feel that further descriptions are superfluous; suffice it to say that the average condition is very good and that the collection can be submitted on approval against a cash deposit or first class commercial references.

UNITED STATES

A nice lot of mostly the early issues, some of which show an interesting variety of shades, cancellations, etc. Included are:

1847, 10c; 1851, 10c, 2 copies; 1857, 12c; 5 copies; 24c, 90c; 1862, 5c brown, 5 copies; 31, 12c, 8 copies; 1862, 24c, 10 copies; 30c, 8 copies; 90c, 7 copies; 1869, 10c, 4 copies; 2, 12 copies; 15c, 7 copies; 24c, 2 copies inc. red cancellation; 1870-1, 7c, 5 copies; 1873, 2, 5 copies, etc., etc.

Also a fair assortment of the less expensive Departments.

The collection also contains quite a few proofs, specimens, facsimiles, etc., which are not counted in figuring its value.

About 250 stamps in all, condition very fair to fine.

TOTAL CATALOGUE VALUE OVER SIX HUNDRED DOLLARS

OUR NET PRICE, $255.00

New Republic

A VERY FINE SPECIALIZED COLLECTION

Contains, with only several exceptions, everything listed by Scott as well as a great many unlisted varieties which are catalogued by Yvert & Tellier and Gibbons.

Included are a few pairs and blocks, practically everything in the way of double impressions, errors without date, tete beche, arms inverted, arms tete beche, arms inverted, imperforate vertically and horizontally, etc., etc.

NET VALUE IS ALMOST NINE HUNDRED POUNDS, EQUAL TO ABOUT $4,500.00!

All copies are in the finest condition, with full gum, and are unconditionally guaranteed genuine. These stamps are by no means common or speculative and even the best collectors lack the scarcer values. The lot comes from the estate of a former postmaster in South Africa and was obtained by us only after considerable effort. We've seldom had the privilege of offering such a valuable and highly specialized collection of any one country, and it has our highest recommendation as a "good buy," either for resale or investment purposes.

NET PRICE ONLY $735.00

Early South America

A very fine little collection of 213 early issues from a few of the South American countries.

Among the best items are: 20 singles of Argentina, Nos. 5, 5a and 7c, some on pieces of cover; two singles of No. 17; Nos. 33, 88, 175 (used and unused), 246, 4 copies Buenos Aires, No. 10; 2 of No. 13, etc.

Brazil: (Bull's Eyes) 1 copy of No. 1 and 4 copies of No. 2; 6 copies of the 180r, 2, 26, also Nos. 27, 28, 39, etc.

Chile, Ecuador, Colombia: A few of the earliest issues.

Mexico: Superb mint block of 16 of No. 27.

Peru: Nice copy of ½ peso buff, No. 6; 4 copies of No. 8, etc.

Uruguay: Unused copy of No. 6; also Nos. 10, 11, 13, 13b, 13c, 15, 16, 23, 26, etc.

Average condition of specimens is unusually good.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

"I consider the Portuguese Colonial collection of 1,500 varieties the best money-maker at $67.50 I have had in a long time, and will want another one—the fourth—in about ten days. The dealer who cannot make money with these collections must be lacking appreciative customers."—D. M. Ward, 608 Buchanan St., Gary, Ind.

"My collection numbered 27,220 varieties at the time I ordered the 1,500 Portuguese Colonial collection from you at $67.50. I want to say that in all my dealings I have never made a purchase which was so thoroughly appreciated. The stamps were not only good in quality, but also in character, and I added to my large collection 695 stamps catalogued $248.07, and have 805 varieties with which to make up exchange books. I am indeed pleased!"—Senator F. A. Godcharles, Harrisburg, Pa.

This is the collection which has been praised far and wide, both by collectors and dealers, as the most remarkable offering made in years. Scores of pleased testimonials, similar to the above, are on file, most of them expressing not only the deepest satisfaction, but also wonderment as to "how we can do it."

The collection is mounted by countries in a blank book. Most of the stamps are used and every copy having been selected with care, the condition is practically perfect throughout. The beautiful Vasco da Gama issues rub elbows familiarly with scarce ovationals and other hard-to-get varieties, catalogued up to several dollars each. Twentieth century issues are present in parade array, some of the smaller colonies being most complete. One of the best features is the large number of sets, many of which are entirely complete. All in all, a most attractive assembling, and one of unusual value and merit.

Sale Price—$45.00

N.B. Don't confuse this collection with a packet of the same size. It was specially prepared by us, and is guaranteed to catalogue from 20% to 25% more than any similar offerings.

Australia

EARLY ISSUES ONLY

A very good collection of 320 stamps from New South Wales, New Zealand, Queensland, South Australia and Victoria, of the early issues only.

Among the good items may be found: New South Wales, Nos. 1, 2, 2c, 9, 10, 10b, 13, 14, 14a, 15, 16, 27 (4 copies), 29, 29a, 31, 31a, 31b, 34a, 44a (unused), 304, etc.

New Zealand, Nos. 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 11a, 11b, 12, 12a, 18, 18a, 19, 19a, 20, 20b, 21a, 21b, 21c, 22a, 30, etc.

South Australia, Nos. 2, 3, 8, 10, 13, 13a, 14, 15, etc.

Victoria, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 6, 8, 27, 29, 401, etc.

TOTAL CATALOGUE VALUE APPROXIMATELY $1,800.00

The condition is much above the average for stamps of this class.

French Colonials

We have on hand several good collections of the 19th and early 20th centuries, each collection ranging in net value from $100 to $500, of the various French Colonies.

Interested parties furnishing good commercial references may have any one of these on approval for ten days. Prices reasonable for quick sale.

"Specimens"

We often obtain small collections of the scarcer British Colonials (through the £10 values) surcharged "Specimen." It is said that these were distributed through the Postal Union to the different governments, and some denominations are very limited in number.

We would be glad to submit these collections on approval from time to time, as they are obtained, to responsible parties.

The Bi-Monthly Journal

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinarily good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

Scarce Stamps As Sterling Investments

A perusal of the Scott catalogue during the past ten years will show the phenomenal price increases which have taken place in practically all of the better grade stamps of the 19th and early 20th centuries. Old collections recently sold have brought their owners very handsome profits.

Thousands of philatelists have recognized this fact, and are making purchases, not only with the idea of completing their collections, but also for the purpose of investing in property which, under favorable conditions, will appreciate more rapidly in value and with less risk than stocks, bonds, or real estate.

Many long and unnecessary articles have been written by various dealers on the subject, whereas there are but two simple (although important) essentials necessary for a thoroughly successful investment:

- (1) The use of good judgment by the collector in selecting the right class of stamps to be purchased.
- (2) Ability of the collector to buy at prices very close to the actual wholesale (dealers') market value.

A Statement of Facts

Through our extensive buying connections, built up by personal correspondence and contact, and as a result of many years' advertising in several languages, we obtain some of the finest

GENERAL AND SPECIALIZED COLLECTIONS

—in the medium-priced class—to be found anywhere.

As we handle no retail business, these collections are sold by us intact—regardless of their potential value if they were broken up for resale—at our regular wholesale margin of profit.

This fact, coupled with our ability to buy from the most direct sources and at the lowest prices, places us in a most excellent position to serve philatelists who wish to be assured of good investments while building up their collections.

If YOU are interested in the financial future of your stamp expenditures and are willing to make purchases if fully assured on this point, simply fill in the attached slip, with no obligation, and return it to us. Do it NOW!

Gentlemen:—I am interested in a good *collection of stamps from the following countries and groups of countries:

Kindly let me have full particulars of any collection of the above nature which you have on hand, or may obtain in the near future.

It is understood that you would be willing to send the collection to me for a three-day inspection if I so desired (in which case I will submit satisfactory references) and that I am not obligating myself in any way by making such a request.

I am willing to invest from $100 to $500 if fully satisfied that it is an investment.

Yours very truly,

A BILL, 9159.

To amend the Tariff Act of 1922.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That paragraph 1671 of Schedule 15, Title II, of the Tariff Act of 1922 be amended to read as follows:

Par. 1671. Stamps: Postage or revenue stamps, canceled or un-canceled, and Government-stamped post cards bearing no other printing than the official imprint there-
on.

The purpose of this bill is to correct the law so that used U. S. stamps coming from Europe may not have a 25% duty levied upon them as at present. Every subscriber is urged to write his or her congressman in behalf of House bill number 9159.
You must realize its importance—don't leave this matter to some one else.

EDITORIAL.

A suggestion has been made by Mr.
Fred. G. Floyd that if adopted will increase the usefulness of the Philatelic Agency at Washington. For some time he has been trying to persuade the authorities to make provision for the sale to collectors of entire envelopes, any or all of the envelopes listed on the official schedule. As he says, it is impossible to get all of the different shapes and sizes in small lots at any office and the minimum number sold of many of the sizes is much greater than the collector cares to buy. We think that this phase will have consideration by the authorities and that ultimately the sphere of service of the stamp agency will be widened in the manner indicated.

Sir Nicholas Waterhouse of London, England, who is an admirer and student of the stamps of the United States, contributes a note on the 1861 issue of the United States to the April number of the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain, the 400th number, be it said, of this meritorious magazine. He says that the latest edition of the Specialized United States catalogue lists under the second issue of 1861, the ten cent green in "August shade." Commenting on this addition, he says that all the other values of set may be found with the distinguishing characteristics of the August stamps, in so far as the thin, brittle paper, the deep brown gum and to some extent, the similarity of shade enter into the calculation. Sir Nicholas says that he has in his collection a mint set of the 1861 issue, September, which perhaps was one of the sets distributed gratuitously by the post-office department to foreign countries when the stamps were first issued, that gives point to his contention. The findings of the specialist have every color of fact and for some little time students here have been describing certain of the twenty-four cent of 1861, as on August paper, even though they may not have claimed full fellowship for the stamp in the August classification. Sir Nicholas Waterhouse says that whenever he finds a stamp of this issue on thin, transparent paper, it proves to be in the very shade of one of the stamps in the set spoken of in his possession; and we are inclined to accept as established the claim that the September stamps may be found on August paper with brown gum and in distinctive shades of color. We are pleased to recognize the interesting data that Sir Nicholas presents and to say that his inclination for our stamps is a tribute to their attractions.

The news of the different philatelic exhibitions abroad has impelled several of our readers to inquire why it is that the opportunity to hold a philatelic exhibition on a large scale in this country remains neglected. The question is asked by those who wish the United States to have its place "in the van of philatelic progress" and is not to be ignored con-temporarily, of course, but it is unlikely that those who ask the question have any idea of the vast amount of preliminary work entailed by planning for an international exhibition. To have a real conception of the scope of an exhibition of the kind, one must have had experience in the work; and in order to ensure success for the display, a board of advisers must earnestly co-operate, from beginning to end. We have had a number of exhibitions in this country and the event in New York that is so well remembered was our greatest achievement.
Previously, the exhibition at the Art Institute, Chicago, 1911, during the convention of the American Philatelic return than could be made through the ordinary channels of investment. Feel-Society there furnished the greatest triumph for philately. To those who express impatience at our dilatory methods, we address ourselves to them to say that at the great celebration at Philadelphia, in 1926, an international philatelic exhibition will be held during the convention of the American Philatelic Society there, according to present plans;

and it would be unwise for any city to try to anticipate this occasion. We believe that organized effort will soon be made to launch the campaign for the Philadelphia exhibition as it soon will be none too early to give thought to the whole scheme of the exhibition. In another year we shall almost be in touch with the exhibition and the time will soon wear away; and it will not be long before the committees will be working to achieve the most signal victory ever won by philately on this continent. As the months roll on, the coming exhibition will loom larger on the horizon.

We have received a letter from the father of one of our boy readers, telling of a compliment paid his son by the principal of the school that he attends.
The principal was giving the class a quiz in history and geography and evidently some of the questions were not "in the book," judging from the way in which they bowled over the young Solons. Here is where our little hero rushed to the rescue and jumping over the prostrate forms, he got to the front where he answered the knotty questions without batting an eye. The principal was impressed; and she wanted to know how it was that only he of all the class could answer the brain-teasers; and Cuthbert replied: "I did it with my stamp album."

There are a good many exponents of "practical philately" who ask what is the reasonable expectancy on the score of financial profit through stamp investment. The inquiry sometimes comes from the substantial business man who asks for an opinion in confidence for the individual rather than the multitude.
The request has been made that we advise as to the propriety of investing a considerable sum of money in stamps in the hope of realizing in time, a greater ing that we have no special knowledge of opportunities for investment that is particularly privileged, we do not feel competent to advise with certainty as to what the developments of the stamp market may be. It is our belief that the true collector does not give so much attention to the profit possibilities that the thought of financial accretion overshadows all else. He does not trim his sales to catch every little gust of the trade winds. Through Mr. West, who shares the results of calculations with readers, we have been getting authori-zations on the speculative aspect of philately and the showing is one that is creditable to philately. Mr. Phillips, too, is an able and experienced student of the market, whose findings are worth hearing. The fact that advancing prices in general characterize the stamp market

LAY OF NOVA SCOTIA AT COLLECTOR'S CLUB BY W. F. VAN MALDER.

Notes by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.
Wednesday evening, May 14th, Mr.
F. Van Malder kindly came from on and showed his specialised col-n of Nova Scotia.
Van Malder is a Nova Scotian by but has been a citizen of this ry for many years. He told us that egan to collect stamps some 38 ago and, naturally, specialised in rly issues of his home district.
la collection starts with the fine old ue of which nearly one hundred s were shown, a large number on s with interesting cancellations and varieties of shades. Here was half used in conjunction with a 6d green ake up the 7 1/2d rate to Great n.
6d stamps were shown in several
s with fine yellow greens and dark on the original covers.
1sh in this collection has about the t margin seen in this stamp.
Cents issue was remarkably strong ers with stamps showing the vary-tes to different countries.
Van Malder mentioned that he ound the 8 1/2c and 12 1/2c scarce on s, the former especially so. He also ht up his book of Canada and nd a number of interesting pairs, and blocks.

On May 15 we received three applications for membership in our Honor Club. One came from F. O. Ohlund of Mattapan, Mass., while those of Messrs.
T. W. Simpson and L. C. Leimbach were received through the office of E. P.
Seeborn of San Francisco. Mr. Seeborn is a loyal friend of the WEEKLY and uses considerable of his time in helping us along. We quote from his letter as follows and thank him for his splendid co-operation:—

"I have sent a good many renewals (1 year) in the past and it occurred to me it would be just as easy to send in some five-year renewals. The idea really originated with Mr. Leimbach who handed me his check for $5.00 and asked me to send it to you as he thought "it might do me some good." I know it cannot possibly do me any harm. My friend Mr. Simpson called a little later and thought it was a great idea and wrote his check for $5.00. Here they are. I have not done much recruiting but will reform. We are really very busy and my 21st auction next week stirs up a lot of latent interest. Best wishes."

We acknowledge the receipt of $5 from Charles E. Swan, Trenton, N. J., for a five-year renewal of subscription. Mr.
Swan is secretary-treasurer of the Eureka Tire Co. Inc., of Trenton.

Two applications for membership in our Honor Club were received in the same mail on Tuesday, May 20. One was from C. H. Goodrich, Jacksonville, Fla., and the other was from F. W.
Bohle, of Oakland, Cal. Mr. Bohle finds the WEEKLY indispensable and has obtained many U. S. for his collection through our paper.

We acknowledge with thanks a check for $5 from Mrs. Alice G. Crandall, New London, Conn. In making her re-

UNITED STATES FIRST DAY COVERS

1924, 3c Purple, Lincoln, SIDEWISE COIL. The new 1924 3c purple, portrait of Lincoln, sidewise coil, was placed on sale in Washington on Saturday, May 10, 1924. I arranged for a few mailed on the day of issue, and while these last may be had at 50c each. Each cover shows the dated postmark very clearly. As far as I can learn, this stamp came in almost unheralded and when this lot is gone, no more are to be had.

Can also furnish the coil in unused mint strips of four at 25c for a normal strip and 40c for a line strip.

What else do you require in first day covers or coils? Have a very fine stock and want lists are solicited.

STAMP COLLECTORS ALL.

(This editorial is taken from the New York "Herald-Tribune" and its comment is based upon the Soviet news article to which we make reference in News Cleanings. Thanks to numerous subscribers for the clipping.—W. O. W.)

"Philatelists of the world, unite!" is the latest message from Moscow. The Soviet genius for propaganda extends even to hobbies. Communist Russia not only maintains a philatelic department of the government but is eager to spread stamp lore among all nations, to compare notes, to swap specimens, to expose counterfeits and, in all ways, to further the camaraderie of stamp collectors.

It will be a curious bond of kinship that unites the Red proletariat with most of the crowned heads of Europe. Kings have a special weakness for philately. George V has one of the finest of collections, although when a new find comes into the market he is usually outbid by a gentleman from Utica or San Francisco. Alfonso of Spain has suffered similar disappointments from American rivals, but he perseveres. King Fuad of Egypt is an ardent collector, and evidently a whimsical one, for he specializes in the issues of the Confederate States. The dens, in fact, of all royal families are cluttered with stamp albums.

Perhaps the Soviet has found in philately a common human denominator. It is the widest spread of all collecting pastimes, with an equal appeal apparently to prince and pauper and persons in between. A little knowledge of the craft might stand anybody in good stead. It would have profited, for example, the man who brought a sheet of 100 twenty-four-cent airplane stamps in Washington and immediately returned them when he found the airplane was inverted. The sheet was later sold to Colonel E. H. R. Green for $20,000.

United States.

Fine U. S. Covers Bring Good Prices.

I had the pleasure of attending the Kelleher sale in Boston, on May 17th, and I must say that I have never seen fine United States postage stamps, especially early covers, bring such high prices. In fact, fine things, without exception, made records. The collector who has or is putting his money in the issues of our country is making no mistake, no matter what issue he might pick out. The only thing is to watch condition, and this must be of the best.

Railroad cancellations on the 3c, of 1851, 1857 and 1861, went at prices ranging from $3.75 up to $37.00, a strip of the 1c 1851 cancelled in blue "South Carolina R. R." on the entire cover went at $180.00. A fine copy of the 10c, 1847, on cover with "U. S. Express Mail, Boston," changed owners at $98.00, a fine pair of the same stamp on cover at $330.00. A wonderful strip of three of the 1857, 3c Type I, along with the 1c on cover sold at $37.00, strips of the 12c 1857, brought fine prices and your editor annexed a wonderful block on cover along with other stamps at $505.00. A horizontal pair of the 30c along with two copies of the 3c, making a double sixty-six rate to Cape of Good Hope, went into a Boston collection at $510.00. Personally, I purchased a perfection strip of three of the 10c August along with the 3c Rose, making a thirty-three cent rate to Cape of Good Hope at a price of $405. This was possibly the finest thing in the sale. There were two wonderful covers of 1861, each having a 5c buff, a 1c blue and a pair of the 30c orange, making the double rate to the same town—and one of these went to Springfield at $205.00, and your editor obtained the other at $220.00.

A wonderful copy of the 3c grilled all over on cover sold at $66.00. The grill on this stamp was certainly different from any that I have ever seen, and if it is the real thing, it certainly is a wonderful piece. A vertical strip of five of the 2c 1893, with the famous Kicking Mule cancellation came to Philadelphia at $9.50.

A fine copy of the 5c New York off cover went to Cincinnati, at $81.00. Ordinary copies of the lower values from 1847 to 1861 brought catalog and more, even in the case of average condition. A superb 5c 1851, went to Michigan, at an extremely reasonable price of $28.50. A copy of the 1c 1857, broken plate with perfs. clipped, sold at $91.00. Fine copies of the Type IIIa sold at from $9.00 to $32.00, the finer ones going into a Providence collection. A Cincinnati collector took away the 3c broken plate with straight edge at right at $45.00. Odd cancellations brought the highest prices that I have ever seen. A silhouette in blue of Uncle Sam on the 3c 1861, went to a Boston dealer at $35.50, the same stamp cancelled with what is described as an All Seeing Eye remained in Boston at $20.00.

In the later issues a 2c of 1883, cancelled in black with a locomotive, sold at $23.50. Other stamps went on a similar basis.

Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary Series.

Mr. Erwin Strasser kindly sends me a first day cover with the entire series of the Huguenot-Walloon stamps used from Cleveland, Ohio, on May 1st. It seems Mr. Strasser obtained a supply of this variety via Special Delivery from Albany, and they reached him in time to remail them on the same day.

Fine Things from Boston.

While in Boston I had the pleasure of acquiring several other very fine United States items which are worthy of chronicle, as they are recent finds. One item consisted of a wonderful block of thirteen of the 10c 1857, Type I, with a strong stitch watermark. This consisted of two horizontal pairs and three strips of three, so that it was possible to break it into a wonderful block of nine, and an equally superb block of four. I also obtained a perfection copy of the 1c 1857, the rare Ia, on the entire circular, cancelled in black, New York.

CHINA.—Mr. E. G. Young in a re letter writes the following:—

"I have the WEEKLY for March 1 before me, containing a note borro with credit from Stamp Collecti on which I am forced to m criticism. First with regard to air-mail: The first flight series, f Peking to Tsinanfu was not withdr after one flight; there were several interruptions of the service but it contin intermittently for close to two mont there were probably a dozen flights way. As to the total number of co on the very first trip cancelled with special chop referred to, one man 120, and obviously there were ot The second series of flights were t of the Peking-Paitaiho service of 1 the series lasting about a month stated. In addition to the regular p marks a mark was applied to the ver "For Dispatch by Air-mail," the this stamp or chop was so poorly n that often only the dotted border is ble. Of the third series of services, king-Tientsin and Peking Paitaiho, trips were so seldom made or so sel successful that no one had much inte in it, though first-trip covers have seen.

It is time to forget the Paotai "stamps" along with the $2 Manch and the $2 on $1 rubber stamp surch U. S. P. O., in Shanghai. The la were prepared more as joke than thing else by a member of the r committee who did not find himself busily engaged, and no one conver with the fact can find anv excuse their existence: there were of cours charges collected on the packages or ters of the bandits' prisoners by the lief committee or anyone else.

The double oval "chop" on the rent (more properly ex-curent) of China is scarcely anything recent ing a familiar thing to collectors in country for over five years. It commemorates the election of President in the fall of 1918. This may have an actual postal "chop" but I doubt having searched industriously for any other form than applied to sim and blocks of otherwise unused sta pasted to sheets of paper. It alw comes in purple ink, while black celling ink is de rigueur in the service.

Other notes: There is supposed to an airmail service in operation betw Mukden and Jehol. Can not vouch this, but the reports are creditable a source. No official notices have appe here. The new issue (or rather the engraved issue) has had added to it eight-cent value. The following val are still lacking: 6c, 10c, 16c, $1, $5, Express stamps 1.60 lire, Foreign series overprinted on 1.20 lire, will have no overprint, according to the current tariff for Foreign mail. Three Parcel Post provisionals have appeared, viz.:—30c on 5c brown, 60c on brown, and 1.15 on 5c.—Stamp Collecting.

PANAMA.—Mr. E. G. Young advises:—The Japanese stamps catalogued in current Scott, addenda Nos. 171 to local dealers state positively that they do not exist. This information already be common property but I have not seen it elsewhere. Straits No. 3c grey seems to be in the same color. I recently saw a lot of 10,000 Straits current imported by a local dealer—these yielded plenty of every denomination up to the dollar, but never a cent gray. If it exists is it an "mystery stamp?"

PALESTINE.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us a green, new shade, on script watermarked paper. Also the $1 on script watermarked yellow paper.

MALTA.—Miss A. Stafford, of Wolverton, tells us, on very good authority, that the stamps of Malta are to be changed and again have the head of George.—Stamp Collecting.

RUSSIA.—Our Moscow correspondent tells us that a perforated Lenin series is coming out—the same design as last. Stamp Collecting.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the appearance of the postage due stamp perf. 14, no watermark, Pretoria printing.

THE MATTER OF "COLOR."

By F. S. CRAMER.

I have just finished reading the article by Mr. Applegate on "Color." His article was most entertaining and from a scientific standpoint essentially correct—therefore I do not wish to take issue with him on one or two minor points with which I do not fully agree.

In the past few years my labors have been, to a great extent, the handling of, and analysis of color values, consequently I was very much put to it to find some means of expression for color other than the crude names then existent. My time was so occupied that it was impossible for me to delve into the subject scientifically and try to originate a system from my own study—therefore I cast about to find what science had done with color. I was most fortunate in obtaining the charts and guide of Mr. A. H. Munsell—known as the Munsell System of Color Notation.

The closing sentence of Mr. Applegate's article was " * * * as well as the more scientific designation which would be largely by symbol, arranged perhaps on a percentage basis." That is exactly what the Munsell system does—it has reduced color nomenclature to symbolic notation.

As an illustration of the great limitations placed on the individual by linguistic shortcomings, Mr. Munsell, in the opening paragraph of his book, "A Color Notation," says: "Writing from Samoa, on October 8th, 1892, to Sidney Colvin in London, Robert Louis Stevenson says: 'Perhaps in the same way it might amuse you to send us any pattern of wall paper that might strike you as cheap, pretty and suitable for a room in a hot and extremely bright climate. It should be borne in mind that our climate can be extremely dark, too. Our sitting room is to be in varnished wood. The room I have particularly in mind is a sort of bed and sitting room, pretty large, lit on three sides, and the colour in favor of its proprietor at present is a topazy-yellow. But then with what colour to relieve it? For a little work room of my own at the back, I should rather like to see some patterns of unglossy—well, I'll be hanged if I can describe this red—it's not Turkish and it's not Roman and it's not Indian, but it seems to partake of the two last, and yet it can't be either of them because it ought to be able to go with vermilion. Ah, what a tangled web we weave—anyway, with what brains you have left choose me and send me some—many—patterns of this exact shade."

"Thus one of the clearest and most forceful writers of English finds himself unable to describe the color he wants. And why? Simply because popular language does not clearly state a single one of the three qualities united in every color, and which must be known before one may even hope to convey his color conceptions to another.

Mr. Munsell through his 23 years of research in the field of color has reduced all color measurements to three dimensions, Hue, Value, and Chroma.

Hue is the value by which we distinguish one color from another, as a red from a yellow, or a green, or a purple, but does not tell us whether it is light or dark, weak or strong,—leaving us in doubt as to its value and its chroma.

Value is the quality by which we distinguish a light color from a dark one, color values are loosely called tints and shades, but the terms are frequently misapplied. A photometric scale of value places all colors in relation to the extremes of white and black, but cannot describe their hue or their chroma.

Chroma is the quality by which we describe a strong color from a weak one. Loss of chroma is commonly called fading. Science describes chroma as the purity of one wave length separated from all others.

Every color can be recognized, named, matched, and written by its Hue, Value and Chroma.

There are five primary colors, (notwithstanding Mr. Applegate's contention of six) these are R (red), Y (yellow), G (green), B (blue), and P (purple). Intermediates formed by uniting successive pairs are also written by the joined initials, YR (yellow-red), GY (green-yellow), BG (blue-green), PB (purple-blue), RP (red-purple), etc. This is Hue.

Middle Colors, as implied by the name, stand midway between black and white, dividing this further into ten equal stages and numbering them from one to ten beginning at the black end, it can be seen that number five would be neutral gray or equal parts of black and white. This is value. Therefore a middle distance red would be written R— $\frac{5}{5}$ but as yet would give no Chroma—or imply the strength of this particular red. Chromas are written thus R— $\frac{1}{1}$, R— $\frac{5}{5}$, R— $\frac{10}{10}$, according to the weakness or strength of pigment, $\frac{1}{1}$ being low luminosity, $\frac{5}{5}$ midway, and $\frac{10}{10}$ being the strongest red in the chroma scale—vermillion.

Therefore a middle distance red, of medium strength would be written R— $\frac{5}{5}$ a deeper shade of the same color might be R— $\frac{4}{5}$, or R— $\frac{2}{5}$, while a tint might be R— $\frac{6}{5}$, or R— $\frac{8}{5}$.

In this manner it is possible to notate any color for which pigment can be mixed so that another person can exactly duplicate or match it without the necessity of having a sample of the original color for comparison.

The largest printing and lithographic ink manufacturers in this country have adopted this system of color notation so that it is now possible to match colors exactly by telegraph.

Why, if this is possible for the printing and lithographic trades, who are the makers of postage stamps, is it not possible for the collector to adopt the same system and instead of employing lengthy names that may or may not approximate the color, use a short symbol of proven authenticity?

The foregoing should not be taken as a disagreement in any way with Mr. Applegate's able summing up of the color situation in the pursuit of Philately, but as an extenuation of his article, and if used as I intend it should be, will, I hope, serve to help those whose eye for color is not trained by constant use over a period of years.

Anyone desiring Mr. Munsell's charts and book can no doubt get them from the publishers. Munsell Color Company, 220 West 42nd Street, New York City.

We now have left on our hands four bound volumes: one of 1902, two of 1906, and one of 1907. They are offered at the very low price of $2 each, plus the zone parcel post charges on five pounds per volume. The books are handsomely bound and if you have had any recent dealings with a bindery firm you will realize the bargain we offer you.

J. HAROLD BLACKNEY.

Mr. Blackney has been considerably before the public in recent years but it is not generally known that he lays claim to being the tallest philatelist living. He is 6 ft. 7 ins. tall and proposes to hold the title even though he be compelled to stretch himself a bit. His hobby is "Internacio Ligo" organized in 1907, of which he is president. He is a Shriner, and Washington, D. C., collectors who last June saw an unusually tall Drum Major in the annual parade saw Mr. Blackney. We profit from Mr. Joseph's Collectors' Advertiser by reprinting the following:—

The "I. L." is superior to other similar clubs, in many ways. Its membership is not bulky and unwieldy, and its 800 some members comprise a wide range of countries and colonies, which enables a collector to enter into desirable exchange relations, especially with correspondents in British Colonies. The "I. L." aims to have as members English speaking collectors, and membership propaganda is centered upon the Continent of America, West Indies and all British Colonies. The "I. L." offers exceptional opportunity for collectors to get in touch with correspondents offering U. S. and Colonial stamps for exchange.

The "I. L." has many members in Newfoundland, Barbados, St. Lucia, Grenada, Jamaica, Trinidad, British Guiana, etc. Likewise in such colonies like Malta, Cyprus, Iraq, Ceylon, Kedah, Sarawak, Seychelles, Macao, Indo-China, etc. The "I. L." has many members in the Canal Zone and Panama.

The "I. L." encourages the use of Esperanto as an auxiliary or substitute language, and it offers to its membership a serial course of Esperanto study, enabling any member so inclined to learn this international language very easily. The club's official publication Monda Posto (World's Post) appears bi-monthly, and as a special feature, is mailed to the membership from a different country or colony. Mailings have already been dispatched from Switzerland, Canal Zone, Panama, Costa Rica, Colombia, U. S., etc.

The M. P. contains articles of interest to the membership, club news, and roster of new members and addresses. Semi-annually a complete membership roster "Nomaro" is forwarded to the members. A "New Issue" Chronicle is conducted by one of the prominent members residing in England, likewise a New Issue Service at 10% above face value is maintained.

HAIFA-BAGDAD MOTOR SERVICE

This department has accepted the transfer of the London office to transmit to Haifa for onward transmission by the Haifa-Bagdad motor service ordinary registered letters, postal cards, private matter, samples of merchandise and commercial papers, except parcel-post packages to Beyrouth, Damascus, and Baghdad, at the rate of 6 cents an ounce fraction thereof, in addition to the international rate of postage required, motor mail fee, and the postage rate to be prepaid by postage stamps affixed to each piece at time of mailing. Mail matter intended for dispatch by the Haifa-Bagdad motor service should bear in upper left-hand corner of the envelope or cover a label with the words "By Haifa-Bagdad mail, Haifa-Bagdad," or in lieu of the label, be prominently marked as indicated so that the articles when assembled may not be overlooked.

All mail articles for this service will be dispatched to New York for onward transmission from that exchange office.

Mail matter marked for dispatch by the Haifa-Bagdad motor service, will be dispatched to New York every Thursday, will be delivered at Beyrouth and Damascus approximately 7 days and at Haifa approximately 9 days after dispatch from London, or a normal gain of about 12 days over the ordinary route employed.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

In the May number of the Stamp Collectors' Magazine, there is an interesting article by Mr. Wm. P. Brown whose has been proved at different times he was the first stamp dealer in the country. Mr. Brown calls his article "The Infancy of Stamp Collecting," and tells how in 1860 he started in business in New York displaying his stamps on a board with a tack through the center of each one; and originally he sold each one, 3c, with the intention of replenishing his stock from a box of old stamps. His first sale was several stamps which he sold for 20c, and he sold more during the day. While he marked all stamps 3c, he soon raised the price on some of the more valuable specimens to 10c each. He thought that if there had been any other stamp dealers in New York City at the time he would have heard of them right away. He adds that there were at the time a few collectors who became affiliated with Philately several years previously to this. He says that several years later John Walter Scott, "who was a stamp collector and a very interesting character," came around nearly every day for a week or two and sold me his stamp collection for $10.00." Scott spoke of going to the army, and while Mr. Brown commended this course, he added that there was room for another stamp dealer right where he was; and further, he added that he would sell Mr. Scott $10.00 worth of stamps on credit and would go into business for the time until he found a job to his liking. Scott accepted the offer and in the space of three months cleared $100.00 fortified by this amount he set out on another young man to California, and he returned in 1866 or 1867 and had a store in Liberty St., where he regularly into the business.

The London Philatelist for November contains an editorial that speaks of the future of philately and touches upon the proposal that the schools be used as centers for furthering interest in stamps. We are pleased that attention is given to this subject, and we commend the editorial herewith. The report of our contemporary are inspired by the fact that the Nottinghamshire Philatelic Society decided to hold a common open to all schoolboys in the county of Nottingham, the object of the contest being "to bring more fully before the younger generation the great historical, geographical and patriotic interest of and the instructional value of the study of the post-stamp." Two classes are named—those not exceeding the age of fourteen and boys exceeding the age of fourteen, but under eighteen. Medals will be awarded and essays are to be judged in accordance with the principles of correctness of details and general readability. The London Philatelist for the Next Generation.—Apropos of Mr. Brown's letter and the action of the Four new ones this week thanks to Messrs. Haller, Bradley, Cobb and Peck! You can perform a useful service to local philately by placing the WEEKLY in your public library for the coming year. Why not add to this list your town or city? The example you set may be followed by scores of others.

Nottinghamshire Society referred to in this number, in our view, the welfare of Philately in the future will be in great measure determined by the early philatelic training of the schoolboy of today. He is confronted with difficulties which did not exist to the same extent a generation ago when it was possible for a schoolboy to get together a general collection of a couple of thousand stamps representative of the world's issues—with some countries fairly complete—but now, with the enormous number of new issues and new countries, the task for the traditionally impecunious boy is a heavy one.

With such an introductory note we may now come to the point. In several of our large schools there are philatelic societies, usually with a master or two giving advice and assistance, and in one case the father of a prominent boy member attends every school meeting—reads papers, gives displays, and helps the boys in every way. The great majority of adult philatelists have boys at school—at that school there may be, and should be, a philatelic society. Headmasters are nearly always sympathetic nowadays. Let the father attend some of the meetings and show stamps which otherwise the boys are seldom likely to see, foster their love of stamps, and in days to come there will be twice as many ardent students as there are in the present generation.

In all towns where there is a philatelic society the committee should make a list of the local schools and ascertain whether there is a society in the school and offer to depute an enthusiastic member to give a display. Also, when the local society gives an exhibition, a couple of members of each local school society should be invited to attend as visitors.

Several school societies have been formed by an enthusiastic master and a group of keen boys, yet after a few flourishing years they have faded out merely because there was not enough variety.

If, however, local adult philatelists would lend their support these school societies would continue to flourish and be an excellent training for the next generation; and then the 'Royal' may have its 350 fellows and 3,000 members—surely it is worth while to encourage the boy collector."

—The two Byron Centenary stamps, with which I am mailing this letter, appeared on the 16th inst., date on which the Byron Festivities began here, in Athens. As the stamps were ordered only a short time ago, Bradbury Wilkinson, who have executed them, have been only able to forward a very small stock, up to now (which however arrived in time for the 16th). Therefore each person only receives a pair each now at the P. O. to mail letters with. The whole of the order from London will be here in a few days (if it has not already arrived perhaps), and will at once then be put on sale everywhere to the public. It is to be noted that this is the first Greek stamp on which any word has been printed in a foreign language. The quantity to be issued, if not very large, will be quite sufficient, and there is no fear that the stamps might be bought up by speculative postal officials, as was the case when the Revolution set appeared last June.—P. J. DROSSOS.

—A newspaper says that the issue of the two Byron commemorative stamps of Greece will please collectors but depress the ordinary citizen as they may have the effect of starting another epidemic of young lady spouters of Child Harold.

ORDINARY AND REGISTERED SEALED ARTICLES FROM FOREIGN COUNTRIES CONTAINING DUTIABLE MERCHANDISE NOT MARKED TO INDICATE THEY MAY BE OPENED FOR CUSTOMS PURPOSES.

Office of the Postmaster-General, WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7, 1924.

The Treasury Department having concurred therein, article 9 (c) of amended section 664 of the Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on page 57 of the November, 1923, Postal Guide, is not to be construed as requiring the reinclosure, in the special envelopes which have been prescribed and provided for other purposes in connection with articles subject to customs examinations, of ordinary or registered articles which are returned to the country of origin because the senders failed to mark the articles "May be opened for customs purposes before delivery to addressee," or with words of similar import, as is required by paragraph 3, amended Section 664, printed on page 55 of the November, 1923, Postal Guide. In lieu of reinclosing such of the articles which must be returned to the country of origin because they were not indorsed as required, the articles will be securely resealed, as soon as possible after they have been opened, by use of adhesive tape, mucilage, or wax, after which official seals will be placed over the joining flaps and impressions of the office postmarking stamp placed partly on seals and partly on the envelopes at the time the articles are resealed. The official stamps should be indorsed with the initials of the post-office and Treasury Department employees by whom the articles were resealed, in accordance with article 9 (b) of amended section 664 of the Postal Laws and Regulations. Each envelope must be marked "Undeliverable because sender did not indorse 'May be opened for customs purposes' as is required by Joint Regulations of the United States." pair them in the manner indicated above, should be rewrapped and the original damaged wrappers pasted over the face of the new wrappers and, when practicable, so as to cover the points of sealing of the new wrappers, in order that the identity of the original articles may be established, and the rewrapped articles must be indorsed "Rewrapped and resealed" and "Undeliverable because sender did not indorse 'May be opened for customs purposes' as is required by Joint Regulations of the United States," and the initials of the post-office and the Treasury employees taking the action written on the rewrapped articles. If the manner of rewapping and resealing will permit, it is preferred that the joint initials of the employees involved appear partly on the wrapper and partly on the sealing flap.

Postmasters at United States exchange offices receiving undelivered liable to customs duty ordinary or registered articles for return to foreign countries which postmasters at interior offices may have inclosed in the special envelopes, should strip such envelopes and repair the articles as indicated above.

The opening of ordinary and registered sealed articles from abroad should be carefully done and so as to permit the ready and secure reinclosure of the contents in the original cover. In re-sealing the articles particular care should be exercised to see that it is done in such manner as will make rifling or access to the contents without detection as difficult as possible.

GOSSIP OF THE MONTH.

By CORNELIUS WRINKLE.

The B. E. E.—The great Empire Exhibition at Wembley has been opened, and the thoughts of millions of British people have been turned to the contemplation of things imperial, and to the greatness of the Empire and its resources. Wembley is a great achievement and will impress Britons and the world as a practical demonstration of the kinship of Britons at home and abroad and of their power for progress. It is a more pleasing way of proclaiming the might and extent of our Dominions than the magniloquent line on the famous Empire map stamp of Canada, which was taken from the final stanza of a somewhat bombastic poem, "A Song of Empire," by Sir Lewis Morris, the Canadian poet.

A "Song" of Empire.—Those lines may be recalled as giving the context of the motto on the stamp:—

We love not war, but only peace
Yet never shall our England's power decrease!

Whoever guides our helm of State
Let all men know it, England shall be great!

We hold a vaster Empire than has been!
Nigh half the race of man is subject to our Queen!

Nigh half the wide, wide world is ours
in fee.

And where her rule covers, all are free.

The King's Speech.—There was infinitely more dignity in the King's impressive and stimulating speech at the opening of the British Empire Exhibition than in these ranting lines. His Majesty, who has a more profound and personal knowledge of our wide Empire and its needs than any of his subjects, expressed the highest and truest ideals of the Exhibition enterprise in the dictum:—

Co-operation between brothers for the better development of the family estate can hardly fail to promote family affection.

And we hope, further, that the success of the Exhibition may bring lasting benefits, not to the Empire only but to mankind in general. No nation or group of nations can isolate itself from the main stream of modern commerce: and if this Exhibition leads to a greater development of the material resources of the Empire and to an expansion of its trade it will at the same time be raising the economic life of the world from the disorganisation caused by the war.

Exhibition Stamps.—The Exhibition has many aspects of philatelic interest. In many of the exhibits we see in reality things with which we have long been familiar on the stamps of the Empire. It will quicken many of our stamps into life, or at any rate give us a fuller realization of their significance. There are also the Wembley stamps. Postage stamps all Wembley's own. I think it is regrettable that Great Britain has entered the field of stamp purveying apart from the necessities of the postal service, but having done so, it might as well have issued them in a manner likely to achieve the publicity such stamps might afford the Exhibition. Instead of millions of these stamps being used on the mails throughout the United Kingdom to tell folk of the Exhibition, the public can only get the stamps at the Exhibition itself.

"Used Abroad."—How shall we classify the Wembley stamps? Already I have protests from Wales and Scotland that they cannot be properly called "Great Britain" stamps, and one Scots correspondent points out that they are the first "English" postage stamps as distinct from "British." When obtained via Wembley, they may be posted in Wales or Scotland or Ulster, in which case—to stretch the point further—they will be English or Wembley stamps used abroad!

The Strange Tail of a Lion.—The artist and engraver were bold to present us with another lion on our stamps, but they have taken good care there shall be no suggestion of it being a starveling like the poor beast on the first penny stamps of the present reign. This is a sturdy king of beasts, and clever withal. He is doing a marvellous balancing trick with his tail.

The Hush Stamps.—The stamps were prepared with great secrecy, and, indeed, so little seems to have been known of them that some people who bought them at the Exhibition and tried to use them to prepay registered letters outside the Exhibition failed to persuade the postal clerks that they were bona-fide postage stamps. With all the publicity that has gone to the making of Wembley's success, it is strange that the Post Office should so hide its Exhibition stamps under a bushel of secrecy. Our G. P. O. friends ought to be presented with passes for seats at the Aldwych Theatre to see "It Pays to Advertise;" Mr. Arthur Finn as "Ambrose Peale" could furnish some useful hints on the power of suggestion.

Messrs. Godden's Exhibits.—I had an early opportunity of seeing most of the fine stamp exhibits which Messrs. Frank Godden, Ltd., have arranged in the different colonial pavilions. They are very numerous, and there will be few of the colonial government pavilions which lack

St. Helena Specialised.—Mr. H. R. Harmer, of Bond Street, tells me he has instructions to dispose of one of the finest specialised collections of St. Helena ever brought together, including most of the prime rarities, such as 1d imperforate, double surcharge, 4d imperforate, double surcharge, and there is a vertical strip of three of the De La Rue 1d, two having the 17mm bar and the third having the 18½mm bar, an extremely rare item, of which the late Lord Crawford possessed a strip, and Mr. Anthony de Worms had a unique block of six, comprising four of Type A and two of Type B of the surcharge. The collection is likely to be offered during July.

Norway's Great Stamp Show.—The English prospectus of the first Norwegian International Stamp Exhibition has now been issued, and it offers one of the most attractive of the several competitive exhibitions on the Continent this year. H. M. King Haakon VII has given it his high patronage, and the honorary officers include Ministers of State and heads of the Post Office Department, together with the Lord Mayor of Christiania. Mr. Alf. G. Johnsen is president and Mr. Rolf. L. Berentzen, Kirkegatan 9, Christiania, is the hon. secretary.—Postage Stamp.

U. S. TAX PAIDS.

By GEORGE L. GOODMAN.

As a new subscriber to your interesting paper and a collector of U. S. Match and Medicine stamps I should be glad to receive back numbers of your publication containing the various articles by Christopher West, on the above subject.

I quite agree with the article, by Dr. A. W. Waters, in your April 7 issue that these very interesting and superb examples of the engravers art should be more eagerly sought. We need today more collectors like the later Clarence H. Eagle, E. B. Sterling, H. E. Deats and others who were devoted to this branch of collecting.

I reside in Paris and I know of several magnificent collections of M. and M. owned by Frenchmen, supplemented by beer, snuff and tobacco stamps. In this city and in Brussels there are dealers who specialize in the revenue stamps of the world and one in particular has seventeen large volumes of South American revenue stamps and ten of Mexico. It remained for a Frenchman, A. Forbin, to compile and publish a volume entitled "Catalogue de Timbres Fiscaux 1915." It was a voluminous catalog and freely illustrated. Not only were the U. S. Match and Medicine stamps listed, but as well the State Revenue stamps of California, Nevada, Oregon, Philippines and Porto Rico. U. S. beer, snuff and tobacco stamps were priced and illustrated.

A larger interest should be manifested in this most fascinating sideline of philately.

a really representative display of the stamps of the colonies represented. In these displays Mr. Godden has included all issues, but has exhibited his own well-known preference for the classic old issues by showing them in admirable fullness. In the India collection there is the "inverted head" rarity, some extremely interesting proofs, the whole collection occupying three large frames. Mauritius is quite strong in the early issues. The Post Office are not shown as originals, but there are re-impressions of both values, and two pulls of the original plate in colours. There are many "Post Paid," including several "PENOE" errors, and an unused 2d large fillet. Newfoundland occupies three large irregular quadrilateral frames, and includes some of the rarities of the Pence issues, including both the shillings.

Mr. R. Roberts' Exhibit.—Another interesting stamp exhibit is No. 895a, just outside the Post Office in the Hall of Printing. It is that of Mr. R. Roberts, of 430, Strand, whose display is well worth a visit.

New Zealand's Warning.—The New Zealand Stamp Journal reports no fewer than three distinct forgeries of the O. P. S. O. stamps of New Zealand, as well as forgeries of the later "Officials," and warns collectors to use circumspection when purchasing these stamps. Our contemporary adds that the New Zealand Philatelic Council, with the co-operation of the various societies, is at present investigating the matter of forgeries of the stamps of New Zealand and the Islands with a view to publishing, for the assistance of collectors, particulars of all the known forgeries.

THE POST OF BARBUDA.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Prior to July 13, 1922, there was no Post Office at Barbuda, but Antigua stamps were sold by the Anglican parson at Codrington to the civil population for use on their letters, packets, etc. These were then handed in at the Manager's office placed in a bag along with the official mail, and dispatched by the weekly mail sloop to St. John's. Official correspondence was postmarked with an "Official Paid" cancellation (a single lined circle, 25 mm diameter, lettered "Official Paid, Barbuda" with 3 lines in the center, *—JY 24—22), but the stamps on the civil mail were not cancelled until it reached St. John's. This procedure was in force prior to 1905, and as the present mail sloop has been running for some 25 or 30 years, these postal arrangements probably date from the early 90's.

Leeward Islands postage stamps were valid for postage in Barbuda, but the parson preferred and bought Antigua stamps from the Postmaster at St. John's. Being a vendor he received the vendor's discount at one time 5%, but recently reduced to 2½%. With the issue of Barbuda/Leeward stamps, he discontinued selling Antigua stamps. Although a dependency of Antigua, and the laws of Antigua apply to it "when not repugnant thereto," Antigua stamps are not valid in Barbuda.

The use of overprinted stamps from June 1, 1922, was authorised by the Order in Council of March 24, 1922, but they were not available for issue until July 13, 1922, and prior to that date, the Manager, who is also Postmaster, sold no stamps of this, or any other series.

"Order in Council."

Whereas, it is expedient to provide for use in the Island of Barbuda, Leeward Islands stamps overprinted in the manner hereinafter mentioned:

Now therefore, it is hereby ordered by the Governor in Council under the authority of the Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1890, as amended by the Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1902, as follows:

On and after the first day of June, 1922, there shall be used in the Island of Barbuda, Leeward Islands stamps now in use overprinted with the word 'Barbuda,' of the value of ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s, 3s, 4s and 5s.

And it is hereby further ordered that the proper blocks and other implements to be used in connection with the overprinting of the said stamps be provided accordingly.

Made in the Executive Council of the Leeward Islands this 24th day of March, 1922.

Signed, E. D'A. TIBBITS, Clerk of the Council."

From the third section of this Order in Council, it might be taken that overprinted stamps were to be used in Barbuda to the exclusion of the Leeward Islands series but the reference to "Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1890, as amended by the Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1902" opposes this.

Section 3 of Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1890, provided, inter alia, that "there shall be a uniform stamp or stamps for use throughout the Colony, whereby all postage rates and stamp duties shall be expressed," and in section 3 of Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1902, "it is provided that the Governor may from time to time by Order in Council direct that a special stamp or stamps may be used in each or any Presidency concurrently with such uniform stamp or stamps as aforesaid."

Consequent on the exhausting of the 1d Barbuda/Leeward Islands, in November, 1923, the Manager obtained from St. John's, Antigua, a small supply of the 1d red, Federal series, plate 8, watermarked multiple Crown and Roman CA. This is the only value of that series ever sold by the Manager; others exist with the Barbuda cancellation, but they have been sent there from the outside, for prepaying letters of reply or for cancellation. Leeward Islands postal stationery has also been used at Barbuda, and the writer has both sizes of the 2d George registration envelope.

Postal Markings.

At present three distinctive postal markings are used at Barbuda:—

1. Ordinary letters.—Single lined circle, 25 mm. diameter. "Barbuda" at top, with dot at either side, separating it from "B. W. I." at the bottom. Date in two lines in center "SE 4—22." Black impression.

2. Official letters.—Single lined circle, 25 mm. diameter. "Official Paid" at top, and "Barbuda" at bottom. Three lines in center, *—JY 24—22. Purple impression.

3. Registered letters.—Horizontal rectangle, 50x18 mm. Large "R" at left, to the right of which is "Barbuda, B. W. I.—No." in two lines. Purple or red impression. Brought into use about Feb. 19, 1923.

Prior to the opening of the Post Office at Barbuda, no stamps were cancelled there, but the Barbuda-Leeward was entirely separate and distinct from the Antigua and Federal series, and from July 13, 1922, stamps of both the Federal and Barbuda-Leeward series were cancelled at Barbuda. For a brief period (July 13 to Sept. 3, 1922), the Official Paid cancellation was applied to stamps on civil mail passing through the post, until the "Barbuda, B. W. I." steel cancelling stamp arrived from England. These two cancelling stamps are now used concurrently—the "Official Paid" being restricted to the particular duty for which it was originally intended, i.e.,

THE NEW ECONOMIST ALBUM

After several months' effort, we have at last perfected a book which we believe will appeal to many.

This book is the same size as our regular Economist Album (10½x10½), only it contains 100 Pages (8½x10½).

The pages are made of finest grade linen paper with lithographed quadrilled lines. Each leaf is linen hinged and has transparent glassine paper affixed to the surface, which is the finest protection for stamps.

Dark red, blue or green buckram binding in gold, and a felt lined box to match color of binder is furnished with each album.

Complete Book $10.00

Binder Alone 3.50

One Hundred Pages 6.50

These leaves and binders are interchangeable with our regular Economist Album.

A Unique Event in British Philately!

For the first time since the introduction of Postage Stamps in Great Britain, nearly 84 years ago, two adhesive Commemoratives, with full franking power, have been issued in connection with the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, London. As at present arranged, these Stamps are only on sale at the Exhibition, but will, of course, be available in payment of postage on letters, etc., posted anywhere in Great Britain.

official correspondence not requiring postage stamps.

In passing, it will bear mention that Antigua uses an Official Paid cancelling stamp, quite similar to that at Barbuda a single lined circle, 24 mm. diameter, lettered "Official Paid, Antigua," with three lines in the center, *—MY 14—23, applied in black.

The "R" within oval found on most registered letters from Barbuda is applied at St. John's. The oval is badly denoted at the lower right, which peculiarity dates back to 1921, or earlier. Receipts for registered letters are issued at St. John's for letters coming from Barbuda upon which the registration fee has there been paid.

Money Orders for Barbuda must be drawn on St. John's, Antigua, and made payable to the addressee at Barbuda.

The writer has a cover enclosing a letter from Barbuda, franked with 2d and 3d Antigua stamps, with the cancellation of "St. John's, Antigua, B. W. I., JY 18—22," "R" within oval, and the lead pencil registry number 892, applied at St. John's. Two other covers have the "Official Paid, Barbuda" (JY 24 22) cancellation applied to the stamps—one bears pairs of the ½d and 2d Federal series, multiple Crown and Roman CA, and the other single copies of the 2d and 3d Barbuda-Leeward. Both enclosed stamps of the Barbuda-Leeward series, ½d to 5s, issued July 13, 1922. The "R" within oval appears on both, and the numbers 32 and 33 (in pencil and ink). They are not backstamped at St. John's, and the only en route markings are of New York (8-2-1922), and Pittsburgh, Pa. (Aug. 3, 1922).

THE RUSSIAN ARRANGEMENT.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Y. Souren, of New York, who read with interest the article by Mr. Duranty that appeared in the New York Times, in which it was said that Mr. Maurice Sherman had been given the monopoly of handling the issues of Soviet Russia, we are enabled to give an idea of the agreement that was entered into between the Moscow commissioners and Maurice Sherman of this country. The publication caused a number of critics to assail the arrangement, as it was felt that the Russian stamps had by reason of this commercialization lost an interest in a philatelic sense. The contract as published originally by the Soviet Philatelist as given in its issue of February, 1924, is not without interest, and a reading of it will give an idea of the terms under which Russia has taken an advanced step, so far as the marketing of her issues among stamp folks is concerned. This agreement is dated Moscow, November 15, 1923, and the commissioner of the special section for philately and vouchers at the all-Russian agricultural aid committee of the all-Russian central executive committee, Feodor Grigoryevitch Tchuchin and his assistant and the United States citizen, Maurice Sherman, concluded an agreement which in its essential parts reads as follows:

"1. Commissioner grants to Sherman the general agency monopoly for the sale of all kinds and denomination of stamps, and also of cancelled monetary tokens and vouchers, issued either by the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics; or by the Russian Socialist Federative Soviet Republic and all the allied Soviet Republics, or by the former Russian Empire or by the various armies of occupation, white-guard governments and local self-governing bodies on the territory of the former Russian Empire during the revolutionary period of 1917-1923, and also of current literature on stamps and vouchers now being issued either periodically or non-periodically within the boundaries of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics—in all countries of North, Central and South America and in the British colonies situated upon the Continent of America, while the monthly minimum quantity of stamps and vouchers to be purchased from Commissioner shall be fixed by mutual agreement of the parties within Five Months from the date of signing this agreement, and at any rate not later than the 15th of April, 1924, which supplementary agreement, when signed by both parties, shall be attached to this agreement.

2. On the one hand, Sherman undertakes from the date of signing this agreement, to purchase the stamp and voucher materials enumerated in Article 1, exclusively, from Commissioner, and not to purchase said materials from any other firms or persons either in Union of Socialist Soviet Republics or abroad, also not to accept said materials and literature either on commission or for distribution; on the other hand, Commissioner undertakes, on receipt of orders from Sherman on the terms laid down in Article 1 of this agreement, not to sell to any other firms or persons in North, Central and South America and in the British colonies on the American Continent any of the stamps and voucher materials and literature mentioned in Article 1, and also not to give same on commission or for distribution.

NOTE: The international exchange of single specimens of stamps and vouchers among individual amateur-collectors, on the grounds of Article 2 of the Decree of the All-Russian Central Executive Committee and of the Council of People's Commissaries of the 21st September, 1922, and of Article 3 of the decree of the Council of People's Commissars of the 24th July, 1923, as well as of the special instruction issued in amplification of said decrees, shall go on without hindrance.

3. Commissioner shall sell to Sherman stamps of all kinds and denomination as enumerated in Article 1 of this agreement every time at the prices listed in the latest catalogue (with such a discount) and all the literary publications at the published prices of same (with such a discount); while all the prices shall be fixed in gold calculation or in stable foreign currency (i.e., in American dollars). With regard to the voucher materials mentioned in Article 1 of this agreement, these shall be sold to the next two countries available under system of INTENSIVE APPROVAL SERVICE whereby stamps of a particular country are sent out on approval in small envelopes marked 1c, 2c, 3c, etc., in such assortments as to enable a collector to add a great number to or perhaps complete his collection of the particular country at a minimum cost. RUSSIA (chiefly Soviet issues) is available both used and mint. SWEDEN, only used. This system of ours, under which so far in addition to the above two—the following countries have been made available: many, Danzig, Memel, Jugo-Slavia and, is gradually being extended to include all countries which are particularly suitable to same. A request for a trial edition of any of the above will convince you of the superiority of our system to any other approval services. ther stipulations provide that the accounts be settled in cash either in American dollars or in Tchervontsi of the Bank of R.S.F.S.R., at Moscow or check made payable to the commissioner through its correspondent at New York, while 50% shall be paid on the bills that are delivered to the addressee in this country. Mr. Sherman undertakes to advertise the stamps according to his idea and to make such arrangements for publicity as he may care to including translation into foreign languages. He may also pay in unused stamps and philatelic accessories on cash settlement under mutual agreement in each case, or in exchange for stamps and vouchers according to Article 3 of this agreement. The agreement is to stand for a period of five years and is renewable by the consent of both contractors, but Mr. Sherman is given the right before other firms renew this agreement, all other conditions being equal. Differences that arise in the fulfillment of the contract must be settled by a board of arbitration. Our readers now have a thorough consideration of the case and are in a position to draw their own conclusions as to the propriety in a philatelic sense of an agreement between a stamp issuing country and an individual in this wise.

CANCELLATIONS

After months of work we have at last completed a series of approval books covering all classes of cancellations on the stamps of the bank-note issues from 1871 to 1890. Many of these are at present quite inexpensive and fine attractive copies with cancellations of some interest may be had at from 5c to 25c each. Just ask for the particular stamp you want to work on, 1c blues, 2c brown or vermilion, 3c green, 2c red brown, 4c Jacksons, and see what this stock has to offer.

ADDITIONAL DATA ON CRAMER & KEMP.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The following information regarding this firm is taken from a sketch written by E. B. Sterling, of Trenton, New Jersey, in July, 1890, and kindly placed at the disposal of the present writer for use in this series of articles.

Not the least interesting of the facts stated is the information regarding the portrait on the Cramer & Kemp stamp and also on the stamps which succeeded it, viz., those of John Loehr and Joseph Loehr.

According to Mr. Sterling's sketch the first match factory in New York City was established about 1835 on Twelfth Street. There was also a warehouse on Cortlandt Street and the proprietor of the business was a Mr. Golch. About 1844 Golch was succeeded by Charles Partridge who carried on business in the same building, but afterwards built a large factory on 36th Street. He was one of the largest dealers in New York City and later had an establishment in Maiden Lane. Charles Partridge was succeeded by the firm of Partridge & Kemp, which firm was organized in the fall of 1862, at an invested capital of about $10,000.00 and employed altogether about 200 people.

Their factory was on Greenwich Street, next to the corner of Franklin Street, but many of the people employed by them did not work in the factory itself, because in the early days of match making, many of the workers made the paper box containers at their homes. Later as hand labor was replaced by match and box machinery the number of operatives required to produce a given number of finished boxes of matches was greatly reduced and some of the machines would save the labor of from five to seven girls each.

In 1864 the firm of Partridge & Kemp was dissolved and the firm of Cramer & Kemp succeeded them. These two energetic young men soon built up an immense export trade with the West Indies, particularly with Jamaica. The special matches made for this Island were round sticks topped with black heads and packed in round wooden boxes which were then sealed. Each box held 48 matches, the reason for this number being that the duty on a box containing 50 matches or over was twice as much as on the box containing less than 50 matches.

Cramer & Kemp did a thriving business until May 16, 1866, when their factory and warehouse was destroyed by fire and as their entire capital was invested in the business, the loss which amounted to over $11,000.00 was ruinous. They were insured for about $3,500.00 but finally accepted $1,500.00 in settlement of their claim, and were fortunate to have gotten even that much, because shortly afterward the insurance company failed.

Rather a curious and interesting result of the fire came near to making the loss of the partners even heavier than it was. The firm had ordered private die stamps to the amount of $3,500.00 for which they owed the United States Government about $3,000.00. These stamps had been placed on the stock of finished matches which was destroyed when their warehouse burned and the Government was about to institute suit to recover the amount owing it by Cramer & Kemp. Mr. Kemp finally succeeded in obtaining an interview with Mr. Rollins, who was then the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and convinced the latter that as the matches had been destroyed by fire they were not taxable and therefore that the stamps which had been placed on them did not represent a tax which the Government could legally collect or recover. This was a test case and was watched with interest by other match manufacturers who had suffered or were likely to suffer similar loss. Mr. Kemp's argument was so well founded that Commissioner Rollins dismissed the suit.

During the time that he was engaged in the match business Mr. Kemp invented a machine for making round match sticks in 28 inch lengths and also a machine for cutting paper boxes. Unfortunately both of these machines were destroyed by fire before he had taken out patents on them.

Mr. Kemp left New York City and moved to Trenton, New Jersey, and not long afterwards his young son was interviewed by a stamp collector of Trenton, who soon became the fortunate possessor of a full sheet of 210 of the black Cramer & Kemp stamps with the original gum, for which he invested the sum of $4.20. Quite possibly many of the unused o.g. copies now in existence came from this sheet.

In the summer of 1888 just after the American Philatelic Society Convention at Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling were traveling through Canada when a lady sitting opposite them in the parlor car overheard the name of Trenton mentioned in their conversation. She ventured the question, "Are you from Trenton?" and after a few questions stated she had a brother she had not seen for several years and whom she thought was living there. "She asked if we knew such a person, giving his full name, Fred W. Kemp." Mr. Sterling replied in the affirmative and stated that he could present her with her brother's picture, which he did, handing her one of the Cramer & Kemp match stamps, which bears a likeness of Mr. Kemp. The lady was delighted to receive this miniature portrait under such odd circumstances. Mr. Sterling further states that the picture on the stamp is an excellent likeness of Mr. Kemp and that it resembled him as late as 1890, when he was still living in Trenton and was one of the leading photographers of that City.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

THE FUTURE OF PHILATELY FROM THE VIEW POINT OF THE COLLECTOR AND DEALER.

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

U. S. REVENUE STAMPS.

I think these stamps have a good future. Many of them are beautiful examples of the engravers' art. Some are great rarities and the few collections that are offered are readily absorbed.

U. S. NEWSPAPER STAMPS.

For some reasons with which I am not acquainted, these stamps seem to be very little collected at the present day and yet there is much to recommend them. They are among the most beautiful stamps that have ever been printed, and some of the "Special Printings" and the Bureau printings of 1894, are among the great rarities, and very few collectors can have anything approaching complete sets of these fine stamps.

U. S. ENVELOPES.

Some thirty years ago when I was helping Gilbert Harrison to form his marvellous collection of uncut U. S. envelopes, we used to look on them as good sound property and there were many good buyers like Ferrary, Tapling, Worthington, etc. Later on the collection of envelopes seemed to go right out of fashion, and one has heard little about them the last few years. Now, with the Government's permission to illustrate parts of the design, their collection will be made easier and I think they are a good item for the future. Mr. J. M. Bartels and Mr. V. M. Berhold, by publishing some fine handbooks on the U. S. envelopes, have much simplified their collection, and I look for these to be more generally collected. The study of the dies, colors and papers are interesting and the specialist can go further if he wishes and also study the varieties of watermarks, knives, and gum, so there is here a big field for the most advanced specialist.

CONFEDERATE STATES.

No American can afford to neglect that most interesting group of stamps whose issue was caused by the Civil War of 1861-64.

Here we have the rare Locals issued in many towns in the Southern States; then there is very much work yet to be done in determining the position of covers apparently franked with the cancelling stamp of the post-office, many of which appear to have been used as provisionals and to be worthy of catalogue rank. Then we have the General Issue with all their wonderful historical associations, and this in my opinion is one of the finest groups of stamps which any specialist can desire.

The Bi-Monthly Journal

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes:

"I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinarily good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

the Fiji Islands, and then for those like twentieth century stamps, all Oceanic Islands form a fine group which British New Guinea or Papua it is now called, is the most interesting.

Africa—Included in this continent have some of the most important groups of stamps which a wealthy collector can wish to specialize, such as Mauritania, Cape of Good Hope, Transvaal, Natal. All of the smaller British Colonies in Africa offer a good field for the specialists, and to these I would add the stamps of Egypt which are of interest and well worth while.

Asia—First for the wealthy specialist I should name Ceylon, India, Siam, Settlements and Japan, and follow with Hongkong, China, Persia, Siam, Szechuan, Afghanistan, Cashmere, Indian States, Indian Feudatory States.

In General—There are a few groups which I have not mentioned which are, I think, worthy of the attention of some specialists:—

French Colonies—All the General issues and the issues of the separate colonies up to about 1882, are well worth attention. Later issues have been speculative that I can't see much in them.

Portugal and Colonies—These form a fine group as long as one keeps out of the modern trash. Up to about 1880 they form a fine group of stamps worthy of much more attention than they have received. In the whole range of advanced specialism I know of more interesting things to study than those fine old Portuguese Indies of 1800 to 1883. Early issues of Azores and Madeira are also first rate and worthy of being highly specialized.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

We have received from Charles J. Phillips, 151 Central Park West, N. Y., a very handsomely printed booklet titled "The Future of Philately from Viewpoint of Collector and Dealer." It consists of 48 pages and gives a fund of information for anyone interested in stamp collecting. It can no doubt be obtained free from Mr. Phillips, but postage would be appreciated.

We have received some press clips from C. A. Yarrington of Tokyo, Japan. One is especially interesting in the paper intimates that "the principal cause of the disdain with which Americans look upon us now is the fact we issue postage stamps without a seal on the back of them." Mr. Yarrington suggests that postage stamps are needed for lots of things, but this is the time that international ill feeling has been caused by the lack of gum on postage stamps.

Reference has been made in our columns to the practise now existent in many of that country in a triangular manner. Paul Selle of Dresden writes us this is a practise of the postal officials "in order to prevent illegal commerce in current postage stamps."

The regular monthly meeting of the London Philatelic Society was held on 20th, with about 40 members present. The entertainment consisted of a display and exhibit by John W. Prevost of Springfield on the stamps of France. The exhibit showed the result of many years of specializing in the earlier issues of the country, including many interesting covers. Among the latter Mr. Prevost showed many sent by balloon during the siege of Paris, in 1870.

WILLIS H. BARDWELL.
In order to correct a mistaken idea held by some collectors, it is to be said that there is no impending change in the watermark of the British colonial stamps, as the new watermark G. R. and V. will characterize only the stamps of Great Britain and the surcharged stamps of Great Britain. Consequently, change will not create a great number of new issues.

One of the characters in "Recommendation" is referred to as looking with interest at the strange stamps and postmarks on a letter from another country. All the stamps from a foreign coun-

Department, Washington, as Mr. Fennel, we understand, is working up the evidence with the post-office department.

—From the circular of the Société de Bibliographie Philatélique, Paris, we learn that religious and political discussion among the members is prohibited as well as gaming at the meetings.

—George B. Sloane, 116 Nassau St., N. Y. City, would like the name of the party at 17 Kurtz Av., Lancaster, N. Y., who some six weeks ago sent him a parcel of stamps presumably for auction sale. The parcel is being held for the name of sender.

—Herman Toasperm sends us greetings from the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley Park. He writes that he has been buying actively in London, though prices for U. S. and B. N. A. are very high.

—S. W. Pendleton, Jacksonville, Fla., recently lost by theft his collection of British Colonial and U. S. stamps, the collection numbering about 3,000 varieties. Information regarding the same will be gladly received.

NEW MARTAU CO. LIST.

The Martauco Stamp Co., 537 Fifth Av., N. Y. C. has just issued a fine new list of 24 pps., filled with wholesale offerings. A glance through its pages reveals a fine line of goods and the prices appear very reasonable. Every dealer should have this list to meet occasional needs in stocking up.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

A series of pamphlets is being published by the Philatelic Institute, 26 Plumstead High St., London, S. E. 18. Of the sixteen thus far issued Fred J. Melville is the author of eleven, and review copies of two of these are at hand. One is entitled "History from the Stamp Album" and the other "A Simplified Collection." The titles carry with them an adequate idea of the scope of the pamphlets and we have only to add that they can be secured at 12c each.

EDITORIAL.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Eugene Klein, we have received particulars of the newly formed society in Paris to encourage consideration of the philatelic press. The Société de Bibliographie Philatélique was organized about six months ago and it is to be recognized as a factor in that division of philately that has never received the attention that it deserves, i.e., that having to do with the print of our pursuit. The president, M. Georges Brunel, is an author of a number of excellent works on stamps while the secretary, M. John Spohr, is esteemed as one of the ranking specialists in the stamps of Alsace-Lorraine. The society is world-wide in its membership and running down the list of "objects" we find that it undertakes to gather and collate all the titles of works and publications generally on stamps and to publish a catalogue of them. Also, it proposes to inform the members of all the new publications and to encourage their issue; and to create an office for the exchange of literature among the members. The headquarters of the society is in Paris at the home of the president; and the dues of active members are twenty francs a year. We are pleased to learn of the existence of this society and to say that we have every sympathy for its purposes. While judged by critical standards, much of our literature is dross, yet even its defects under the harsh interpretation mentioned, give it an appeal. Still, there are many publications dedicated to philately that are entitled to all respect and any movement that will lead to a greater regard for the printed pages of stamp works has the support of those who know or suspect how barren the results of a philatelic publishing venture usually are.

We have received a letter from Mr. Theodore Siddall of Shanghai, China, in which he refers to the high value of one of the Philippine revenues now in use; it is a stamp of the denomination of 5,000 pesos ($2,500.00). He says, "Many collectors of revenue stamps imagine that the $1,000. value of United States revenues is about the highest-valued stamp, but it is not. In the Philippines, with their comparatively insignificant volume of trade, there has been for several years a stamp of 5,000 pesos ($2,500.) in use. The design is the same as of the specimen inclosed, and as I remember, the color was lilac. This high value is made necessary by the sales tax, which is collected in the Philippines, amounting to one per cent on sales. If the vigorous propaganda now being conducted in the United States for the imposition of a sales tax there succeeds, we may see higher denominations than the $2,500., not to mention the army of gum-shoe men and snoopers that will be necessary, to see the people pay their taxes." We thank Mr. Siddall for a pair of the one centavo, "internal revenue," palm tree type.

When the radio first became a factor that could not be ignored in calculating the future of philately, there was a feeling among some of those who closely observed collecting tendencies, that the new occupation or recreation would have a tendency to displace much of the interest in stamps, and that the result would be that philately would at least progress slowly, if at all, for the time being. In casting about for danger signals to collecting, one of the first that would be commented on was the time taken from stamps by the radio. We all know of the adoption by enterprising philatelists of the radio as a means of broadcasting news about stamps and collecting; and latterly much has been said about the work of one broadcaster supported by a fund on which he might draw for travelling expenses. The unprecedented success that has attended the remarks of this philatelic spokesman certainly has been of a striking character; and we believe that instead of being a menace to the welfare of collecting the radio has turned out to be one of the most helpful of adjuncts. We have not been slow to make our acknowledgment of the value of the services performed by the one who speaks regularly, and of those who have spoken at different times, but it is only fair that we refer again to the subject. It is all right for all of us to benefit from the results of individual enterprise and expenditure of money, but, if we are to be equitable in our relations with our pursuit, it is incumbent upon us to do something to further the work that is being done. Some of the radio stations are willing to give dates to those who are anxious to exercise their ability as speakers on stamps, and we especially wish to be informed of those who fill engagements at any of the stations, not alone because we think it is very commendable in them to bring the attractions of stamp collecting to the ears of a huge audience, but because we want to show our gratitude to them. Keep us informed of philatelic progress over the radio, as we hope that something will develop to show the way to a systematic cultivation of this field. It is by taking advantage of every opportunity afforded by the march of progress that philately is to keep abreast of the times.

A clever letter has come to us from a reader who for various reasons wishes his name withheld, in which he speaks whimsically of the quirks of the philatelic mentality. He takes as his text the recent controversy that the suggestion that a special stamp be issued in honor of the philatelic exhibition at Philadelphia, in 1926. We shall not reproduce his observations literally as they would merely excite controversy that would be inexcusable insofar as arriving at any conclusions that could be called beneficial, but certain of his remarks are worth reproducing. He says that he was a contributor to the old fund that had for its object the suppression of speculative stamps, and that while the dealers themselves were the ones that tried to ostracize the unnecessary stamps, it was not long before the dealers found that they were pounding against a stone wall for the reason that the collectors themselves demanded stamps that were proscribed, rather than those of admittedly high character. He recalls the fact that when the first wholesale surcharges were indulged in by Portugal, there was a wave of condemnation on the part of dealers that made one think that the fate of the surcharges was to be the direst possible, and yet, he says, it was not so very long before these self-same stamps were considered among the most desirable of all by collectors. He thinks that the less said about the character of a stamp the better, and that in view of the fact that years ago modern enterprise seized the stamp as well as all other vehicles for advertising as its own, there can be no hard and fast sentiment that will restrain a collector from taking the stamps of a country that has erred on the score of issuing unnecessary specimens. He makes the one broad claim that if the purist must have a field uncontaminated, he must collect chronologically and in no other way, and he will have to assume that a certain date is the dead-line, as after that year a suspicion of philatelic advantage to be derived from the sale of the new stamps to collectors attaches to the novelty. He says that if one wishes to be absolutely safe, the date 1885 should be decided upon; then the collector may be sure in his knowledge that no philatelic reason entered into the issue of stamps. While he is concerning himself with stamps issued before 1880 only, he says he sees no reasons why collectors may not have just as much pleasure from stamps issued later. These remarks submitted as coming from a collector of long experience, and we think that while his date of 1885 is a little too early, it is well within his rights in speaking as he does.

We believe that some collectors are unfair in attributing certain practical advantages to collecting that do not exist in the measure at least, that they may say they do. This comes to our mind through a letter received from a collector who gave an experience quite the contrary to one that was mentioned in our columns several weeks ago. This collector said that he had kept an account of the money expended for stamps and that he marked off a loss of between 25% and 30% when he sold his collection. While he does not say that he was particularly upset at the loss, yet it is evident from the tone of his letter that he was disappointed in having to sta-described in MEKEEL'S Apr. 21, "A Comparative Exploration of the Three Cent Green", for Sale. Price $1,000. Consists of 8600 copies, the pick of 32,000, two volumes, stock-book style. Basing is conservatively on this study of the comparative occurrence of varieties, the aggregate $2,517.00. Doubtless errors of classification exist, but believe I have due allowance in underpricing of 7 desirable cancellations and minorities. The work involved in selecting and arranging this specialized collection is worth $1,000. First check wins. There are some fine catches awaiting the accurate casters for Cancellation

THE MEMORIAL PRE-CANCEL 17 VARS. HARDINGS $1.02

A very good purchase a few days ago allows us to offer the famous Harding "M. C." for another week. We have just 25 packets to offer and we shall limit one to a customer. This number won't last long and when they are gone there won't be any more. The packets have many varieties which have never been included in our "M. C." and some which we think have never been seen in any "packet" of Hardings. ORDER NOW.

THE MISTY CLOUD THE GREAT AIRMAIL M. C. $1.02

We said last week that we didn't want to tell you much about this "M. C." We want you to be surprised and we know that you will be pleased. We will say that there are between 40 and 50 varieties, but that really means very little. The point that appeals to you is the quality of the stamps. Just wrap up that $1.02 and send it floating our way. We have a private landing field engaged for Uncle Sam's mail planes and we are sure that they will let us use the good dirigible "SHENANDOAH" if they can't find airplanes enough to collect and deliver the MISTY CLOUD.

A wonderful display of MINT BLOCKS and a nice addition to any collection.

THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION 300 VARS. MANY USED $1.02

Now in the SECOND (SUMMER) EDITION and going strong. About 100 fine CENTRAL and SOUTH AMERICAN stamps, and 200 others that make you wonder how we do it. We are here to give you satisfaction and while we don't guarantee to add 100 new stamps to any 20,000 variety collection, some mighty nice things have been said about this "M. C." If you have a large collection and have no way to get rid of your duplicates and can't get your money's worth of fun sorting over 300 nice stamps, DON'T ORDER. We have no use for the money of a fellow who is plating early Patagonia imperfs, and who doesn't like to swap stamps with the other fellows. If you are a real sport and 99½% of MEKEEL'S readers are wonderfully good sports, if you are willing to be convinced that you can buy honest to goodness value—CALL OUR BLUFF and order THE MARVELOUS CULMINATION. Lots of good stamps, lots of new stamps, lots of high value stamps, lots of provisional stamps and lots of LATIN AMERICAN STAMPS.

TO COLLECTORS OF USED STAMPS ONLY!

THE USED STAMP M. C., similar to the above Marvelous Culmination, contains 200 postally used stamps. Many LATIN AMERICANS, HIGH VALUES, LATE ISSUES, etc. Just what you have waited for. Only a few at $1.02. ORDER TODAY.

THE "PLATE" OF THE MEXICAN EJERCITO ISSUE.

By FORREST SHREVE.

The Mexican revolution of 1913 began in Sonora, which is both politically and economically one of the most progressive states in the republic. The first stamps used by the revolutionary government were the Sonoran "White Seals," which were quickly superseded by the "Green Seals." As is well known, these stamps were printed from ordinary type and rule, produced in sheets of only ten stamps, and in the case of the Green Seals, had to be fed six times on a hand press to produce the black, red and green impressions in each of the tete-beche rows. Furthermore the Green Seals were issued imperforate and ungummed. It is doubtful if any less satisfactory stamps were ever produced by a slower and more laborious process.

After the military successes of the revolutionists had extended their domain into northern Chihuahua they began to require a larger and more convenient supply of stamps. The White and Green Seal issues were printed at Hermosillo, which was a long ways in the rear, with no all-Mexican rail connection. At this time the Constitutionalist Government ordered supplies of both postage and revenue stamps from the Maverick and Clark Lithographing and Engraving Co., of San Antonio, Texas. It happened that the revenue stamps were delivered first, and in the pressing need that existed, they were put into use for postal requirements, in spite of their having the coupon, or "talón," which is characteristic of all Mexican federal and internal revenue stamps. These are the so-called Ejercito (army) issue (Scott's Nos. 347-353). They were used extensively for a short period early in 1914, but were soon restricted to fiscal use by the arrival of the issue intended for postal purposes, the so-called Transitorios (Scott's Nos. 354-361).

Both the Ejercito and Transitorio isues were lithographed in sheets of 100, being rouletted and trimmed closely so as to leave no margins. Those who have complete sets of the Ejercitos with the coupon will note that the figures of value on the coupon are set on a ground-work of close diagonal lines, and that these lines show disturbance in all but the 50 cvos. value. We are not here concerned with the peso values, only one of which was postally used. It is therefore evident that the die of the 50 cvos., was used as the foundation for the whole series of centavo values. Alterations were made in the numeral on the stamp itself, but owing to the white background there are only very slight differences to be detected between the subjects in a large block. A study of the disturbances to the background on several copies of the same value will show that they are not always identical. In fact there are ten types, and in their small differences we have a key to the manner in which the stone was laid down.

In a recent purchase I secured a complete sheet of the 2 cvos., and several blocks of the 1 cvo., the largest being 10x3. My efforts to learn the composition of the "plate" brought out the fact that there have been a great many retouches, and that these, together with slight differences in inking, necessitate considerable caution. Furthermore the scheme for the laying down of the stone was found to be exactly the opposite in the two values. In the 1 cvo., a horizontal block of 10 stamps will show the ten types, while in the 2 cvos., they will be shown on a vertical block of 10. In examining the vertical paths between the stamps of the full sheet of the 2 cvos., it is found that the horizontal spacing of the stamps is exact and uniform with respect to the 1st, 3d, 5th, 7th, and 9th paths, whereas the alternate paths vary slightly in width, due to very slight irregularity in entering each of the vertical blocks of ten.

It will be interesting to learn from those who may have full sheets of the higher values whether the vertical block transfer continued in use for them. It is well known that the Transitorio issue was entered in vertical blocks of ten, and those who have blocks or several pairs can note the wide spacing that separated the entries, which contrasts strongly with the narrow spacing between the individuals of an entry block. The median horizontal path on sheets of the Transitorios, forming the top and bottom separation between the entries, is of variable width, but usually nearer the close than the wide spacing of the vertical rows.

Our opinion is that he fared very in getting $600 and that the difference in price paid and price received represented the margin between resale and retail. Buying his stamps tail as he did, one by one, it is only expected that selling them at whole-he could not get, under ordinary conditions, as much as he paid. In buying stamps, a collector can exercise his wisdom just as truly as he can in any other articles of which he has some study. Allowance, too, must be made in a general way of market conditions as a whole, and it is our sincere belief that at times $600 is worth, according to economics, several hundred more than when the purchasing power of the dollar was less than it is. One reason that we do not care to emphasize the financial prospects of stamp collection is that there are so many divergent experiences known to us that we hesitate to speak unqualifiedly on the subject. We have seen cases where a decided profit followed a stamp purchase, and we could cite instances innumerable where the results were not outrageous; and yet, we have the feeling that the possibilities of profit are always working out even though we do always seem to be fortunate enough to be carried along by them.

A RARE UNITED STATES ERROR

1917, Pair 1c Green, Imperf. Between.
Scott's No. 498b.

Sometime back the 1c green, issue of 1917, was found in sheets in which the vertical perforation in one row was missing part way up the sheet, resulting in a horizontal pair of this very interesting stamp, perforated 11 all around, but imperforated between. I was the fortunate purchaser of this little find, and can offer a pair or block of this variety at $20.00 for a mint pair, or $40.00 for a mint block of four. These have full gum and are fine, and I believe this to be the only lot ever located. As the printing of this stamp was discontinued nearly a year and a half back, no more are likely to be found.

I am also in position to furnish many other rarities in the way of 20th Century U. S., and your want list is solicited. Right at present I can furnish a superb copy of the 24c aeroplane stamp with inverted center.

Desire to purchase fine United States properties. Am especially interested in purchasing a collection of fine unused 20th Century U. S. in blocks and singles. Not interested in plate numbers or in line or arrow varieties. Also want the higher denominations, perforated 10, in blocks of 4.

12c Black, 1851-1857.

In the Scott's Monthly Journal, for May, 1924, there appears the first half of a very fine article by Colonel J. K. Tracy and Mr. S. B. Ashbrook, on the 12c black of 1851-1857. We are told that these notes are the result of an intensive study of this stamp by Colonel Tracy, and that credit for the partial reconstruction of the plates of the 12c are entirely due to his work. Mr. Ashbrook's study of other denominations of this series has made him more or less conversant with the methods used by Messrs. Toppan, Carpenter, Casilear & Company, in the manufacture of the plates and stamps, and to him credit is due for many helpful suggestions in compiling these notes.

Colonel Tracy has reached the conclusion that two plates were used in printing this stamp, and if there was a third plate, impressions from it must be exceedingly rare, for he has seen none. The first plate bore the well known imprint of the engravers but we are not aware as to whether this plate was with plate number or not. It was in use from July 1, 1861, until the second plate, which bears plate No. 3, was made. This early plate produced all known imperforates and a great percentage of the perforates. The second plate we are told was evidently made late in 1859 or early in 1860, and was in use until the contract of the printers expired on July 1, 1861.

Colonel Tracy states that certain so-called "unused imperforates," which came from this latter plate, are known and these exist in pairs and single copies, but no genuinely cancelled copy has ever been found. He classifies these along with the 24c, 30c and 90c imperforated, as "trial colors."

Plates 1 and 3 are in many respects much alike. In plate 1, the horizontal distance is ½ to 1½ MM while on plate 3 it is from 1¼ to 2¾ MM. The outer frame line on plate 1 copies is always complete except possibly for very slight breaks at the corner, whereas plate 3 copies always show the outer frame line broken at some corner and generally at the sides, top or bottom. Copies may also show an entire side frame line missing. The great majority from the early plate are sharp and clear, while from the latter, they are dull or blurred.

Plates of this stamp were made up of two panes of one hundred each, 10x10, side by side, and separated by a single center line. All varieties resulting from a re-cutting of the designs come from the early plate, while all of the re-cutting resulting in the "double line" varieties come from the late plate.

The work of locating the positions of the stamps on plate 1 has been completed, but there is still further work to be done on plate 3. The article is well illustrated and the data is possibly the most important addition to our early notes that have appeared for some time.

1924, 2c Carmine, Rotary Print, Perforated 10.

In my recent Chronicle mention was made of the fact that the 2c carmine, perforated 10, from the rotary press, had appeared precancelled, and that as the Department had ordered a good number of this variety in sheets of one hundred, that the stamp would possibly see light very soon.

Through the kindness of Mr. George Soulmán we are able to report that this stamp in an unused condition is now on sale at the Chicago office.

The Post Office in Philadelphia.

In the April edition of the "Corn Exchange," a small four-page pamphlet published by the Corn Exchange National Bank, appears an excellent article, devoted to the U. S. Post Office in Philadelphia, which it describes as one of the largest, most intricate and withal profitable concerns in Philadelphia. They give a long history telling us that Benjamin Franklin, who was the First Postmaster-General, was, while still a mere youth, postmaster of this city, and later Postmaster-General for the American Colonies under British dominion. Before Franklin's time we are informed that in Philadelphia the constables were the letter carriers, and that it was their duty along with the duty of sheriffs and justices of the peace to forward letters within three hours after their receipt. They had the right to impress men and horses for the purpose. The system was crude and in a country lacking roads, delays were great.

Delivery of letters did not begin in Philadelphia for seventy years after the city was founded. Franklin scored a triumph when he sent out from Philadelphia to New England a mail once every week instead of every two weeks, as had been the custom, so that by 1800 one could write a letter to Boston and receive a reply within three weeks.

When Washington became president the Postal Service received much attention, the Postmaster-General was paid a two thousand dollar salary, and roads were built in all directions. In sending a letter at that time was an expensive business. For thirty miles less the rate was six cents; for a trip of two hundred miles a letter had to be fifteen cents, while for four hundred or fifty miles the price was twenty cents.

Since Washington's time there have been seventeen different central post offices in Philadelphia. The present one at 9th and Chestnut was opened in 1814. For this site the Government paid nearly a million and a half dollars, which is the greatest sum ever expended by the United States up to that time for a Federal building site. The building is three times as much. We are told that Philadelphia then had the widest distribution of any city in the world, excepting London, and that the post-office was by far the finest in America.

To show how inadequate this site for office is today, they tell us that in two of the present days Philadelphia does a greater business than in the entire year of 1883. The city now handles 100 million pieces of mail every day, and gross receipts last year were seventy million dollars of which nine million was the amount of the income in excess of the expenditures. The article goes into great details concerning other features of the local establishment.

We wish to thank Mr. Willis M. T. and Rev. L. A. Boone for notes of interest.

MEKEEL'S STAMP NEWS is the best, it meets our needs, it stands the test, here's five dollars, you do the rest.

We enter with pleasure the name of Celestino Piva, N. Y. City, as a member of our Honor Club. With his reluctance just at hand, as he suggests, there will be no further need of worry on his part as regards the renewal of subscription. We also enter C. J. Robb, of Jersey City, N. J., who sends the best wishes for the continued growth of the Five-Year Club.

Brinkley Turner, with Harper and other investment bankers, Philadelphia, does things very philosophically. He sends his check for club membership and says as follows:—

If the lists are not yet closed in your Five-Year Club, please enter my name. I think my subscription is about to run out and as summer is sometimes a slow period in investment bonds, I want to secure myself the regular receipt of MEKEEL'S—if I am not receiving orders for bonds I can at any rate give orders for stamps. Your advertising columns are a fascinating market."

A very interesting letter comes to us from James B. Thomas, of Elyria, Ohio. Thomas is treasurer of the Electrotype Co., of that city, and the addition of the word "Rotarian" to his name makes his letter doubly welcome. The Managing Editor two months ago was elected vice-president of the Beverly Club and expects to attend the World Convention at Toronto the week of June 16. Mr. Thomas, in addition to joining our Five-Year Honor Club, also sends a year's subscription for the Elyria Public Library.

In the very next mail came a similar letter from Fred Salzbanner, Davenport, who sends a five-year renewal and a year for the Davenport Public Library.

Fix this week. We shall need an engraving when next we print the membership list in the WEEKLY.

THE THREE HOLES.

In our issue of April 14 a correspondent asked us for information as to the reason for the punching of three holes in certain Hungarian stamps of recent date. No sooner had the inquiry appeared than when we began to receive letters from various readers with descriptions of the stamps and the reasons for the mutilation in this wise. First of all, we heard from Mr. Harold J. Fister of Allentown, Pa., who wrote as follows: "If a map of Hungary is drawn about the three holes, each hole falls in a distinct part of Hungary. Hungary before its breakup consisted of three provinces which are indicated by the holes. These provinces were, Hungary proper, Slovakia, and Moravia. The punching is done by the Hungarian postal authorities and occurs only on the two middle rows of each sheet. On some sheets the two middle horizontal rows are punched, and on others the two middle vertical rows. Thus, to every one hundred stamps issued only twenty bear this device. Under the peace terms actual propaganda was forbidden, and therefore this milder form of the same principle was invented. It is used to remind the Hungarian populace that parts of these provinces are ruled by foreigners and that some day through the effort of loyal citizens, these provinces may again be under Hungarian rule. It is purely a patriotic symbol and has no other significance attached to it. This information in every way authentic is due to the efforts of Mr. Louis G. Matateis, a local collector."

The Iron City Stamp Co., writes as follows: "The three small holes punched

OVER 300 STOCKBOOKS OF ALL COUNTRIES TO SELECT FROM

London, England

in the form of a triangle on the stamps of Hungary have been punched by the authorities to represent the three portions of land which Hungary lost in the northwest. If a small map of Hungary was to be drawn around the triangle with the triangle placed toward the eastern part, one can readily see the significance of this triangle as the lost land shows up on each hole; the northern part to Czechoslovakia, the eastern part to the Roumanians, and the southern to the Serbs (Jungo-Slavia). This is from an article appearing in the Stamp Collector, Birmingham, England."

Mr. W. A. McLain of the Eastern Stamp Co., Boston, Massachusetts, gives a variation to the accepted reason for the punching of the holes, and it at least is an interesting sidelight. He writes, "My information is not so complete as one would wish, but it seems to be some sort of arrangement connected with the bookkeeping of the post-office. In Hungary every cigar store is an agent for the sale of stamps, and it is said by my informant that all stamps sold in these agencies (on commission, of course) carry these little distinguishing marks. Whether this is to prevent the redemption of stamps on the sale of which a commission has been paid, or for some other reason, I am not informed. Only the low value stamps, such as are used by the public likely to patronize such convenience stations, bear these holes. They will not be found on officials, dues, postal savings or high values, all of which lends weight to this explanation as given to me."

Mr. K. Honnel of San Antonio, Texas, also furnishes the explanation as accepted of the three lost provinces.

HARDINGS IMPERF. VERTICALLY.

(The following clipping is taken from the "Newark Evening News." It is interesting, but we have not verified the figures quoted in the article.—W. O. W.)

How an investment of eighty cents brought a return of $300, which, in turn, netted the re-investor $3,000 although his commodity is still worth no more than eighty cents, face value, is being discussed in awed whispers in Newark philatelic circles, and, in fact, national philatelic circles.

A philatelic circle is composed of people who collect stamps and are called philatelists. Philatelists have their own standards of value. A postage stamp which the United States government might value at two cents, if nice and clean, may be worth a great deal more to philatelists, and often a used stamp which is of no value to the government at all except, perhaps, .00000001 of a cent as waste paper, may be worth many dollars to a collector.

The tale is now being told of a Newark dentist, Dr. Samuel Konwiser of 8 Shanley avenue, who purchased a block of Harding memorial two-cent stamps containing forty of the little black labels. He paid eighty cents for the stamps. However, the stamps were perforated in a peculiar manner. There were no perforations vertically and horizontally the little holes had been punched in an unusual manner.

Dr. Konwiser was offered $225 for the stamps by J. A. Galbraith, a stamp dealer of New York, who lives at 27 Wolcott terrace. The offer was refused, but the block was ultimately sold to Philip H. Ward, a Philadelphia dealer, who paid $300 for the forty unused stamps, which he separated into ten blocks of four, which were sold by him for $300 each.

Unperforated stamps would be considered a nuisance by some folks, but to the discriminating they hold potential financial returns in ratio greater than investments in sure-thing oil stocks.

Wholesale Approval Department

"A Business Builder Service"

No dealer can develop his business to the utmost unless continually adding stamps to his stock. Failure to be constantly alert in this respect will mean stagnation, loss of sales, and ultimate failure.

Our WHOLESALE APPROVAL DEPARTMENT, recently reorganized and now in charge of a philatelist with over twenty years actual experience in the stamp business is solving for scores of dealers the perplexing problem of "What to Buy" and "What to Buy It."

Through this Department goes the cream of our wholesale stock—the most attractive and popular sets, the best of medium grade, single stamps (cataloguing from $1 each), all of the novelties and new issues, special collections and accumulations, etc.

Our files are filled with testimonials from scores of pleased dealers—all unanimous in the opinion that our Wholesale Approval Service has contributed mightily toward their progress and success.

A trial selection may be inspected, without obligation to you, by simply filling in the attached form. If for no other reason than to satisfy your curiosity send in your request TODAY!

Tear Along Dotted Line

H. E. Harris & Co.,
161 Massachusetts Ave.,
Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—You may send me, with no obligation on my part to make purchase a selection of stamps at wholesale, on ten days' approval. I have put a check mark opposite the classes of stamps in which I am interested:

- (1) General selections of the popular, medium-priced sets and single stamps in quantities of 5 or 10 of a kind. This includes new issues, novelties, etc., as they appear.
- (2) General selections of the cheaper picture sets and single stamps in quantities of 50 or 100 of a kind.
- (3) General selections of the higher priced sets in smaller quantities.
- (4) Special collections, accumulations, job lots, etc. (value $25 to $100), which you consider of unusual value and are willing to turn, for quick sale, on a small margin of profit.
- (5) I am interested in the following:

I agree to make returns promptly within the specified time, and am submitting usual commercial references.

Yours very truly,

Street..... City.....

EARLY LOW VALUES SPECIALIZED.

Sometime ago the writer informed MEKEEL'S that on account of the increasing demands made upon his time by his business it would be necessary for him to discontinue his work of conducting this department.

It is with regret that I will give up this work for it has been pleasant to me—so pleasant, indeed, that although in the beginning I stated that I would only conduct it long enough to get the department established and until they could find a permanent editor for it, I have let a year and a half slip by without taking the necessary step to free me from an obligation to which I can ill afford at present to give my time.

In retiring as editor of this department I want to thank the hundreds of collectors all over the country who have shown an interest in this fascinating study of low values of United States stamps issued before 1890. Through their contributions, both of unusual examples of stamps and cancellations, of descriptions of finds and of drawings illustrating unusual plate varieties, a great deal of new light has been thrown upon the subject. But more than that I know, through the letters that have come to me, that thousands of new specialists are being made through this department. Thousands of collectors of United States are beginning to see some of the freakish, the unusual and the intensely interesting things that happen in the process of the manufacture of stamps and to realize for the first time the vast field for interesting and valuable historic exploration found in cancellations on our earlier stamps.

"Your department is the first thing I turn to when MEKEEL'S arrives" is a phrase that about five out of every ten who have written to me use. And I know that in my own city most of the dozens of collectors that I come in contact with read this department every time it appears in the magazine, because of the continual references they make to it.

I have cited these things because they tend to bear out the contention I made when I originally mapped out the plan for MEKEEL'S. It was my claim at that time that it would pay the magazine to open up a forum through which there could be continual discussion of all the various problems and discoveries encountered by those collectors who believe in collecting more than one minor variety of a single stamp. I said at that time, a year and a half ago, that many of the problems brought up would be old, perhaps, but that because fresh recruits were constantly being added to the army of specialists the reshaping of old discoveries would be valuable to the newcomer who had no way of going back over files of dozens of years and of various magazines to gather his information.

tion. Another point made was that the various issues of this department clipped and pasted into a loose leaf scrap would form a volume of information indispensable to any specialist. In other words, it would be a continual and valuable contribution to the literature on specialization in early low values of United States stamps.

I think, without any doubt, that this department has made MEKEEL'S a much more valuable advertising medium for those stamp dealers who have specialized stock to sell from and this is evidenced by the fact that not a few of them have in the last year begun to advertise such specialized stocks. "Early Low Values Specialized" is the way one dealer starts his advertising now. And in many other ways a number of dealers are meeting the obvious needs of the times by securing minor varieties both of the stamp and of the cancellation and advertising them to the readers of this and other papers. Other stamp papers, also, have opened up similar departments and, generally speaking, the field seems to be pretty firmly established and that it will take a more and more important position in the philately of the future.

It has seemed fitting that I should go into this detail at this time, as it is by way of saying farewell to those hundreds of collectors with whom I have formed a correspondence acquaintance. This contact, and the appreciation that they have shown of the work has made it pleasant, even at times when it has interfered with my work of making a living. They have been pleasantly courteous with me at times when the demands of my business have compelled me to neglect stamp correspondence for weeks at a time—they have seemed to understand and to make allowances in view of the circumstances. What little I have done, considered in the light of the vast volume of gratuitous work that is being done for philately by collectors in all parts of the country, has been cheerfully given in the interests of the hobby.

In quitting the editorship of this department I do not intend to retire entirely from the field for it is quite likely that from time to time, when I have the leisure, I may write occasional contributions for the department or articles for the philatelic press on this very interesting subject of specialization.

In closing I wish to clear up a few points on which some of my correspondents seem to be vague. I am not a dealer in stamps, I have no price lists and am not in a position to fill want lists from stock. Candidly speaking there is no reason why I should attempt to tell any correspondent the value of this or that minor variety of stamp or cancellation which he may submit (and in some cases correspondents have merely given me written descriptions of certain items and asked me to inform them as to their value). I have tried, so far as possible, to pass upon the correctness of the correspondent's judgment in defining certain minor varieties submitted, but I have done this only as a courtesy to someone who has taken the trouble to

THE POSTMARKS OF SARAWAK.

By L. B. R.

Collecting is an unlimited amusement and from correspondence which sometimes reaches this office we learn that the gathering together of the postmarks of various countries is one of the refinements of philately. To those who are addicted to this hobby the following facts and figures, supplied by the courtesy of the various postmasters of the country, may be of assistance, whereby anyone can adduce his chance of obtaining any desired cancellation by a simple mathematical calculation.

There have been we find thirty-one different post-offices at one time in this country, but it is only fair to warn the collector that two of them have ceased to exist and of the others some names are entirely illegible owing to the vigour with which postal clerks have wielded their stamps on unyielding bilian counters.

Bakong on the Baram River was opened in December, 1922, owing to the erection of a large saw-mill by the Sarawak Oil Fields, Limited. The first cancellation was the word, Bakong, in block capitals and the date added by a separate hand-stamp. This was shortly replaced by the usual circular postmark. Balingean office is said to have been opened in 1910. No record of stamps sold has been kept. The mail as a rule is sent overland to Mukah or in the fine monsoon to Kuching direct by schooner. Stamps of low denominations are sold at the Court House.

Baram, at one time the head station of what are now the Fourth and Fifth Divisions, has lost much of its postal importance due to the opening of Miri. The first official letter we have seen is addressed Claude Town, Baram, and bears the date 1882. Stamps to the value of $69.63 were sold in 1918.

Bau is an offshoot of the older gold-working Paku and the office was probably opened in 1899. All mails are carried free by the Borneo Company's launches who in return have the exceptional privilege of sending their mail direct to Kuching and not through the local post-office. Stamps sold in 1918 were valued at $145. The cancellation is nearly illegible.

Betong (Saribas) dispatched 477 paid letters during 1918 and sold $13.46 worth of stamps. The postmark is entirely unreadable, it being impossible to make out a single letter. This may point to the age of the station, but we have no information on the point.

Binatang is one of the new Government stations on the Rejang for the opening of which we can give the definite date of 5th May, 1916. A thriving trade seems to be done there as $62.85 worth of stamps were sold in 1918.

Bintulu is one of the older established stations, communicating with the outside world by a coasting steamer which drops a mail twice a month at Kidurong Point, a distance of some six miles from the Government station. In 1918, $56.63 worth of stamps were sold.

Brooketon was at one time managed postally by the Sarawak Government, but no doubt when Brunei first issued her own stamps in 1906, the office was taken over by the proper authorities. Local Brunei stamps were issued in 1898, but, we believe, were never sold at Brooketon.

Daro, in the Rejang Delta, opened a post-office in October, 1911. During 1918, 483 O. H. H. S. letters, 79 paid and four unpaid, were dispatched. The number of stamps sold is not stated.

Delat on the Oya River, opened about 1920. This place has largely taken the place of Oya and is near the canal, uniting the Rejang Rivers, by which mails are sent to Sibi during the monsoon.

Kalaka is one of the older stations, but no figures are obtainable. Not many stamps, we imagine, are sold there.

Kanowit dates back a very long time, and was, before the growing importance of Sibu, the headquarters of the Rejang river. Its importance, however, is more military than commercial and the chief traders maintain their shops at the latter place. Stamps sold in 1918 were $35.76.

Kapit is some sixty miles above Kanowit and was opened at a much later date, we believe in the early nineties, but we have no details of the business done there.

Kuching, the capitol of Sarawak, is the only town with a fully equipped General Post Office where all manner of postal business can be contracted. It was by an Order in Council, dated January 12, 1869, and signed by the then Secretary to the Council, Mr. W. M. Crocker, that the office was brought into being from March 1, 1869. The original cancelling was done by writing S. P. O., Sarawak, and the date and also by two wooden stamps, one marked Sarawak in block capitals and the other consisting of thin parallel lines. These latter, we understand, have been destroyed some time ago. A later stamp is of the ordinary type with the word Sarawak round the edge of the circle and the date; a special stamp was reserved for registered letters with the words "Sarawak Post Office, Registered Letter" and the date in three separate lines. A stamp for local use consists of the word Kuching with the date. Stamps sold in 1918, amounted to $5,812.85.

Lawas, a post-office in the Fifth Division, opened about 1900.

Limbang is the chief station in the Fifth Division and has direct communication both with Kuching and Labuan. The annexation of this river in March, 1890, is part of the history of Sarawak.

Lingga is another station dating back many years, but has lost much of its old

Stop At Hudson

My office in this city is but one block from the main state road running from New York to Albany and thence across the State. When passing through Hudson, many motorists avail themselves of the opportunity of inspecting my specialized stock of United States only.

I am located on the corner of Warren and Sixth Streets on the second floor front and my office is open from 9 to 5 except Saturday afternoons. Telephone appointments for other hours cheerfully made. Office phone 407—home phone 609.

Don't think you have to buy—I just invite all to inspect importance. Stamps sold there in 1918 amounted to $10.92.

Lundu is, after Kuching, the oldest station in Sarawak from which it is distant only half a day by steamer. We have no record of the business done there.

Matu is situated on a small isolated river in the Rejang Delta. No particulars are to be had about the Post Office. We assume there is some defect in the cancelling stamp, in the instance before us the figures showing the year are filled in by hand.

Miri, as the place where the oil comes from, has in late years become of some importance. Direct communication is held with Singapore and Kuching and mails are sent direct there from London. The office was opened in January, 1911, and stamps amounting to $949.89 were sold in 1911.

Mukah, at one time the headquarters of the Third Division, communicates direct with Kuching by schooner some seven months in the year during the fine monsoon. At other times the mail is sent overland to Oya from where it is paddled to Sibü and thence to Kuching. It is no uncommon occurrence, when the bridges are carried away by flood, for the mail-carriers to have to swim five rivers, often to the detriment of their burdens.

Niah is a sub-station in the Miri district and is chiefly famous for its export of bird's-nests. These apparently are not sent by post as only two parcels were despatched there in 1918. $17.16 worth of stamps were sold in the same year.

Oya is also one of the older stations whose importance is giving way to a more thriving town up-river. It suffers from the same disabilities as Mukah, with which place it is in telephone communication as well as with Sibü. Stamps sold there in 1918 were $35.55.

Paku, as a post-office, has ceased to exist though a Government police station is still maintained. The last postmark we remember to have seen bears the date 1905.

Pusa is a small sub-station in the Second Division about which we have no particulars.

Rejang, at the mouth of the river of that name, at certain times is in direct communication with Singapore and also Hong Kong, to where timber is shipped in large quantities. At present, owing to lack of shipping, this export has ceased. No details of stamps sold are available.

Sadong is the coaling centre of Sarawak, communicating directly with Kuching and less regularly with Singapore. Stamps to the value of $95.15 were sold in 1918.

Sarikei is the last opened of the Sarawak post-offices, being first used early in this year. As the regular makers of postmarks appear to have been employed on munition work, the station so far has had to content itself with a rubber stamp with the date filled in by hand.

Sibü is now the headquarters of the Third Division and is in direct communication with Singapore by the Sarawak Steamship Company and also a Chinese line. The number of stamps sold in 1918 amounted to $1,023.45.

Sibuti is another of the Miri sub-stations and did business in 1918 amounting to $5.45.

Simanggang is the headquarters of the Second Division and is less fortunately situated than any. Communication with Kuching is maintained by sailing-boats and is often interrupted by bad weather. We are assured by the postmaster that though he does not know at what time the office was opened, it is never shut, as mails arrive at all hours of the day and night. Stamps sold in 1918 amounted to $90.54.

Simatan is a sub-station to Lundu where apparently all postal business is carried through. It is in the unique position of having sold no stamps at all in 1918.

Tatau is one of the sub-stations of Bintulu, and though only twenty-six letters were despatched during 1918, stamps to the value of $8.52 were sold, so it is possibly the home of some unknown philatelist.

Trusan, the last office on our list, is stated to have been opened on August 11, 1888, and the mails are, we believe, despatched either overland to Lawas or by boat to Limbang. Stamps to the value of $19.79 were sold in 1918.—Reprinted from the Sarawak Gazette, Jan. 16, 1919, by permission of the author, who has since made additions to the list.

S. P. A. CONVENTION.

The up-and-coming society of Philatelic Americans under the vigorous leadership of President V. W. Rotnem has started making arrangements for what promises to be the best Convention the Society has ever had. The Convention is to be held at the Hotel Continental, New York City, on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, August 4th, 5th and 6th.

The Chairman of the Committee on arrangements is Mr. A. O. Litt, the Haitian specialist. So far the following tentative program has been outlined:

Monday, Aug. 4th—10 A. M. Reception of members. 2 P. M. Business meeting. 8 P. M. Auction by Max Ohlman, 116 Nassau St., New York City.

Tuesday, Aug. 5th—10 A. M. General get-together. 2 P. M. Election of new officers. 4 P. M. Bourse to Sell and Swap. 7 P. M. Trip to Coney Island.

Wednesday, Aug. 6th—10 A. M. Visits to the Stamp Centers on Nassau Street and 42nd Street. 2 P. M. Addresses by experts on specialized collections. 4 P. M. Papers on Selected Subjects. 7 P. M. Banquet in the Blue Room of Hotel Continental.

LION OR DOG—WHICH?

Our friend Hubert Lyman Clark, who is in England, writes that he is having a derful time and is very busy. He sends a ving from the London Telegraph telling the y of the dinner of the London Philatelic ety held May 7 to celebrate its silver jubi-
-Dr. Clark attended the banquet, Herman spern of N. Y. City being the only other frican present. Dr. Clark writes that the nble Exposition is great and he is keenly ying it. This clipping will be interesting showing the lively discussion that is going s to the real character of "the Wembley

he Junior Philatelic Society last it celebrated its silver jubilee at a ner at the Criterion Restaurant. This nisation in the twenty-five years of istence has done much in relation to study or the hobby of stamp collec-
-At its foundation it had sixty bers. Today the roll contains more t 3,000 names. The president, Mr.
d J. Melville, that well-known au-ity, was in the chair, and he had the ort of a large company. Among the inal members of 1899 there were ent Mr. J. B. Melville (first secre-y), Mr. Charles Nissen (first hon. interfeit detector), Mr. H. F. John-(treasurer), Mr. J. S. Higgins (anchester), Mrs. T. J. Melville, Mr.

S. S. Sedgwick (Ceylon).
arly in the evening the Chairman announced that a telegram had been des-hed to the King on the eighty-fourth versary of the postage stamp, congning loyal greetings on the fourteenth versary of his Majesty's accession, referring to his interest in the study collection of stamps. The following y had been received:

The Visitors," dealt humorously with origin of the society, and expressed ure that so many of the original bers were present. Their ideals were ame today—to encourage the young ctor and the beginners throughout world. They had maintained those ts and were as full of enthusiasm the old days. They had, too, decently died, had bequeathed the whole of his collection to the society. They were of considerable value, the main feature being the specialised series of Uruguay and a general collection of the stamps of the world. Referring to the presence of Mr. Seymour Bennett, who was for many years Inspector of Stamping at Somerset House, he asked what sort of lion had we on the Wembley stamp? It was perfectly tame and had been out to too many banquets. It was a clever lion, inasmuch as it was able to poise the King and the medallion and the Crown as well on the hairs on the tip of its tail. (Laughter.)

Mr. Seymour Bennett, in his reply, said that we had no better stamp than that of 1913. It was the perfection of art.
As to the Wembley lion, who said that it was a lion? He knew something of stamps and something of dogs. It was a mastiff. (Laughter.) In conclusion, he paid a tribute to the patience and knowledge of the president of the society in relation to the pursuit and advancement of philately, and proposed the toast of the society.

Mr. James B. Melville read a telegram from Mr. Charles Phillips, of New York, congratulating the society on its silver jubilee. Americans as well as British recognised that the society, and Mr. Fred Melville had been the greatest factors in making stamp collection popular. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. W. B. Haworth, in responding, referred to the widespread activities of the society, and the services it had rendered to philately. He proposed the health of the chairman which was received with much enthusiasm.

SWEDEN.

By K. A. WALLQUIST.

The great collection of Baron Leijon-hufvud of London, England, whose specialized collection of Sweden, was sold in the latter part of last year to a Swedish dealer at a price not made public, was on exhibition in Stockholm, last November.

This magnificent collection contained some very rare Swedish Errors, such as Sweden No. 1, 3 skilling, in Orange Yellow, instead of Green, now the property of Mr. Claes A. Tamm, a prominent Swedish collector, price not divulged.

This error of which only one copy is known to exist, was made at the last printing of the 8 skilling, in 1858, when the plate broke, and the printer, in repairing the plate took by mistake a 3 skilling type and set it in the 8 skilling place, and so created this great rarity.

Another very scarce stamp is the 12 ore (Scott's No. 8) printed in 1871, with correct print on both sides. Of this stamp only three copies are known and the same misprint we find on the 3 ore (Scott's No. 13) brown.

The collection included several copies of the 30 ore on 20 ore (Scott's No. 33a)
and of the Official stamps we found the 10 on 12 ore, and 10 on 24 ore (Scott's
No. 423a-424b) with inverted surcharge;
and the great rarity, the 10 on 12 ore unused, perf. 14, (Scott's No. 423b) of which only three copies are known.

Want Lists. A Specialised Service

For years I have made a specialty of the execution of Want Lists. Few firms in this country have developed this side of the business to the same extent.

Owing to the great increase in my American business, I have now established a WANTS REGISTER on the basis of Scott's catalogue. Collectors may therefore send me their full want lists and be confident that they will not be side tracked and that they will receive constant attention. Selections will be sent on approval at regular intervals.

I sell stamps in Fine Condition only. My prices average half catalogue, and will bear comparison with any market in the world. I have, at the moment, nothing to offer in old U. S., but have an immense stock of British and French Colonials, Europeans, Asiatics, Africans and South Americans. I stock no common stamps and New European rubbish. In fact, nothing issued after 1912.

Approval selections of any country against references. [tf]

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—According to the Westport Masonic Review, published in Kansas City, an international Masonic Stamp Institute has been organized in France with headquarters at 240 Rue de Rivoli, Paris. All Free Masons, Eastern Stars and DeMolays have been invited to membership.

—Geo. H. Lechtenberg, Luzerne, Iowa, would like to know where he can procure a Huguenot-Walloon 50c coin. Who of our subscribers can favor him with the information?

—A Stamp Collectors Club has been organized at Gloucester, Mass., and it recently gave an exhibition of stamps in the window of the Cape Ann Savings Bank. The club is composed of boys about twelve years of age.

—The veteran New York dealer, J. E. Handshaw, will make another visit to Europe this summer. He expects to sail July 12.

—Wm. C. Meissner in renewing his subscription commends the recent articles from the pen of Charles J. Phillips, as being of authoritative character, expresses approval of the attention we are giving to U. S. minor varieties, believes that the U. S. Philatelic Agency will work harm in the case of embryo collectors and condemns government commemorative issues like the Huguenot-Walloon stamps. We can follow Mr. Meissner very well with the exception of the reference made to the Philatelic Agency. In this we would like to have a bill of particulars.

—Theodore Champion with commendable enterprise and energy announces an edition of the firm's catalog this fall in English. It will be in every respect an exact copy of the French edition. When a French firm takes this method of securing American business it is a distinct tribute to the buying power of American stamp collectors.

—Sometimes an advertiser asks us whether advertising copy shall be sent to Beverly or Portland. It can be sent to either address, but in view of the fact that all copy must pass under inspection of the Managing Editor it will ultimately reach Beverly.

—We are informed by Mr. H. L. Taite that the writer of the following letter is one of the veterans of the World War and has been confined to his bed in hospitals for five years or so. To while away the time he has become interested in stamps and not a few collectors have sent him stamps in order that they may do their share in helping Mr. Cooke during his confinement. In the course of a letter acknowledging the receipt of a few stamps, Mr. Cooke says, "I like to hear of a father being interested in stamps with his son, as he may be a great help in starting him aright. So many schools are now encouraging collecting, and I think that a great move in making an education enjoyable is the consequence." Address: Jas. H. Cooke, Arrowhead Springs, California.

—T. S. Cornell, Brooklyn N. Y., exhibited his magnificent collection of 20th century British Colonials, practically complete, at a meeting of the Brooklyn Stamp Club, 123 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, May 28, at which time there was a large attendance. Those present commented on the excellent condition of the stamps. The Club holds meetings the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month and collectors are cordially invited to attend.

—H. R. D.—In reply to your question as to whether we intend to reprint in booklet form the Ritchie data on cancellations, we are compelled to say that it is not our intention so to do. In this connection we may add as a matter of general information that Mr. Ritchie's health did not permit him to continue the work as planned. We do not consider it wise to use again in the WEEKLY this matter which has already been placed before our readers.

—We have received from the Martauco Stamp Co., the 1924 edition of the firm's illustrated price list of wholesale offerings. Dealers may find in the twenty-four pages of this list extensive offerings of many varieties of attractive stamps.

—From Mr. J. Rausch of San Francisco, we have received a copy of the Examiner of his city, for May 25, that contains a Sunday feature story telling how Scotland Yard detectives trapped a "poison pen" writer, through the use of markings with secret ink on the stamps. The story is an ingenious one, and it is a clever working out of the idea of identifying stamps through a peculiarity that would not be noticed by the user of them. The writer of the article says that the stamps used by a culprit must show no distinctive marks upon them, as such would arouse the suspicion of the user, troubled more or less with a guilty conscience.

—A correspondent writes to inform us when the Olympic games special stamps are withdrawn in October next, they will be replaced by stamps that are to be issued in commemoration of the international exhibition of decorative art in Paris next year. This is a confirmation of a newspaper announcement to that effect that appeared several months ago.

—An old subscriber writes to say that he was interested in the reference recently to the circular that was sent out by Mr. W. F. E. Gurley, of Chicago, about 1892, to postmasters in the south, offering to buy Confederate stamps and

A house organ with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months. Each issue consists of from 32 to 48 pages, every one containing a formidable array of unusual offerings in medium and scarce sets, packets and special collections, dealers' stocks, single stamps, philatelic supplies, etc., etc.

Albert C. Munson, 412 Broadway, Houston, Texas, writes: "I enjoy the Bi-Monthly as much as MEKEEL'S; there is no other paper, house organ, journal or circular of any kind wherein one can find such extraordinarily good stock—and at such reasonable prices."

C. A. Ralston, 164 Vaughn St., Waterloo, Iowa, says: "I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The Bi-Monthly Journal is a distinctive publication and absolutely free to patrons. You can't afford to be without it!

name and address, in order that we have something to fall back on, in we publish the report?

A Chicago collector recently had an operating experience based on the real of some of the new special issue, S., from a registered envelope that came from the Philatelic Agency in Washington. This is almost like robbing the house next to the police station. Here are two opinions of the present condition of the stamp trade. One says that it is "fair to rotten" and the other says that it has never been better. Strike your own averages.

The following excerpt from the Orleans Times-Picayune speaks of it:

M. de Simonin, French consul-general in his address told the glorious story of Jean Ribaut, a nobleman by his king to found a colony in Florida, for men of the Calvinistic faith, for Huguenots who were persecuted in France for religious reasons. He outlined the events leading up to the first voyage and gave a graphic picture of the start of the expedition; he told of the long voyage across the Atlantic and the delight of the mariners when they reached Florida and found it to be a tropical paradise, with birds, luxuriant vegetation, fertile soil and friendly Indians.

The speaker told of the trials and hardships which the year 1562 brought these explorers; of the ceremonies which attended their landing, and of the taking possession of this new territory in the name of their king; of the second expedition to America, of the founding of the Carolina colony on the May River. He outlined the hard and last expedition of the great explorer, concluding with his death at the hands of Spanish soldiers. Ribaut was stabbed in the back while trying to make terms of honorable surrender for his men before an overwhelming number of Spanish troops. M. de Simonin spoke of the splendid way the Daughters of the American Revolution were paying tribute to the memory of this man, and said:

the tragic death of Jean Ribaut, the many achievements of Lafayette and Jeanbeau, and the gallant deeds of heroic boys at Chateau Thierry and at Mihiel will constantly remind us of the potent reasons why Franco-American friendship should remain forever unpaired."

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

THE INVESTOR IN STAMPS.

The fourth section into which I divided stamp collectors, for the purpose of this article, is he who forms a collection mainly as an investment for the future.

I have dealt fully with this subject in a separate little pamphlet of 33 pages, termed "Postage Stamps as an Investment," so I do not propose to go over the ground again here, but to anyone who is interested I shall be happy to send a copy of this little brochure until the supply is exhausted.

II. STAMP DEALING IN THE FUTURE.

Dealing in postage stamps as a business is about sixty years old and it is a pretty complicated affair now, with many side ramifications. I wonder if many of my confreres in the trade have tried to visualize what stamp dealing will be like in another sixty years or less!

We used to talk this over in London at Stanley Gibbons Ltd., and we were gradually coming to the opinion that stamp dealing and stamp publications in every branch was getting too big a subject for any one existing firm to tackle.

In Germany the leading dealers, Senf Bros., found it too great a task to do everything themselves and sold their stamp albums to another firm, keeping only their catalogue and journal.

We, in Stanley Gibbons Ltd., were much inclined to gradually limit our business to the stamps and publications relating to British and British Colonial stamps. This, of course, was while I was over there; since I have left I cannot say if anything has been done or even thought of in this line.

Just think what it means for a stamp dealer, however large he may be or whatever capital he can command, to try and carry a stock of all kinds of postage stamps, to constantly import and stock new issues, and to publish catalogues, journals, albums and handbooks.

It can be done, of course, but I found out that to do it properly and keep up a good stock in each department meant either employing a very large capital or using a large portion of each year's profits to increase the stocks in place of being able to declare dividends commensurate with the work one put in the firm.

I have thought a good deal about this matter and formed my idea as to what should be the best manner of conducting the commercial side of the stamp business in the future.

I will outline a scheme for America, and I think that, with modifications, such a scheme might be applicable to the three other centres of the stamp trade: Great Britain, Germany and France.

I think that in each of these centers there should be one great organization dealing in and with every branch of our business. This would need a substantial cash and stock capital, say, for America some two to three million dollars, but well organized I see no reason why such a store could not earn 10% to 15% in yearly dividends.

I suggest a central office and store with a number of branches in all towns of over 200,000 inhabitants.

These branches should be filled and stocked alike, each one carrying a minimum stock of some $50,000.00, consisting of series of the most popular sets, packets of stamps, a couple of general collections in spaced albums, one of unused and one of used stamps, and a good line of stamp albums, handbooks and philatelic requisites.

Possibly one of the dealers in each large city might sell his business to such a corporation, and become manager of the branch store for his district. A manager's remuneration should be a fair salary on which he could live comfortably, plus a percentage of the profit he earned for the company.

Each store should be on the ground floor and consist of a good shop with plenty of window space for display, and a room or division at the back in which to receive the more important clients.

As advanced collectors come along, special books of rarities could be sent out once a week or month to such stores as called for them to meet special requirements.

The head office should be organized into branches, each one under a manager who should be responsible for his branch showing a proper proportion of profit, and if he could not show it, he should go out and make way for a man who could.

The head office should run its own publication department, print all its albums, catalogues, journals, handbooks, etc., and this branch should be located where labor is cheap and easily obtained.

The head office should have its own Auction Department and run this for the special benefit of its own clients both to sell for them and to them on the lowest possible terms.

It should employ travellers to go about the country to buy collections and stocks and to open up new connections.

In fact, we want in the stamp business modern and up-to-date methods of conducting big business which have hitherto been neglected.

Stamp collecting is growing by leaps and bounds and a well-organized concern with capital behind them would have a great future.

Next I should like to consider the individual dealer, and what would seem likely to be best for him in the future.

My answer to this is for the dealers in each town to specialize.

For the dealer with a limited capital it is difficult for him to even attempt to carry a stock of the world's stamps, to import new issues, and keep up a stock of general sets and packets and publications. It is further quite difficult for him to get a knowledge of all these endless varieties.

I think there is a lot of good money to be made by the dealer who will take up a certain branch of the business, stick to that section and make himself a master in it, knowing all there is to be known about his own special group.

I may be asked what are the best groups of stamps in which a dealer in the United States should specialize. I think there are quite a number and one might choose from the following:

United States, General Issue, 19th Century.
United States, General Issue, 20th Century.
Departmentals, Periodicals and Postage Due.
Carriers and Locals.
Revenues.

British North American Colonies.
Confederate States.
Central Americans.
West Indies.
South Americans.
Europeans.
Scandinavians.
Stamps of Africa, Asia or Australia.
In General, New Issues.
Sets and Packets.

are the next two countries available under our system of INTENSIVE APPROVAL SERVICE whereby stamps of a particular country are sent out on approval in small envelopes marked 1c, 2c, 3c, etc., in such large assortments as to enable a collector to add a great number to or perhaps complete his collection of the particular country at a minimum cost. RUSSIA (chiefly the Soviet issues) is available both used and mint, SWEDEN, only used.

This system of ours, under which so far—in addition to the above two—the following countries have been made available: Germany, Danzig, Memel, Jugo-Slavia and Poland, is gradually being extended to include all countries which are particularly adaptable to same. A request for a trial selection of any of the above will convince anybody of the superiority of our system over any other approval services. When applying, please indicate whether you are interested in mint or used stamps or both.

EDITORIAL.

We suppose that readers have acted upon the suggestion to write to their congressman in behalf of House Bill, No. 9,159 which has for its purpose the removal of duty of 25% now levied on used U. S. stamps coming from Europe.
It is to the personal interest of each collector to have this burden lifted as in the case of stamps on which this excess charge is paid, the addition is placed on the selling prices of the stamps as a matter of necessity. Congress will soon adjourn, and if collectors are to participate in a victory following their demand for the removal of the tax, it will be necessary that they immediately take pen in hand to express their wishes to their representatives at Washington.

The paragraph in our issue of May 26, on the subject of the design of the new 5c commemorative stamp, has brought a number of letters from readers who call attention to the fact that on May 1, ceremonies conducted at Jacksonville, Florida, in honor of Jean Ribaut, attracted no little attention. A monument was unveiled on that day to the French explorer who led the first expedition to establish itself on our soil. A number of newspaper articles told of the interesting celebration, and in a copy of the Times-Picayune sent by Mr. Charles L. Thompson of New Orleans, an interesting account covering the news and historical phases of the festival appeared. In another column we shall copy the "glorious, tragic story" of the nobleman, Ribaut.

We have received a copy of the South Bend Tribune, of May 30, in which a notice well over a half column in length appears telling of the address by David C. Turnbull of Mishawaka, Ind., on stamp collecting. He spoke at a meeting of the Lions' Club of South Bend, and the newspaper tells of the attention with which his remarks were received. We know that Mr. Turnbull is able to handle philatelic subjects to advantage before an audience and we commend the example that he has set to us in giving his time for the general good of all. Concluding his remarks, he offered to distribute stamps of any kind that might be placed in his hands and with the money received from their sale contribute to the work of the boy scouts. With becoming modesty we quote: "He also

Mr. Frank L. Applegate writes: "The South Carolina law has been amended to take effect May 1, 1924, so that all those odd fractional value 'business license' stamps are rendered obsolete, tobacco and cigarettes hereafter to be taxed for even cents only. Therefore, it behooves those who have not acquired these cheap and interesting values to get busy, if they are still to be had."

* * *

The time is growing near when those who expect to attend the American Philatelic Society convention at Detroit, in August, must make plans for the trip.
Each year there are a few members who attend their first convention, and so long as this happy circumstance continues, there is every certainty that the attendance each year will be greater than that of the previous year. Those who have the confirmed convention habit may be depended upon to put in their appearance barring unforeseen contingencies;
but there is always a considerable number of collectors who hesitate to attend for the first time. While it is not to be said that they are averse to any public participation in philately, yet they seem to be disinclined to enter into the activities of a convention. We wish we had the power to persuade them to combine a vacation with the annual convention of the leading national organization because we know that they will admit after the sessions are over that the time given to them was well spent. Latterly the conventions are becoming quite ideal from the view-point of the collector because of the opportunities given for barter, so dear to the hearts of the average philatelist and of the chance of personal contact with one's fellows. The auction sale which latterly has been a feature of conventions is an attraction for not a few of those who attend. There is no question that this annual meeting is one that has its tendency to stabilize philately in this country. Some attention is given to the meeting by the press, particularly in the convention city, and the result is that stamp collecting is placed before the public in a relatively proper light. In thus coming together each year, the members of the society are merely emulating those who follow any particular line of business or profession or cult, and every normal condition may be said to point to the propriety of such opportunities for the interchange of philatelic thought. It is needless to say that the newcomer is especially welcome, and it may be advanced with a feeling of confidence that he will find congenial associates among those present. Another reason that we always bespeak a large attendance at a convention is because of the desirability of showing those who work so hard for the success of the convention in their city that their efforts are appreciated. The social diversions that comprise a good part of the convention program are such as to appeal in the aggregate to almost everybody, and it is merely gratitude for favors anticipated to show the entertainers that they have worked to good advantage.

We hope that this year at Detroit the numerical strength of the clans will be such as to impress the philatelic public as well as the non-philatelic populace with the strength of the collecting columns.

* * *

The receipt of a letter from a famous English philatelist in which he says that he has no objection to commemorative stamps so long as the manner of issuing them is one tempered with reasonable regard for postal necessities, is one that,
in our opinion, fittingly describes a condition that certainly is not a theory but a fact. We cannot believe that there will be any pressure that collectors, even working in unison, can bring to bear on governments that will give a quietus to all issues of the kind, but it is just as well that collectors take a stand of dignified reserve in contemplating commemorative issues. It is evident that collectors will never be at one in cases of the kind and that there will be no unanimity of opinion in regard to them. As years go on, with the inevitable coming of further celebration stamps, the number of special issues will be so large as to give the stamps in question a classification and following the suggestion made recently by the London Philatelist, it would no violence to the ideas of any collector for a line of demarcation to be drawn between the regular and the commemorative issues which could be strengthened until the two kinds of stamps would under separate categories. The work moves and the practical man will that there is no hope of entire abandonment of the special stamp idea by all governments of the world, but as long as the proclivities in this regard of nations are curbed, there is no philatelic moralization of philatelic lines to be feared. Years from now, we think reasonable to say that the special stamp will be segregated, to some extent from the regulation issues, and it would be just as well to begin the process now.

is our opinion that if the manifest advantages that come through a special issue by reason of the advertising among non-philatelists were not so fraught with advantage to collecting as a whole, should not be at all friendly to the necessary stamps, but taking a broad view of the subject, we cannot condemn the occasional special issues by reputa-countries in view of the help that they give collecting through the advertising that they do for our pursuit.

Judging from reports in European cotemporaries, the trade philatelic bod-in different countries are doing much eradicate abuses in their own ranks, well as to do all they can to prevent irregularities in the trade that is associated with their organizations. We welcome any effort on the part of reputable stamp dealers the world over purge their ranks of dealers who bear black marks against them, and we think that one of the necessary works to be accomplished before philately can rise to the heights is a house-cleaning in commercial sense. We are aware that there is an advance in the standards of business conduct among dealers generally, but there are dealers who are in the approved class who do much damage to philately by imposing on collectors who in some instances are impelled to give up collecting by reason of their exasperating experiences. In this country there is evidence at hand to show that the work of purification goes that from year to year an advance is made. We learn of some of the shortcomings of dealers who are not generally recognized as such, and the collector should be striven for is to get them properly in the estimate of collectors. The philatelist who comes out the open and by his support of stamps shows that he is devoting real interest to the subject of stamps is in a position that is rather well protected because the information that he receives through the columns of the press are as to put him on his guard and it is a fair assumption that the collector devotes some time to stamp reading after equipped with knowledge than who collects in the dark. Every now then we hear of some grave impostor practised on a collector who is not in the circle, by a fly-by-night dealer, we have to admit that the remedy sharp practice of the kind is not easily found. The collector who is busily engaged in his pursuit certainly as a matter of insurance give heed to the stamp literature of the day, and it is not necessary that he develop a stamp student, he should at least get to some easy method of getting elementary ideas of stamp collecting. I believe that solitary collecting is as popular as it once was, and the wishing number of those who pursue in a secret way will soon be reduced to a corporal's guard. Nevertheless it behooves all those who work for improved conditions in philately to strive to make the pursuit safe and sane and of protection should be thrown out at the newcomer or the innocent collector may be defended against the of the stamp sharper. While the press made in this direction seems to very slow at times, yet, as has been from year to year, a betterment result; and as time goes on, the tone of philatic morality will improve, we believe, so that what in some circles is a drawback upon the fullest enjoyment of collecting will be removed to great satisfaction of all who wish the permanent success of our pursuit.

SHENSI, A REMOTE CHINESE PROVINCE.

"How the 7,000,000 of Shensi's inhabitants have been able for 5,000 years to get along without a post-office is another interesting problem that awaits a satisfactory explanation. In the entire province there is no provision for sending or receiving letters. When it is necessary for a merchant in Sian to send a letter to a correspondent in Hankow, he pays a muleteer of a caravan to carry his letter to its destination. Missionaries in the neighborhood of Sian occasionally hire a courier to carry their mail to the nearest post-office in Tai Yuan, 300 miles to the northward in Shensi. These are really the only two methods by which it is possible for a citizen of Sian to communicate by letter with the outer world. The postal system inaugurated by Sir Robert Hart has now extended through most of the eighteen provinces. In Sichuen, for example, a line of government post-offices extends almost to the borders of Tibet.

But Shensi is unalterably opposed to a post-office. Sian has frequently been sounded on the subject by the foreign office in Peking, and the answer has always been strongly in the negative. A large part of the opposition of the Sianese to a regular mail service can be ascribed to their dislike of letters. Nineteenth of the citizens of Sian never write a letter from one year's end to the other. A letter is a means of communication with the outer world. To a certain extent it would bring the Sons of Han into touch with the foreigner, and is therefore to be avoided as a dangerous thing. The only institution of foreign origin in Sian is the telegraph office. The single wire of the Chinese Imperial Telegraph now penetrates the most remote districts of the Middle Kingdom, and over it are daily transmitted the government edicts and the orders to the mandarins, but, apart from these, two messages a month constitute a large business for a telegraph office in an interior town of 200,000 inhabitants. The "wire on the poles" is heartily disliked by most Shensi farmers, who regard it as the abode of an evil spirit, and one of the first acts of the Boxers was to destroy the line for hundreds of miles. Sian's telegraph office was established about eight years ago, but no one ever took it very seriously until the arrival of the exiled court, when it at once became the medium by which the Empress Dowager could daily scold Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching in Peking. The fact that the telegraph was used by the Emperor gave it a popularity with merchants and bankers that it had never enjoyed before. When I visited Sian the telegraph office employed four operators, one of whom enjoyed the distinction of being the only Chinaman in the city who could speak English. He had been brought from Nanking at the time of the peace negotiations, in order to facilitate the transmission of government-messages to representatives of the foreign allies."—From

NEW YORK CITY

"Through Hidden Shensi," by Francis H. Nichols and published by Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, 1905.

EARLY LOW VALUES SPECIALIZED.

Charles H. Hermann, 3927½ San Pedro St., Los Angeles, Cal., submits some interesting cancellations and minor varieties. He shows several one cent blue and three cent greens of the 1879 issue showing the cancellation, "Diamond Rubbers" in reverse, this wording being enclosed in a diamond-shaped frame, cancellation in black. These were found in a lot of U. S. and Canada from Vermont. Who knows anything about it?

He shows examples of the two cent red brown, of 1883, showing thin, medium and thick papers. Most stamps of these issues were printed on papers of varying thicknesses and some of the exceedingly thin and exceedingly thick papers are scarce indeed.

Mr. Hermann sends a large number of the two cent 1883, showing various varieties of the shifted transfer. From what he sends, the shift on this stamp would seem to be rather prolific. Most of these shifts are slight, showing in an extra extension of the horizontal shading lines either to the left or the right of the design, in doubled lines in the pearls, extra line at the bottom, etc.

One of the same stamp shows a curious irregular white line on the design, evidently caused by there having been a thread on the plate at the time of printing.

"Five Corners" is the cancellation on one stamp. Where was "Five Corners?"

Gilbert M. Burr, Meshoppen, Pa., submits some fine examples of minor varieties of revenues of the first issue perforated. He shows an example of the two cent Proprietary blue in which the word "Proprietary" at the bottom is badly shifted. Ornaments at bottom are shifted downward and the shifted lines show elsewhere on the stamp.

A somewhat similar shift, also quite pronounced, is shown on the two cent Bank Check, blue. A copy of the 25 cent Certificate shows slight traces of shift at the bottom.

The most unusual thing shown by Mr. Burr is a $1 Entry of Goods which shows an irregular line extending from the "o" of dollar at the top downward toward the right, crossing the "r" and the lower part of "e" of revenue, and thence into the background surrounding Washington's bust.

CHARLES J. PHILLIPS

that well-known veteran of philately who has spent a great number of years in the study of stamps, hence is qualified to speak with authority, has the following to say in his little booklet recently published, entitled "The Future of Philately":

"Now, let us turn to our own stamps. Can anyone say that a fine collection of the United States stamps of the twentieth century has not been a sound investment for those who have gathered together all the varieties which have appeared in such profusion during this period? Certainly not; one has only to study the catalogs of the past ten years and note how the varieties have gone higher and higher in price year by year."

I can further state that I know of no emissions that have made any greater return to the investor of small means, who has gathered together these interesting varieties as issued. Twentieth Century United States have a great future, and I have such confidence in their stability that I have put considerable money in a stock that I believe to be second to none. If you are hunting for these issues, or if you desire to start a collection along these lines, I am in a position to give your want list my attention. A real investment for those of moderate means.

Am in the market to purchase fine United States properties at substantial prices. The best of banking, commercial and philatelic references gladly furnished.

In the above list, we find all of the plates made for the Huguenot-Walloon Tercentenary Stamps, and it is not likely that any more will be made, for I understand from the Department that they will make no further requisitions upon the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for a further lot, when the quantity originally ordered has been distributed. This included fifty million 1c, seventy-five million 2c, and five million 5c. In order to turn these out, it will be seen that the Bureau has made twelve 1c plates, twelve 2c plates and four 5c plates.

In the above series of plates, it will also be seen that the Bureau has made further postage due plates for each denomination. It will be noted that only two plates each were made for the 30c and 50c denomination, and these two sets of plates, making four in all, are generally printed from at the same time. The demand is so small that it is not necessary to make a full set of four plates.

We also have in this list, four new plates of the 11c Hayes the first that we have had since the original four plates were made.

Transcontinental Air Mail Service.

Under date of May 28th, the Information Service of the Post Office Department called the attention of the daily press to the fact that when a transcontinental air mail service begins on July 1st next, that the thousand mile lighted airway for night flying will have grown to nearly sixteen hundred miles, stretching out on the east from Chicago to Cleveland, and on the west from Cheyenne to Rock Springs, Wyoming. Equipment for lighting beacons to cover these two stretches has been ordered, and part of it is already on the ground awaiting erection. Before the first planes leave New York and San Francisco on July 1st, installation is expected to be completed.

Necessity for the extension of the lighting system is to guard against the possibility of delayed planes being caught by descending darkness before reaching the lighted airway, which at present begins at Chicago on the east and Cheyenne on the west.

Under the summer schedule, recently announced, planes will leave New York at 11 A. M., and San Francisco at 6 A. M., each day. The hours of departure are fixed at both ends to meet minimum conditions of fog. Under average weather conditions, planes will leave New York after the fog has cleared, and San Francisco before it has settled. It is anticipated, however, that, flying day in and day out throughout the year, planes will sometimes be delayed in their departure at New York, through the failure of the fog blanket to lift, and at San Francisco, because of its settling earlier in the morning. Then, too, is the possibility of delays caused by mechanical failure. Such delays, even if only of two or three hours, would necessitate the air mail pilots flying in total darkness for some distance before reaching the comparative safety of the lighted airway it is at present. In extreme instances, would cause the abandonment of a tr in the interest of safety. These danger it is believed, will be avoided, through the extension of the lighting system, that when an air mail flyer is caught in the darkness, before reaching Chicago or Cheyenne, the lights may be turned on, furnishing him a brilliant and unmistakable pathway to his destination. It has been arranged to have an emergency landing field at twenty-five mile intervals, and these also will be illuminated, the illumination on a clear night being visible for about thirty miles.

We are endeavoring to prevail upon the Second Assistant Postmaster-General to arrange for special cancellations to be used on transcontinental air mail.

Bogus Perforated U. S. Stamps.

Our readers are further cautioned to use the utmost care in purchasing large United States part perforated varieties, or those with compound perforation which can be made from imperforated sheets, which are readily available. The pane of the Harding stamps with fraudulent horizontal perforations has come from a middle western city, while the rare 1c green of 1910 is coming in singles and blocks perforated both 10x and 12x10. Even the "TWO" cents perforated 11, Scotts, No. 519, is being made from the imperforated varieties. The work of the Bureau may be told to those familiar with the subject, for there are several tests known to students of plate issues. We have our suspicions as to the source of such varieties, and collectors are certainly cautioned to not buy such stamps from dealers of known reputation, who absolutely guarantee the genuineness of their property.

ANTIGUA.—The Colonial Postmaster Antigua in writing to Mr. W. E. Hughes informs him that there have been received at the colony 1d red, 1½d orange and 2½d blue all script watermark. The first two values there was received 1933 sheets and 430 sheets of 120 each respectively. Of the 2½d blue only 10 sheets of the same number came to hand and these have all been sold. Some of these stamps were sold by the Colonial Agents but the exact amount was not noted.

ARGENTINE.—1922 Issue. The Revista Filatelica Americana (Jan., 1923) illustrates a double print of the 5c red, wmk. multiple Suns. The copy is partially used.

Official Stamps have apparently been stolen on a large scale by various Ministry officials and have come into the possession of one Hiordan, on whose premises 15,000 have been found, and a movement is on foot to suppress the "initial" overprints to remove temptation.—Philatelic Magazine.

AUSTRIA.—The Air Stamps series is tardily completed, says Sammeler-Woelke by the addition of a 400kr value, in blue-green, type of 1922.—Philatelic Magazine.

to the present the following appeared:—1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 15, 20, 30 and 50 groszy, examples of which are to hand from our Lodz correspondent, Mr. H. Berowicz, and also from Messrs. Bright & Son. The stamps in marks are no longer valid for postal use.

Our Lodz correspondent gives the values in marks, of which we have now complete sets:—

Small Eagle type 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 8 mark.

Large Eagle type: 25, 50, 100, 200, 300, 400, 500, 1,000, 2,000, 10,000, 20,000, 30,000, 50,000, 100,000, 200,000, 300,000, 500,000, 1,000,000, 2,000,000 marks.

The best values of these, says Mr. Berowicz, are the 8 mark, small type, and 400, 10,000 1,000,000, 2,000,000 marks of the large type.

Of the overprinted stamps there are: 10,000 on 25 mark, 20,000 on 2 mark, 25,000 on 20 mark, small and large size, and 50,000 on 10 mark and 100,000 on 5 mark.

1924. May 1st. New Eagle type, in laureated medallion flanked by fasces. Inscribed "POCZTA POLSKA" at top and "GROSZ," "GROSZE," or "GROSZY" at foot, with numerals of denomination either side. Thin white wove paper. No wmk. Perf. 12.

1 grosz brown. 10 groszy blue-green.
2 grosze drab. 15 groszy red.
3 grosze orange. 20 groszy ultramarine.
5 groszy green. 30 groszy violet.
50 groszy purple.

Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. send us three new values in the familiar Due type, viz:—

Postage Due: 300,000 mk. indigo, 2,000,000 mk. indigo, 3,000,000 mk. indigo.—Stamp Collecting.

RUSSIA.—Current Series. New values. Perf. 14½. Typographed? 8 kopeks, olive, Worker; 30 kopeks, violet, Peasant; 40 kopeks, slate, Soldier.

These stamps are not yet issued for sale from the post-offices, but have already been exported abroad by the Bureau for Philately in order that the official body will be able to meet dealers' demands before private traders, who smuggle out stamps bought in Moscow, will be able to compete.

The set of 4 Lenin Memorial stamps (3, 6, 12 and 20 kopeks) are now issued perf. 14. It is untrue that it is compulsory to use one of these stamps on every letter. (The letter I received bearing this information was franked by two 10 kopek blue perforated stamps.)

Towards the close of last year a series of airport stamps was prepared bearing a vignette of an aeroplane in flight. This series was not issued, as, by the time it was prepared, the Air Mail service was suspended for the winter, but it is now appearing surcharged in gold values as follows: 5 kopeks on 3 roubles, blue; 10 kopeks on 5 roubles, pale green; 15 kopeks on 1 rouble, light brown; 20 kopeks on 10 roubles rose-red.

The Echo reports an addition to the "Workman" type: 8 kopeks brown, perf. 14.—Philatelic Magazine.

SOUTHERN RHODESIA.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the new set of stamps for this colony. They are printed by Waterlow and Sons, Ltd., and is very similar to the issue of Rhodesia. The colors and values are as follows: ½d green, 1d bright scarlet, 1½d bistre, 2d grey, 3d Prussian blue, 4d orange red and black, 6d lilac and black, 8d grey green and violet, 10d scarlet and blue, 1sh blue and black, 1s6d orange and black, 2sh brown and black, 2s6d sepia and blue and 5sh green and blue.

Whitfield King & Co., call our attention to a mistake in a recent issue where we reported a new series for Southern Nigeria. This should have been chronicled under the head of Southern Rhodesia and we appreciate Whitfield King & Co.'s correction.

TONGA.—Mr. Eugene Klein has sent for chronicle the set of stamps with the overprint "Two Pence" at the top and "Peni-e-ua" at the base. The following values have been overprinted: 5d, 7½d, 10d and 1sh values of the 1920-21, series in blue and the 2sh, 2s6d and 5sh of the 1897 set in red.

A CORRECTION.

Warner Bates calls our attention to an error in a recent number of the WEEKLY. We regret the same but can take comfort in the fact that our publication is singularly free from errors when one considers the possibilities in that direction. As Mr. Bates covers the matter so well in his letter we will simply make the following quotation from it:—

"In MEKEEL's for May 19, you ran a cut of an illustration made by Major C. H. Bonesteel showing a plate variety on the three cent department stamps (I forget which department) with an article regarding minor varieties on the three cent green.

I don't remember whether Major Bonesteel's article that went with this cut has been run previously, but at any rate the appearance of this cut with an article regarding three cent green varieties will be mighty confusing to the readers of your valuable magazine so I hope you will print an explanatory note in the near future."

RHODESIAN REMAINDERS.

Statement by Stanley Gibbons, Ltd.

So many inaccurate reports and unfounded rumours have been spread about recently respecting the sale of certain Rhodesian remainders, that we think it best to put on record the actual facts as they occurred.

In the latter portion of September last, the British South Africa Company approached our firm for advice with respect to the sale of the remainders of all past issues of British South Africa and Rhodesia which they had on hand. It is, of course, common knowledge that for many years past it has been possible for anyone to obtain supplies of the current issue and of many of the previous issues, unused, at face value, from the Company's Head Office in London Wall. The administration of Southern Rhodesia has now passed into the hands of the Government of Southern Rhodesia, and with a special issue of stamps for that territory already in preparation there arose the question of the disposal of stocks of the previous issues remaining on hand.

The Company were apparently under the impression that it might be possible to sell the greater part of the stocks at face value. In view of the very large total quantity of stamps on hand, we informed them that that was impossible, and our unhesitating advice to them was that they should burn the whole stock.

This advice, however, was not acceptable, and they felt they were bound to proceed with the sale of the stamps, and naturally endeavoured to obtain as much as possible for them.

In view of the large amount of money put into the unused stamps of British

South Africa and Rhodesia by collectors, during a period of over thirty years, our first concern in which we had the sympathetic concurrence of the Company, was to safeguard the interests of such collectors, who had invested in these issues in good faith. We would emphasise the fact that the stamps had to be sold. It was for us merely a question whether we should take or leave them. If we took them, we should be able to ensure that the deal was carried through with the least possible detriment to the interests of stamp collectors. If we left them, the stock might very easily get into the hands of those who would consider nothing but their own interests, and who might very easily have caused a severe slump in the issues of a popular and interesting country.

We therefore made an offer for the entire stock of stamps, which the Company agreed to accept.

Then arose the all-important question of the demonetisation of the stamps concerned, which had, of necessity, to take the form of a cancellation, in order to prevent the stamps from being used for postage. Here a difficulty arose. The cancellation of this large stock by means of an overprinted word, "CANCELLED," was expensive, and was not desired. Remembering a similar case, where a stock of British Colonial stamps was sold, cancelled by an india-rubber stamp in violet, which experience proved was not effectual (sheets of these stamps having been subjected to a certain treatment which entirely removed the cancellation), there remained no alternative but a portmark, in some shape or form. It was therefore suggested that the Company themselves should cancel every stamp on their own premises and with their own cancelling stamps, everything being carefully checked afterwards, and not one single unused stamp escaping.

Prominence has been given to the suggestion that a large number of complete sets of all the issues have been thrown on the market as a result of this deal, to the detriment of ordinarily used copies, but, as a matter of fact, the number of complete sets of all the issues is absolutely negligible, as will be seen from the following figures. In the entire stock there were complete sets as follows:—

1891 issue	269 sets
1895 issue	1080 sets
1897 issue	408 sets
1898 issue	406 sets
Victoria Falls issue	116 sets

"RHODESIA" overprinted issue 271 sets 1910 issue 174 sets

No remainders of the current (King's portrait) type were either offered or available.

Many inaccurate statements have been made concerning the number of abnormal varieties, such as imperf., or partly perf. stamps, found in the stock. As a matter of fact the number of varieties found in the stock is extraordinarily small, when one considers the huge number of stamps concerned. In the total stock of 2,700,000 stamps (mostly low values) the only varieties found were:— 1896 issue. 3d. One sheet was found with the bottom row, only, imperf. between.
1897 issue. 8d. A sheet of this value was found, after cancellation, with the top row part perf.

1898 issue. 2s6d. Two portions of different sheets were found imperf. between, to the number of 80 pairs.
1905 issue. 1s. A sheet was found imperf. between.
1909 issue. £1. A sheet was found, the bottom row of which was without the overprint "RHODESIA."

With the exception of the variety of the 8d, 1897 issue, the few varieties enumerated above were found by British South Africa Company and were put aside by them, and we were able to acquire these stamps at face value, unused condition.

With regard to the £1 value of 1910 issue (wrong colour) the facts are as follows:—

In October, 1910, 500 stamps out of 550 printed of this value were despatched to Southern Rhodesia in the first consignment of the then new issue (1910) and were returned to London in following December owing to a similar in colour to the 10d denomination.

The above-mentioned quantity was turned to stock, and the total of stamps was included in the figures given to us in connection with the sale of remainder. Since postal cancellation of this case would have caused great confusion, we agreed to the destruction of 450 of these stamps on condition that they were allowed to retain 100 in unused condition.

Another important point which should be made clear is that we could have purchased, after demonetisation, this entire stock, unused, at less than face value. Needless to say that, had advantage been taken of this offer, our profit on the transaction would have been very different, but the feelings of collectors who had put their money into unused stamps at face value or over can be imagined. It should also be recorded that, while this deal was in progress, it would have been possible for us and, incidentally, others, to buy any number of the stamps in unused condition at face value but with the exception of those varieties enumerated in the list given above, no single unused stamp was bought by us for stock or otherwise. As a consequence of this sudden cessation of supplies of unused stamps of Rhodesia all issues, there has already been marked enhancement of the market.
